THE THIRD REPORT

OF THE

DEPUKEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

108255

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,—

Pursuant to the Statute made and passed in the first and second year of your Majesty's reign, entitled, "An Act for keeping safely the Public Records," I, undersigned Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, do hereby most humbly make my Third Report to your Majesty, for the portion of the year beginning the 1st day of April, 1841, and ending the 31st December, 1841, up to which date (save and except as to certain particular transactions which are therein quoted, as being of dates subsequent to the said 31st day of December, 1841) this Report is made. The two preceding Reports submitted to your Majesty, are respectively made up to the 31st of March in each year; but it is intended that in future the Reports shall be made up to the 31st day of December in each year, in order that your Majesty may (if you should be pleased so to do) lay the same before Parliament at an earlier period than can be effected if the Reports of the Deputy Keeper are made up to the 31st of March. And I further humbly show unto your Majesty, that in order to render this Report more concise and available for general reference, the matters herein contained are arranged under three general heads; the documents from which further details are to be collected, being submitted to your Majesty in the [illegible] Appendices hereto annexed.

I.—Proceedings relating to the taking possession of Offices of Records, and for the general purpose of executing the Act; and arrangements, appointments, and other acts made and done accordingly.

II.—Proceedings specially relating to the several such Offices or Repositories of Records brought within the regulations of the Act; or relating to Records upon which Officers acting under the Act have been employed.

III.—General matters connected with the care and management of the Records, and the Record Establishment.

I.—PROCEEDINGS RELATING TO THE TAKING POSSESSION OF OFFICES OF RECORDS, AND FOR THE GENERAL PURPOSE OF EXECUTING THE ACT; AND ARRANGEMENTS, APPOINTMENTS, AND OTHER ACTS MADE AND DONE ACCORDINGLY.

1. Equity Records of the Court of Exchequer, brought into the possession of the Master of the Rolls.—By the statute made and passed in the 5th year of your Majesty's reign (c. 5), entitled, "An Act to make further provisions for the administration of Justice," it is enacted (§ 17), That all the Bills, Answers, Decrees, Affidavits, and Proceedings of the Court of Exchequer, as a Court of Equity, and under such Acts of Parliament as therein-mentioned, and all Decrees and Minute Books, and all other books and documents what[illegible], relating exclusively to proceedings in the said Court of Exchequer as a Court of Equity, and under such Acts of Parliament as therein-mentioned [illegible] day of October, One thousand eight hundred and forty-[illegible] conveniently might be, be delivered by the several [illegible] of Exchequer then having the custody of the [illegible] ons as should be appointed by the Master of the [illegible] ge of the same, by warrant under his of and countersigned by the Lord Chancellor; and from and after such delivery, the same Bills, Answers, Decrees, and Proceedings should be deemed Records of the Court of Chancery, in the ...dy of the Master of the Rolls, subject to the provisions of an Act passed in ... first and second year of the reign of Her present Majesty, entitled, "...ct for keeping safely the Public Records."

The Lord High Chancellor, having by his letter o... 2nd day of October, 184..., requested the Master of the Rolls to take cha... of the said Exchequer Equity Records, his Lordship proceeded forthwi... so to do: and, pursuant to a Warrant, dated the 1st day of November, 18..., duly countersigned by the Lord High Chancellor (App. I. No. 1), the ...wing Exchequer Equity Records were accordingly received on the 2nd ...mber by me, the Deputy Keeper, on his Lordship's behalf, that is to sa... the Official and Minute Books of the Court; the Files of Bills, Answ...eas, Demurrers, Exceptions, and Replications; the Files of Affidavits; ...sitions of Witnesses taken by Commission, or before the Sworn Exam... of the Court; Decrees of the Court and recorded Entries of the same in ...s; Calendars of Decrees and Orders; Reports of the late Deputy Re...brancers and Masters, and exceptions filed thereto, and several other Record Documents not specifically enumerated, but exclusively relating to the Equ... Jurisdiction of the said Court of Exchequer, now abolished; and in ...ese Warrant were included the Books kept by the Clerk of Reports, on hi... ...tersigning cheques, and the Accountant-General's Books of Account, ...documents relating to his office and duties.

And at the same time your Majesty's Remembrancer of t... Court of Exchequer, surrendered possession of the Repository at the Carl... Ride, in which the greater part of the Equity Records, together with ... classes, are deposited, and of the other Repositories after mentioned (I. § 9).

2. Distribution to the Officers of the Court of Chancery of the Equity Records of the Exchequer required for current business.—It being necessary ... certain portions of the Equity Records of the Exchequer required for the ...rrent business of the suitors, should be distributed amongst the proper Offi... of the High Court of Chancery, to which Court the jurisdiction is tran...red, his Lordship adopted certain arrangements stated in a subsequent sect... of this Report (II. § 12).

3. Exchequer Equity Rec... remaining in the custody of the Master of the Rolls.—The great mass of the Exchequer Equity Records being in the divi... appropriated to the Co...t of Exchequer in the Carlton Ride, it was ju... expedient that other p...tions of such Records should be removed to ... Repository; that is to say, such and so many of the Books of Orders a... Decrees, and original ...rders and Decrees (deposited in the Tower annexe... to Westminster Hall) as were not delivered over to the Registrars of the Court of Chancery, and the other documents mentioned in the schedule annexed ... the Report of the Assistant Keeper (App. I. No. 10 b), and also the Bill... Answers, and Depositions then in the Exchequer Offices in the Temple. The whole of such Records have been placed and are in the charge of the Assistant Keeper stationed at the Carlton Ride; and the same are now subject ... the Rules and Regulations made by the Master of the Rolls.

4. Exchequer Records (not being Equity Records) late in the custody of the Queen's Remembrancer.—It is stated in my First Report to your Majesty (I. § 12), that measures were then in preparation for bringing into the possession of the Master of the Rolls, the general Exchequer Records in the custody of your Majesty's Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer, and deposited (in some cases together with the Equity Records) in the Carlton Ride, the Vaults in Somerset House, the Stone Tower of West...inster Hall, and the Augmentation Office: and in my Second Report to your Majesty, (I. § 25), it is stated that the Draft of a Warrant for such purpo... had been prepared in April, 1840, but that in consequence of the Legislative ...er ... relating to the Equity Side of the Court of Exchequer, then pend... Parliament, it was deemed expedient to postpone the ... Warrant, and that similar Parliamentary measures ha... present Session, the execution of the said Wa...

The enactment of the before-mentioned S... your Majesty, cap. 5, removed the pre...

of delay and the transfer of the said Records has been now carried into execution in the following manner:—

The Warrant of the 6th November, 1838, relating to the Equity Records of the Exchequer (App. No. 1), was made to include all the Records of the Exchequer then remaining in the Offices of the King's Remembrancer, the Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer, the Pleas, the Secondary, Deputy Remembrancer, and other Clerks and Barbenter, Clerk of the Pipe, Deputy Clerk of the Pipe, Controller and Deputy Controller of the Pipe, Secondaries, Attorneys, or Sworn or other Clerks of the said Office of the Pipe, Clerk of the Estreats, Surveyor of the Green Wax, Foreign Accomptant, Deputy Foreign Apposer, Clerk of the Nichils, and Keeper of Augmentation Office, or any of them (excepting the ancient Book known as the Red Book, and an ancient volume of the Statutes, both of which have been for the present left in the custody of the Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer, inasmuch as he stated that they are required for the business of the Court); and the same Records were on the 2nd day of November 1841, taken into the possession or custody of the Master of the Rolls, such possession having at the same time been received of the repositories in the Carlton Ride, the Stone Tower annexed to Westminster Hall, the Augmentation Office, and the Vaults and the apartments under basement of the late Pipe Office at Somerset House, the same repositories now, pursuant to the Public Record Act, to be deemed and taken to be branches or parts of the Public Record Office, and the Records are placed under the charge of the Assistant Keepers respectively stationed in the aforementioned repositories, or otherwise as hereinafter is mentioned (II. § 2, 10, 30).

5. Pipe Records.—In the Deputy Keeper's Second Report (I. § 3, II. § 11, 24, 25) it is stated that the necessary measures had been taken, with the assent of the Comptroller-General of the Exchequer, for the transfer of these valuable Records into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and that presses had been prepared for their reception at the Rolls House. And the Lords Commissioners of your Majesty's Treasury, and his Lordship the Comptroller-General of the Exchequer, having, by their Letters of the 26th and 27th May, 1842, authorized the delivery to his Lordship the Master of the Rolls of all the Pell Records, and also of all other Records in the custody of the Comptroller of the Exchequer dated anterior to the present constitution of the Court established by the Statute 4 and 5 William IV., c. 15, these same have been removed to, and are now deposited in, the Rolls House in such manner as is hereinafter mentioned (II. § 25, 26).

6. Admiralty and Navy Board Papers and Documents.—It is stated in my Second Report to your Majesty (I. § 6, II. § 3) that an arrangement between the Lords of the Admiralty and his Lordship the Master of the Rolls was then in progress for the purpose of removing into the British Office in the Tower into his Lordship's custody a further portion of the Naval Documents in Deptford Yard, and that it was believed that sufficient space could be found in the Branch Record Office in the Tower of London to receive all such as it might be expedient to transfer. In relation to this business, the Senior Assistant Keeper at the Tower (Mr. Hardy) has attended at Deptford Dock-yard, and has selected the volumes which it will be expedient (if your Majesty's Board of Admiralty shall so think fit) to transfer; and surveys have been made by the direction of your Majesty's Board of Works for the erection of presses and shelves for the reception of these documents and papers in the Tower.

7. Notes and other Records of Fines in the Custody of the Registrar of the Court of Common Pleas.—The Draft of a Warrant has been prepared for transferring into the custody of the Master of the Rolls the Chirographer's Notes of Fines, the Writs of Covenant, and the Books heretofore in the King's Silver Office, and Alienation Office, noted in the Returns of the Officers of the Court of Common Pleas (Deputy Keeper's First Report, [illegible]) as being in his possession; and such Warrant is now [illegible].

The King's Silver Books are at present unavailable [illegible] Records having been much injured by the Fire which [illegible] in the Temple in March 1838, they being then [illegible] in chambers in Paper Buildings, and it is expected that they will require much care and trouble before they can be again put in a condition fit for [illegible].

8. Documents of the late Charity Commission.—[illegible]ter was on the 23d July, 1841, addressed to me by order of the Lords Commissioners of your Majesty's Treasury, requesting me to examine the Papers and Records of the late Charity Commission, in order to ascertain whether they were of sufficient importance to be received into the custody of the Master of the Rolls; and I humbly show to your Majesty that I proceeded accordingly to examine the same as they were deposited in the Office of the Commissioners in Great George Street, Westminster. Upon the examination thereof, it appeared that these documents are of a nature proper to be placed in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, consisting of the following classes, viz.—examinations and evidence of witnesses examined before the Commissioners—Office copies of Wills and Deeds, and other Documents given in evidence to the Commissioners;—Rentals of Estates, and other particulars of property;—and, Correspondence relating to the business of the Commission. Accordingly reported to the Master of the Rolls that the said Documents might, if his Lordship thought fit, be conveniently deposited in presses on a certain [illegible] occupied by the Clerks in the upper floor of the Rolls Chapel Office. His Lordship was pleased to approve of the proposition; and such approbation having been notified to the Lords Commissioners of your Majesty's Treasury, the documents were soon afterwards, and by order of your Majesty's Secretary of State for the Home Department, dated the 5th August, 1841, removed into the Rolls Chapel Office, where they now remain. (II. § 22.)

9. Removals and Transfers of Records.—For the purpose of carrying out the principle, as far as is practicable and expedient, of bringing together the classes of Records dispersed in the several offices, as well for the convenience of the public as for their better [illegible]ment and [illegible]augmentation of the Keeper, several transfers and removals of Records have been made, or are in progress, as are hereafter more particularly specified. (II. § 2, 3, 10, 16, 25).

These removals have been effected without inconvenience to the service, and at a small expense; and if, pending the erection of the General Repository, they can be carried to such an extent as to suppress the smaller or outlying Repositories, they will ultimately be the means of economy as well as of convenience to the Service and to the Public.

10. Precautions against Fire.—The Commissioners of your Majesty's Board of Land Revenue have been requested (by letter addressed to them by the Deputy Keeper, dated 21st December, 1841, App. I. No. 15), to cause the several Record Offices to be surveyed for the purpose of considering the means to be adopted for protecting the said offices against accidents by fire, and the subject is now under the consideration of the Treasury.

II.—Proceedings specially relating to the several Branch Offices or Repositories of Records brought within the Regulations of the Act; or relating to Records upon which Officers acting under the Act have been employed.

Augmentation Office and Stone Tower.

Records of the late Augmentation Office: Exchequer Records late in the Queen's Remembrancer's Department. (Assistant Keeper, the Reverend Joseph Hunter).

1. General transactions of the Office.—The legal custody of the Records of the Augmentation Office, heretofore a branch of the abolished [illegible] Office, and also of the other Records heretofore managed by Your Majesty's Remembrancer of your Court of Exchequer, having been given to the Master of the Rolls by the before-quoted Warrant of 1st November, 1841, (App. [illegible]), Mr. Hunter was placed in charge of such records. He had previously [illegible] upon the Remembrancer's Records, and had carried on [illegible] relation to the same, as stated in my First Report.

in my Second Report (II. 22, 23), but he had not in any other manner interfered in the business of the Office, which business was conducted by an individual placed therein by the Deputy Remembrancer. Since Mr. Hunter, the Assistant Keeper, has been placed in charge of the Records, the Fees have been received on behalf of your Majesty's Treasury. A much greater amount of additional duty and responsibility has been thrown upon the Assistant Keeper than he heretofore was called upon to perform, when he was only employed upon the inventories and the repairs of the Records: and he expects that under the new regulations a still larger proportion of business will be done than when the Records were in the official custody of the officers of the Exchequer. The number of Searches, Inspections, and Copies since the 2d November, when possession was taken, will appear from the Table annexed to this Report (App. I. No. 16).

It was stated in my preceding Report that Mr. Hunter was much impeded in his operations by the manner in which the Records were crowded in the Office. This obstruction has been partially relieved by the alterations effected under the directions of your Majesty's Board of Works, who have fitted up some additional apartments, to which many of the boxes of Records have been removed. Yet notwithstanding this improvement, there is considerable difficulty in consulting the Records: and it is not practicable to arrange them satisfactorily in classes, in the manner which they require.

2. Queen's Remembrancer's Records.—Very many of these Miscellaneous Records were deposited in the Carlton Ride, and previously to the passing of the Record Act, portions of them were from time to time, pursuant to the arrangement first made by the late Record Commission, delivered by your Majesty's Remembrancer to the Assistant Keeper for the purpose of repairing and arranging the same: and in pursuance of the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated 4th November, 1841, (App. I. No. 5), 30 sacks more have been brought from the Carlton Ride and placed under the charge of the Assistant Keeper.

These Records consist, for the most part, of the Rolls of Accounts of the persons employed from very early times in the collection or expenditure of the Royal Revenue, or in various offices rendering them accountable to the Crown: besides Inquisitions, Returns to Special Commissions, authentic transcripts of Acts of Parliament, and a great variety of other Miscellaneous Documents. These are found in a state of confusion and deterioration, of which it is difficult for any person who has not attentively inspected them, to form any conception. Most of them (as Mr. Hunter states) have every appearance of having been thrust into all kinds of unsuitable repositories, where they have been exposed to damp and other means of injury; and not a few have the appearance of having been trodden under foot; the words "crumpled," "dirty," "torn," "dismembered," express but imperfectly the state in which many of them are; yet when they have been cleaned, pressed, and the separated membranes re-united, most of them form valuable documents, and are as serviceable for all purposes as any other ancient evidence.

The difficulties which Mr. Hunter has to encounter, and the mode which he pursues, are detailed in the Reports and Observations herewith humbly submitted to your Majesty (App. I., No. 9 a, and App. II., No. 1). The manner in which the Rolls are made up from fragments, frequently renders the operation very tedious, and years may elapse before the scattered membranes can be brought together. The Assistant Keeper has fully detailed the reasons which cause the task to be one of great perplexity and labour, and the statements which he has made, and particularly that prefixed to the inventories (App. II., No. 1), will explain the course he has pursued, and afford the means of judging of the propriety thereof.

Previous to the operations conducted by and under the direction of Mr. Hunter, no use could be made of these Records for any purpose whatsoever, inasmuch as beside the impediments occasioned by dirt, laceration, and decay, the absolute state of confusion in which the whole mass was found, (all the various classes being mixed together,) precluded access to any particular document, although it might be supposed that such a document was probably somewhere in the mass. The work to which the efforts of Mr. Hunter have been principally directed, has been the rendering this undigested mass useful and accessible; and as far as his labours have extended, they are very satisfactory.

The fragments are brought together, cleaned, pressed, repaired, and entituled, and made ready for any repository in which it may be thought hereafter expedient to place them. The nature and subject of each record has also been ascertained, and descriptions prepared of them, and these descriptions are placed in classes, in chronological order, as the materials for Calendars or Inventories; and the total number of documents which have gone through all the processes, and have thereby been ascertained, described, and rendered accessible, is 34,557, of which 4,537 have been operated upon during the period included in this Report.

Amongst the documents which were found remaining in the Stone Tower, when possession was taken thereof, it has been ascertained that a large proportion of them are of precisely the same import with those in the Carlton Ride, and Mr. Hunter is proceeding to incorporate them with the classes already examined; and it will be expedient that any other documents belonging to the series included in the Records of your Majesty's Remembrancer, or analogous thereto, whether in the Chapter House or elsewhere, should, when convenient, be united to those now in Mr. Hunter's charge.

3. Inventories.—The inventory of the Subsidy Rolls, and the Rolls of Tallages, Carucages, Scutages, and Aids from the reign of Henry III. to the close of the reign of Philip and Mary, of which the first portion is appended to my Second Report, (App. II., No. 4,) has been continued, and the second portion thereof, together with a Supplement to the first portion, is herewith submitted to your Majesty. (App. II., No. 1.) These Inventories, as I humbly submit to your Majesty, are in themselves curious and instructive, inasmuch as they give an outline of the history of the taxation of property and of capital: and they have been amongst the means which have occasioned additional resort to be made to these Rolls, both for legal and literary purposes.

4. Charters and other Miscellaneous Documents.—Of these there is a very great mass in sacks awaiting description, but the pressure of other business has prevented the Assistant Keeper from giving that attention to them, which they require.

5. Transfer of Documents.—Amongst the Records deposited in the Augmentation Office, were various Rolls of the Plea or Common Law Side of the Court of Exchequer, noticed in the Inventory of the Records of the said Exchequer of Pleas appended to my Second Report, (App. II. No. 3, pp. 106, 107.) These, pursuant to the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated 4th November, 1841, (App. I., No. 4,) have been transferred to the Carlton Ride as after mentioned (II. § 10); and pursuant to another Warrant, dated 4th November, 1841, (App. I., No. 3,) the following Records of your Majesty's Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer, deposited in the Stone Tower, viz., the Rolls of the Memoranda of the Exchequer, from the reign of Henry III. to Philip and Mary, Books of the Decrees and Orders of the Equity Side of the Court of Exchequer, the original Decrees and Orders, and several other classes of documents belonging to the Equity and Revenue Sides of the Court, were transferred into the charge of Mr. Cole, the Assistant Keeper at the Carlton Ride, and have been deposited there, or delivered to the officers of the Court of Chancery in such manner as is after mentioned. (II. § 10, 12.)

6. Records of the Augmentation Office.—These Records, of which the legal custody has now become vested in the Master of the Rolls, are of great importance and value: and though always frequently consulted, will now become much more available than heretofore to your Majesty's subjects by the lowering of the heavy fees hitherto charged. A general description of them will be found in the Schedule annexed to the Warrant (App. I., No. 1), by which the custody thereof was transferred. These documents are, generally speaking, in good condition and well arranged, but portions of them will nevertheless require binding, covering, and other repairs to a considerable extent, neither are they sufficiently provided with Calendars and Indexes. Of such Indexes as exist, the most complete are those belonging to the very valuable series of Books containing the Decrees of the Court of Augmentations; but many others of the existing Calendars, relate only to portions of the Records, and there are several portions and classes, of which there is no Index or Calendar at all. Amongst the classes so uncalendared are a great number of single Charters, of which probably the number does not fall short of 20,000. It is impracticable with the present force of the establishment to begin any operations upon all these uncalendared Records. On those occasions when access has been had to them, it has chiefly been by the practical and local knowledge possessed by Mr. Charles Gay, heretofore in the employment of the late John Caley, Esq., deceased, formerly Keeper of these Records, and Mr. Gay's long connexion with these documents, and long experience in the use of them, have given him facilities for assisting inquirers, by which many difficulties, which otherwise would have arisen, have been removed.

7. Chapter House Documents.—The workmen in this Repository, under the direction of the Assistant Keeper of this Repository, have been employed in the repair of various documents, as stated in a subsequent section of this Report (II. § 17).

8. Danger of Fire, &c.—I humbly submit to your Majesty's consideration the observations made by the Assistant Keeper respecting the insecurity of the apartments in which the Augmentation Office is situated (App. I., No. 9 a). There is no reason to suppose that any depredation takes place, either by any of the workmen or other persons employed in the department, or by the strangers who resort to the office: but, from the mode in which the arrangement of the rooms renders it necessary to carry on the public business, the Records are unavoidably much exposed. A more imminent danger arises from fire: there are dwelling-rooms above and below the Augmentation Office where fires are used for ordinary domestic purposes, and the adjoining buildings are warmed by flues; and the subject has been brought before the notice of your Majesty's Board of Works as above-mentioned (I. § 10).

CARLTON RIDE.

Records of the Court of Common Pleas, being the Repository answering to the ancient Treasury of the Court: Records of the Common Law Side of the Court of Exchequer: Equity Records of the Court of Exchequer.—(Assistant Keeper, Mr. Henry Cole.)

9. Business of the Office.—The extent of the public business transacted at this office will appear to your Majesty from the comparative Table (App. I. No. 16). The amount of the produce of the fees is not commensurate with the quantity of business transacted, as will appear from the Assistant Keeper's Report (App. I. No. 10 a); but the Records have evidently become much more extensively useful and accessible than they were before, and the office, by the transfers which are contemplated to be made into it, (and amongst others of the King's Bench Records in the Chapter House and Rolls House,) will become the most important of the branch Repositories, not only as a deposit of Records, but also as the principal workshop in which the repairs of the Records are carried on, according to a skilful and uniform plan.

10. Removals of Records.—Pursuant to the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated 25th November, 1841 (App. I. No. 6), all the Records of the Court of Common Pleas heretofore deposited in No. 3, Whitehall Yard, to wit, the Records of the Exchequer of Pleas, the Feet of Fines, Concords of Fines, Posteas, Writs of Inquiry, Inquisitions, Bills against Attorneys, and Miscellaneous Writs, have been brought into this Repository, which previously contained the Plea Rolls of the said Court from the reign of Henry VIII. to 1819, and the other classes enumerated in the Schedule to the Warrant dated 10th July, 1840, by virtue whereof they had passed into the custody of the Master of the Rolls. (Second Report of the Deputy Keeper, App. I. No. 7.) Other important portions, however, of the Common Pleas Records have been long deposited in the Tower and Chapter House. In the first-mentioned of these Repositories are contained the Plea Rolls of the Court from 7 Henry III. to 19 Edward II., and the Essoin Rolls from 10 Henry III. to 33 Edward III. (Inventory of Records in the Tower, Second Report, App. II. No. 1, pp. 49—52): and in the Chapter House, Plea Rolls from Edward I. to the end of the reign of Henry VII.; Feet and Concords of Fines from the reign of Henry II. to the end of the reign of James II.; and Writs and Posteas from the reign of Edward I. to the end of the reign of George I. And it appearing expedient that the whole of the Records of the Common Pleas should (as far as practicable and convenient) be united and brought together, his Lordship, the Master of the Rolls, has, by his Warrants bearing date the 11th day of January, 1842, and the 14th day of February, 1842, (App. I. Nos. 7 and 8,) ordered and directed the removal of them from the Tower and Chapter House accordingly, and the same Records are now in course of removal.

And pursuant to the Warrants of the 4th November, 1841, (App. I. Nos. 3 and 4,) and 25th November, 1841, (App. I, No. 6,) all the Plea Rolls and Records of the Exchequer of Pleas deposited in No. 3, Whitehall-yard; and also all the Equity Records, as well as the Memoranda and Plea Rolls of the Exchequer in the Stone Tower at Westminster and the Augmentation Office, have also been brought into this Repository, which previously contained the great mass of the Equity Records of the Exchequer. These removals have necessarily occupied much of the time of the establishment in all its departments.

11. Repairs of Records.—The state of the Plea Rolls when they came into the custody of the Master of the Rolls is fully detailed in my Second Report (II. § 13), and in the several Appendices thereto. The repairing, smoothing, flattening, and other operations which have since been performed upon them for the purpose of arresting their decay, and otherwise rendering these Rolls accessible and useful, will appear in the extracts from Mr. Cole's Reports appended hereto (App. I. No. 10*a*, 10*b*). The Placita Terræ Rolls, (which are very important on account of their containing the entries of Common Recoveries,) the Doggett Rolls, the Remembrance Rolls, the Filacer's Remembrance Rolls, the bundles of Writs, Posteas, Special Commissions, Memoranda Rolls of the Exchequer, and the Declarations of Public Accounts, have all been repaired, cleaned, ticketed, and other operations performed upon them, in the proportions stated in Mr. Cole's Reports and in the General Summary (App. I., No. 16). The presses found in the Carlton Ride were constructed without any attention to the economy of room; and some alteration have been made both in the fittings up of the office and in the arrangement of the Records, by which space has been gained. The result of the labour and expense bestowed upon this Repository is satisfactory, and will (as it is hoped), at no distant period, present the example of all the Records of one Court (the Common Pleas) arranged upon a plan of singular neatness, order, and regularity.

12. Equity Records of the Exchequer.—The manner according to which these Records have been brought into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and placed under the charge of the Assistant Keeper of this repository has been before alluded to (I. § 1). The removal of such of them as were in the Exchequer offices in the Temple and the Stone Tower of Westminster Hall took place under the direction of Mr. Cole.

It having become necessary that such of these Records as were required for the current business of the Court of Chancery should be delivered to the proper Officers, his Lordship the Master of the Rolls consulted with the Six Clerks, the Registrars, and the Master of the Reports and Entries, and also with me as Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, upon the most convenient mode of dealing with them for the accommodation as well of the officers of the Court as of the suitors: and the same Records were distributed amongst the Officers of the Court of Chancery in the following manner, by virtue of the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated the 4th day of November, 1841 (App. I. No. 2), or otherwise, by his Lordship's authority. The Ledger Books, and all other Books of Account in the Office of the Clerk of the Reports in the Court of Exchequer were delivered to the Master of the Reports and Entries; the Minutes of Decrees and Orders in Equity from Michaelmas Term, 1820, to the Registrars; the original Decrees and Entries of Decrees for ten years past (and the Calendars thereof), and Reports and the Certificates for seven years past (and the Calendars thereof), to the Master of the Reports and Entries; and the Entry Books of Orders and Decrees have been retained, in consequence of the Master of the Reports and Entries not requiring the same (App. I. No. 10 c). And with respect to the Bills, Answers, Pleadings, Depositions, and other proceedings in Equity, the following course has been adopted pursuant to the said Warrant of the 4th

November, 1841 (App. I. No. 2), and in execution of the arrangements made concerning the same by the Master of the Rolls and the Deputy Keeper, with the concurrence of the Chancery Officers; that is to say, the Records are severally delivered to the Clerks in Court of the respective parties, when and as such Clerks in Court require the same. The request is made in writing, and signed by the sworn Clerk, addressed to the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, specifying the style or title of the suit and the documents required. The sworn Clerk thereupon signs a receipt or acknowledgment for the same in a book, which has been provided for that purpose by the Deputy Keeper, and he afterwards produces such documents to the Six Clerk of the Plaintiff in such causes respectively, in order that they may be duly entered in the Six Clerk and Study Books of the Office: and in order further to accommodate the Six Clerks, the Bag Bearer of the Court of Exchequer has been provisionally retained for the purpose of taking the Records to the Six Clerks Office when required, and delivering them to the sworn Clerk, so that the sworn Clerk has no other trouble, except that of making the request: and by these means no delay has been sustained by the suitors, nor has any inconvenience arisen from the transfer of the Records.

13. Inventories and Calendars.—The following Inventories have been continued or prepared by the Assistant Keeper, Mr. Cole, or by his Clerks, Mr. Charles Cole and Mr. Bond, acting under his direction:—

1. Doggett Rolls.
2. Remembrance Rolls.
3. Remembrance Books.
*4. Communia Placita.
*5. Placita Terræ.
*6. Deed Indexes.
*7. Recovery Indexes.

The Inventory of Notes of Fines in the Chapter House, has also been continued, as well as the Calendar of Plea Rolls in the Exchequer, and such of the above mentioned Inventories as are distinguished by asterisks, are submitted to your Majesty in the Appendix to this Report (App. II. No. 2). Many of the inventories, especially those of the Common Rolls and Placita Terræ, have, from their bulk and unwieldiness, required, not only much clerical, but also much mechanical labour, in their formation; and the trouble which they have occasioned cannot be appreciated merely from the inspection of the matter, when condensed into the printed form in which they will appear, if Parliament should so order the same.

14. Alterations of the Office, and Precautions against Fire.—The portion of the Repository appropriated to the Exchequer Records was heretofore separated from the Treasury of the Common Pleas by a wooden partition. This partition has been taken down, and many alterations have been made for the better stowage of the Records and giving more convenience to the public and the establishment, and the whole of the space placed at the disposal of the Record Department has been rendered fully available. Convenient offices have been fitted up for the transaction of public business, passages have been opened for the communication between the working rooms and offices, and the public, and for the deposit of the records, by which the access to the Records has been rendered much more ready, and the whole of the walls have been rendered available for the erection of additional presses. I regret, however, to state that the flues used for heating the adjoining portions of the building, occupied by the Lord Chamberlain's Department (Report of Assistant Keeper, 18th December, 1841, App. I. No. 10 d), are such as to expose the whole building to danger. The fire-places and flues connected with the Ride (that is to say, the portion used for the Record service), have been properly examined and found to be safe; but many other precautions are needed to diminish the dangers of fire.

CHAPTER HOUSE.—(Assistant Keeper, Mr. Devon.)

15. Business of the Office.—The extent of business will be seen in the comparative Table (App. I. No. 16).

16. Transfer of Common Pleas Records.—This Repository, as before mentioned (II. § 10), has hitherto contained the Plea Rolls of the Court of Common Pleas from the reign of Edward I. to the end of the reign of Henry VII.; the Feet and Concords of Fines from the reign of Henry II. to the end of the reign of James II.; and the Writs and Posteas of the said Court from the reign of Edward I. to the end of the reign of George I; and the greater part of the Records and Documents of the Court of Common Pleas, and the Plea Rolls of the later period, being deposited in the Carlton Ride, it was thought expedient that the said Records of the Common Pleas in the Chapter House should be transferred to the Carlton Ride as before mentioned (II. § 10), and the Warrant of the 11th January, 1842 (App. I. No. 7) was executed accordingly. The removal has now begun, under the conjoint directions of the two Assistant Keepers, and will be effected at a very small comparative expense.

The Notes of Fines, from the reign of James II. to the reign of George II., remain for the present in this repository, and it is proposed to unite to them (until further arrangements) the subsequent Notes of Fines now remaining in the office of the Registrar of the Court of Common Pleas, and the warrant for such purpose is now under consideration. (I. § 7.)

17. Inventories.—Mr. Devon and the Clerks under his direction have proceeded with the portions of Catalogues of detached documents in this office stated in the extract from his Report (App. I. No. 11). And many documents have been or are being cleaned and repaired by the workmen of the Augmentation Office. The numbering, stamping, and filing of the Notes of Fines has been continued under the direction of the Clerk and workman under the direction of Mr. Cole, the Assistant Keeper at the Carlton Ride.

18. Repairs of the Office.—The exterior of this building is in a very dilapidated state; and, whether retained as a Record Office or not, will require attention.

ROLLS CHAPEL.

Records of the Chancery. (Assistant Keepers, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Holden.)

19. General Business.—The business of this Repository (see Table, App. I. No. 16), of which the nature is noticed in the Second Report to your Majesty (II. § 6), continues to increase. The persons consulting the Records avail themselves very fully, as will appear from Mr. Palmer's Report (App. I. No. 12), of the privilege of making extracts or copies in pencil; and this occasions great consumption of the time of the Assistant Keepers in attendances upon the searchers, who often come in parties of two, three, or four at a time, and which attendance is needed, for the purpose of preventing injuries to the Records. It is calculated that the number of persons who have visited the office for the purpose of making such searches during the last nine months has been upwards of 2,000. Of the persons who go to the Rolls Chapel Office, great numbers belong to the operative classes, who derive great benefit from this easy access to useful information.

20. Transmission of Chancery Records into the Rolls Chapel, &c.—According to the ancient custom of the Chancery, the Patent and Close Rolls of 7 George IV., together with the corresponding bundles of Privy Seals and Signed Bills, have been brought into this office in the manner described in my Second Report.

There have also been brought into the Rolls Office the Parliament Rolls of the 3rd and 4th years of your Majesty's reign; and six Rolls of Enrolments of Specifications have been made up.

21. Arrangement of Records, Inventories, Repairs, &c.—The Commissioners of your Majesty's Woods and Forests have, on application made to them, caused alterations to be made in the dark passages under the galleries containing the Patent and Close Rolls for the purpose of admitting more light and air therein. This has been effected by taking up the boardings of the floors of the galleries and substituting iron gratings; and by these means the passages now receive as much light and air as is practicable in the present crowded, and not very convenient, building, which is not calculated to receive its present ample stores, and the Records can also be found with more ease. The Close Rolls in the Record-room, have been arranged in chronological order, and the bundles of Dockets and Decrees have also been collected together and arranged. All the Rolls in the passages and record-room, amounting to 5,234, have been carefully cleaned; but, from the circumstance of the Records being upon open shelves, the dust accumulates very rapidly, and at no very distant period they will require a repetition of the same troublesome operation. About 14,000 of the Miscellaneous Documents of the reigns from Henry VII. to James I., consisting of Pleadings on the Common Law Side of the Court of Chancery, have been flattened and arranged in chronological order in the manner mentioned in the Assistant Keeper's Report (App. I. No. 12) preparatory to making Inventories thereof.

The following Indexes and Inventories have been prepared:—

Indexes.

Patent Rolls. 6 George IV. Index completed. 20 Rolls, containing 315 documents.
Annuity Memorials. The Indexes for the years 1821, 1822, 1823, and 1825 are in the several stages stated in the Assistant Keeper's Report (App. I. No. 12). The Index for the year 1824 is completed.

Inventories.

Charter Rolls. The entire series.
Patent Rolls, to the 29th Elizabeth.
Close Rolls, to the 8th Elizabeth.
Confirmation Rolls, to 1 Charles I.
Fine Rolls, to 22 Charles I.
Pardon Rolls, to 2 James I.
Parliament Rolls, to the end of Elizabeth.
Judgment or Decree Rolls, to the end of Elizabeth.

In the course of these operations, all the membranes of the Rolls included in the several Inventories have been numbered in ink, they having been previously mostly without numbers. The indorsements also of the Rolls, which, in very many cases, had been effaced or had become illegible, have been renewed; and the Inventories and Summary annexed to this Report (App. II. No. 3, and App. I. No. 16), as well as the Report of Mr. Palmer (App. I. No. 12), will show more particularly the extent and nature of the several works which have been performed.

22. Charity Commission Papers.—The Papers of the late Charity Commission, brought into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, pursuant to the communications from your Majesty's Treasury, as before stated, (I. § 8), consist of the following documents:—

Evidence of Witnesses examined before the Commissioners.
Office Copies of Wills and Deeds, and other Documents given in Evidence before the Commissioners.
Rentals of Estates and other Particulars of Property. Correspondence relating to the business of the Commission.

Presses with shelves, having been prepared for the reception of these documents, which are of considerable importance, the papers are, for the present, tied up in counties, and the bundles are arranged in alphabetical order, the same having been previously numbered by the Commissioners so as to correspond with the Reports. The Reports consequently serve as an Index to the bundles, by which means any document can be readily found. The documents are all modern, and in good preservation, and it will be expedient hereafter to cause them to be bound in volumes.

ROLLS HOUSE.

Records of the Court of Queen's Bench, being the Repository answering to the ancient Treasury of the Court. (Assistant Keepers, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Holden, also Assistant Keepers at the Rolls Chapel.)

23. Arrangement of Records, Inventory, &c.—Upon taking possession of this Repository, (Second Report, I. 1., II. 10), the Plea and Corona Rolls of the Court of Queen's Bench were found lying upon the open shelves much out of order. They have now been entirely re-arranged, the membranes straightened and smoothed, and the Rolls ticketed. The number so arranged amounts to 3,002: the Inventory has been prepared from the 1st to the 34 Hen. VI.

24. Inventory of the Baga de Secretis.—Amongst the Documents of the King's Bench are the Records contained in the "Baga de Secretis," which heretofore were kept under three keys; one by the Lord Chief Justice, another by the Attorney-General, and the third by the Master of the Crown Office. The great "Baga" has long since disappeared, but was represented by a closet, of which the keys were kept as before mentioned, and in which the Records were deposited upon the shelves: the principal part, however, of the ancient proceedings are in small bags or pouches, and, generally speaking, in good condition as to soundness, though crushed and crumpled in consequence of the mode in which they have been stowed. The Records consist of indictments and attainders for high treason and other state offences, as well as other proceedings on the Crown side of the Court, and they have therefore been taken out of the closet, and united to the general series. The greater part are of very considerable value both in a legal and historical point of view. With the exception of extracts in the State Trials, and other works of the like description, they have been hitherto nearly unknown, and one of the most important, the conviction of Queen Anna Bullen and the Lord Rochford, was supposed to have been suppressed or destroyed. A Calendar of these Records for the reigns of Edward IV., Henry VII., and Henry VIII., which has been prepared by me, is herewith humbly submitted to your Majesty, (App. II., No. 6), as a plan or precedent for the Calendars and Inventories of other documents of a similar nature. In this Calendar it will be observed that such documents as are comparatively unimportant are calendared by means of tabular statements, or otherwise very shortly, whilst much more extension has been given to the abstracts of other Records which are of greater singularity or curiosity. In framing the Calendar of the more important Indictments, it is to be observed, that in the period which the Calendar embraces, the legal language with regard to offences, especially of High Treason, was not brought entirely to the technical forms of the present day. The earlier Bills of Indictment are virtually the depositions of the Witnesses, or the confessions made by Accessories, and therefore in the Calendar of such documents, care has been taken to preserve all particulars of interest or curiosity: but when this Calendar reaches more modern periods, it will be sufficient in most cases to give a short statement of the several counts of which the Indictment is composed. Many of the Trials here abstracted took place in the Court of the Lord High Steward, and the Records contain the names of the several Peers of Parliament, who actually sat and voted upon the trial of the parties: and as the early Journals of the House of Lords are imperfect, this circumstance adds considerably to the value and importance of these proceedings.

ROLLS HOUSE.

Pell Records, and other Records of the Receipt of the Exchequer, late in the Custody of the Comptroller-General. (Assistant Keeper, Mr. W. H. Black.)

25. Proceedings of the Assistant Keeper; removal and deposit of Records.—Mr. Black, having been previously employed at the Office of the Comptroller of the Exchequer, whilst the Pell Records continued there, pursuant to the arrangements made with his Lordship the Comptroller-General, as mentioned in my Second Report to your Majesty, (II. 24), he continued in such employment until the 2nd June, 1841, when he was officially placed in the said office as an Assistant Keeper having charge of the Records, in consequence of the custody thereof having been transferred to the Master of the Rolls, as before mentioned, (I. 5). On the following day Mr. Black began the removal of the Records to the Rolls House, which he completed by the 14th of the same month of June. This laborious and troublesome operation was performed entirely under his personal superintendence, he having accompanied each cart-load. The transfer of this very large mass was effected with so much judgment and diligence as not to occasion any trouble or confusion, either at the Comptroller's Office, whence they were brought, or at the Rolls, where they were to be deposited; and the Records have all been properly arranged in the Presses which had been provided for them, some in the Gallery of the Rolls Court, and others in different portions of the Rolls House, in the manner stated by Mr. Black, in his Report (App. I., No. 13). And inasmuch as there are many Pell Rolls and miscellaneous documents analogous to those removed from the Comptroller's Office now in the Chapter House, it is proposed to remove them from that repository, and to unite them, as speedily as convenient, to those under Mr. Black's charge.

26. Particulars of the Records so arranged.—The Books and Records, many of which were found by Mr. Black so irregularly classed, and so much blended and confused when they were in the office of the Comptroller, as to to require to be all examined and re-sorted with considerable care, have now been properly distributed into their respective classes, and properly arranged chronologically: and the labour performed, and to be performed by Mr. Black, amounts to an entire re-arrangement of the whole collection into proper classes and periods. The Records in question consist of the following:—

Pell Rolls of Receipt from the reign of Henry III. to 1834: the more modern of these Rolls are exceedingly bulky, being the largest sized Records existing.

Pell Rolls of Issue, Henry III. to Edward IV.; distributed into reigns, but not finally arranged.

The like, from the reign of Elizabeth to 1834, arranged chronologically.

Pell Books of Receipt and Issue, from 1559 and 1597 respectively to 1834: together with the Abbreviations of the Pell of Receipts and of the Receipt and Issue Books, all described in the Inventories submitted to your Majesty in the Appendix to this Report (II. No. 4).

Pell Enrolment Books of Letters Patent and Letters of Privy Seal, from 1597 to 1834. These large and valuable Books were formerly confusedly mixed up together, reign by reign: they now form two separate series, properly Indexed and ready for consultation. These Books of Letters Patent may, in many cases, be consulted with more facility than the Rolls of Chancery, and contain the great bulk of appointments to offices under the Crown. A more particular description of them will be given in the next Report.

Miscellaneous Pell Books, viz., the Warrant Books, Order Books, Assignment Books, Books of Declaration, and other series of analogous descriptions, all arranged chronologically.

Auditors' Books, &c. The Auditors' Debenture Books, Order Books, Cash Books, Certificate Books, and volumes of Original Treasury Letters, distinguished into their several series, and arranged in order of time.

Auditors' Books of Original Warrants: these extend from October, 1794, to January, 1834, and have been properly arranged.

Exchequer Bill Office Books, viz., Certificate Books, Warrant Books, and all other Books of that office from 1696 to 1834.
Volumes of Tellers' Vouchers, arranged chronologically.
Pell and Auditors' Books: the several volumes described in the Inventory annexed to the Second Report of the Deputy Keeper (App. II. No. 5).
State Papers, arranged chronologically, all of the reign of Henry VIII.

Besides these, several thousands of Papers and Parchments have been partly sorted, and other operations performed upon them, which are stated in Mr. Black's Report (App. I. No. 13). In that Report, also, the several operations performed upon the arranged volumes and Records are stated; and, although it is probable that portions of the Rolls and Books will require new covers or new bindings, the whole of this large, and recently confused and undigested mass is now, by means of his labours, in a satisfactory condition, and can be consulted with ease.

27. Inventories.—The peculiar course, anciently prevailing in your Majesty's Receipt of the Exchequer, of dividing the year into two Terms, by the moveable Feast of Easter, occasions much trouble in the chronological arrangement of Records when this mode of supputation is adopted. A constant interference arises between the moveable Terms and the fixed commencements of Regnal and Civil years, from which great perplexity results, as well as great errors if it be overlooked; and to remedy the same, the Assistant Keeper undertook the additional duty of constructing chronological Tables, showing the years of our Lord, the half-yearly Terms observed in the Court, the days of Easter in every year, and the regnal years; which Tables, of which the portion from the reign of Henry VIII. has been completed, will be very useful not only for the arrangement of the Records, but in assisting all persons who have to make inquiries into transactions arising out of the Exchequer.

The Inventories compiled by the Assistant Keeper, and submitted to your Majesty in the Appendix to this Report (II. No. 4 and No. 4 a), are the following:—

The Receipt Books of the Pell Office from 1559 to 1834.
The Issue Books of the Pell Office from 1597 to 1834.
Abbreviations of the Pell of Receipts from 1573 to 1643.
State Papers of the reign of Henry VIII, supplemental to those described in the last Report.

The introductory observations prefixed to the Inventories, though succinct, are important. The Assistant Keeper has bestowed much pains in endeavouring to ascertain the ancient mode of transacting the business of the Exchequer, and he will probably be able to render his calendars not merely a correct particular of the documents, but the means of imparting valuable historical information, his attention having been long directed to studies of this kind.

28. Nature and Value of the Pell Records.—The peculiar circumstances under which these Records have hitherto been placed, have perhaps prevented their utility and importance from being so generally known as those of other classes, but they are of the utmost consequence both to the Crown and to individuals or Corporations having pecuniary claims against the Crown, or concerned to prove the payment of monies into the Exchequer before the abolition of the Court of Receipt. An important case of that description, and by which a large sum was saved to the parties, is stated by the Assistant Keeper in his Report (App. I. No. 13). They also afford much curious literary information.

29. Precautions against Fire.—The Rolls House, Rolls Chapel, and Rolls Office, form a connected and extensive series of buildings. They are separated from the street, and are at present inadequately furnished with means for obtaining water in case of fire, and exposed to dangers from the circumstances mentioned in my letter to the Board of Works. (App. I., No. 15.)

SOMERSET HOUSE.

Vaults late belonging to the Pipe and Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer's Offices. (Assistant Keepers, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Holden, also Assistant Keepers at the Rolls Chapel.)

30. Management, &c.—The Exchequer Records, in the above-mentioned Repository, have been brought into the possession of the Master of the Rolls, by virtue of the Warrant of the 1st November, 1841 (App. I. No. 1), and have been provisionally placed under the charge of the Assistant Keepers at the Rolls Chapel. Mr. Palmer, many years ago, was a Clerk in the Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer's Office, and is well acquainted with the Records. One workman is also stationed there and a Housekeeper, and the Assistant Keeper attends with the key when searches are required. This arrangement has been made in consequence of there not being any Assistant Keeper whose services can be spared from other Offices, to be stationed in Somerset House. The arrangement is, however, very inconvenient, and the access to the Records, from the darkness of the vault in which they are placed, is attended with much trouble, and hence comparatively little use is made of them, though many are of great value and curiosity. It therefore will be expedient, as soon as proper accommodation can be found for the Records, to remove them to some Repository above ground, probably the Carlton Ride, and the matter is now under the consideration of the Master of the Rolls. The Housekeeper and Workman stationed on the premises were previously employed by the Queen's Remembrancer, and in consequence of their knowledge of the premises and of the Records, they have been retained provisionally in the Record service. The Workman employs so much of his time as is not required for the lighting of the flues and keeping clean the vault, in such operations in repairing the Pipe Rolls as are stated in the Assistant Keeper's Report (App. I. No. 12).

TOWER OF LONDON.

Records of the Chancery, Courts of Common Law, Admiralty, &c. (Assistant Keepers, Mr. Hardy and Mr. Roberts.)

31. General Business.—The quantity of business done in this Office appears in the Table submitted herewith to your Majesty (App. I. No. 16), and as was remarked in my preceding Report, the demands made by the applicants, who frequently cannot read the Records, or give any precise reference to the document which they require, are such, that the mere Return does not convey an adequate idea of the labour bestowed by Mr. Hardy in his attendance upon the public, and which is such as to consume a considerable portion of the time, which would otherwise be bestowed by him upon the Calendars.

32. Calendars and Inventories.—The Inventory of the Miscellaneous Rolls in the Wakefield Tower, of which the first part was submitted to your Majesty in my Second Report (App. II. No. 1), has been completed, and is herewith humbly submitted to your Majesty (App. II. No. 5).

An Inventory of the Inquisitions Post Mortem has been made upon a plan which these documents require, but which is so extensive in its details as not to admit of being appended to this Report. Very many of these Records have been damaged by the injudicious application of tincture of galls, and also by different casualties; and it is proposed, when the establishment has sufficient strength, to cause authenticated copies upon vellum or parchment to be made, which, when authenticated under the powers of the Record Act (1 and 2 Victoria, c. 94, s. 12), will be equivalent to the originals, and supply their places should they (as there is reason to apprehend) become entirely illegible by the discolouration which they have received, and which becomes darker and darker in course of time. Some of these documents are now quite obscured. Of these Inquisitions, 17,337 have been inventoried and stamped, and 25,665 inventoried, but not stamped.

An Inventory of the Letters and Correspondence of the Admiralty has been begun; the portion completed, comprises 3,299 documents, and extends from 1640 to 1653. It is of great curiosity, as containing the materials for the History of the English Navy during the period when the foundation was laid for its present magnitude. The repairs of Records are specified in the Assistant Keeper's Report (App. I. No. 14), and in the comparative Table (App. I. No. 16).

33. Removal of Common Pleas Records.—As heretofore stated (II. § 10), it has been judged expedient to direct, by the Warrant of the 14th February, 1842 (App. I. No. 8), the removal of various ancient Records of the Court of Common Pleas to the Carlton Ride, for the purpose of consolidating them with those in the last-mentioned Repository, and the removals are now in progress.

34. Miscellaneous Records upon the files of the Chancery.—A very large and most important mass of Records, hitherto unsorted and unexamined, is deposited at the northern extremity of the Council Chamber of the White Tower. These Records, hitherto neglected, have been generally called by the name of Brevia or Writs, a term which although applicable to a portion of the documents, conveys an inaccurate idea of their nature, and an inadequate idea of their high importance and curiosity. In order to understand the nature of these documents, it is necessary to observe that in the earlier periods of the Constitution, all instruments emanating from the King, were authenticated by affixing thereunto the Great Seal, or at least what was technically called the Foot thereof, that is to say, an impression taken upon a small piece of wax from the lower part of the seal. As far as can be collected from records, and from the concurrent testimony of ancient chroniclers, particularly those who relate the history of monastic foundations, it should seem that the plenitude of jurisdiction was then in the King, who could and often did exercise in person, the branches of authority, afterwards vested by the Constitution in the settled Courts of Justice, and responsible officers of state. All commands to his subjects wear the appearance of having been originally in the nature of letters emanating from his individual will and power, and there may be reason to suppose that there was a period when many of the mandates addressed to the Courts of Law in relation to the administration of justice, were the result of the King's personal authority, and were so far considered to be of grace, or discretionary, as to enable the Sovereign to grant or withhold them at his pleasure. Of this state of things there are many vestiges at the present day, particularly with respect to Writs of Error, which it is in the power of the Crown (represented by the Attorney General) to issue or to refuse. Thus if the ordinary or Ecclesiastical Courts had occasion to require the aid of the secular power, a petition in the reigns of Henry III. and Edward I. was addressed to the King, which afterwards assumed the formal shape of the certificate upon which the Chancellor issued the Writ de excommunicato capiendo, according to law. About the time of Henry II. however, many legal Writs of certain classes had already become settled in form, but there remained a very large class of documents which did not depend upon precedents, and of which the forms were varied so as to meet the nature of the business. If the document related to general policy or administration, the widest range was taken by the Chancellor or his clerks, but this range was more limited by usage as well as by statute, if such document was an instrument more particularly relating to the administration of the law. Practices however were prevailing which were silently preparing the way for great changes. A Keeper of the Privy Signet and Privy Seal existed before the statute of 28 Edward I., entitled "Articuli super cartas," and the provision that no Writ touching the Common Law should go forth under any of these petit seals (a prohibition afterwards repeated by subsequent statutes) shows the importance which these seals were acquiring. Still, at the same time, the power of the Chancellor, who, in the earlier periods of the history both of this country, and of the continental kingdoms, may be termed Chief Secretary of State for all departments, continued to preponderate over all others. His influence pervaded all the branches of administration. Diplomacy was very particularly within his province. The Masters of the Chancery were usually well versed in the Civil Law. Hence, they were much employed in negotiations with foreign powers, and until the reign of Richard II. there is reason to suppose that almost every branch of policy, whether foreign or domestic, came at some stage or another into what in modern terms would be called the Chancellor's Office. About that period however, many portions, especially those relating to foreign affairs, were drawn off into the Council: but a reminiscence of the ancient extensive functions of the Chancellor is found in the fact, that until the reign of Charles II., treaties continued to be enrolled in the High Court of Chancery. An inventory of the Treaty Rolls in the Rolls Chapel is annexed to this Report (App. II. No. 3).

A necessary consequence following from the wide range of the functions annexed to the duties and office of the Chancellor was, that all documents addressed to the King, or remitted from any other Court or from any individual, came into the custody of the Chancellor: and hence, the documents deposited in the Chancery, necessarily fell into two great classes, those sent out and those received.

Upon the Rolls, which in modern times would have taken the shape of the letter books of the office, the Chancellor entered or kept copies of the documents which he sent out and issued under the Great Seal: the greater part (if not absolutely all) of official documents were so entered with more or less fulness in early times, but by degrees those which had become quite de cursu were omitted, and others, especially such as Commissions, which proceeded always upon a regular and settled form, were recorded only in abbreviated entries.

The documents received into the Chancery may be considered as falling under two general denominations: (1.) Process "returned" into Chancery, which may be described as the writ, breve, or letter, sent back, together with its answer from the Court or individual to whom it had been addressed.—A Writ of Certiorari is virtually such a letter, and the Record returned from the Court below, is virtually its answer. The Chancery writ is equivalent in modern practice to a letter from the Secretary of State to a Board or a bench of magistrates: and the Record transmitted into Chancery with such writ is equivalent to the Report or answer which they would make in reply: and (2.) Documents primarily or originally addressed either to the Crown or to the Chancellor, such as the before mentioned petitions for the aid of the secular arm.—These documents were put upon a string, cord, or file, and made up in bundles, and hence were said to be "In filaciis Cancellariæ:" and to translate ancient customs into modern phraseology, as the Rolls were the letter books of the Chancellor, so were these bundles upon the file, his bundles of letters or correspondence. It will be understood from the foregoing statement, that a great proportion of these documents upon the files of the Chancery, consists of correspondence with the functionaries of the Crown. One great class is composed of documents relating to negotiations and other public affairs, distinguishable in no respect as to contents and nature from what are usually called "State Papers," except by the material upon which they are written (which is generally vellum or parchment), and the custody in which they are placed: and it may here be observed that the employment of the term "State Paper," as designating the classes of State documents from the reign of Henry VIII. has occasioned no inconsiderable degree of misconception with respect to documents in other departments of earlier date, but entirely of the same character, and which for all purposes should only be considered as one continuous series. There is no reason, as I humbly submit to your Majesty, in disjoining e. g. the letters of Cardinal Pandulph at the Tower of London, of which specimens are contained in the Catalogue annexed to this Report (App. II., No. 5 a), from those of Cardinal Wolsey at the State Paper Office. And on the contrary, many inconveniences might be pointed out which have arisen from the separation of our historical archives into two classes, of Records and State Papers, without there being any reason for such distinction.

A general though very imperfect notion of the nature of these documents upon the files of the Chancery will be obtained from the foregoing remarks and the following descriptions, and from the abstracts of a few bundles taken without selection and at hazard from the mass (App. II., No. 5 a, 5 b, 5 c). A minute account of them must be reserved for a future occasion. It will be sufficient at present briefly to enumerate them under their several general heads.

Writs and other documents relating to the Incidents of Tenure, which, until the establishment of the Court of Wards were principally within the cognizance of the Chancellor, (that of the Court of Exchequer being incidental,) such as the Inquisition taken upon the death of a Tenant in Capite, or upon any other Escheat.

Parliamentary Documents; a branch continuing, as to Parliamentary Writs and Returns, in the Chancery to the present day, but to which in earlier periods, were added a great variety of other documents which have become obsolete, or remain in the custody of the Houses of Parliament; such are, Writs for levying the wages of members, Parliamentary Proxies, but above all, Petitions to Parliament, or to the Council, a branch of the High Court of Parliament, and which Petitions embrace the most important parts of the modern business of Parliament, though in another form; as for example, instead of the appointment of a Committee to decide upon the expediency of granting a Toll, or other privilege, a Writ of ad quod damnum, was issued upon the petition presented to Council or Parliament, which being returned into Chancery with the inquisition taken thereupon, became the foundation of the grant, which though under the Great Seal, bore upon its face that it was issued "per petitionem de Parlimento," thus preventing any collision between the liberties of the subject, and the prerogative of the Crown.

Records of the inferior Courts returned into Chancery by certiorari; Judicial and other Writs returned in like manner; Recognizances returned into Chancery, of which very many are for keeping the Peace.

Letters addressed to the Crown from Foreign Potentates; Treaties, and other Diplomatic documents; Miscellaneous letters to and from the Chancellor, the latter bearing in many cases the appearance of original drafts; Petitions to the Crown for matters of grace and favour, such as pardons and the like; Privy Seals, Privy Signets, and other documents issuing from the Crown, and authorizing the Chancellor to affix the Great Seal: Documents which, when returned into Chancery authorized the Chancellor, in the name of the Sovereign, to affix the Great Seal judicially, or ministerially, or otherwise, according to law, such for instance, amongst many others, as a Certificate of Excommunication from the Ordinary, upon which the Writ de contumacè capiendo, was issued by the secular authority of the Crown in aid of the Ecclesiastical jurisdiction; and, also, generally all and every the documents relating to the proceedings on the Common Law Side of the Court of Chancery, and which are now deposited in the Petty Bag Office, and the Rolls Chapel.

Of these documents so filed, only the smaller portion came upon the Rolls: yet in their character of Records of the Chancery, the filed Records only differ from the Rolls in the circumstance of the membranes being fastened together by a string, which passes through them, instead of being membranes consecutively stitched to each other, end to end. And with respect to some classes, they may be said to be superior in value to the Rolls. In the cases where the writ is entered upon the Roll, we have there the letter dispatched from or in the name of the Sovereign, but not the return, that is to say, the answer to the letter. The Writ declares what information was required by the Crown, or directs the proceedings or acts which the Crown requires, the return or answer gives the information itself, being the very pith of the Record. But the great mass, especially of Correspondence and Letters upon the file, never were enrolled upon the Rolls at all, principally as it should seem, because the officers of the Chancery thought, that as they concerned current matters which would be speedily dispatched, (or upon which perhaps no fees were paid,) it was not worth while to enroll them, and these are exactly the subjects now exciting most curiosity.

Of the documents thus filed, some few sets appear, on account of their importance for legal purposes, to have received more attention than the rest. Thus the Post Mortem and other Inquisitions of Escheat, and the petitions in Parliament (as may be collected from the apparently authentic repertory of Records printed in 1631,) appear to have been then (as they now are) separated from the rest, but upon the superficial examination lately effected, and amongst the bundles pulled out by chance, is one containing 17 documents, being the Writ, Inquisition, and other proceedings concerning the age of William, the son and heir of William de Septvaus, or "de Septem Vallibus," showing that he was in reality a minor, notwithstanding a former erroneous Inquisition, by which he had been found to be of full age, together with proceedings in Chancery, and in Parliament thereupon, which documents properly belong to the Post Mortem Inquisitions of the 40 Edward III., and do not appear to have been known of since the reign of James I. In the same manner, these Records have been found to contain bundles of "proofs of age," (App. II. 5 c.) of the highest importance for the establishment of pedigrees. The same superficial examination has also brought out various Parliamentary documents.

The early bundles of Privy Seals bear the appearance of having been kept apart, and the Parliamentary Writs now in the Wakefield Tower have been separated from other bundles by Prynne, who also made very extensive use of these documents. The three valuable volumes published by that indefatigable writer, entitled "Records," but which almost exclusively relate to the conflicts between the Crown and the Apostolic See, are in great measure composed of documents found "inter brevia." Some also, but few, have been used in Dugdale's Monasticon. From this mass also, as may be collected, Prynne separated a great number of Parliamentary Writs and other proceedings, and some entire bundles, and it should seem that certain other documents formerly contained in many broken bundles have been deposited in the Wakefield Tower. The exceedingly valuable collections of ancient Letters of the reigns of John, Henry III., and Edward I., now arranged in Books in the Wakefield Tower have evidently resulted from such broken bundles, inasmuch as they are all pierced for the file; and the same may be said of some of the documents included in the Inventory of the Miscellaneous Records (Second Report, App. II., No. 1, and present Report, App. II., No. 5). Several of the bundles have tickets, which, as it is conjectured from the handwriting, were affixed by Prynne; others (as it is also conjectured from the handwriting) appear to have been affixed by Holmes, Deputy Keeper of the Tower Records, (who died about 1748,) and who was a man of considerable eminence. They were placed in a dark passage, where they remained until the year 1801, when they were removed (and, as it should seem, without any further examination) and placed upon the present shelves, where they have continued unconsulted and undisturbed, (excepting as to a few stray bundles or parts of bundles, brought into the Wakefield Tower,) until the present day. The Assistant Keeper has therefore been directed by me to examine this large and important mass, and it appears to contain 1,942 bundles, each containing on the average about 200 documents, or about 388,400 on the whole. These he has been instructed to sort into classes and reigns, preparatory to the formation of proper Inventories, while a portion will, as it is hoped, be submitted to your Majesty, with the Deputy Keeper's Fourth Report.

35. Precautions against Fire.—The attention of the Board of Works has been called to the pecular circumstances of this Repository. At present the means of obtaining water in case of fire, appear to be very inadequate.

NO. 3. WHITEHALL YARD.

Repository lately occupied by the Records of the Custos Brevium, &c.

36. Suppression of the Repository.—In consequence of the arrangements made for the removal of the Plea Rolls of the Exchequer, and the Records of the Custos Brevium to the Carlton Ride as before stated, (II. § 10), this Repository is now suppressed. In obedience to Lord Langdale's directions, the Assistant Keeper (Mr. Cole) reported on the 15th January, 1842, that the Repository was finally cleared, and that he was prepared to give up possession thereof. The Assistant Keeper, Clerks, and Workmen were all removed to the Carlton Ride, and communications having been had with your Majesty's Board of Works, possession was on the 24th January, 1842, delivered to them.

This transfer of the Records has been rendered practicable by improved arrangements adopted at the Carlton Ride, and the results are, that those who desire to consult the Records have much more convenient access to them, that a great loss of time to the Record Officers is prevented, and that a house is become applicable to any other public purpose, for which it may be required; and the conveniences which have resulted from this comparatively small transfer of Records, afford evidence of the great benefit which would be obtained from the establishment of a General Record Office.

III. General Matters connected with the care and management of the Records, and the Record Establishment.

NOTE.—The Calendar of Tythe Suits, Second Report, App. II. No. 6, being only an extract, the specimen of the Calendar of the Patent Rolls, Second Report, App. II. No. 7, the specimens of the Records in Filaciis in the Tower of London, Third Report, App. II. No. 5*a* and 5*b*, and the Calendar of the "Proofs of Age," Third Report, App. II. No. 5*c*, are not included in this Table.

These numbers are humbly submitted to your Majesty, for the purposes of showing a portion of the extent of the work performed upon the Records. The inventories also give notice to your Majesty's subjects of the Records which have been rendered available and easy of access; and they have already been found to be of considerable utility, particularly at the Tower and the Carlton Ride. They also convey to your Majesty some idea of the very large bulk of the collections of matter placed in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and which, as far as I can judge, is the largest mass of a similar nature existing, and without a parallel for completeness or antiquity.

2. General Repository, &c.—In concluding this Report, I again most humbly submit to your Majesty the expediency of taking speedy measures for the erection of a General Repository for the Public Records, as directed by the Record Act. The present state of things is in every respect injurious to the Service. At the Augmentation Office, the want of room utterly prevents the proper arrangement of the Records into classes (II. § 1). The arrangements of Records at the Carlton Ride (II. § 11), satisfactory as they are, will be susceptible of many improvements when they are placed in properly planned racks and presses. The Rolls Chapel is becoming more and more inconveniently crowded (II. § 21). And a fire-proof Repository can alone afford a satisfactory protection against conflagration. The annual expenses are increased by the absolute necessity of providing for the temporary reception and security of the Records by means, which, when the General Repository is built, will cease to have any use, and which, though they cannot be dispensed with in the meanwhile, still only imperfectly answer the required end; and the longer the interval allowed to elapse before erecting the Central Repository, the more will this ultimately unprofitable outlay be increased: whilst the dispersion of the Officers in the different Branch Offices renders it impracticable to establish a regular system of action and inspection, or to arrange and divide the business amongst the individuals employed in the Service in such a manner as to employ them severally to the best advantage.

And, in judging of the operations hitherto effected by me and my assistants, I humbly request that, in those cases in which they may be found imperfect, your Majesty will be pleased to make allowance for the great disadvantages under which the management of the business is carried on, and which can only be remedied by the consolidation of the Records, in one building; an object of equal utility to your Majesty's subjects and to the Crown.

All which is most humbly submitted to your Majesty. Dated this 28th day of February, in the year of our Lord 1842, in the fifth year of the reign of your Majesty.

(Signed) FRANCIS PALGRAVE,
The Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

I most humbly certify to your Majesty that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, under my direction, pursuant to the Statute.

(Signed) LANGDALE, M. R.

The Augmentation Office, 12th January, 1842.

[The Assistant Keeper states that he presents the following Report of his proceedings as an Assistant Keeper of the Public Records, for the three-quarters of a year commencing 1st April, and ending 31st December, 1841.]

1. SUMMARY OF DUTIES.

The attention of myself and of the persons employed here has been directed upon four distinct bodies of Records in four distinct depositories.

(1.) The Records of the Chapter House, Westminster.

All that has been done on these has been the cleaning, flattening, and repairing a number of Miscellaneous Paper Documents, which have been brought here for that purpose; the whole number being 403.

(2.) The Records of the Court of Augmentation, and the other Records, which, though not having actually arisen in the transaction of the business of that Court, or in any other Court to which its business may have been transferred, have yet been long deposited in what is called the Augmentation Office, and are known to the Public and to the Courts of Law and Equity as Records in that Office.

With these I had no official connexion till the 2nd of November last. My operations on other portions of the Records belonging to the Court of Exchequer were carried on in the same suite of apartments in which these Records were deposited, but the Augmentation Office Records were, up to that date, in the charge of an officer of the Court of Exchequer, specially appointed to that service by Her Majesty's Remembrancer, who had the care of them, and who conducted the searches which were made in them, assisted, however, frequently by Mr. Gay, the foreman of the workmen who are employed under my direction.

On the 2nd of November it pleased the Right Hon. the Master of the Rolls to direct that I should take official charge of the Records of the Augmentation Office, as well as of many others which had been then recently taken into his Lordship's hands in pursuance of the powers vested in him by the Act 1 and 2 Vic. c. 94; and I have taken the charge of them accordingly.

It was my first duty in respect of these Records, to obtain a general knowledge of the nature of the documents thus placed in my charge, and of the places of deposit of the several classes of which they consist; also of the extent of the means afforded me by the Calendars of assisting persons who came to prosecute searches in them, which searches are very frequently occurring.

The acquaintance which I have already gained with the contents of this office has shown that the existing Calendars direct only to certain portions of the Records, and that there are many documents of which no kind of calendar or index exists, and when access has been had to them, it has been chiefly by the recollection of Mr. Gay (the assistant of the late Mr. Caley), whose long connexion with these documents, and long experience in the use of them, have given him facilities for assisting inquirers which no other person possessed. I have found also that the calendars in some instances indicate the existence of Records which, since the Fire which consumed the two Houses of Parliament, in October, 1834, have not been seen.

I have found, however, that of the documents to which there is no kind of calendar or index, a very great proportion are of one of these two kinds: (1.) either single Charters, of which the number may probably not fall short of 20,000, and however desirable it might be to have them calendared and indexed, it is manifestly a work requiring much labour and expense, and I could not recommend that it should be undertaken while there is work so much more useful to be performed; or (2.) Documents which are of precisely the same character with those contained in the sacks at Carlton Ride, and called the Miscellaneous of the Queen's Remembrancer, on which I have hitherto been chiefly employed; being in many instances actually members of the same serieses, as Accounts of Sheriffs, Escheators, Ministers of various kinds, Collectors of Customs, Collectors of Subsidies, and of other persons rendering account of moneys received or expended in the public service. Those of them which obviously belong to classes or serieses which I am making up out of the matter contained in the sacks, I have already begun to withdraw, and to incorporate them with the mass of similar documents which have been described and arranged preparatory to their being placed in properly constructed calendars.

I have also found that in some of the most valuable serieses in the Augmentation Office there are chasms which admit of being filled by documents that have come into my hands from the sacks at Carlton Ride; and wherever the case is so obvious as not to admit of any doubt or question, I shall take immediate care that the documents thus separated are re-united to the serieses to which they belong, and that the existing calendars are improved accordingly.

Since the 2nd of November the searches in these Records have been conducted under my direction, the particulars of which will be found at the close of this first division of the present Report.

(3.) The Records of the Court of Exchequer, deposited in the Stone Tower adjoining the north-west corner of Westminster Hall.

Of these Records, I was also directed by the Master of the Rolls, on the 2nd of November last, to take official charge, and I took the charge of them accordingly.

I immediately proceeded to ascertain (generally) the nature of this body of Records. This was done on the 5th and 6th of November; and on the 6th of November I formed a general inventory of them, a copy of which I transmitted to you on the 10th day of November, and a supplement on the 10th of December. This inventory exhibits a general view of the contents of this depository as they were delivered to me on the 2nd of November. * * * * *

Many of the Records contained in this tower have since been transferred to the charge of Mr. Cole, for which I refer to the head of "Receipts and Removals."

Amongst those which remain, there is a fine series of volumes containing Decrees of the Court of Augmentation, to which an index was prepared by the late Commission on the Public Records, and was deposited in the Augmentation Office, where it now remains. The advantage of re-uniting the Records to the index is most obvious.

Of the documents remaining in the Tower after the transfer, a large proportion are of precisely the same character with those in the sacks at Carlton Ride, being Escheators', Sheriffs', Ministers', and other Accounts of persons employed in the collecting or expending the Royal Revenue. Of these I have already caused the Escheators' Accounts, and the fragments of Household and Wardrobe Accounts to be brought to the Augmentation Office, and to be cleaned, repaired, covered, described, and put in their places in the serieses to which they belong; and I propose forthwith to do the same with the Ministers' Accounts, which are clearly of the same nature, and relating to the same properties with many serieses either belonging to what are called the Augmentation Office Records, or to the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer, and will therefore serve to fill up some of the numerous chasms which at present exist in most of the serieses.

(4.) The Miscellaneous Records of the Queen's Remembrancer.

These Records it also pleased the Right Hon. the Master of the Rolls to place in my charge on the 2nd of November last.

They consist of an immense mass of documentary matter, the accumulation of many centuries, and are at present in sacks at the Carlton Ride, except those which have from time to time been brought down to the Stone Tower and to the Augmentation Office for the purpose of being cleaned, repaired, ascertained, and described, a work in which considerable progress has been made.

Previously to the 2nd of November my duties upon these Records had been to direct the operations of cleaning, repairing, and covering, and also to direct and assist in the ascertaining, describing, entitling, and arranging: also in rendering assistance to the officers of the Court of Exchequer who had occasion to make use of them, and to other persons who received authority from Her Majesty's Remembrancer, and from the Master of the Rolls, to consult and use them.

Of the state in which a very large proportion of these very valuable documents are before they are submitted to the processes which go on here, it is difficult for any person who has not inspected them with some degree of attention to form any conception. Most of them have every appearance of having been thrust into all kinds of unsuitable repositories, where they have been exposed to damp and other means of injury, and not a few have the appearance of having been trodden under foot; crumpled, dirty, torn, dismembered, express but imperfectly the state in which very many of them are. Yet when they have been cleaned and pressed, and the separated membranes re-united, most of them form valuable documents, and are as serviceable for all purposes as any other ancient evidence. Previously to these operations no use could be made of them for any purpose, inasmuch as beside the state of so many of them, the state of absolute confusion in which the whole mass lay, all the various classes being mixed together, precluded access to any particular document, although it might be known that such document was somewhere in the mass. Their having fallen into such a state is not to be attributed to any insensibility on the part of the officers of the Exchequer to the curiosity and value of many portions of these documents, but solely to the want of suitable depositories in which to place them, of arrangement, and of calendars directing to them; it being evident that a large portion of them are actually members of different classes or serieses of Records, the known portions of which have been in constant use by them, and the rest, beside containing matter of historical and antiquarian curiosity, being serviceable also in the various cases in which it is necessary to refer for evidence to the ancient Records of the Realm.*

* I find the following notice of this mass in a Report of M. Bréquigny, who was in England in 1764, sent by the French Government for the purpose of ascertaining what could be found in our depositories of Records to illustrate and extend the History of France:—

"Les greniers qui dépendent de cet office (l'office des Remembrances) sont remplis d'une quantité immense de papiers regardés comme inutiles. C'est là où je me suis d'abord attaché, parce qu'on m'assura que tout le reste était connu, et qu'il n'y avoit ailleurs aucuns papiers qui eussent appartenu à la France. Après y avoir travaillé près de deux mois, je me suis convaincu qu'ils ne contenoient que d'anciens comptes des recettes et des dépenses de l'Etat avec des pièces justificatives. Il y a plusieurs de ces comptes qui concernent nos provinces du temps que les Anglois en étoient les maîtres; j'en ai fait copier quelques-uns. J'ai trouvé aussi, parmi les pièces justificatives, quantité de chartes relatives à notre histoire; j'en ai tiré beaucoup de copies et dressé beaucoup de notices. Leurs titres forment la plus grande partie du catalogue

Appendix I.

No. 9 a. Extracts from the General Report of the Assistant Keeper at the Augmentation Office.

Much information respecting the special nature of this mass is contained in the Appendix A to a Report which I had the honour to make to the Master of the Rolls, on the 30th of March, 1839, and which is printed in the Appendix to the First Report of the Deputy Keeper (p. 123). It will there be seen that the mass consists, for the most part, of broken serieses of Accounts (with their subsidiary documents) of persons who were employed from very early times in the collection or expenditure of the Royal Revenue, as Sheriffs, Escheators, Ministers under various denominations, who administered the affairs of the royal forests, mines, honours, castles, manors, lands, &c., or of lands of vacant sees, foreign monasteries or forfeited persons; Alnagers, Collectors of Customs, Collectors of Fifteenths and Tenths or other money assessments, of persons employed in the administration of the affairs of the foreign possessions, especially at Bourdeaux and Calais; affairs of foreign merchants, exchanges, mints; affairs of the royal household and wardrobe, expenses of embassies and of persons employed in the military or naval service of the Crown; beside numerous returns to special commissions, inquisitions of all kinds, proceedings in the Exchequer, authentic copies of early Acts of Parliament transmitted by writ into the Court, none of which appear to have been used in the various publications of the statutes and proceedings in Parliament; and other documents of other kinds which cannot here be specified. Of the greater part of the matter contained in these documents I have reason to believe that there is no other Record.

The work on which my efforts were principally and almost solely directed up to the 2nd of November, was the rendering this mass accessible and useful. Beside many others which are in different stages of progress, I am able to report that 34,557 of these documents have passed through all the stages and are made accessible, except that some of the dates assigned to undated instruments, and also some of the descriptions, will require rectification by additional light obtained in the progress of the work, and that we are able to produce them to persons who may desire the use of them; that is, they are cleaned, repaired, the separated membranes brought together, entitled, and made ready for any depository in which it may be thought proper to place them; the nature and subject of each has also been ascertained, and descriptions prepared of them; and these descriptions are placed in serieses, classes, and chronological order, so that when the documents are all known, a calendar will be very easily constructed from them. But the preparation of the calendar is necessarily postponed to the work of ascertaining and describing, as any calendar made at present must needs be extremely imperfect when every day fresh documents in each class or series are presented to us. Of the necessity of postponing the construction of the calendar I have become the more sensible since I have been admitted to a knowledge of the contents of the Augmentation Office and of the Stone Tower, where are, as already stated, very many documents which are of precisely the same nature with these, and which of course ought to find a place in any calendar that is prepared of them. When such a calendar is prepared, the rectification of which I have spoken can also best take place. All my operations, however, it will be understood, have been preparatory to the formation of a calendar of the whole of this body of Records, which in due time I hope to lay in a complete state before the Master of the Rolls, by whom this duty was assigned me, which will make the whole easily available to the public in all purposes of historical and legal inquiry.

Beside the described and entitled documents, and beside those which are awaiting description, there is a vast mass of fragmentary matter in the hands of Gay, the foreman; that is, of portions of documents which are awaiting the possible appearance of other portions to make them complete; and also a great mass of single Charters or very small documents, of which, though they are each complete, no account has yet been taken, not from any want of sensibility to their value, but from the necessity of employing the small force placed at my disposal on more urgent matter.

The period of time through which these documents run is from the reign of Richard I. to that of George III., but I do not contemplate that the same amount of labour shall be bestowed on the more recent documents, which are obviously of far less importance than the older. The number before the reign of Henry III. is small; there are not many of his reign, but in the reign of Edward I., and onwards, the documents are exceedingly numerous. Very little has yet been done on the documents of reigns later than James I.

The number of finished documents in the period comprehended in this Report is 4537;* and in conformity with the plan adopted in my former Reports, I annex a Table of the numbers belonging to each reign.

A calendar of the documents which arose in the collection of the various Fifteenths and Tenths, Poll Taxes, Subsidies, Lay, Clerical, and Alien, to the reign of Philip and Mary, that had been discovered and described previously to the month of August, 1840, framed according to instructions received from you, was appended to my Report of Proceedings to the 31st of December, 1840, (Appendix II. to the Second Report of the Deputy Keeper, p. 132, &c.) I have now to add that, within the period to which this Report refers, the account has been added of the state of each of these documents when found, and of the repair done to it, from the 31st of Henry VI. to the close of the reign of Henry VIII., and that a supplementary calendar has been prepared and transmitted of the documents of this class which have been discovered since the month of August, 1840, belonging to the period contained in the first part of the calendar.

Much more time than had before been the case, has been given to persons who resorted to these Records for the information to be collected from them, before they were placed in my official charge and brought under the general regulations of the Record Offices. During that period the following persons, amongst others, made searches in them by themselves, or by persons employed by them: (Mr. Hunter then gives the names, which include Mr. Rokewode, for information respecting the painted chamber in the ancient Palace of Westminster; Sir Nicholas Harris Nicolas, for information respecting the Order of the Garter; the Rev. Dr. Dibdin, for information respecting the town and port of Dover; and Mr. R. P. Cruden, for information respecting Gravesend.)

It remains to give a summary of the searches, copies, &c., since the 2nd day of November, when the Records of the Augmentation Office, those in the Stone Tower, and those called "Miscellaneous" of the Queen's Remembrancer, were brought under the general regulations of the Record Service, with the fees received and accounted for.

II. Receipts or Removals of Records.

Previously to the 2nd of November, 1841, the officers of the Court of Exchequer removed to the Temple, or elsewhere, 15 of the Miscellaneous Records of the Queen's Remembrancer, all of which have been returned to their places.

Of the Chapter House Records, 585 have been returned to Mr. F. Devon, and 237 more have been received from him, and remain here.

Since the 2nd of November the following transfers have taken place, in pursuance of two several warrants of the Right Hon. the Master of the Rolls, dated on the 4th of November, 1841. The Memoranda Rolls of the Exchequer, from the reign of Henry III. to the reign of Philip and Mary, which were in the Stone Tower at Westminster; and the Plea Rolls, which were at the Augmentation Office,* have been transferred to Carlton Ride, to the charge of Mr. Cole.

All books, documents, and papers falling under the description of "Proceedings of the Equity Side of the Court of Exchequer," have also been removed from the Stone Tower to the Carlton Ride, to the charge of Mr. Cole.

Also, in pursuance of a third warrant of the same date, 30 sacks filled with documents, part of the Miscellaneous Records of the Queen's Remembrancer, have been brought from Carlton Ride and deposited in the Stone Tower.

There are documents, not yet separated from the miscellaneous assemblages, in all the depositories now under my charge, which fall within the scope of the warrants aforesaid. These will be transferred to Mr. Cole, as they are discovered in the course of the examinations which are now proceeding, under the authority of the said warrants. The Memoranda Rolls for the reign of Edward I. remain for the present at the Stone Tower.

* The actual removal of these did not take place till the 8th of January, 1842.

III. Particulars of Inventories, Calendars, or Indexes.

For this I beg leave to refer to the first head of this Report.

IV. Particulars of Cleaning, Binding, and Repairing.

There has been no binding worth mentioning.

The number of Chapter House documents repaired is 403.

The number of documents belonging to the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer, or found in the Stone Tower, that have gone through all the processes previously to being described, and the greater part of these which required to be covered have been covered, is 8744, beside fragments.

V. Miscellaneous Observations.

The change of custody of the Records of the Augmentation Office, and those contained in the Stone Tower, has thrown a great amount of additional duty and responsibility on the Assistant Keeper, to whose charge they are transferred; and as now attention must in the first place be given to the various parties who resort to these documents, it must be evident that the processes of ascertaining, describing, and arranging the Miscellaneous Records cannot proceed with the same rapidity as heretofore. * * * * * * *

Under the present regulations it may be expected also that not only will the number of applicants increase, but also the number of copies to be made, and that the searches will be more extensive, and these duties of the Keepers and their clerks require consequently more time for the performance of them than has hitherto been the case.

The number of persons employed in this department during the nine months to which this Report relates has been—

Clerks.

From April 1 to August 2	4
„ August 3 to September 7	3
„ September 8 to December 31	4

But during the first of these periods one of the clerks was in poor health and rendered little assistance. He has left the service.

Workmen and Boy (including Mr. Gay, the foreman).

From April 1 to April 4	5
„ April 5 to April 11	6
„ April 12 to June 6	8
„ June 7 to August 8	7
„ August 9 to December 31	8

Within the period of this Report a great relief has been obtained in respect of the room required for the constantly increasing mass of documents recovered from the sacks, and prepared for any deposit that may ultimately be provided for them. This has been done by the Board of Works, who have constructed two small apartments out of what was a vacant space at the head of a flight of stairs, cutting off at the same time any access to them, except through the rooms of the Augmentation Office. To these rooms, many of the boxes have been removed which had previously obstructed access to the presses of the Augmentation Office, beside inconveniencing the officer who had the charge of the Augmentation Office Records in other respects, and even threatening by their weight to force down the floor of the room in which they were deposited. The addition of the two rooms affords also greater facilities of access to the boxes containing them, and thus makes the searches in them more easy; but the access is still difficult, and any arrangement of the Records in classes or serieses can hardly be expedient till the time comes that a place of lasting deposit is provided for them, and all the members of the serieses being gathered together from the various depositories of the Exchequer, it can be seen what kind of presses or other depositories will suit each class or series the best.

I beg leave to suggest that it might be expedient that some person who is well acquainted with the several kinds of documents of the different classes or serieses which have now been ascertained, should receive authority from the Master of the Rolls to inspect other depositories of Exchequer Records in which any small fragments of these serieses may probably now remain.

There is one subject with which I feel some reluctance to trouble you, because it is one on which I have already touched, and I am also aware of the interest which you feel in it, and also of the impossibility for the present of applying the correction which it demands. This is the point of security. I have not the least reason to apprehend that any depredation takes place either by any person employed in this department or by strangers who resort to the office, but the Records are at present unavoidably much exposed. Again, the frequent accidents arising from the new mode of warming apartments cannot but excite some alarm in the minds of persons who have the charge of valuable property of so peculiar a kind that if once destroyed it cannot by any means whatever be restored, when it is considered that they are placed in a building, part of which is warmed by flues of the kind spoken of, and where there are also many fires used for ordinary purposes by the people who inhabit it. * * * *

9 b.—EXTRACT from the Report of the ASSISTANT KEEPER at the Augmentation Office to the DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS, as to taking possession of the Stone Tower Westminster Hall.

SIR, The Augmentation Office, November 10th, 1841.

PURSUANT to instructions contained in your letter of the 2nd instant, I have taken into my charge the Records in this office, and also those deposited in the Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall, in addition to the Records called "Miscellaneous," late of the Queen's Remembrancer, on which I have been hitherto principally employed.

I have also, in pursuance of verbal instructions, taken a general view of the contents of the Stone Tower (with the exception of the cellar), and annex to the present letter a Report on the Records deposited there.

I found the cellar inaccessible for want of a key, which the bag-bearer has either mislaid or will deliver to me immediately. I found also a press in the first room with a label indicating that it was a press of the Second Secondary, which was locked and no key to be produced. This I caused to be broken open in accordance with your instructions.

All the documents from the collection which I am describing and arranging, which had been at any time delivered by me to any of the officers of the Exchequer, have been returned; but I have reason to believe that there are portions of the mass which are called "Miscellaneous," of precisely the same character with those which I am describing, and necessary to complete serieses, in depositories at the Temple or Somerset House. It would seem to be expedient that inquiry should be made for these, and to cause them to be re-united to the general mass of which they are a part, if such should be found. * * *

REPORT on the Contents of the Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall, on a General Survey thereof, taken on Friday and Saturday, the 5th and 6th of November, 1841.

THE Tower contains three lofty rooms, in each of which is a gallery, so that each room may be regarded as two distinct apartments; and they are at present numbered accordingly. Below is a cellar, of which no examination has yet taken place, but the contents are reported to be only Port Books and Coast Bonds, chiefly of modern date and of exceedingly small value; and so the contents appeared to me when I was admitted to view them in 1838.

9 c.—The ASSISTANT KEEPER at the Augmentation Office to the DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS, further reporting on the contents of the Stone Tower, Westminster Hall.

The Augmentation Office, December 10th, 1841.

SINCE my former Report on the contents of the Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall, I have obtained access to the cellar, or rather the basement-story. I found it to consist of two small rooms connected by a short passage. One of these rooms is quite dark, and the other receives only a small portion of light. They are both filled as closely as possible with books and papers which have been reported to me to be of comparatively recent date, and to relate to the Customs at the different Ports. Looking at various portions of the mass, I have reason to think this report to be correct; finding nothing except books and documents of that class, and nothing earlier than the reign of James I., while the far greater portion appeared to be of the eighteenth century.

They are in good preservation but covered with dust, as indeed were all the contents of the Tower which were not in presses closed with doors. It did not appear that the water had reached the floor of this story in the late high floods.

SIR, 3, Whitehall-yard, 4th October, 1841.

IN the prescribed order, I have the honour to report the proceedings conducted by me during the half year ended 30th September, 1841.

I. Summary of Duties of Assistant Keeper and Clerks, &c.

My own official duties have been daily attendance at Carlton Ride and Whitehall-yard. I have originated, directed, and examined all the works transacted in these repositories, which are fully detailed in the usual monthly Reports, and generally stated in various parts of the present Report. The works which have devolved in their execution more exclusively on myself, have been the examination and authentication of official copies; the formation of the Calendar of the Exchequer of Pleas Rolls, the necessary official correspondence, and a removal of certain records from Serjeants' Inn to Carlton Ride.

Mr. Charles Cole has chiefly conducted the business of searches, inspections, making copies, and general attendance to public applications at Carlton Ride. During the remainder of his time he has completed the Inventory of the Remembrance Rolls, subject to revision and many additions. The Inventory of the Doggett Rolls has been continued by him. A part of the Records removed from Serjeants' Inn in March, 1841, have been sorted and arranged by him, and he is now engaged on full Inventories of the Common Rolls and of the Placita Terræ.

Mr. John Bond has been employed at Carlton Ride and Whitehall as occasion required, but principally at the first-named office. The arrangement and formation of Inventories of the classes of Records enumerated from 8 to 31 under the head of Inventories, Inventories of the Recovery Indexes and Deeds-books, and of the Placita Terræ, and the transcription of the Exchequer Calendar, have been his chief occupation. He conducts the current official business, and has charge of the stores for the workmen.

Mr. Fenwick has been wholly employed on the Notes of Fines at the Chapter House.

The division of parcels now improperly united will increase the numbers, whilst the junction of others improperly divided will diminish them. There has been much work of a miscellaneous character, which cannot be generally described, but which may be found detailed in the monthly reports.

V. Miscellaneous Observations.

Fees.—The increase in the public business during the last half year has been very considerable, and it is right that I should explain the principle upon which the number of searches and inspections is stated. The table of fees established by the Master of the Rolls directs that "a general search in all the Calendars or Indexes of each office" is to be charged 1*s*. The number of searches therefore, as stated above, does not represent the number of Rolls, such as Doggett Rolls, or Books searched, but merely the number of individual "general searches;" and it has happened that numerous Doggett Rolls and Recovery Books have been searched by one person for 1*s*. In like manner the inspections have been calculated: and though a party may have inspected 16 Rolls for 4*s*., the inspections have been accounted only as four. And where a copy has caused an inspection to be deducted, such inspection not being charged, has not been reckoned. I thought it right to allude to this subject, because I have reason to believe that in some other offices the searches and inspections are numbered not according to the principle of charge, but the number of Rolls or Books consulted.

A case has recently occurred which shows the insecurity that would attend the destruction of papers apparently the most useless. In the absence of the enrolment of a judgment in the Exchequer of Pleas, a searcher has recently been able to substantiate a claim for several hundred pounds by tracing the progress of the action through the Affidavits of Debt and the Order Books of that Court. The Affidavits of Debt are apparently the least useful of any documents which could be named.

I may here remark, that the publication of the Calendar of Tythe Suits in the Exchequer of Pleas has been already productive of searches and copies. * * *

It is by Lord Langdale's desire that I draw your particular attention to the shape and size of the Records called "Posteas," which vary to such an extent that it is next to impossible to devise any satisfactory means either of preserving such Records in neat order, or of consulting them with convenience. Several specimens were inspected by the Master of the Rolls in his survey of my office. In one case, next to a writ which had a superficies of about 24 inches, followed a document of about 203 inches × 28 inches, having a superficies of 5·684 inches. This incommodious variety of shape has been already pointed out in my Report to the Master of the Rolls, dated 28th September, 1840.

It is highly necessary to observe that the details of the numbers of bundles and documents which occur throughout this Report, some of which are estimates only, are subject to very considerable modifications, particularly in works in progress. I have every reason to believe, however, that they convey as accurate an impression as it is possible to give of the amount of work which has been transacted.

No. 10 b. Extracts from the General Report of the Assistant Keeper at the Carlton Ride, from 30th September to 31st December, 1841.

SIR,

ACCORDING to the instructions conveyed by your letter of the 13th ult., and in the prescribed order, I have to report the proceedings conducted by me during the quarter of a year ended 31st December, 1841.

I. Summary of Duties of Assistant Keeper and Clerks, &c.

Besides the ordinary official superintendence of public business, which, being described in previous Reports, it is unnecessary to repeat again, my own duties during the last quarter have been the continuation of the Calendar of the Exchequer of Pleas until the beginning of the month of November. From this period until the present time, my duties have consisted almost exclusively of the direction of the many details attendant on the removal of Records to this repository, the preparation of the repository for the reception of them, and the improvement of the office for the conduct of the public business.

Mr. Charles Cole has administrated the public business at Carlton Ride, and at times, when disengaged from the same, has continued the formation of the Inventories of the Remembrance, the "Common," and Recovery Rolls of the Common Pleas.

Mr. John Bond's duties have been as usual very miscellaneous. Assistance in the removals already alluded to, formation of inventories of Posteas of the Common Pleas; transcription of Exchequer of Pleas Calendar, Official copying, Registration of the Office Papers, &c.

Mr. Fenwick has continued the numbering of the Notes of Fines at the Chapter House.

II. Receipts or Removals of Records.

Under this head the business during the past quarter has been both considerable and important, and in respect of the same the services of all the members of my establishment have been more or less employed.

By letter dated 2d November, 1841, all the Equity Records of the Queen's Remembrancer of the Exchequer, deposited in Carlton Ride; and others of the same functionary belonging to the Crown Side (see Second Report of Deputy Keeper, p. 63), under 20 years of age, and in the Queen's Remembrancer's Office in the Temple, were transferred to my custody.

The more modern of the Equity Records, which were in the Temple or in the charge of certain officers of the Exchequer, have been consolidated with their series at Carlton Ride from time to time, as they have been delivered over to me. Whether the whole of the Records which were in the possession of the Sworn and Side Clerks of the Exchequer have been given over to Mr. Trickey, the bag-bearer, and delivered into my custody, it is impossible for me to say. Mr. Trickey informs me that none are outstanding, and assures me that he has used every exertion to obtain all such Records. Pursuant to the warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated 4th November, 1841, the following transfers of the Equity Records have been made into Chancery:—

1. Original Decrees for 10 years past, and Calendars.
2. Original Orders for 10 years past, and Calendars.
3. Original Reports and Certificates for 7 years past, and Calendars.*

From time to time, upon request being made in due form, Bills, Answers, and other proceedings in Equity have been delivered to the Clerks in Court in Chancery, and a receipt describing the document and the number of membranes so delivered has been taken. Applications have been made in 97 causes, and 1388 membranes delivered accordingly.

Under warrants of the Master of the Rolls, dated 4th November, 1841, all the Equity Records, as well as the Memoranda and Plea Rolls of the Exchequer, which were deposited in the Stone Tower at Westminster, or in the Augmentation Office, have been brought from these repositories and consolidated in the Carlton Ride. Schedules of the Records so transferred, as detailed as it was possible to make them under the circumstances, were prepared and are here subjoined. Under a similar authority, several sacks of Miscellaneous Records from the roof of Carlton Ride have been transferred into the custody of Mr. Hunter.

A warrant, dated 25th November, 1841, directed the removal of all the Records of the Exchequer of Pleas, and of the Common Pleas, from No. 3, Whitehall-yard to Carlton Ride. The Records of the Exchequer of Pleas, the Feet of Fines, Concords of Fines, and Posteas belonging to the Common Pleas, have been removed to Carlton Ride. The removal of the Writs of Inquiry, Inquisitions, Bills against Attorneys, and the Miscellaneous Writs, has been delayed, in order that the arrangement of them might be completed; and I am in hopes that in a very few days from the present time they will be deposited in the Carlton Ride.† These removals and transfers have necessitated many alterations in this repository, which are described under the head of Miscellaneous Observations.

The discrepancy between the total of these consultations and the numbers of searches, inspections, copies, and authentications is accounted for by the fact, that though a Record may be inspected, and a copy and authentication taken of it, it is in this table only reckoned once.

Adding together the Common Pleas Records removed from Serjeants' Inn to Carlton Ride, performed on the 12th and 13th March, 1841 (Appendix to Second Report of Deputy Keeper, page 31); and that the remaining portion of Common Pleas Records at Whitehall-yard to those which have been lately removed, I estimate that about 90 tons weight of Records will have been consolidated in Carlton Ride.

When I first took possession of the Common Pleas Treasury, and before any removals were effected, the repository was apparently almost filled, and though it was obvious that much room was unnecessarily lost, it was not clear how any could be gained by a different arrangement. The experience of the past, however, has proved that not only a great quantity of Records has been conveniently added to this repository, but that room has been obtained for a workshop capable of accommodating 16 workmen, besides an area in the Treasury itself, which, at certain periods of the year, may be used in public searches. Moreover, the presses are by no means filled and there remains more than ample accommodation for the Common Pleas Records, which it is in contemplation to bring hither from the Chapter House.

From time to time I have not failed to communicate with the officers of the Board of Works as to the safety of thus loading the building. The building is constructed upon brick and stone arches, and, to use the words of Mr. Morris, who is Clerk of the Works for the St. James's district, and has been in the habit of surveying the building for about twenty years past, it is capable of sustaining any weight.

Mr. Morris has known the time when it has been so completely filled with horse artillery, both men and horses, that there was only standing room; at the same time, as far as possible, I have taken all precautions in my power, by placing the more weighty Records around the walls.

As a guide for the future, it may not be unimportant to relate the process by which these results have been obtained:—

The presses or racks, as I found them, seem to have been constructed upon the principle of taking the largest specimen of one series of Records, calculating the number of that series, and constructing the presses for such number by providing a space for each equal to that required for the largest. No care seems to have been taken to ascertain the position in which the Records might be placed with the greatest economy of room.

The inconsultable state in which I found a great number of the Common Rolls (Appendix to Second Report of Deputy Keeper, p. 27), demonstrated that part of the evils arose from the mode in which the Rolls were kept. Rolls containing 1,800 membranes had, in fact, ceased to be Rolls, but were huge twists; and the unsuccessful attempts to tie them up as rolls, and consequent inability to do so tightly, have caused in most cases the destruction of the opening membranes of the Roll. If any one would take a thick book of several hundred pages (Mr. Bohn's Catalogue recently published would be a good specimen), and instead of allowing the leaves to lie flat, were to attempt to roll them up, he would obtain some notion of the way in which the Common Pleas Rolls were made up. These circumstances led me to think that for the purposes of preservation, without any reference to economy of space, it might be desirable to preserve "rolls" exceeding a certain size flat, instead of coiled; and I was further led to think such a course proper, because the state of decay of many of them rendered it quite impossible without certain destruction to attempt the rolling them up again. It must not be supposed for an instant that I am advocating the laying flat of all documents hitherto kept as rolls. To do so with Chancery Rolls which, from their mode of making up, are still rolls, no matter what their size, would be unwarrantable; indeed to do so with any roll which can fairly be said to be circular would, I think, be very injudicious; and it is only with rolls that have either ceased to be such, or are so decayed that they cannot be rolled again without injury that this change seems to me desirable. Having determined that the Common Pleas Rolls, which had ceased to be rolls, should be laid flat for the purposes of preservation, it was satisfactory to find that this change of shape would greatly economize space in the re-arrangement of them. Even with the old presses, where the horizontal shelves were placed equidistant, very great room indeed was gained, and I did not think it was expedient to have the horizontal shelves adapted to the various widths of each roll; I have, however, had specimen-shelves prepared on a principle by which the Common Pleas Rolls, and indeed any others of the same character, may be made to occupy the least possible room; whilst the ease of getting them, and the security of the roll itself, when consulted, are very much increased. The result of my experiment, as respects space, is that 27 rolls are now placed in the same room formerly occupied by nine rolls. I would not wish it to be thought that the local arrangement of the Records of Carlton Ride is by any means so good as it might be, had presses been altogether newly constructed. Had it been possible, for example, I would not have placed records exceeding a certain size and weight beyond a certain height from the ground.

My arrangement of the office has been much modified by the necessity of economizing the labour as much as possible in the alteration of presses, which can but be considered as temporary, and in all my operations with this consideration always before me, my desire has been to effect the arrangement,—

First, of the heavy documents, with reference to the greatest security of the building;

Second, of documents the most valuable, in parts of the office whence in case of fire they might be the most easily extricated;

Third, of documents most in use, where they may be most readily accessible; and,

Lastly, of all with the greatest economy of space and convenience of access.

In all these changes I have received the most cordial co-operation and assistance from the officers of the Board of Works, who have conducted the alterations with all possible despatch. They are still incomplete, and I am afraid that some weeks will still elapse before the workmen are quit of the building.

For the better transaction of the public business, various changes and improvements have been made throughout the building itself.

Three rooms have been made suitable for offices. A direct communication has been opened between the Public Office for Searches and the Record Treasury, whereby the access to the Records is rendered much more convenient and ready, and the loss of time both of the officer and the applicant diminished. By making a passage into the workroom on the basement, the stairs are preserved for the public; and by laying on a supply of water adjacent to the workroom, much inconvenient passing and repassing of the workmen on the stairs are obviated. Necessary cleaning and painting have been performed; and the offices, though small, are not inconvenient for the transaction of the public business. In the Treasury, by converting the tops of the presses around the walls into a gallery, not only the whole of the upper part of the walls of the building is rendered available for additional presses, but the tops of the presses in the centre of the office are rendered useful. Indeed, if the windows were lowered, and the foundations ascertained to be sufficiently strong, it would be possible to have another story above the presses. These works are still in progress, and it will be some time before they are completed.

All vigilance and precautions against fire are employed; and I do not believe there are any grounds of apprehension from the fires under our control. The fears respecting the stoves and flues in other parts of the building, expressed in my letter of the 18th ultimo,* have been confirmed by the opinions of all the officers of the Board of Works, who admit their insecurity. On a recent occasion, when the Master of the Rolls visited this repository, I thought it my duty to call his Lordship's attention to these flues, as seen from the roof, and Lord Langdale expressed his apprehensions of the danger they created in very strong terms indeed.

No. 10 c.—The Assistant Keeper at the Carlton Ride to the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, reporting completion of Transfers.

Carlton Terrace, 31st January, 1842.

I have the honour to inform you that the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated 4th November, 1841, in respect of the transfer of certain Records into Chancery, has now been wholly executed with the single exception of the "Entries of Decrees," which are duplicates of the original Decrees delivered over according to the Warrant. Mr. Le Couteé agreed with me that there would probably be no use for them in his office, whilst there might be a convenience as well as security in their remaining in the custody of the Master of the Rolls; they therefore remain in my charge.

10 d.—Extract of Letter from the Assistant Keeper at the Carlton Ride to the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, reporting upon the danger of fire from the adjoining flues.

Sir, Carlton Ride, December 18th, 1841.

The roof of Carlton Ride overlooks, as you are aware, that portion of the Ride which is used as a lumber room for Her Majesty's furniture, and commands a view of the flue placed there for heating the building. I think it right to call your immediate attention to the fact which came to my knowledge this week, that this flue has been seen occasionally red-hot, by myself and others, to the extent of four or five feet from the ground, and I cannot help thinking that it must necessarily be a source of great danger; at all events I think it right that the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls, as having the custody of the Records in this repository, should, if necessary, be made acquainted with the fact.

* * * * I beg leave to state, for the information of Lord Langdale, that since the Annual Report of March last, I have increased and completed my Index Nominum et Locorum to 749 Domestic Deeds. Mr. Burtt has covered and fully endorsed 555, and arranged, stamped and dated, without the full endorsement, 795 more.

This Index is most useful, as the family deeds are extremely diversified, and when examined, throw much light on private history, and through private history, upon the times to which they belong; but they are of much higher importance as tracing pedigrees and evidencing facts relative to the transfer of real property in ancient times.

They have all been stamped, put into covers, endorsed, and arranged in chronological order of reigns, as follows:—

Henry I.	2
Stephen	2
Henry II.	6
Richard I.	4
John	6
Edward I.	54

Mr. Burtt has also indexed 37 documents relating to Wales, and arranged with the Office Index the contents of one of the Welsh bags, besides having prepared and catalogued 171 paper documents.

Mr. Jowett has prepared, stamped, and catalogued, 832 paper documents, which now amount (in the second series) to the number of 1988; 820 of which have been, under his superintendence, sent to the Augmentation Office to be cleaned and repaired; and they have now in hand 310 more, which, when returned, another quantity will be immediately sent. These documents are more diversified than those which I have termed "Domestic Deeds," and are equally useful in elucidating ancient history, and furnishing important data to the biographical, topographical, or statistical inquirer. * * * *

12.—EXTRACTS from the GENERAL REPORT of the ASSISTANT KEEPER at the Rolls Chapel.

No. 12. Extracts from the General Report of the Assistant Keeper at the Rolls Chapel.

SIR, Rolls Chapel, 31st January, 1842.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to you, for the information of the Master of the Rolls, a summary of the proceedings of the Assistant Keepers and of the clerks and workmen employed in this Branch of the Public Record Office, and also of the business transacted therein, from the 31st March to the 31st December, 1841.

ROLLS CHAPEL.

The Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods and Forests having been pleased, in order to admit more light into the dark passages under the galleries containing the Patent and Close Rolls, to direct the flooring of the galleries to be taken up, and open iron gratings substituted for the boards, that work is now completed, by which more light is thrown upon the shelves, and the rolls are not so troublesome to find; all the rolls in those passages have been well cleaned from the dust and dirt left by the workmen; and the Close Rolls in the Record Room which had, from time to time, been placed on any shelves that happened to be vacant when they were brought in, have been shifted and placed in regular chronological order, and at the same time well cleaned from dust, the number of rolls in the passages and Record Room so cleaned and arranged amount to 5234; the bundles of Dockets of Decrees have also been collected together and well cleaned.

The Index of the Patent Rolls of the 6 Geo. 4, of which nine rolls remained to be done when the Second Annual Report was prepared, is now finished, making 20 rolls containing 315 documents.

The covers for the Close Rolls of 6 Geo. 4, 79 in number, have been prepared, and the 24 bundles of Memorials of Annuity Deeds for that year have been indorsed with the numbers contained in each, and ticketed.

The Index to the Memorials for the years 1821, 1822, and 1823, are in progress; that for 1821 has been done in draft by the junior clerks, and examined, and fair copied as far as No. 885. The Index to 1824 has been completed by Mr. Holden, 163 Memorials having been indexed since the last Report, and 862 of the year 1825.

There have been cleaned and repaired and prepared for the bookbinder the Inquisitions post mortem from 22 Jac. part 1, to the 2 Car. part 1, both inclusive, which form thirteen vols., and the Inquisitions Virtute Officii from 1 to 8 Jac., in 2 vols.; they are now in the hands of the binder, together with 71 vols. previously prepared, making the whole number of vols. repaired and bound from 1 Hen. 7 to 2 Car., 415.

About 14,000 of the Miscellaneous Documents of the reigns of Hen. 7, Hen. 8, Edw. 6, Philip and Mary, Queen Elizabeth, and Jac. 1, consisting of Pleadings on the Law Side of the Court of Chancery, Certificates of Statute Staple, &c., have been wiped and flattened, and then put into chronological order and carefully folded and tied up in 44 bundles, which are indorsed with the years they contain; at the same time an account has been taken of their general condition preparatory to making a proper inventory of them.

The following Rolls, &c., have been brought into the Chapel, according to ancient usage:—

The Patent Rolls of 7 Geo. 4. consisting of 13 rolls, with 13 bundles of Privy Seal and Signed Bills.
Close Rolls of 7 Geo. 4, 98 rolls.
Memorials of Annuity Deeds, 7 Geo. 4, 24 bundles.
Parliament Rolls 3 and 4 Queen Victoria, 67 parts, divided into 74 rolls.
Six Rolls of Inrolments of Specifications have been made up in this office.

A summary of the business transacted in this office, (and also in the Rolls House) being an account of the number of Searches, Copies, &c., made within the period of this Report:—

Searches and Inspections	2398
Copies, containing 4719 Chancery folios . .	181
Authentications, containing 1493 Chancery folios	48
Inrolments, 1812 Chancery folios	29
Plans annexed to Inrolments	27
Attendances with records out of the office . .	8

Amount of Fees received £290. 2*s.* 6*d.*

In addition to the above more than 800 copies and partial copies have been made in pencil, and examined by the individuals themselves, beside copies of Plans of Specifications, and examining and comparing old copies and abstracts with the Records, for which purpose they come in parties of two, three, or four at a time, and require much looking after for the safety of the Records; the number of persons so frequenting the office during this period being upwards of 2000.

An account of the Inventories of the several Records in the Rolls Chapel, so far as the same have proceeded:—

The Charter Rolls, the entire series.
The Patent Rolls to the 29 Eliz., and prepared for printing to the end of Queen Mary's reign.
The Close Rolls, to the 8 Eliz., and prepared for printing to the end of Queen Mary's reign.
The Confirmation Rolls, from 1 Ric. 3 to 1 Car., being the whole series.
The Fine Rolls, Edw. 5 to 22 Car., being the whole series.
The Pardon Rolls, 1 Ric. 3 to 2 Jac., the whole series.
The Parliament Rolls to the end of Queen Elizabeth.
The Judgment or Decree Rolls to the end of Queen Elizabeth.
The Miscellanea, 44 bundles, containing about 14,000 documents, have been examined, and an account taken of them preparatory to a proper inventory being made of them.

The above work was commenced in April last, and the time of three clerks has been devoted to it without interruption. Every membrane has been re-numbered in ink, and an accurate description made of every roll. The indorsements on the covers of many of the earlier rolls had, from time and service, become nearly illegible, so much so that, as there was danger when taken down from their shelves for inspection, of putting them back into wrong places, it became necessary to cause something to be done for their restoration. The titles of the Patent Rolls of Edw. 5, Ric. 3, Hen. 7, Hen. 8, and Philip and Mary, have been thus restored, and much time and trouble will be thereby saved.

The accompanying tables* form a digest of the inventory. The four first show the total number of rolls, membranes, and schedules for each regnal year, and the last, being a general summary of the inventory, shows the total number of rolls, membranes, and schedules, and also of the entries where they have been noticed, for every reign as far as the inventory has hitherto proceeded.

The late Charity Commission.

The papers of the late Charity Commissioners, which were brought to this office by order of Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, have been carefully placed in the closets expressly prepared for them; they are bundled up in counties, and the bundles arranged in alphabetical order, so that any bundle may be easily referred to. Two applications have been made to search for original deeds which had been left with the Commissioners and not returned to the parties, but without success.

Rolls House.

The arrangement of the Judgment and Crown Rolls of the Court of King's Bench, which had been in a state of disorder ever since they were brought to the Rolls House, has been completed; it was commenced on the 27th March, 1841, and, with the assistance of two workmen, each of these rolls, and they are very large, has been opened and well cleaned, and every membrane pulled out straight and made smooth, and the roll then tightly rolled up and securely tied, and then put in its proper place with a ticket of reference attached to it, so that any roll may now be referred to at once, and there will be no difficulty in restoring it to its proper place when done with. The number so cleaned and arranged amounts to 3002. The inventories have been prepared to the 34 Hen. 6.

Somerset House.

The Records of the late Pipe Office, and Treasurer's Remembrancer's Office, which remain in the vaults of Somerset House, were delivered by the Queen's Remembrancer into the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls, in pursuance of the Act, on the 2d November last. The workman who was employed by the Queen's Remembrancer, with the sanction of the Treasury, in lighting the flues and keeping clean the vaults, still continues that work, and fills up his time in improving the condition of the old Pipe Rolls; he carefully wipes, pulls out, and makes every membrane smooth, and sews on a new back to each roll, and then rolls it up very tight, and binds the same with a strap and buckle; he has, since the 2d November, completed 23 rolls to the 23 Hen. 6, down to which year they are all done from the reign of King Stephen. The Pipe Rolls, and the Rolls of Originalia, containing the Estreats or extracts from the Chancery Roll, and the Rolls of Memoranda of the late Treasurer's Remembrancer's Office from the end of the reign of King George the Third, still remain at the Office of the Queen's Remembrancer in the Temple. * * * * * * *

No. 13. Extracts from the General Report of the Assistant Keeper at the Rolls House employed on the Records, late in the custody of the Comptroller-General of the Exchequer.

13.—EXTRACTS from the GENERAL REPORT of the ASSISTANT KEEPER at the Rolls House employed on the Records of the Receipt of the Exchequer, lately in the custody of the Comptroller-General.

Since my General Report, made on the 31st of March, little has been done in continuation of the work on which I was chiefly occupied up to that time. The Auditor's Debenture Books have been described, and some other of the books brought from the Vault at Somerset House, and the stamping of all those books has been completed. Beside the verification and correction of the Catalogues then delivered by me, my time was chiefly occupied in packing up the Books described, and making other preparations for the removal of all the Records then at the Comptroller's Office, until the end of May, when their immediate removal was directed by my Lords Langdale and Monteagle. On Wednesday, the 2nd of June, 1841, I took possession of the whole, by Sir Francis Palgrave's command, and began to remove them the next day to the Rolls House in a spring van; in which work I was assisted by one workman appointed regularly to attend me, and by others obtained from another department of this service.

The laborious work of this removal was effected in a short vacation of the Rolls Court, and completed on Monday, the 14th of June, by working early and late; and I am happy to report that no loss or damage happened to the Records, and little or no confusion was caused by the transfer. We began with the Pell Rolls of Exitus, selecting them from the Recepta with which they were mixed up in the previous arrangement; and as we brought the latest part of the series first, they were deposited at once in the new presses prepared for them in the Gallery of the Court, the last roll being put in at the bottom, and the work of arrangement ascending, until all the modern series of the Issue Rolls (which begins in the reign of Queen Elizabeth) was placed in tolerable order on their racks. It then appeared that there had not been sufficient rack-room provided for the rolls; the modern Recepta were therefore laid on the floor of the Gallery, while the older found room in one press, until a new press, breast-high along the whole front of the Gallery, was constructed, in which those large modern Rolls are now contained. All the Pell Rolls anterior to Richard II. were removed together, and have been separated into their several sorts and series since.

The Pell Books required an entire re-arrangement at the Rolls House, where they were sorted and put up on shelves, partly during the progress of the removal. * * * * * * * * The rooms assigned for the deposit of these and other Books of the several offices of the late Receipt of the Exchequer are, the Long Gallery over the Court, and four rooms adjoining, at the front of the house. The books are thus distributed:—

Long Gallery.—The Pell Books of Receipt, from 1690 to 1834 (the earlier portion being in the room No. 4), and of Issue, from 1597 to 1834, stand here upon open shelves, all arranged exactly in order of time.

No. 1. Assistant Keeper's Room.—The great Pell Books of Inrolment, of Letters Patent, and of Letters of Privy Seal, now separated into their respective series and arranged; also, the Auditor's Inrolment Books (two like series, but imperfect *), and some other Pell Books and Auditor's Books, from the Vault; some bound volumes of modern Tellers' Vouchers; and the whole collection of Books of the Exchequer Bill Office (part of the late Auditor's Office), which are all arranged on shelves.

No. 2. Searching Room.—This room being situate over the central part of the Court, and unable to support the great weight of Miscellaneous Records of the Court of King's Bench which lay there, in addition to the weight of Exchequer Records now placed in the Long Gallery and adjoining rooms, was cleared out by Lord Langdale's order, and is now used for purposes of business as a public office. There are in it only 32 great volumes of original Warrants from the Auditor's Office, standing on shelves by the window, and books and papers from time to time in progress of arrangement, description, or other operations, which cannot conveniently be put elsewhere.

No. 3.—A very small room, containing the modern Books of Account and Entry, of the Auditor's Office; and, in a large press, the miscellaneous Papers of the Auditor's and Pell Offices, together with eight boxes of original Privy Seal Letters of modern date, original Patents not claimed by their owners, original Sign Manual Warrants for Pensions, in like manner unclaimed, and the Papers and Vouchers of the Exchequer Bill Office. All the Books are distinguished into their several series, and arranged in order of time, on shelves.

No. 4.—This room is used chiefly by the workman. It contains the earlier portion of the Pell Receipt Books, (which the Long Gallery could not contain,) the Order Books, Warrant Books, and other small series of Pell Books; the Auditor's Books that were brought from the Vault, excepting such as are in the room No. 1; and the remaining portion of the great volumes of modern Warrants (vols. 33—85) continued from No. 2; beside two large deal boxes, and many bundles of parchments, saved from the Vault.

In the Long Gallery there are also three presses, formerly belonging to the King's Bench Records, which at present are filled with books, papers, and parchments, more or less arranged or described, &c.; and with the miscellaneous Pell Rolls (separated from the two great series of Recepta and Exitus), and some few Auditor's Rolls. There is also one larger press, in which I have placed all the older series of the Pells of Issue, or Exitus Rolls, from Henry III. to Edward IV. (from whose reign to that of Elizabeth the practice of inrolling the Issues was discontinued), for which there was no room in the presses of the Court Gallery; these Rolls are not arranged, but only sorted into reigns.

The sacks of Parchments, Papers, and Rolls, mentioned in my Report of 31st March last, as having been brushed, made up into bundles, &c., were deposited at first in the Messenger's Room on the basement of the house. Those containing the 64 bundles of Papers, and 94 bundles of Parchments, have been since removed one by one upstairs and emptied; the contents of the latter have been only stamped and roughly sorted by the workman. But the old Papers have been carefully sorted by me, partly into periods, and partly under different classes; they have all (except fragments and waste, laid aside for further consideration) been stamped by the workman, and the greater part of them has been dated with pencil, and arranged in order of time, in their respective classes, by Mr. Edwards. Among them I have found one original Papal Brief of Leo X. on vellum, dated 3d April, 1513, and some valuable State Papers of Cardinal Wolsey, of which a Catalogue is in preparation, to serve as a Supplement to the Catalogues of State Papers, &c., printed with my last Report:* the Papal Brief is earlier than any of the whole series of Briefs therein described.

There being a double necessity for removing all the other sacks that had been placed in the Messenger's Room, when first brought from Westminster, by reason of the extreme damp to which that room is subject, and for repairs to be done in it, they were taken to the Lodge at the northern end of the Rolls-yard, which consists of three small rooms, and was assigned to me by Lord Langdale, for the purpose of easing the upper rooms of any excess of weight that might be spared.

The contents of those sacks were as follow:—

Thus far I have described the repositories in which these Records and Documents are now placed, and the distribution of their several sorts or classes. I shall now state particularly the operations which have been performed on them, under several heads.

1. Arrangement.—The Records which have been exactly distributed into their respective classes, and chronologically arranged under the same in presses or on shelves, are:—

The Pell Rolls of Receipt, from the reign of Henry III. to 1834, inclusively.

The Pell Rolls of Issue, from the reign of Elizabeth to 1834, inclusively; but the earlier period, from Henry III. to Edward IV., is only distributed into reigns, for want of an ancient press, to be removed from Westminster; which, when repaired, is to contain that important series of historical records.

The Pell Books of Receipt and of Issue, from 1559 and 1597 respectively, to 1834, together with the Abbreviations of the Pell of Receipt, and the separate series of Receipt and Issue Books; all which Books are described in the Inventories hereafter mentioned.

The Pell Inrolment Books of Letters Patent, and Letters of Privy Seal, respectively, which formerly were mixed up together, reign by reign, but now form two separate series of large and valuable books, properly indexed, and ready to be consulted by the public. They extend from 1597 to 1834, and will be described in my next Report.

* Deputy Keeper's Second Report (1841), App. II., pp. 190—194.

Appendix I.

No. 13. Extracts from the General Report of the Assistant Keeper at the Rolls House employed on the Records, late in the custody of the Comptroller-General of the Exchequer.

The Warrant Books, Order Books, Assignment Books, Declarations, and other small series of Books of the Pell Office, some few miscellaneous volumes alone being excepted.

The Auditor's Debenture Books, Order Books, Cash Books, Certificate Books, volumes of original Treasury Letters, and all other the modern Books deposited in the room No. 3.

The Auditor's Books of Original Warrants, from October, 1794, to January, 1834, bound in 85 very thick volumes.

The Certificate Books, Warrant Books, and all other Books of the Exchequer Bill Office, in the Auditor's Department, from 1696 to 1834.

Volumes of Tellers' Vouchers, bound, 13.

The old Books of the Pell Office and Auditor, found in the Vault at Somerset House, so far as they were described in the Catalogues printed with my former Report.

The arrangement of papers and parchments, and miscellaneous rolls, has been already described.

2. Cleansing.—All the Books mentioned under the foregoing head have been thoroughly brushed; most of the dirty pages have been wiped with cloths; and the backs, of such as needed and could bear the operation, have been washed, to render the indorsements legible. The Inrolment Books of the Pell Office have been cleansed from dust and mildew, page by page; their rough leather covers and buff backs have been scoured with a hard brush and glass paper, and the sharp angles of the old clasps are now about to be filed down.

Most of the Pell Rolls were brushed and wiped outside before they were put up on the racks; and some of the heavy rolls that were loosened and liable to damage have been carefully unrolled, wiped, and rolled up securely. To extend this last operation to the whole series (which must eventually be done) will probably require the labour of half a year.

Many thousands of papers and parchments have been cleansed from dry dirt in the course of the next process.

3. Stamping.—All the Books mentioned under the head of "Arrangement," and all other Books not yet arranged or described, have been stamped, in many parts of each, with the words "Comptroller of the Exchequer" surrounding a crown, to show from whose custody they came to the Master of the Rolls. All the papers and parchments that have been sorted and cleansed or arranged, have likewise been stamped in one place or more upon each. But all the rolls, and the parchments and papers not yet cleaned and sorted, remain to be stamped; the stamping of the rolls must be coincident with the improvement of their condition, as mentioned under the foregoing head.

4. Repairs.—The frequent use of paste, and the occasional use of needle and thread, have been all the repairing done within the period of this Report, with the exception of a small roll and two documents on vellum, repaired at the Augmentation Office before the removal; and one warrant, dated in 1563, which was found torn to pieces, and has been kindly put together by Mr. Lemon, of the State Paper Office, as a specimen of his method of repairing damaged papers.

5. Tickets or labels have been printed, for the Receipt, Issue, and Inrolment Books of the Pell Office, and for all the Books of the Exchequer Bill Office. Those following have been filled up in duplicate, each ticket expressing the name of the office, the name or class of the book, the term, regnal year, and common year (or longer period,) and the number of the book in the series, all corresponding exactly with the Inventory: one ticket is pasted on the back of each volume, and the duplicate is pasted within the cover.

	Volumes.	Tickets.
Pell Issue Books, No. 1 to 482, bound in volumes . .	454	908
Exchequer Bill Warrant Books	14	28
Total	468	936

The Receipt Books are not yet ticketed, by reason of the little time allowed for completing the Inventory; but the Issue Books were ticketed in the course of compiling it; and it was found that the one work facilitated the other.

6. Inventories.—Brief lists and numerous memoranda have been made, from time to time, with a view to the framing of Inventories, Catalogues, and Calendars of the several classes of Records and Documents in this department; some of which notes were indispensably needful to their due arrangement. A general repertory will be constructed, when every thing shall have found its fittest place; and an alphabetical repertory referring to their several classes, and some principal matters contained in them, is already planned out; these are designed for the use of the office alone. The peculiar practice of the Receipt Side of the Exchequer, to divide every year into two terms by the moveable feast of Easter,* threw so many difficulties in the way of arranging and describing these Records, by its interference with the commencements of regnal years and civil years, that I found myself under the necessity of compiling a large table to serve as the basis of all future inventories, and a ready guide to the reduction of dates, without recourse to two or three distinct tables in printed books, for every instance. I have therefore begun to prepare "A Chronological Table applicable to the Records of the Receipt of the Exchequer; showing the years of our Lord, the half yearly terms observed in that Court, the date of Easter in every year, and the regnal years, from the beginning of the reign of King Henry III. to the abolition of the Court in 1834." By the help of this table, of which the later portions are completed, I have, in the last three months, constructed

* Until 1802, in which year the Easter term was made to end on 4th July, and a new half-year (in the stead of the Michaelmas term) began on 5th July, which extended to 4th January following: from which time the half-years always began on 5th January and 5th July, respectively.

complete Inventories of all the Receipt Books and Issue Books of the Pell Office, including some subordinate or supplemental series respectively belonging thereto; which, together with general descriptions of the several series, are delivered with this Report.

Of the Auditors' and Tellers' Books, brought from the Vault, I had intended to complete the account contained in my former Report and the Catalogues printed therewith; but the description of the two principal classes of Books above-mentioned, which are most likely to be wanted by the public, appearing to be a work of greater necessity, I proceeded with it in preference, hoping to complete the remainder of the Books from the Vault before the 31st of March. The recent alteration of the period for delivery of Reports and Inventories, to the 31st of December, makes me now fear that they cannot be completed in time for the Supplement to the Deputy Keeper's Third Report; only the Debenture Books, and some few other volumes, having been described since March last, by reason of the revision and correction of my former Catalogues, and the preparations needful to be made before the removal of these Records to the Rolls House, which occupied the chief part of the interval between my former Report and the removal itself.

7. Of Calendars and Indexes, I have nothing to say, beyond what is stated in the foregoing article, and the completion of an old Index to one book of Surrenders of Letters Patent, which (when I described it) I found in an unfinished state.

8. Public business of the Office.—The contents of this department are so little known, that hitherto few applications have been made for searches or copies. The papers saved from the Vault having been inquired for by some persons, I took the earliest opportunity of sorting them as afore-mentioned; and extracts from them have been taken by Mr. Cruden, for his History of Gravesend, Milton, and Tilbury; and by Mr. Halliwell. A fragment of an ancient Roll of Accounts relative to the castle, town and park of Oswestry, written about the time of Edward II., has been used by Mr. Wright for his History of Ludlow; it was found in the rubbish from the Vault. An Issue Book, of 1765, has furnished an extract to one of the Middlesex magistrates; but one of the Receipt Books has shown the importance of these Records to the interests of private persons in a most remarkable manner. It appears to have been a matter in dispute between a country banker and the executor of his London agent, whether the latter paid into the Exchequer a sum, on behalf of a receiver of taxes, exceeding eleven thousand pounds, or only the odd hundreds beyond that number; in this case, one single entry (an authenticated copy of which cost a mere trifle) proved that the larger sum was actually paid, and so demonstrated the accuracy of the London Banker's Book. Indeed these Records are of the utmost consequence, both to the crown, and to individuals or corporations having pecuniary claims against the crown, or concerned to prove the payment of moneys into the Exchequer before the abolition of the Court of Receipt in 1834. * * * *

The principal business transacted, since the transfer of these Records and Documents to the custody of the Master of the Rolls, has been unproductive of fees. The Commissioners for the Publication of State Papers availed themselves of the Catalogues of Papal Briefs, Imperial and Ducal Letters, and State Papers, which accompanied my former Report, and directed Mr. Lemon, their Secretary, to transcribe the principal part of them, (including the additional documents afterwards found,) who attended with a clerk, for this purpose, almost daily from 20th August to 4th November. * * * * Some office copies have also been made, as in the ordinary course of business, by one of the clerks of the Rolls Chapel, for which fees will be paid.

This last is the only clerical assistance that I have yet had, excepting the preparation of the modern portion of the accompanying Inventories, which was partly prepared by Mr. Edwards. All other operations herein described have been performed (except in the removal from Westminster, and arrangement of the Rolls in the Court Gallery), by myself and one workman.

* * * * * *

By comparing the operations suggested at the end of my former Report (p. 40), with the facts stated in this, it will appear that they have been executed, to a very considerable extent, in the past nine months; much however remains to be done, especially in the arrangement and description of the Rolls brought from the Vault. They principally consist of Accounts of the four Tellers, from Henry VIII. to Charles I. inclusively, containing both Receipts and Issues; the importance of which is great, because they supply most part of the Issues of the sixteenth century, for which period scarcely any Records of payments at the Exchequer were known to be in existence before the recent discovery of these Rolls. Among them I have found also, and removed from the Lodge, the following Pell Rolls; which will be incorporated with the general series, to fill up chasms when the Inventory of them shall be undertaken:—

14.—GENERAL REPORT of the ASSISTANT KEEPER at the Tower.

REPORT of the Proceedings at the Record Office, Tower, from 1st April to 31st December, 1841, arranged according to the Instructions of the 14th December, 1840.

1. The duties and employment of myself and the other members of this establishment, have been similar to those mentioned in my Report of the 11th January, 1841.

SUMMARY of the Searches, Copies, Inspections, &c. made during the above-mentioned Period.

2. There have been no receipts or removals of Records into or from this office during the above-mentioned period.

3. The Inventories of the Miscellaneous Rolls and Inquisitions post mortem have been continued, and that to the former has been completed. The Calendars to the private Deeds and Admiralty documents have also progressed, but they are discontinued for the present, in order that an assortment and inventory might be made, by direction of the Deputy Keeper of the Records, of the large mass of Records known under the title of Brevia, and deposited in the Northern Gallery of the Council Chamber in the White Tower. Among these bundles some valuable and important documents have been discovered, namely, Original Letters to the King during the Reigns of Henry III. and of the first three Edwards; Memoranda illustrative of the early practice of the Court of Chancery; Petitions to the King and Council in Parliament; Returns to Writs issued out of Chancery upon Petition to the Council; Original Writs of Liberate, &c. But the great mass consists of original Writs out of Chancery returnable into that Court, and into the Courts of Common Pleas and King's Bench, and judicial Writs issued out of the Common Pleas. The returns to these Writs afford valuable information on many points, and may be consulted with advantage in Boundary and other similar cases.

The returns to the Writs of certiorari contain the tenor of records and proceedings before the justices of both benches, the justices of assize, gaol delivery, &c., and proceedings in county and hundred, and other inferior courts. These documents are important, as supplying information where the Rolls and Records of the before-mentioned courts are deficient or defective.

The following summary exhibits an account of what work has been done:—

Miscellaneous Rolls calendared	215
Privy Seals arranged in years and days, and stamped	1,121
Private Deeds calendared	42
Inquisitions inventoried and stamped	17,337
Inquisitions inventoried, but not stamped	25,665
Bundles of Admiralty Documents examined and arranged, previously to calendaring	50
Admiralty Documents calendared	3,299
Bundles of Admiralty Documents sorted and arranged chronologically	250
Bundles of Original and other Writs cleaned, counted, re-filed, examined, and inventoried	74
Number of Documents in the said bundles	19,938

4. During the last nine months the workmen have repaired 2736 Documents, cleaned 2794, exclusive of 869 parcels of Documents sewn together.

5. In consequence of a letter dated 22nd December ult. from the Deputy Keeper of the Records, recommending a more concentrated form of inventory to the Inquisitions than that which has been compiled, I feel it necessary to state briefly the reasons why the inventory in question has been made in its present shape, and why a more compressed form would not answer the end in view, namely, to exhibit the actual state of each Document, so that the plan approved by Lord Langdale may be carried into effect, of making copies specially authenticated of such Records as are now only just legible, and are daily becoming worse, through the injudicious application of the solution of gallnut and other casualties; and that such authenticated copies should be consulted for all general purposes instead of the originals.

The present inventory also supplies deficiencies in, additions to, and corrections of, the Calendars published by the Record Commissioners, but whether it will be advisable to print these inventories, I will not presume to offer an opinion, though it may be proper to state that the inventory of the Records here, which was printed in the last Report of the Deputy Keeper, has already been found useful in the office; and the description of the state of the Documents has in more than one instance prevented Records in a very bad state of repair from being exposed to further injury by consultation, though it must be admitted that the same object would have been obtained had the inventory been only in manuscript. On the other hand, however, it must be remembered that the circulation of a printed inventory may often prevent the public from going to a Record Office to search for a document not in existence, or in such a state of repair as to be unconsultable, whilst it may also notify that documents are extant which were supposed to have been lost, or were not known.

Record Office, Tower, 7th January, 1842. Assistant Keeper.

15.—The DEPUTY KEEPER of the PUBLIC RECORDS to A. MILNE, Esq., on the Precautions to be adopted against Fire in the different Record Offices.

SIR, Rolls House, December 21, 1841.

I AM instructed by Lord Langdale to request that you will be pleased to cause the several Record Offices to be surveyed for the purpose of considering the best means to be adopted for protecting them against accidents by fire, and generally to advise his Lordship thereon. The following suggestions are submitted for your consideration; and as to such which cannot be actually executed by your Department, you will be pleased to give his Lordship the benefit of your opinion thereupon:—

Rolls House and Chapel.

Two fire-engines to be kept on the premises, one in the fore court and the other in the back garden, and proper engine-houses provided. Water-pipes and mains to be examined, and forcing-pumps placed where needed. A fire watchman to be stationed on the premises; for although the porter and his family live in the house, yet, as they sleep in the sunk story, a fire might break out in the upper part of the premises without their being aware of it; and the premises being also shut out from the street, the fire might equally escape observation from thence. Adjoining the house is a warehouse belonging to the Parcels' Delivery Company, in which a fire broke out not long since. Can any measures be adopted for insulating the house, or protecting it by a party-wall?

Carlton Ride.

Upon this Repository Mr. Cole, the assistant keeper, makes the following communication to me.—[Here is given an extract from Mr. Cole's letter of the 18*th Dec.*, 1841, No. 10 d.]

It is submitted that this and all the flues and fire-places in, or connected with, the building should be examined. The fire-place in the workshop in particular seems to require care. The water-pipes should be examined, forcing-pumps placed where needed; and it is submitted that it would be expedient to have an engine-house and engine in or near the premises, and a tank made in the roof. Do the sentinels remain on duty all night? Can they be sufficiently trusted as fire-watchmen? or would it not be expedient to have a watchman in the centre of the building?

Tower.

Would it not be advisable to communicate with the Board of Ordnance, so that the two Record Repositories may have the benefit of any precautions to be adopted for the general security of the buildings of the fortress against fire, and that, if needed, special precautions may be added for such Repositories?

Augmentation Office.

There are dwelling-rooms above and below this Repository. What precautions can be suggested as to water, watchmen, &c.?

Chapter House.

It is supposed that the supply of water in this neighbourhood is defective. Should not the pipes, &c., be examined? Would it not be advisable to obtain permission from the Dean and Chapter to station an engine in the garden adjoining the Chapter House? Is a fire-watchman needed?

With respect to the suggestions relating to watchmen, they are made upon the assumption that, besides giving notice of fire, they might also be useful in directing the operations of the firemen, &c.

It is presumed that your Honourable Board would undertake the needful communications with the different water companies.

The subject is one of great importance; and Lord Langdale particularly wishes to have the subject thoroughly investigated, so that every precaution be adopted which can be reasonably suggested.

I have the honour to remain, &c.

A. Milne, Esq.,
Office of Woods, &c.

Report of the Assistant Keeper at the Augmentation Office explaining the manner of proceeding with the Miscellaneous Records of the Queen's Remembrancer.

Sir, Augmentation Office, February 21, 1842.

I have now the honour to present the following report of my method of proceeding in the cleaning, repairing, describing, and arranging, the Miscellaneous Records, late of the Queen's Remembrancer.

For the proper understanding these operations it is necessary, in the first instance, to state that these Records consist of an assemblage, which may well be called immense, of documentary matter that has arisen in the business of the Exchequer in the course of six centuries; but as the operations have been confined (with a few trifling exceptions) to the documents which arose in the period between the reigns of Richard 1 and James 1, both inclusive, what follows may be considered as relating only to that period, namely from about A.D. 1188 to A.D. 1625. It appears to me that it will be found expedient to deal with the later matter in a manner somewhat different; and it may be proper to observe that the documents for the reigns before that of Edward 1 (A.D. 1272) are but few.

These documents, as I have several times had occasion to state, consist for the most part of—first, compotuses of persons employed either in the collection or the expenditure of the royal revenue; or—second, instruments subsidiary to, or justificatory of, such compotuses. Under this second head the documents are of very various character, according to the nature of the service in which the accountant was employed; but they may be described generally as being Writs of Appointment, Writs directing Expenditure, Writs to Barons to receive Accounts, Indentures of Purchase, Indentures of Service, Petitions, Assessments, Inquisitions p. m. and of other kinds, Retinue Rolls, Musters, Court Rolls, Certificates of Residence of Persons chargeable to Subsidies; but there are many other kinds of instruments which it is unnecessary to specify.

But beside those which are either compotuses or documents connected with compotuses, there are some which cannot well be referred to either of these heads; such as Charters, Deeds, Special Commissions, and Inquisitions taken in pursuance of them, Acts of Parliament transmitted by writ to the officers of the Exchequer when they contained matter touching revenue, together with much that appears to belong to the Plea Side of the Exchequer, that will be transferred in due time to the same custody to which the Plea Rolls, found in the mass, have already been consigned. There are also no small number of Ministers' Accounts of Manors not at the time in the hands of the Crown.

It seems, indeed, as if the presses which anciently contained these Compotuses, arranged, it is believed, with as much order as has been maintained with respect to the Memoranda, Originalia, or Pipe Rolls, had been used when that order was destroyed as a general receptacle for whatever documentary matter was floating in the repositories of the Exchequer, having no definite place to which it could be consigned.

It may be inferred, from the present aspect of the mass, that little care was taken of these documents during the later part of the period during which they were in their ancient deposits; but the confusion was greatly enhanced when the rooms and galleries containing them were taken down to make way for the new courts of justice adjoining Westminster Hall. They were then placed in the wooden sheds in the Hall, where they remained several years. From thence they were removed to the Mews, and finally to Carlton Ride, where those still remain which have not been brought down to the Augmentation Office to be cleaned, repaired, and described.

All the various classes of documents became intermixed, every series was broken up, and such was the state of confusion that no search could be prosecuted for any document with a reasonable prospect of success.

They were also, owing to long neglect, the being placed in unsuitable repositories, and the injuries from different causes to which they were exposed, in a state of great and increasing decay. Many of them have every appearance of having been soaked in water. Some have large holes rotted in them; in some the layers of parchment are glued together; many have every appearance of having been trampled under foot; many have had pieces torn from them; many have lost membranes, the stitches having been broken; some that consisted of membranes united at the head, have had the ligature broken, and are in numerous pieces; in the files the strings have not unfrequently been broken, and the documents spread abroad through the mass. Single leaves are often found of many of the Household and other books of Accouut.

It was while they were at the Mews that the attention of the Record Commission was first seriously turned upon them, and the attempt was begun to reduce them to order, and at least to arrest the progress of decay; and the better to enable the Commissioners to accomplish their purpose, they were transferred to the Commission by an order of the Lords of the Treasury.

The first step which was taken was to make a rude distribution of the mass—first, according to the form of the documents, and—second, their dates. The distribution was into three portions:—

1. The Rolls, Books, and Pouches.
2. Documents not in those forms, or portions of documents which were so; called, but improperly, "Charters."
3. Files of Writs.

The chronological arrangement was in reigns only, but even that was very imperfect, and could not well have been otherwise, as many of the documents had no dates, nor could the dates be determined without much research; and in others the date was obscured, owing to the state in which the document presented itself. They were then placed, according to this distribution, in large sacks, of which there were many hundreds, properly ticketed.

Some little was done to them before, but the process of cleaning, repairing, describing, and intitling, may be said to have begun in earnest when the sacks began to be brought down to the Augmentation Office, where an establishment was placed, consisting of a superintendent, clerks, and workmen.

When the direction of these operations was committed to me, in May, 1837, many of the documents, of the reigns previous to Edward 3, had been cleaned, repaired, rolled, intitled, and others had been placed in portfolios, or between pasteboards. Some progress had also been made with those of Edward 3. There had also been notes or descriptions made of many of the Documents; and an arrangement of them was begun, which did not however extend for the most part beyond the placing them in the years to which they belonged, or were supposed to belong, leaving the various classes and serieses still undetermined and intermixed. There was also a considerable mass which had been cleaned and repaired, but of which no account had been taken, and a large mass of fragmentary matter which had not been examined, and which has not yet undergone examination.

Since the direction of this operation has been committed to me, I have proceeded with the cleaning, repairing, describing, intitling, and arranging, the sacks being brought down from the Ride from time to time for the purpose. I took first the sacks containing the Rolls, Books, and Pouches, as those contained by far the greater number of Compotuses, which it appeared to me more convenient to describe first, before the subsidiary documents. All of these have been brought down, and their contents have gone through all the operations, as far as the close of the reign of James 1. We have proceeded also with the sacks containing those of the second and third kinds, to the reign of Henry 6; but some of a later date, in the sacks called the Charter and the Writ sacks, have been cleaned, repaired, and described

The process is very simple; each sack of the earlier reigns is taken in its turn, and the whole contents are carefully cleaned. All the Rolls, Books, and Pouches have been cleaned; but in the later reigns, in some of the kinds, I have reserved for further consideration some portion of the contents. Those documents, or parts of documents, which require it, are damped and pressed, and those which require repair are in general repaired; but sometimes, where a document is of itself of small value, and requiring much repair, I have thought it best that the repairing should at least be postponed, in whole or in part, while other more useful business goes on.

The distribution of the particular kind of work is entrusted to the foreman, who apportions it according to the skill and experience of the several workmen; he also sees that the documents on the several files are kept together, and distinct from others, and that there is no separation of documents which come into his hands in a connected state. He directs also, in the main, what repairs shall be done, and the mode in which they are to be done; he, in fact, superintends the whole of this department, referring to me for instructions, and making a weekly report of the progress of each workman.

When the Documents are returned to him by the workmen, it is his business to select those which are complete, and fit to be covered, described, and put away, and to hand them over to the clerks.

Those which are imperfect (of which there has been a great accumulation constantly going on from the beginning) he keeps in some kind of distribution which he understands, in reigns and classes, that, when other fragments present themselves, he can discover with ease whether they connect with portions already in his hands. Documents are continually being made complete by the union of fragmentary pieces, sometimes after the lapse of years. Since the Documents in the Stone Tower were delivered over to me, in November last, many Documents thus reserved have been made complete by fragments discovered among them.

In this part of the operation, in all cases of the least difficulty, reference is made to me; and, in respect of some classes of documents, I have taken upon myself the whole of this duty, with the assistance of the clerks. The restoring the broken files of Inquisitions has been done wholly by me.

There is thus a constant reduction as well as accumulation of the fragmentary matter going on; but at last it is evident that there will remain to be described, as fragments, many valuable pieces, the portions to which they belonged being irrecoverably lost. But, till the whole mass has been examined, to how much this will amount cannot be determined.

In the early stages of these operations, some Documents that were imperfect, wanting one, two, three, or more Membranes, have been described, covered, entitled, and put away; and Membranes which ought to have been united have been put away as separate Rolls. There is an inconvenience in this, which I very early perceived; and my orders now are, that no Document shall be described, covered, and put away, which on the face of it is incomplete, or not as complete as we can ever hope to make it. Of course, there may sometimes be an exception, for special reasons, as in the case of the Nonæ Rolls, where I have had everything described that could be found, whether complete or fragmentary.

The documents which are complete are transferred by the foreman to the clerks, by whom descriptions of them are prepared. These descriptions contain an account of the form, size, and shape of the Document, and (of late) the state in which it was found, and the repair which it has required; together with an ample account of its nature, which is sometimes sufficiently indicated by the heading or title originally given to the Roll, which in such cases is copied entire, or omitting mere words of form. The class and date are also noticed upon it; a number corresponding with a number on the Document is given; and, finally, when the Document is placed in a box, the mark of the box is added; so that we know at once the box in which each Document is placed. These descriptions all undergo revisal, by me, with the Documents themselves, when difficulties are removed, the date of undated Instruments determined when practicable; and I have generally placed upon the slips my reasons for the date assigned, and sometimes other remarks, intended to be useful hereafter in the digest that is to be made. It is however found that, in this stage of the operations, the difficulties are sometimes insuperable; and it is only when I proceed to the arrangement, and can compare them with other Documents of the same kind that some of the difficulties disappear. But the whole of this, the nicer part of the operation, requires still rectification, and will receive it when the calendar is formed; when also the Rolls themselves will be distributed, according to the distribution of the descriptions, as is already the case with respect to the Documents classed under the general title of Subsidy Rolls.

When the Documents are described, it is determined in what form they shall be put away, whether as Rolls or as Flat Documents: the Books and Pouches, of course, remain as they are. Those which are to be put away as Rolls are returned to the workmen, for the purpose of having covers and tapes sewn to them, and are then returned to the clerks to be entitled, numbered, and deposited in the proper boxes. Those which are put up as Flat Documents are numbered, placed in reigns, and reserved till those which belong to a reign or to a class are sufficiently numerous to form a packet of a suitable size, in which they are placed; but only temporarily, with a view to their being hereafter placed in portfolios or other receptacles, made conformable to their size and number in each particular class or series.

The slips containing the descriptions, are arranged in the first instance only in reigns; and when there is a sufficient number of them accumulated, and time for the purpose, they are placed in the class or series to which they belong, according to chronological order, preparatory to the abstract to be made of them in the proposed calendar.

The General Analysis which I presented to the Master of the Rolls, in 1839, and which is printed in the Appendix to your First Report, pp. 123 to 129, contains a view of the leading features of the distribution which I make of these Documents; and subsequent discoveries have led me to no further change in this department than to some modification of the subordinate heads.

I have, &c.,

COMMON PLEAS.

INVENTORIES of the RECORDS of the COURT of COMMON PLEAS deposited in the division of the Carlton Ride, heretofore considered as the Treasury of the Court.

INVENTORY OF COMMON ROLLS, for the Reign of Henry VIII.

These rolls are endorsed, in early times, "Placita Communia;" they have been styled "Personal Plea Rolls," "Issue Rolls" and "Judgment Rolls." "Issue Rolls," because the litigant parties join issue; and "Judgment Rolls," because, in many cases, the judgment is entered on the roll. Until the 25th Eliz., the "Placita Communia" are intermingled with the "Placita Terræ," which latter consist of judgments in all real actions, including common recoveries, which constitute the greater portion of the entries; of enrolments of bargains and sales, and other conveyances; of deeds to make tenants to præcipes, and to lead the uses of fines; of payments of king's silver, &c. If, in addition to the obvious reasons which must suggest themselves, of the propriety of obtaining a correct inventory of these rolls, any precedents should be required, they may be found in abundance, as matters of record, on the rolls themselves. In several places of the roll 15 Hen. VIII., East., very specific memoranda of the incompleteness in the numbering of the roll are recorded. Similar memoranda are entered as respects the order of the numbering on Michaelmas in the same year; other instances occur on 29 Trin., and 36 East. Hen. VIII. It would appear, from 37 Hen. VIII., Mich., that the numbering of the roll was influenced by the appointment of the Chief Justice. The following note is written on the third part of Trin. 1652:—"Rolles bound or lost the third part of Trinity, 1652;" and then, under the head of each prothonotary, viz., Cory, Pynsent, and Farmer, the various membranes which are missing are entered, and found to be so. These facts, then, seem to be conclusive of the importance which was attached to these matters at the period when the rolls were compiled, and to warrant the details into which this inventory enters. It was impracticable, in the following inventory, to distinguish the "King's Silver" entries, as a distinct class, when they are enrolled among the "Placita Communia." The numbers under the "King's Silver" head represent only those membranes which are entirely occupied with that class of Records. Some other membranes probably have "King's Silver" entries which have not been observed. (See Appendix to First Report of Deputy Keeper, p. 45.) All these rolls have been dusted, flattened, repaired only where indispensably necessary, and placed in a leather cover, with a ticket outside and inside, and such other operations performed as are entered in the column of observations. The total number of rolls in this reign is 151—consisting of 102,566 membranes. The formula being given, the compilation of this inventory has been the work of Mr. Charles Cole.

COMMON PLEAS.

INVENTORY of BOOKS, called "RECOVERY INDEXES."

From 22 Hen. VII., 1507, to 60 Geo. III., 1820.

THESE Books give all the important particulars of the Recoveries themselves, and in most cases are consulted in preference to them. Authenticated copies are very often taken. They are rather Abstracts than Indexes, and preserve the order of terms: the counties in which the parcels are situate following indiscriminately, until the 4 Anne, when the parcels in each county are classed together. The names of the plaintiff, deforciant and vouchee, and of all the parcels, are given. The entries are in Latin until Hilary, 6 Geo. II.

The earliest Volume is lettered A.D., Michis xxii Hen. VII., 1507, ad Pasch' xxii Hen. VIII., 1531.

Cartæ, 20 Hen. VII. to 31 Hen. VIII.

Recuperationes, 22 Hen. VII. to 22 Hen. VIII.

Most of the pages before 33 are filled with official memoranda, the most important of which are the following:—"Nomina Officiariorum et quot rot' quilibet Officiarii occupant. Et valor eorumdem. p. 1. Feoda pertinentia officio clerici Warrant', et Extract' de Communi Banco. 2. Feoda Justic̃ de ambobus locis ap̃ Westm. 4. Precedents de Irrotulamentis, 6. "Certen ordinances made in the tyme of Sir John P'sott, Chef Justice of the Commen Place, touchyng the Officers there, 35 Hen. 6. p. 8. "Certen Ordinances," 23 Hen. 7. p. 9. "An order sett downe concerning the processe ad faciend̃ homagium et fidelitatem, or ad faciend̃ fidelitatem goinge out of the Treasorer's Remembraunces Office in Thexchequer, and about the issues, Fees, Fynes and pleadings thereupon," 13 Eliz. p. 13. "An order made the 14 James I., concernyng Fynes to be sued out by attornyes," p. 15.

INVENTORY OF "INDEXES" TO DEEDS ENROLLED IN THE COMMON PLEAS, CALLED "DEED INDEXES."

From 20 Hen. 7, 1505, to 43 Geo. 3, 1803.

20 Hen. 7, to 31 Hen. 8, are in Vol. A. of Recovery Indexes. Unless another volume should be found, it would appear that the "Index," from 31 Hen. 8, to 1 and 2 Phil. and Mary, is deficient. These books, like the so-called Recovery "Indexes," are rather calendars or abridgments. The entries are made in chronological order, according to terms—the counties following indiscriminately until the end of the series. The portion of the "Index," from 1803 to 1822, being in the same volume with the portion after 1822, is at present at the Master's Office in Sergeant's Inn. The nature of the entries is shown by the following :—

Oxon. Indentura inter Rogerum Duke generosum ex t̃c Et Willielmum Rysley ex t̃c de Manerio de Newton Pursell cum pertinentiis in Comitatu Oxoniæ. The next entry is—

Nott' Relaxacio inter Willielmum Waryng generosum ex t̃c., Et Willielmum Dygby et alios ex t̃c de diversis terris et tenementis cum pertinentiis in Corstock Bunney et Wise in Comitatu Nottingham.'

The entries are made in Latin until 8 George 2, Easter, when and henceforth they are in English, thus :—

Dors'. Indent' 3 partite Between John Tapper, gent., of y^e^ 1 part; Robert Atkinson, gent., of y^e^ 2^d^ part; and John Willis, gent., of y^e^ 3^rd^ part, concerning lands and tenements in severall parishes of Keinton Magna, Iwerne Courtney, and Iwerne Minster, roll 1^st^.

Every case which has arisen, has proved the "Index" to be correct; and I am of opinion that these abridgments are quite fit to be printed with an alphabetical Index to each volume, and that the printing would be the source of many fees.

Vol. lettered.	Regnal Period.	A. D.	No. of Leaves.	Observations.
O	1 and 2 Pasch. Phil. and Mary, to 5 Hil. Car. 1.	1555 to 1629	352	Apparently imperfect; leaves numbered, re-lettered, edges flattened; pages 138 and 139 repaired; 136 and 137 blank.
P	6 East. Car. 1, 4 Hil. Geo. 1.	1630 to 1717	230	Perfect; leaves numbered, edges flattened and repaired, re-lettered.
Q	4 East. Geo. 1, 6 East. Geo. 3.	1718 to 1766	215	Perfect; leaves numbered, re-lettered.

Appendix II.

4. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office, of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, at the Rolls House.

4.—INVENTORIES of the BOOKS of the PELL OFFICE of the late RECEIPT of the EXCHEQUER, now at the ROLLS HOUSE.

I.—Recepta, or the Pell of Receipt.

(i.) The RECEIPT BOOKS, or Books of the Pellis Receptorum of the Clerk of the Pells, from 1559 to 1834; including Breviates thereof, from 1560 to 1602.

(ii.) BREVIATES of the Receipts, or Abbreviationes Pellis Receptorum, in separate Books, from 1573 to 1577, and from 1602 to 1642-3.

II.—Exitus, or the Pell of Issue.

(i.) The ISSUE BOOKS, or Books of the Pellis Exitûs of the Clerk of the Pells, from 1597 to 1834.

(ii.) POSTING BOOKS, or BREVIATES of the Issues, digested under heads, from 1597 to 1627-8.

 Note. The last named books are not included in the Inventories here printed, not being yet described.

I. (i.)—Receipt Books.

I. (i.)—The RECEIPT BOOKS, or Books of the Pellis Receptorum, of the Clerk of the Pells.

Nature and Use of these Books.—They contain copies of all the Tellers' Bills, as thrown down by them upon the table of the Tally Court, on the payment of revenues into the Exchequer; stating the county or place from which the revenue arose, the name of the Accountant rendering the same, the amount in Roman numerals, and the name of the Teller to whose hands the money was paid. Those Bills were entered in their successive order; a fresh page being begun every day, headed with the days of the week and month. Each book contains the account of one half-year, or term of the Court of Receipt; one of which was called the Easter Term, beginning on and from Easter-day, and ending on the 28th of September; and the other the Michaelmas Term, beginning on and from the feast of Saint Michael, and ending on Easter Eve. From these Books were ingrossed the Rolls, which anciently were written at once from the Tellers' Bills, or perhaps from the Tallies before Tellers' Bills were invented: for both the Bill and the Tally must be inscribed with the very words of the entry in the Pell or Roll. Hence the Books are the draughts or duplicates of the Rolls themselves; and in default or absence of the Roll, which is the proper Record of the Court of Receipt, the Book serves authoritatively as the Pell. The Rolls of Receipts begin early in the thirteenth century; the oldest that is now extant bearing date 4 Hen. III., (1220). They continue, in an almost perfect series, from the beginning of the first Edward's reign, to the year 1782; since which time the inrolling of the Receipts has been discontinued: consequently these Books are the only Records of the Income of the Exchequer, from Easter 1782, to 10 October 1834, when the Pell Office, with all the ancient course of the Exchequer of Receipt, was abolished, and the duties of the Clerk of the Pells, and of the Auditor, were transferred, with the records and documents of their respective offices, to the Comptroller General of the Receipt of the Exchequer, established by Statute 4 and 5 Will. IV., c. 15. Not only are these Books more convenient for use than the Rolls, (which are very bulky and heavy in the modern period,) but the Indexes, with which they are severally furnished (with few exceptions) from the year 1641, add to their usefulness, and to the ease with which the contents of these records may be searched and perused.

Period and State of Completeness.—The Receipt Books begin in the first year of Queen Elizabeth, but not in the first term of her reign: for there are none for the terms of Michaelmas 1558-9, (which began in the 5th and 6th of Philip and Mary,) and Easter, 1559; and it is probable that the practice of entering the Recepta into a book, before the ingrossing of the roll, began at Michaelmas 1559, which is the date of the earliest volume. From that time to the year 1646, there are sixteen Books wanting, as appears by the subjoined list, and the Rolls for six of these half years are lost. The Inventory will show how these deficiencies may be supplied, by evidence of any other kind.

With the exception therefore of 16 books, and of April, May, and June, in Easter term, 1646, (if any Receipts were recorded within that time,) the series of Receipt Books is perfect to the time of the surrender of Oxford, whither the Receipt of the Exchequer had been removed by Charles I., soon after the breaking out of the civil war. For, by a Proclamation, dated on the 8th of February, 18 Car. I., (1643) and issued with writs on the 10th, orders were given "for the payment of his Majesty's rentes and revenues into his Receipt of his Exchequer at his cittie of Oxford;" and a farther Proclamation was made and issued on the 23d and 27th of February, 1643, for the speedy payment of customs and other duties on merchandize into the Receipt there.* The first entry in the Oxford Book of Michaelmas, 18 Car. I., is dated 11 February 1642-3. From the flight of the officers of the Receipt to Oxford, until the Protectorate, the national finances at Westminster were managed by Committees of Parliament. Oliver, however, soon after he was made Protector, re-established the Receipt of the Exchequer, constituting Denis Bond, esquire, Clerk of the Pells, by Letters Patent, dated 21 August, 1654; and the Records of the Pells were resumed at Michaelmas, 1654: from which time to October 1834, there are only the two undermentioned Receipt Books missing, and in both cases the corresponding Rolls are extant:—

Language.—All these books are in Latin, excepting the period from 1654 to June 1660, when by the laws then in force they were necessarily in English. The effect of the general enactment in 1730, requiring that all records of the Courts at Westminster should be in English, (Stat. 4 Geo. II., c. 26,) was restricted, as to the Receipt of the Exchequer, by an Act passed soon after, (Stat. 6 Geo. II. c. 6), which continued the use of Latin in these records; and they were constantly made up in Latin, to the very abolition of the system, in 1834.

General Description and Condition.—These books are in folio, at first of a small size, but gradually increasing in the size of the paper, till they become large volumes. The regular official binding was always in parchment, at first without boards: from the time of the Protectorate they were put into stronger binding. The practice of indorsing (and sometimes that of inscribing) the title and date of each book, and the use of green silk strings, have prevailed from the first to the last: but the older books have commonly lost some or all of their strings. The volumes dated from Easter term 1625 to Easter term 1667, inclusively, were rebound while these records were deposited at the Comptroller's Office in Whitehall Yard; they now stand in 27 large folio volumes, each lettered "Receipt Book," with the date of their respective years. Judging from the condition of the rest, and the destruction of their old inscribed covers, the rebinding appears to have been rather injudicious than otherwise. For the most part their condition is internally sound and good: the observations made upon the several books will show wherever any defect occurs, or any repairs are wanted. In general it may be said that the volumes preceding those which have been already rebound, need to be bound more than they could have done: the later need nothing more than some few occasional repairs, such as the sewing of them again, and the fixing of them more strongly in their covers.

Arrangement.—The Books of the Pell Office, though for the most part arranged in their principal classes at the Comptroller's Office, were mixed up together, with little or no regard to their several series, in the MS. Catalogue made under Sir John Newport's direction, of which a copy has been made accessible to the public at the British Museum: nor was the chronological order of the books accurately observed in their local or descriptive arrangement. It became necessary therefore to make an entirely new arrangement and numbering; and, by constructing the inventory in the form of a calendar, wherein every half-yearly term of the whole period is shown, these Books were reduced into strict order of time, and took their proper numbers accordingly. The deficiencies also appear at once. The volumes being ticketed, both on the back and within the cover, with printed labels or tickets, containing the whole entry of the calendar part of the Inventory, every book can be found and identified in a moment; and, by means of the numbers, the safety and arrangement of the whole series are effectually secured.

There are some odd volumes of separate Recepta, put together at the end of the series, No. 571—574. They seem to show that there ought to be many more books of the same kind extant: but no light can at present be thrown on their fate.

* Docquets of Letters Patent, &c. of Charles I., at Oxford, (8vo., not yet published,) pp. 5, 6, 11.

(i.)—INVENTORY of the RECEIPT BOOKS, or Books of the Pellis Receptorum, of the Clerk of the Pells.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
1	1559—60	1 & 2 Eliz.	Mich.	ff. 132	Headed, "Rec^ta. Termino Michaelis anno primo Elizabeth. R^ne. incipient. [altered to finient.] et anno secundo finient. [altered to incipient.] Anno Domini 1559. examinatur." (The words in italics are by a less ancient hand.) This is a small folio volume, much more cut down by the binder than the others; having unboarded covers of parchment, now in very ill condition, so that the book cannot be kept clean or free from decay; and thus indorsed in large letters, "M.—I° et II°." The cover is dated "1559," in very large figures. This book wants the Abbreviatio, which is found in the succeeding volumes, down to 1602, having evidently been bound up separately. The leaves were not originally numbered, but now are foliated with pencil.
2	1560	2 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	Headed "Recepta de termino Pasche anno secundo Regine Elizabet. 1560." A folio volume, in unboarded parchment covers, which are in bad condition; but the book is sound, except the three last leaves, which require mending. It is indorsed "P.—II°." and inscribed on the hinder cover "1560." The latter part of this volume contains a brief digest of the Receipts, classed under heads, which has the following general heading: "Abbreviatio Rete Scaccarij domine Rne de termino Pasche A° RRne Elizabet. secundo, prout per intraciones Rotuli de eodem termino plenius liquet."
3	1560—1	2 & 3 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	A similar volume, in better condition; with the Abbreviatio.
4	1561	3 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. The covers are torn.
5	1561—2	3 & 4 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio; but a thicker volume. The title (as also in No. 7, 9, 11, 13, 14, 15, &c.) is more ample than in the foregoing; thus, "Recepta Scaccarij de termino Sancti Michaelis anno RR^ne Elizabet. iij^cio finient. et anno iiij^to incipient. prout in Pelle eodem verbatim continetur." To which is added, in the margin, "Roberto Hare Clerico Domini Thes. existent. 1560." In sound condition, but the covers much worn.
6	1562	4 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like; in good condition. The Abbreviatio is bound up with this volume; yet there is a duplicate of it in the separate series of those books.
7	1562—3	4 & 5 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers torn. The heading resembles No. 5.
8	1563	5 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers bad.
9	1563—4	5 & 6 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers torn.
10	1564	6 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers in better condition, but loose.
11	1564—5	6 & 7 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In better condition.
12	1565	7 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Some leaves are loose.
13	1565—6	7 & 8 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover torn.
14	1566	8 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover worn.
15	1566—7	8 & 9 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In sound condition. Somewhat larger than the foregoing books, all which (and some that follow) have evidently been cut down in binding, so that some of the headings are cropped.
16	1567	9 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers torn.
17	1567—8	9 & 10 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Somewhat stained with damp, and the covers loose and much decayed.
18	1568	10 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like. Covers torn. Two copies of the Abbreviatio, both headed alike, are bound up in this thick volume.
19	1568—9	10 & 11 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers torn.
20	1569	11 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover loose.
21	1569—70	11 & 12 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover loose and decayed.
22	1570	12 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover decayed.
23	1570—1	12 & 13 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. The covers are loose and much decayed, and the six first leaves (beside fly-leaves) mutilated, most part of the heading itself being lost.
24	1571	13 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Covers torn. The sum total of the Receipt is subscribed "per me Chidiocum Wardoure, Clericum Do: Thes." and the title of the Abbreviatio, (which had evidently been bound before as a separate book,) is subscribed in a similar manner.
25	1571—2	13 & 14 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, but a thicker volume; with Abbreviatio. The headings are ingrossed, and the whole style improved, by Chidiock Wardoure, now Clerk of the Pells. This book has been much damaged at the beginning by vermin; part of the title, and of many leaves, has been gnawed away.
26	1572	14 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover loose and damaged.
27	1572—3	14 & 15 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio; the title of which is not filled up. Damaged by vermin at the beginning, and the cover loose, but having strings.
*	1573	15 Eliz.	Easter	..	Wanting; but the Abbreviatio is extant, in a separate book. The note, at Mich. 1576–7 below, is, probably, applicable to this and all the intervening terms.
*	1573—4	15 & 16 Eliz.	Mich.	..	Wanting; but the Abbreviatio is extant, in a separate book.
*	1574	16 Eliz.	Easter	..	Wanting; but the Roll is extant, though not the Abbreviatio.
*	1574—5	16 & 17 Eliz.	Mich.	..	Wanting. The Abbreviatio is also wanting, and the Pell or Roll also; but the Rolls of all the other terms of this period, for which the Books are wanting, are extant. Happily, one of the AUDITOR'S Recepta supplies this defect; there being extant, among the books saved from the Vault at Somerset House, the following books for this period. Easter 1573, Mich. 1573–4, Mich. 1574–5, Mich. 1575–6, and Easter 1576; but those of Easter 1574, Easter 1575, and Mich. 1576–7, are wanting. (See the Second Report, App. II., pp. 237–8.)
*	1575	17 Eliz.	Easter	..	Wanting; but the Abbreviatio is extant, in a separate book.
*	1575—6	17 & 18 Eliz.	Mich.	..	Wanting; but the Abbreviatio is extant, in a separate book.
*	1576	18 Eliz.	Easter	..	Wanting; but the Abbreviatio is extant, in a separate book, intitled only thus: "Receptæ Elizabeth R^ne anno decimo octavo. Pasche decimo octavo. xviij°."

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
*	1576—7	18 & 19 Eliz.	Mich.	..	Wanting; but the Abbreviatio is extant, in a separate book, intitled "Abbreviatio Recepte Scaccarij," &c., over which is written this contemporary note: "M^d^ that there was no paper booke presedent to the Pell Rowle of this Terme."
28	1577	19 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	A like volume (as No. 27), with Abbreviatio, which has no heading. The covers are in bad condition.
29	1577—8	19 & 20 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio, which has no heading. The title of the Recepta is subscribed (as usually) "Wardoure," and has this note at the side, being the first instance of the kind: "Tempore Will'mi Domini Burghley Thesaur. Angl. existent. Rotul." The last word is equivalent to irrotulatur.
30	1578	20 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Against the title of the Recepta is this note, "Record." (i.e. Recordatur). The cover is torn.
31	1578—9	20 & 21 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. The title is noted "Record." The lower corners of many leaves, at the beginning, have been gnawed away. It has strings.
32	1579	21 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Irrotulatur" at the beginning of the book. Many of the leaves need smoothing, the covers of these books being too frail to keep the leaves secure.
33	1579—80	21 & 22 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio, which has no title. Marked "Rotulatur." Covers torn in pieces.
34	1580	22 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio, which improperly stands first. In the rebinding of this volume the two parts ought to be placed in their right order. The title of the Recepta is marked "Irrotulatur."
35	1580—1	22 & 23 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Record." at the beginning. Cover loose.
36	1581	23 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like; in bad condition; the two first leaves being torn and the heading lost; the cover loose, and the date partly torn away, thus, 158... But the heading of the Abbreviatio shows the date; and the indorsement is "P.—XXIIJ°." It is marked "Irrotulatur" at the beginning.
37	1581—2	23 & 24 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Beside the heading (which contains the name of the Lord Treasurer Burghley, and the Clerk of the Pells) there is the full date written, by way of a title, on the first blank leaf. Cover loose and torn.
38	1582	24 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover loose, and the book stained toward the end.
39	1582—3	24 & 25 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover decayed.
40	1583	25 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover loose. There is a full date on one of the fly-leaves, as well as the heading, which is marked "Irrotulatur."
41	1583—4	25 & 26 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover and fly leaves are torn, and the two parts are almost asunder. The title is subscribed "Irotulatur et Ex^r^."
42	1584	26 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover in bad condition. The title is subscribed "Record."
43	1584—5	26 & 27 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover bad. Title marked "Irrotulatur."
44	1585	27 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In moderate condition.
45	1585—6	27 & 28 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover decayed, and corners of some leaves gnawed. This book, and all that follow, (except No. 47) have a full title or heading prefixed.
46	1586	28 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. The book and covers are much decayed.
47	1586—7	28 & 29 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In very bad condition, without covers. The first leaf is lost, and all the beginning of the volume is wretchedly decayed and tattered; but the true date appears in the heading of the Abbreviatio.
48	1587	29 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Title marked "Irrotulatur." Covers in bad state.
49	1587—8	29 & 30 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Title marked "Irr." Wormed at the end.
50	1588	30 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Title marked "Irr." In good condition.
51	1588—9	30 & 31 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Moderate condition.

54	1590	32 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Irr." The blank leaves have been torn out at both ends, leaving the extreme pages dirty.
55	1590—1	32 & 33 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Irr." Cover loose.
56	1591	33 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Irr." Cover decayed.

58	1592	34 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Irr." Cover damaged. This book was found in the Vault at Somerset House, and is described in the Catalogue of the Books brought from the Vault, in Second Report, App. II., p. 204.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
64	1595—6	37 & 38 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Cover loose; but otherwise all in sound condition.
65	1596	38 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. Marked "Irr." at the heading. The last page is stuck down upon the cover, and damaged. On the first fly-leaf is an entry of a Receipt, dated "Pasche, xix° Maij, A°. xxxiiij^to." Temporary or cancelled entries of Recepta frequently occur on the spare leaves of these books.
66	1596—7	38 & 39 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In sound condition.
67	1597	39 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In sound condition. On the last blank page is an entry of an Issue to one of the Maids of Honour, dated 6 Oct. This is the first entry of the kind that has appeared; and the restoration of the Pell of Issue took place only in the next following term.
68	1597—8	39 & 40 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In sound condition. At the end are two memoranda "to mend the record." In addition to the date on the cover, (and its usual indorsement, "M.—XXXIX°. and XL°.,") this book is inscribed with its title in large letters, thus, "Recepta 1597;" to distinguish it from the Book of Exitus of this term. In like manner all the following books, to No. 76 inclusively, and No. 78, are inscribed on the cover, beside the usual indorsement.
69	1598	40 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like; in good condition, but the cover is loose. This is the first book in which the Abbreviatio has, at the end, a list of the titles or headings under which the entries are posted, with the sum of each, and a sum total cast up at the foot; the headings, also, are all numbered for reference.
70	1598—9	40 & 41 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In good condition.
71	1599	41 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In good condition, with its green strings perfect. This is the first which has its heading all ingrossed.

73	1600	42 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio, of which the first leaf is loose. Inscribed and indorsed upside down.
74	1600—1	42 & 43 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In sound condition.
75	1601	43 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In good condition, but the edges of the first leaves are slightly damaged.
76	1601—2	43 & 44 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, with Abbreviatio. In sound condition. The heading is marked "Irr^tur" in this and the two next books.
77	1602	44 Eliz.	Easter	ff. 7—212.	A like volume, but bound in boarded parchment, which is much decayed and torn. The cover is thus indorsed,—"Recept. Pasche anno xliiij^to RR^ne Elizabeth. 1602." This book is foliated by an ancient hand. Of the first six leaves, only ff. 3, 5, 6, remain, which are blank, except miscellaneous notes on f. 5^b. The last leaf (f. 212) contains cancelled entries, under date of 5 July, 1602; and at the foot of f. 211^b is this note:—"M^d the following Receipts of this half yeare are entered in a little booke intituled, ij^da pars Pasche anno xliiij^to RR^ne Eliz. 1602. et Michaelis prima pars RR. Jacobi." (That book is No. 79.) The Breviate of this term is in a separate book, now placed in the series of Abbreviationes Pellis Recept., No. 8.
78	1602—3	44 & 45 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	A like volume to No. 68—76, and the last that is so inscribed on the cover. It is also (excepting part of No. 79) the last that has an Abbreviatio bound up with it. At the end of the Recepta, the sum total of the last week is thus expressed:—"Summa totalis Recept. a xix° Martij usque xxiiij Martij sequen. 1602. quo die domina nostra Elizabeth Regina obijt apud Richmond in com. Surr. inter horas secundam et tertiam in aurora. Dccciiij^xx. li. xiiij. d. ex^r." The remainder of this half-year, viz., so much of it as was in the first year of James I., is in the next book.
79	1602 / 1603	44 Eliz. / 1 Jac. 1	Easter / Mich.	ff. 3—36^b / ff. 47—59^b	5 July to 28 Sept. 1602. / 25 Mar. to 23 Apr. 1603. This book is a thin folio, consisting of 78 leaves (numbered with pencil) bound in unboarded parchment, and inscribed "2^da Pars," &c., as referred to in No. 77. It contains supplements to the two foregoing books, and a Breviate of the latter supplement thus headed,—"Abbreviatio Recept. de termino Michaelis anno primo regni Regis Jacobi. 1603." (ff. 65—75^b.) In moderate condition; no indorsement.
80	1603	1 Jac. 1	Easter	ff. 159	A folio volume, bound in unboarded parchment, indorsed "P." and "I°.," and inscribed thus on the cover,—"Pasche anno primo RR. Jacobi. 1603." It is not so thick as the others, not having any Breviate bound with it; nor is there a separate one extant. Foliated by an ancient hand; and thus marked at the heading,—"Irr^tur per I. P."
81	1603—4	1 & 2 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	As the foregoing book; only it is not indorsed, but is inscribed thus on the cover,—"Recept. Michaelis anno primo RR. Jacobi. 1603." The last six leaves contain the entries of Recepta, of 12—20 April, 1604, part of the next term; which are cancelled, the leaves being torn across the middle. In moderate condition.
*	1604	2 Jac. 1	Easter	..	Wanting, and the Abbreviatio likewise: but the Roll is extant; and so is the Auditor's Receipt Book, No. 55, for this term. See the foregoing note.
82	1604—5	2 & 3 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	A like volume, inscribed in like manner, and indorsed and marked "Irr^tur." as the others. The last leaf contains entries of Recepta, dated 1 Aug. 1604, 24 Dec. 1605. In good condition.
83	1605	3 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; inscribed on the cover. In good condition.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
89	1608	6 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; in good condition, except that the linings of the covers, which contain memoranda, are torn. This book and the next are marked "Irrotulatur" at the title; others are marked "Irr^tur," sometimes adding the initials of the inrolling clerk.
90	1608—9	6 & 7 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like; cover loose.
91	1609	7 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; in good condition. Opposite to the heading is a Latin note, that the Lord Treasurer Dorset died sitting in the Star Chamber, 19 April, 1609. The heading contains the name of his successor, Robert Earl of Salisbury, together with those of Sir Julius Cæsar, Chancellor and Under-Treasurer of the Exchequer, and Chidioc Wardoure, Clerk of the Pells, as usually. The first entry in the book is dated the same day.
92	1609—10	7 & 8 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like; in good condition, but the cover damaged at one corner.

95	1612	10 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; in bad condition, being damaged by damp throughout, and the covers loose. There is a Latin note against the heading, stating that the Lord Treasurer Salisbury died 24 May, 1612.
96	1612—13	10 & 11 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like; in good condition, but two spare leaves at the end (one containing memoranda, which commonly occur at the beginning and end of the books of this time,) are loose. The headings of this and the two next books do not contain the names of the Treasurer and Under-Treasurer, which are usually recorded in them.
97	1613	11 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; the covers are loose.
98	1613—14	11 & 12 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like. The fly-leaves at the beginning contain many memoranda, for the most part cancelled. At the end are two entries of Issues, made in Aug. and Sept. 1633.

					 So far at Westminster: the following books (No. 152—156)) were written at Oxford, whither King Charles removed the Receipt of the Exchequer, by Proclamation, dated 8 Feb. 1643.

It contains also the "Abreviatio," and Index, in its unpaged part. Its old cover having been lately found, the inscribed portions are inserted on a leaf of paper: it was indorsed "XIX.—M." and on the cover "Receipts, 1643."
154	1644	20 Car. 1	Easter	pp. 1—37	From 27 April to 21 Sept. 1644, inclusively; with the Abbreviatio and Index following. A thin paper book, in small folio, in a decayed cover of parchment, thus obscurely indorsed, "P. 1644. XX." It is in a wretchedly rotten and worm-eaten state, and would require much trouble and skill to be restored to a useful condition: it ought to have been mended and bound up with the foregoing and following books.

					 Henceforth, as a general remark, it may be stated, that all the following books (except the two last volumes) are indorsed in the manner before described, but are not intitled on the cover other than sometimes with the date; that the word Irrotulatur occurs, at first on the cover, then on the back with the other indorsement, down to No. 392 (Mich. 1775–76) inclusively, with few exceptions, which word occurs also at the beginning and end of No. 244–249; and that the Index is always at the end of the book, (not at the beginning as heretofore,) to the conclusion of the series. No. 267 (Mich. 1712–13) appears to be the latest that contains a list of the Assignations by Tallies, prefixed to the Index. They are all distinctly and fully headed, with the title and date of the book, and the names of the officers of the Exchequer.

Appendix II.

4, Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office, of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, Rolls House.
I. (ii.)—Breviates of the Receipts.

I. (ii.)—Breviates of the Receipts, or Abbreviationes Pellis Receptorum, in separate Books.

Nature and Use of these Books.—These Books contain abridged entries of all payments of revenues into the Exchequer, very briefly extracted out of the Receipt Book; stating (1) the county or place; (2) the nature of the payment, the Accountant's name (which is sometimes omitted), and the date; also (3) the sum, and the initial of the Teller's name who received it. All the entries are posted under heads, denoting the several branches of revenue. The general and particular headings of the last book of Queen Elizabeth's time will serve best to explain their construction:—

The book ends with a general summary, headed "Summa cujuslibet nature Abbreviationis Recept. de isto termino Pasche, anno regni Regine Eliz. quadragesimo quarto;" containing the numbers and abridgements of the several headings, and their respective sums total (distinguishing those with the word nil, or a cypher, where nothing was received), and giving the aggregate total of the half-year's income, which then amounted to 360,409*l.* 14*s.* 3½*d.*

Upon comparing the Auditor's Receipt Book for the same term,* it appears that the headings, there used to distinguish the several branches of the revenue, are neither in the same order, nor expressed in the same words. The Auditor's Books were, in all probability, made up from the Tellers' Accounts; for every book consists of four parts, each Teller's Receipts being arranged under a separate series of similar headings. The entries in those Books are full, as in the Pell itself; not abridged, as in these Breviates.

* No. 52, described in the Second Report of the Deputy Keeper, App. II., p. 239.

Period, and State of Completeness.—Before the year 1602, the Breviate was commonly bound up with the Receipt Book of the same term, as has been already shown in the Inventory of the Receipt Books. The earliest, that appears in a separate state, is a duplicate book of Easter term, 4 Eliz. 1562. (No. 1.) The next separate books are six, which occupy a period from Easter term, 1573, to Mich. term, 1576-7, inclusively, for which no Receipt Books are extant; one Breviate, however, of that time is wanting. From Easter, term, 1602 (the book of which the contents are described above), to Mich. term, 1642-3, these books were made up and bound separately from the Recepta, and constitute an imperfect series; about one-third of them being lost, as the following table will show:—

From Easter 1602, to Mich. 1642, inclusively, were terms	82
Books extant for that period	61
Total books wanting	21

It may be observed that these Breviates serve in the nature of a classed Index of matters to the Records of the Receipt or Income, whether in Books or in Rolls; and that for a period in which the Receipt Books are not indexed.

Language.—They are all in Latin.

General Description and Condition.—They are thin folio books, of the same size and kind of paper as the Receipt Books of the same time; and bound in parchment, with or without boards, in the same manner as those books. In the manner of inscribing or indorsing the title and date, they also correspond with those books. For the most part they are in sound internal condition; but some are decayed. They might be bound, two in a volume, with advantage, but they are readily consultable in their present state.

Arrangement.—They were formerly mixed up with and described among the Receipt Books, &c., but are now chronologically arranged as a distinct yet supplemental series.

No.	A. D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
1	1562	4 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	A paper book in small folio, much decayed, and damaged by damp and vermin. It is thus headed, (below the motto, Dominus custodiat introitum meum et exitum meum,) "Abbreviatio Re^te Scaccarij de termino Pasche, A° RR^ne Elizabet. quarto, prout in Rotulo Re^tm de eodem termino plenius liquet." It is indorsed, "Pasche Eliz. iiij°. iiij°.," and is inscribed with the same date, three times on each cover. There is a duplicate of this book bound up with the Receipt Book of the same term, No. 6; and similar Breviates are bound up with all the preceding numbers of that series except the first. (No. 1.)

2	1573	15 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	These books serve for a period of four years (Easter 1573, to Mich. 1576—7, inclusively), for which there are no Receipt Books. They exactly resemble the books in the place of which they have stood, in external appearance, except that they are only half so thick as the foregoing and following volumes. It is probable that no Receipt Book was made up for that period; for above the title of No. 7 is the following note, written by a contemporary hand: "M^d that there was no paper booke presedent to the Pell Rowle of this terme." Warrants also, relative to tallies of assignation, are entered on the fly-leaf of No. 3 (dated 10 Mar. 1574—5, 17 Eliz.), No. 4, and No. 6 (dated 24 May, 18 Eliz.); but that of No. 4 is now a mere fragment, the first 12 leaves being almost utterly destroyed by vermin. The condition of these books is indifferent: the covers are mostly decayed, and the first one has lost part of its cover with the date; but it is indorsed "P. XV°," and is fully dated in the heading of the Assignationes at the end. Neither No. 2 nor No. 4 has any general heading or title. The loss of the books of Easter 1574, and Mich. 1574—5, is to be deplored; especially by reason of the loss of the Pell or Roll, for the latter of those terms. See the note in the Inventory of Recepta for this period.

8	1602	44 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	A paper book in folio, bound in boarded parchment, which is (like that of the Receipt Book, No. 77, to which it belongs) in a torn and worn state. It is thus inscribed on the cover: "Pasche anno xliiij^to RR Elizabeth. 1602;" is headed, "Abbreviatio Recept." &c., and has a summary of the headings at the end.
*	1602—3	44 & 45 Eliz. & 1 Jac. 1	Mich.	. . .	Bound with the Receipt Book of this term.
*	1603	1 Jac. 1	Easter	. . .	Wanting. The Receipt Book, No. 80, has no Abbrevtatio; but there is one to the Supplement of this half-year at the end of No. 79.
9	1603—4	1 & 2 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	A folio volume, of less thickness than the Receipt Books, bound in unboarded parchment. The first five leaves have been much torn or gnawed, and part of the title is gone; but the cover (which is exceedingly decayed) bears traces of the following inscription: "Michaelis anno primo RR. Jacobi, 1603." The indorsement is not visible.
*	1604	2 Jac. 1	Easter	. . .	Wanting, as also the Receipt Book.
10	1604—5	2 & 3 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	A like volume, indorsed (in the manner of all these books) "M.—II°.," but the inscription on the cover is almost illegible, it being decayed. On a fly-leaf is an abstract of a lease of the manors of Farlington and Weighill, in Yorkshire, dated 27 June, 32 Eliz. These books have numerous memoranda on the fly-leaves and linings of the covers.
11	1605	3 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, indorsed, and thus inscribed on the cover, "Pasche anno tertio RR. Jacobi. 1605."
12	1605—6	3 & 4 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, and in like manner inscribed on the cover; in good condition.
13	1606	4 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, inscribed likewise; in good condition. None of the following books (except No. 67, 68) have any inscription on the cover.
14	1606—7	4 & 5 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in moderate condition.

16	1608	6 Jac. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition.

19	1609—10	7 & 8 Jac. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like: some leaves damaged by vermin, toward the end.
20	1610	8 Jac. I	Easter	unfol.	The like: the last leaf, containing some entries of Recepta, dated 24 Aug. is torn.
21	1610—11	8 Jac. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like: leaves very dirty in many places, and want smoothing. The Receipt Book, and Roll, of which this is an abridgement, are lost.

34	1622	20 Jac. I	Easter	ff. 85	The like as No. 31; in good condition, except that the first 12 leaves have been damaged by vermin. This book is foliated as far as "100" by the old hand; and has half as many more leaves blank, except three pages of calculations toward the end. An "Abbreviatio Titulorum," in English, written opposite to f. I a, serves as an Index to the book.
35	1622—3	20 & 21 Jac. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition. Opposite to the first page is a note of the death of Sir Fra. Egioke, one of the Tellers, 21 Nov. 1622, and the admission of John Brooke in his place.
36	1623	21 Jac. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, but a thinner book. It is in very bad condition; the first cover, and about half of the written leaves, having been partly gnawed away by vermin.
37	1623—4	21 & 22 Jac. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition. This book supplies the want of the Receipt Book, which is wanting.
38	1624	22 Jac. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, very dirty, and decayed within; it appears to have afforded a lodgment for rats. On the cover is written "Pasche, 1624." This book supplies the want of the Receipt Book, which is wanting.
39	1624—5	2 & 23 Jac. & 1 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, the cover and some leaves are loose.

50	1630—1	6 & 7 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like: good, but the cover damaged by a cut.

"a P. usque 3^tium Junij ——————35422. 19. 6." This relates to the sums received by Charles I. under the name of Compositions for Knighthood; beside the former sum, the whole amount received in this half-year (Easter, 1631) was 60,350*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.*, as appears under two headings in this book, "De finibus pro ordin. militar. non suscipiend." and "De Collectoribus composit. pro non suscipiend. ordinem militar."

*	1637—8	13 Car. I	Mich.	. . .	Wanting.
61	1638	13 & 14 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	A like volume, in moderate condition.
62	1638—9	14 & 15 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition.
63	1639	15 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition. At the end of this book is inserted a sheet of larger paper, containing some extracts from the Recepta of this and the two following terms, under this head:—"De Firmar. imposit. poundag. et incrementi custum. vin. saccar." Neither the Roll nor the Book of Recepta of this term is extant; this Book therefore supplies the deficiency.
64	1639—40	15 & 16 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition.
65	1640	16 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition.
66	1640—41	16 & 17 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition. At the beginning is a loose paper, containing four extracts of Recepta, without date, from John Clench, late sheriff of Suffolk; but both the Roll and the Book of Recepta are wanting.
*	1641	17 Car. I	Easter	. . .	Wanting.
*	1641—2	17 & 18 Car. I	Mich.	. . .
67	1642	18 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	A like volume, in good condition. Four-fifths are blank, and the book is, perhaps, unfinished; it is inscribed thus on the cover, "Pasche, 1642. A Breviate." The Receipt Book itself, for this term, is wanting, as also the Roll.
68	1642—3	18 & 19 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition; thus inscribed, "Mich'as, 1642. A Breviate, 1642." Evidently left unfinished (the greater portion being blank); the latest date is 6 Dec., except the following entry under the second heading:—"Farthing Tokens. Anglia. De prenobil. Henr. Domino Matrevor^{is}. 19 Jan, 1^{li}. Sa. (per 2 tall.)" The Clerk of the Pells went to Oxford in January, 1643, and no Breviates have been made since in a separate form; but see the Inventory of Receipt Books, No. 152—156.  A decayed leaf of a Breviate Book of the time of James I. or Charles I. (probably out of one of the lost volumes) now lies loose in the last volume, there being nothing to show its date.

4. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office, of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, Rolls House.

II. (i.)—The Issue Books, or Books of the Pellis Exitûs of the Clerk of the Pells.

Nature and Use of these Books.—They contain entries of all payments made at the Receipt of the Exchequer, and serve as duplicates, or rather as the draughts, of the Issue Rolls, since the final re-establishment of the Record of Expenditure, called the Pell of Issue. All payments being made either upon Debentures (which are grounded on Letters Patent), or upon Orders (which are grounded on Letters of Privy Seal); the entries consist of the whole tenor of the one, and of the substance of the other, respectively. They were set down in the same manner as the entries in the Receipt Books, day by day, as the several authorities for payment were presented; for no money could be paid by any Teller, until the Clerk of the Pells had testified the recording of the issue, by writing his recordatur, with the date of the entry in his Book or Roll, on the Debenture or Order by virtue whereof any payment was to be made.

They are, like the Receipt Books, furnished with Indexes from the time of the Commonwealth, and are thereby rendered doubly more consultable than the Rolls of Issue. Since the time when the ingrossing of the Issue Rolls ceased, they have become the principal Record or Pell itself; and therefore, from and after Easter term 1797, these Books are the only Records of the Expenditure of the Exchequer, which afford conclusive evidence of the Issues that were made in that period.

Period and State of Completeness.—There are not, and in all probability never were, any books corresponding with the ancient Issue Rolls, of which the latest now extant, (or that has been, since the end of Elizabeth's reign, known to be extant,*) is that of Easter term, 19 Edw. IV. An attempt to restore this Pell was made in the early part of Elizabeth's reign; but the Auditor of the Receipt appears to have succeeded in keeping up the jealous policy of Henry VII., by procuring the suppression of the Pell of Issues, until 1597. The Rolls extant, within that period, are only those of—

II. (i.)—The Issue Books, or Books of the Pellis Exitûs of the Clerk of the Pells.

Pell of Issue was fully re-established; and the Clerk of the Pells began, at Michaelmas, 1597, to record all the Issues, and all other matters connected therewith. He accordingly made the entries in paper books, like those wherein the Receipts were entered; from which the Pells or Rolls were from time to time ingrossed, until the ingrossing of the Rolls was discontinued, about the year 1800. The latest Issue Roll of the second series that is extant, is that of Easter term, 1797; from which time the Books cease to be inscribed Irrotulatur, nad become the Pell itself, as already shown.

From the beginning of the new series, to the surrender of Oxford, the books for the following terms alone are missing:—

Mich. 1618-19, and Easter 1619	2
Easter 1642	1
Easter 1644, to Easter 1646, including both terms	5
Total	8

From the middle of Mich. term 1642-3, when the Receipt of the Exchequer was removed to Oxford, to Mich. 1654, when Oliver re-established the office of Clerk of the Pells, there were no Issues recorded at Westminster. One book of Oliver's time, which contained both half-years, (accordingly to the custom under the Protectorate,) is lost; two more of that century, and five of the last century, are wanting; so that the whole number of deficient volumes is 16, as shown below:—

Language.—This is always Latin, excepting the period of the Protectorate, from Mich. 1654, to June 1660. It may be observed, that the Debentures were always (excepting that period) made out in Latin, but Orders were always in English. The Clerk of the Pells reduced the substance of the latter into a Latin entry, accordingly to his own judgment; and grotesque enough are the attempts to express modern matters of finance in semi-classical Latin, in the latest books. The old base Latin was fair enough in its way; but the corruptions of modern times are vicious without example, and often only to be understood by comparing the Order on which the payment was grounded.

General Description, and Condition.—The remarks made on the Receipt Books are partly applicable to these. The earliest of them, No. 1—94, have been rebound in 65 volumes, each being lettered "Issue Book," with the date. The old bindings were injudiciously stripped off and destroyed: some few, however, have been lately found, and their inscribed parts preserved and pasted into the volumes. The others are for the most part strongly bound in boarded parchment or vellum, are in excellent condition, and need very little repair; where this is wanting, a remark in the following Inventory points out its nature.

Arrangement.—They have not only been separated from other Pell Books, but reduced into strict chronological order, and regularly numbered, No. 1—453. Some Issue Books, of special natures, which occurred in the series, have been separated and placed at the end of the general series. These are distinguished into six smaller classes or series, and fully described at No. 454—482. There evidently ought to be more books of those kinds; but their loss it is perhaps impossible to account for, at this distance of time.

II. (i.)—INVENTORY of the ISSUE BOOKS, or Books of the Pellis Exitûs, of the Clerk of the Pells, from the re-establishment of the Pell of Issue, at Michaelmas, 39 Eliz., 1597, to the Abolition of the Pell Office, 10 October, 1834.

I.—GENERAL Series of Issue Books.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
1	1597—8	39 & 40 Eliz.	Mich.	ff. 187	Headed "Pellis Exitus de Termino Sancti Michaelis archangeli, anno RR^ne Eliz. xxxix^o finien. et xl^mo incipien. 1597. Willielmo Domino Burghley, Magno Thesaurario Anglie existen. Chidioco Wardoure armigero, Clerico Pellium." Fairly written on paper in a folio volume; discoloured and slightly damaged by damp, but now repaired, and bound with the next book. The leaves were numbered to 67 only, by the old hand. There are some vacant leaves (as usually) at each end.
2	1598	40 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like: bound with the foregoing; but the first six leaves (of which ff. 1, 2 are blank) have been thus disarranged by the binder: ff. 1, 4, 2, 3, 5, f. ult. (containing a waste entry of an Order), ff. 6, 7, &c.
3	1598—9	40 & 41 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, newly bound, separate. The second spare leaf contains two entries of Orders; the last but one contains another; and the last leaf a memorandum.
4	1599	41 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound with the next book. Among the spare leaves at the end are written, a cancelled entry of 12 Sept., nine pages of short entries of Issues made 1 October (which belong to the next half-year's book), nine entries of Orders, two of Recepta, and a memorandum.
5	1599 / 1600	41 & 42 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like. On the first spare leaf are written, one entry of Recepta, and two Orders; and on the second, a Warrant to stop the pension of Laghlin Owen Omore. These leaves, and some others at the beginning, have been damaged with damp (but are now repaired), and the heading of the book is lost.
6	1600	42 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like: its last 19 leaves were much damaged by damp and vermin, so that some are almost destroyed. They are now repaired as well as they can be, and the book is bound with the next one. The first leaf, containing the heading, has been misplaced after the second, by the binder.
7	1600—1	42 & 43 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound with the foregoing book; in excellent condition. The old covers having been lately found, the inscribed parts are now pasted on the first leaf; viz., on the cover thus, "Exitus 1600;" and on the back thus, "M.—xlii° & xliii°."
8	1601	43 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like; bound with the next book, and in good condition.
9	1601—2	43 & 44 Eliz.	Mich.	unfol.	The like; slightly damaged, but now repaired and re-bound.
10	1602	44 Eliz.	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition, bound with the next book.
11	1602—3	44&45 Eliz., & 1 Jac. 1.	Mich.	unfol.	The like: slightly damaged, but now repaired, and bound with the foregoing book. At the end are entered three Orders, one of which is cancelled, and a repetition of the title of the book.
12	1603	1 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like: discoloured and damaged by damp, but now repaired, and bound with No. 13.
13	1603—4	1 & 2 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition, bound with No. 12. An Order and a memorandum are entered on the first spare leaf.
14	1604	2 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound with No. 15, but improperly, that being put foremost in the volume. The two spare leaves at the beginning contain one entry of an Order, two of Recepta dated 2 & 12 July, and a whole page (four entries) of Recepta dated 28 July, 1604. The last leaf is largely inscribed "Irrotulatur."
15	1604—5	2 & 3 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like; in good condition, as the foregoing, with which it is bound. There is one leaf, of the date of 27 Nov. 1604, misplaced between 23 and 24 Nov.
16	1605	3 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; its latter part has been very much damaged by vermin, but is now repaired, and the book is rebound separately. The last seven or eight leaves have been disarranged by the binder; the true order of which may be found by comparing the Issue Roll of this half year. The last leaf contains only memoranda; it is followed by a fragment of a narrow Roll of vellum, used as a guard in the old binding, which contains numerous names of persons, written on both sides, in a hand of the time of Edward II., many of which are struck out. There are two headings, one "De Derb. transgressores," under which is the name of "Johannes de Beufey miles, nuper Vic.;" and "De Hundredo de Apeltr."
17	1605—6	3 & 4 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like: slightly damaged at the end, but now repaired, and bound separately.
18	1606	4 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound with No. 19; but the latter is improperly placed foremost in the volume.
19	1606—7	4 & 5 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound with No. 18; both are in good condition. A spare leaf at the beginning contains entries of Issues, 19 Dec. 1606, "to be allowed this next weeke." At the end are three cancelled entries of Recepta, 25 Mar. 1607.
20	1607	5 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like. On the first fly-leaf are four cancelled entries of Recepta, dated 19 June, 1607. This book is bound with the next, and both are in good condition.
21	1607—8	5 & 6 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound with No. 20.
22	1608	6 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound separately. The binder has misplaced the first nine leaves, (three of which are vacant,) thus, ff. 1, 5, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 6.
23	1608—9	6 & 7 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately; in excellent condition.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
25	1609—10	7 & 8 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, being a thick book, in good condition; bound separately. The "Assignments by Tallies," which, in the foregoing books, are set down among the ordinary Issues by the Tellers, and only distinguished in the sum total of the half year, are entered separately on the last 17 leaves of the book, with this title, "Assignaciones per Tall. inde levat. de hoc termino Michaelis, anno septimo RR. Jacobi. 1609." This practice was continued in many of the following volumes.
26	1610	8 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound separately, and in good condition, except that it seems that the 'Assignments' are lost from the end, the last leaf being thus noted, in the manner of a catchword, "Sequ[u]ntur Assignaciones."
27	1610—11	8 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately, and in good condition. This book is marked "Irrotulatur," on the first and last pages.
28	1611	9 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	This book is either unfinished or imperfect; it wants the sum total and Assignments at the end. It is in good condition, and bound separately.
29	1611—12	9 & 10 Jac. 1	Mich.	ff. 342	The like, bound separately; in good condition. It is foliated by the old hand to f. 330; the Assignments follow, but no sums total.
30	1612	10 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like; bound separately, and in good condition. The sum total of Issues is on the last page but two; the next leaf is blank, and there are no Assignments.
31	1612—13	10 & 11 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like; slightly damaged, but now repaired, except at the eighteenth leaf: it is bound separately. There are eight blank leaves at the end, but no Assignments.
32	1613	11 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound separately; the edges of the leaves have been damaged throughout, and are for the most part mended. The last leaf is blank, without Assignments.
33	1613—14	11 & 12 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately. In good condition. No Assignments.
34	1614	12 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	A thinner book, bound separately; in good condition. Without Assignments.
35	1614—15	12 & 13 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	Same description. This book contains many entries not properly filled up, and has no sum total at the end.
36	1615	13 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	Same description, and same remarks. Nor has it any heading.
37	1615—16	13 & 14 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, as No. 34, bound separately.
38	1616	14 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound separately.
39	1616—17	14 & 15 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately; and the corners of the leaves, which were damaged, are repaired.
40	1617	15 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound together in so confused and irregular a manner, that the volume needs to be taken to pieces. The damaged parts are mended. The old cover of the first has been lately found, and the indorsement ("Exitus de termino Pasche anno xv^to^ R. Regis Jacobi,") is now pasted on a fly-leaf. One leaf also has been recovered from the clearings of the Pell Office, containing the sum total of the week beginning 19 July, 1617. The days included between 25 and 30 July are lost. Each is marked "Irr." at the beginning.
42	1618	16 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like: repaired in the damaged parts, and bound separately.
*	1618—19	16 & 17 Jac. 1	Mich.	..	Wanting; but the Issue Rolls of these two terms are extant.
*	1619	17 Jac. 1	Easter.	..
43	1619—20	17 & 18 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	A like volume, as before; bound separately, and repaired where damaged: but the last leaf, containing these words, "Irrotulatur in Pelle, et examinatur," and the leaf containing entries dated 5 April, are transposed, with 10 leaves between.
44	1620	18 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	These three books were found in the Vault at Somerset House, and are fully described in the Second Report, App. II., p. 204, where their titles are given at length. They have their original covers, and are marked "Irrotulatur" at the end.
45	1620—1	18 & 19 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.
46	1621	19 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.
47	1621—2	19 & 20 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately. Much damaged, but now repaired; the greater part of the book having lost its outer margin, and nearly half the breadth of the pages is gone, toward the beginning. Happily the Roll is extant.
48	1622	20 Jac. 1	Easter	ff. 180	The like, in good condition; bound separately. Foliated to f. 69, by the old hand, and now throughout. A paper found loose, and now fixed at the beginning, shows the dates, names, and amounts of certain entries "Wanting in this booke." The Roll is extant.
49	1622—3	20 & 21 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, in good condition; bound separately. The binder has misplaced the last leaf but two, at the end. There seems to be some leaves lost, between 21 and 26 Feb.
50	1623	21 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition; bound separately.
51	1623—4	21 & 22 Jac. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately; the damaged corners of the leaves are repaired.
52	1624	22 Jac. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound separately. Against the heading is this note, on the name of the Lord Treasurer, "The xiiij^th^ of May, 1624, the said Earle of Midd. was sent to the Tower; and the xvj^th^ of the same, his staff was taken from him."
53	1624—5	22 & 23 Jac. 1 & 1 Car. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like; a thick book, bound separately. The last entry in the reign of James is dated 25 March; nine blank leaves follow, and then a separate title occurs for that part of the term (4 April to 16 April) within the next reign, contained in the last eight leaves.
54	1625	1 Car. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound with the next book, in a thick volume.
55	1625—6	1 & 2 Car. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound with the foregoing, and both in good condition.
56	1626	2 Car. 1	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound with No. 57, in a very thick volume. The first leaves are damaged at the corners, but are repaired as much as may be: ff. 1 and 7 have not been sewn in by the binder, but were found loose in the book, and are now divided and fixed in their proper places. The title is marked "Irr."
57	1626—7	2 Car. 1	Mich.	unfol.	The like: bound with the foregoing, and in good condition.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
58 a 58 b	1627	2 & 3 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Two books, bound together in one very thick volume. Though both relating to the same period, they are unlike each other, excepting the first entry. It is strange, too, that in the heading of the one, the regnal year tertio occurs, in the other the number of the year is omitted, though both are dated "1627" in the title; also that the first entry in the former is dated Lunæ, 26 Mar. "1628," (as also some other entries are mistakenly dated "1628,") yet the other is dated Lunæ, 26 Mar. "1626," for 1627. It is difficult to account for the existence of these incongruous books, in the absence of the Roll of this term, which is not extant. Many entries in both are cancelled, and the former contains twice as much as the latter.
59	1627—8	3 & 4 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like; a thick book, bound separately; in good condition. Many of the entries are cancelled, in this and the preceding, and the following book.
60	1628	4 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition, bound together.
61	1628—9	4 & 5 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
62	1629	5 Car. I.	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition, bound together.
63	1629—30	5 & 6 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
64	1630	6 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, in good condition, bound separately.
65	1630—1	6 & 7 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	Same remark.
66	1631	7 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Same remark.
67	1631—2	7 & 8 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.	The like, bound separately; the first leaf has been mended.
68	1632	8 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound together, though not equally sized. The two first leaves of No. 68 have been damaged, and since mended.
69	1632—3	8 & 9 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
70	1633	9 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	The like, bound together, though not of equal sizes.
71	1633—4	9 & 10 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
72	1634	10 Car. I	Easter	ff. 141	The like, bound with the next book, but in inverse order, this being placed second. The margin has been destroyed by damp and vermin throughout; but the book has been carefully mended.
73	1634—5	10 & 11 Car. I	Mich.	ff. 174	Consisting of two parts, the latter being of smaller-sized paper; ff. 1—42 (whereof ff. 1, 2, are blank) being therefore larger than the rest, have suffered from damp and vermin, so much, that the upper and lower portions of them have been destroyed. The book is now repaired, and has been bound (but inversely) with No. 72. At the top of f. 167[b] is this note: "Obijt Comes Portland, Dominus Thes. Angl., 13 Martij, 1634."
74	1635	11 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Two books, of much larger size than any of the foregoing; now bound together, making a tall and thick volume, in good condition.
75	1635—6	11 & 12 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
76	1636	12 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Two similar books, forming a great volume like the foregoing, but not so thick.
77	1636—7	12 & 13 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
78	1637	13 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Two similar books, forming a great volume as the last foregoing. The title of No. 78 is on the back of the first leaf. There are memoranda at the end of each book.
79	1637—8	13 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
80	1638	13 & 14 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Two similar books, forming a fourth large volume; and, as the others, in good condition.
81	1638—9	14 & 15 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
					 From Mich. 1638-9 inclusively, there is no Issue Roll extant until Mich. 1654-5.
82	1639	15 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Two books bound together; the former is on small paper, the other of like size as those before No. 74: both in good condition.
83	1639—40	15 & 16 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
84	1640	16 Car. I	Easter	unfol.	Four small folio books, bound together in one volume. Of the last of them, Mr. Devon observes, in his MS. Catalogue, f. 99, that "great part of this book is lost:" but that does not appear to be the case; it ends with "Sabbati nono die April, 1642," which was Easter-eve, and only wants the usual sum total, which perhaps may have been entered on a leaf now lost, or perhaps was (as in some few other cases) not entered at all. The diminished size of these books may have been caused by the impoverished state of the Exchequer at that time, which could not afford to make many Issues.
85	1640—1	16 & 17 Car. I	Mich.	unfol.
86	1641	17 Car. I	Easter	unfol.
87	1641—2	17 & 18 Car I.	Mich.	unfol.
*	1642	18 Car. I	Easter	..	Wanting, as also is the Roll. The book for the early part of the Mich. term following is also wanting.
88	1642—3 1643	18 & 19 Car. I 19 Car. I	Mich. Easter	f. 1. ff. 4—13[b]	A thin folio book, consisting of 40 leaves, thus headed: "Exitus apud Oxon. a duodecimo die Februarij, 1642. existent. parte Termini Michaelis anno regni Regis Caroli xviij°." The two entries under this heading (on f. 1) are dated 22 March only; the next leaf is blank; and then follow entries of Easter Term, 1643, dated from 6 April to 12 Sept. inclusively (ff. 4—13[b]), only 31 in number. The rest of this book is vacant; it is bound with the next, and both have been lately foliated.
89	1643—4	19 & 20 Car. I	Mich.	ff. 3—57[b]	A small folio book, consisting of 92 leaves, very neatly written, and thus headed: "Pellis Exitus. Termino Michaelis anno R. Regis Caroli decimo nono. 1643," (with the names of the Lord Treasurer, &c.) containing the entries of the full half-year, from 3 Oct. 1643, to 29 April, 1644. Bound with these two books are, (1) The Pells Certificate Book of Tellers' Remains, from 12 Feb. 1642-3, to 5 April, 1645; and (2) The Pells Order Book, for Easter Term, 1645, and Mich. Term, 1645-6, which contain the only evidences now extant of the expenditure of the Exchequer at Oxford, after Easter (21 April) 1644.
*	*	* *	*	*	From Easter-eve, 1644, to Mich. day, 1654, exclusively, there are no Issue Books or Rolls now extant.
90	1654—5 1655	.. ..	Mich. Easter	pp. 1—66 pp. 99—192	Headed thus, "Pell of ishues, Michaelmas terme, 1654," and beginning 31 Oct. 1654, p. 1; headed "Issues of Easter terme, 1655," p. 99. An Index is prefixed. This book is in good condition, and has been rebound, with the next: the old covers were lately found, and the inscription of the cover ("Issues of Michaelmas 1654, and Easter 1655,") and the indorsement ("Exitus Michael. 1654, et Pasche 1655,") are now cut out, and pasted on the first blank leaf.
91	1655—6 1656	.. ..	Mich. Easter	pp. 1—111 pp. 111—221	A like book, with Index prefixed. The headings are, "The Issues of Michaelmas terme, 1655," p. 1; and "Easter Terme, 1656," only, p. 111. A blank leaf occurs between the two pages, numbered "111." This book is bound with No. 90, and the inscribed parts of its old covers are now preserved as in that book; being both inscribed thus: "Issues of Michaelmas 1655, and Easter 1656;" and indorsed in like manner.
92	1656—7 1657	.. ..	Mich. Easter	pp. 1—136 pp. 137—255	A like book, with Index prefixed; having this general heading at p. 1, "The Pell of the issues of Michael. 1656, and Easter 1657," beside the date at the head of each term. This book is bound with No. 93 and 94, in a thick volume; but its old covers have not been found.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
*	1657—8	..	Mich.	..	Wanting. The Roll of these two terms is wanting likewise, except only one membrane, lately found among the clearings of the old Pell Office.
*	1658	..	Easter	..
	1659	..	Easter	pp. 161—258
	1660	..	Easter (to 26 June)	pp. 109—139
95	1660	12 Car. 2	Easter (from 9 July)	ff. 1—11	A folio volume, bound in parchment; thus indorsed, "Exitus Pasche et Mich's. 1660," also "Exitus, 1660;" and inscribed on the cover in a similar manner. The remainder of Easter half-year (which this book contains), and the whole of Mich. are respectively headed in full; there are two blank leaves between the two terms; and many blank leaves intervene before the Index, which is at the end. It is in good condition, except that the strings are lost, as usually.
	1660—1	12 & 13 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 12—87
96	1661	13 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 74	A like volume, mutilated by the loss of its Index, and all the blank paper (except 10 leaves) at the end, so that the cover hangs loose. It is inscribed, "Pasche Exitus, 1661," and bears two similar indorsements. There is a full heading, as in all the subsequent volumes, unless otherwise stated.
97	1661—2	13 & 14 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 89	A like volume, with blank paper and Index; headed, indorsed, and inscribed. In good condition.
98	1662	14 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 116	The like; subject to like remarks; with Index.
99	1662—3	14 & 15 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 133	The like; with like remarks, except that there are no blank leaves, the book being filled to the Index.
100	1663	15 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 125	The like, with blank leaves at the end, but the Index is prefixed.
101	1663—4	15 & 16 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 164	The like, with Index prefixed; same description.
102	1664	16 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 136	The like, inscribed and indorsed in the usual manner; with Index prefixed. One cover is loose, by reason of the loss of blank paper at the end.
103	1664—5	16 & 17 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 153	The like, with Index prefixed. Same description, but in good condition.
104	1665	17 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 122	The like, with Index prefixed; in good condition.
105	1665—6	17 & 18 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 86	The like, with Index prefixed; half blank, and in good condition.
106	1666	18 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 109	The like, with Index prefixed; in good condition.
107	1666—7	18 & 19 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 108	The like, with Index prefixed; in good condition.
108	1667	19 Car. 2	Easter	ff. 75	The like, with Index prefixed; in good condition, and more than half blank.
109	1667—8	19 & 20 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 1—72	The like, with Index prefixed; in good condition. At the beginning is this note "Memorandum the 27th of Aprill, 1683: William Tattershall began this Pell," that is, began to inroll it (see No. 118), no less than fifteen years after the Roll ought to have been made. Each term has a full heading, and there are two blank leaves between ff. 72 and 73.

115	1671	23 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 275	The like, with Index prefixed. The leaves have started away from the back, in this and many of the succeeding volumes, which injury seems to have been caused by their gradually increased size, and by the bending back of the covers while the clerk ingrossed the Rolls from them.
116	1671—2	23 & 24 Car. 2	Mich.	pp. 423	The like, with Index prefixed.
117	1672	24 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 299	The like, with Index prefixed. Half blank, and in good condition.

119	1673	25 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 307	The like, with Index prefixed. The cover is slightly damaged, and the leaves stand out from the back.
120	1673—4	25 & 26 Car. 2	Mich.	pp. 1—359	A very thick volume, in other respects similar to the foregoing. The Index prefixed refers to both terms. The back is slightly torn.

128	1678	30 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 298	A folio book, taller than the foregoing; the covers are lost. On the fly-leaf at the beginning (next before the Index) are these notes:—"Sept. y^e 8^th: 87, M^r Tatersall begun this Booke. M^d he began this Pell Rolle 26 of August, 78, whereof is done 46 Skins of this Pell Roole. And this 13^th of December, 87, hee went on w^th y^e first Skinn N° 47: M^d 9 Skins compleated this Pell Roll: 10^th January, 87." The leaf paged "296. 297," is loose and torn; the concluding leaf ("298") was lately found among the clearings of the Pell Office, in a dirty state.
129	1678—9	30 & 31 Car. 2	Mich.	pp. 312	A folio book, as before, but taller: the parchment binding is damaged, and the indorsement (except where marked "J. Price") is lost. It is inscribed with a title, and Exam. The following notes occur on the fly-leaf:—"December y^e 15^th: 87. M^r Ad[a]ms began at y^e xxx^th of October, 78, w^th Jo: Birchill after y^e 8 press w^ch he had formerly done. xix^th of March, 87, he began the new Roll after y^e 32 press." There is an Index at the beginning.

452	1834	5 Will. 4	7 July to 10 Oct.	ff. 77	After the ordinary Issues, contained in ff. 1—77, and the Index to the same, there follow Issues by Exchequer Bills, from 7 January, 1833, to 30 Sept. 1834, in 21 pages, constituting a separate part of the volume, and followed by its own separate Index. This book has neither heading, title, nor indorsement.
453	1833 & 1834.	3 Will. 4, to 5 Will. 4.	7 Jan. to 6 Oct.	ff. 234	This large book contains entries of Issues for these two years, but nevertheless is not a duplicate of the foregoing books: the entries seem all to relate to the Civil List. It has an Index at the end. It is written uniformly with the foregoing books, and is bound uniformly, with green strings; but it has neither heading, title, nor indorsement.

NOTE.—The following Books constitute several series of "Exitus," distinct from the ordinary Pell of Issue; their contents being recorded in separate Volumes and Rolls, and not in the general series preceding.

INVENTORIES of the ISSUE BOOKS, constituting several Series of Distinct "Exitus."

1.—Issues charged on "the Additional Aid," 1665, and "Poll-money," 1667.

454 (1)	1665—6	17 & 18 Car. 2	Mich.	ff. 1—15	"A Booke of Exitus," (so inscribed on the cover,) indorsed, "Exit. Mic. 1665." A large folio volume, in good condition, bound in parchment, having no headings or titles, but a space left at the beginning of the several terms, and the date of the first one superscribed. There is an Index prefixed, and the 15 next leaves are foliated, while the others are paged. It ends at the 11th of July, 1667, and is thereby identified as belonging to the two next books.
	1666	18 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 16—105
	1667		Easter
453 (2)	1667	19 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 1—65	A large folio volume, thus inscribed on the cover, "Exitus de Addicional: Auxil. Lib: 2us;" and "Exitus de le Pole-money." The former portion begins 15 July, 1667, and ends 16 July, 1668. See the next book. The latter begins 30 Mar. 1667, with "Poll-money superscribed;" and ends 7 Aug. 1673. An Index follows. There are blanks left for headings, only the date of the term being noted at the beginning of each. The book is bound in parchment, and is in good condition; but some few of the blank leaves, which precede the Index, have been torn out.
	1667—8	19 & 20 Car. 2	Mich.	pp. 69—220
	1667—8 to 1673.	19 Car. 2 to 25 Car. 2	Mich. to Easter.	pp. 287—375
456 (3)	1668	20 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 1—35	"Exitus Adicõnal Auxil. Liber tertius." A large folio volume thus inscribed, but not indorsed or headed. It begins with the 20th of July, 1668, in continuation of the first part of the foregoing volume, No. 455: the last eight terms contain only a solitary entry in each. There is an Index at the end, and the book is bound in parchment, in tolerable condition; much of it is blank.
	1668—9 to 1669—70	20 Car. 2 to 22 Car. 2	Mich. to Mich.	pp. 39—102
	1670 to 1676.	22 Car. 2 to 27 Car. 2	Easter to Mich.	pp. 105—135
	1683—4	36 Car. 2	Mich.	pp. 136
	1687—8	4 Jac. 2	Mich.	pp. 137

2.—Issues charged upon "the Eleven Months' Tax," 1667.

457 (4)	1667	19 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 1—25	"Exitus de XI. Mens. Taxacõn." A large folio volume, bound in parchment, not indorsed, but inscribed as above on the cover. The beginning of each term has only the date of it prefixed, there being a large space left for the insertion of a proper heading. An Index, written on smaller folio paper, lies loose in the book. The volume is in good condition, except that its cover needs some slight repair.
	1667—8	19 & 20 Car. 2	Mich.	pp. 65—107
	1668	20 Car. 2	Easter	pp. 111—247

A large volume, thus obscurely inscribed on the cover, but not indorsed: the headings are not inserted. It is bound in parchment, and in sound condition; two-thirds are blank, and there is an Index at the end.
	1669 to 1670	21 & 22 Car. 2	Mich. & Easter.	pp. 157—227

3.—Issues "out of Bills authorized to be issued by Parliament," commonly called "Exchequer Bills," 1697, &c.*

459 (1)	1697	9 Will. 3	Easter	ff. 2—23	"Liber incept. in termino Paschæ, 1697, de Exitibus Omnium Solucion. fact. per Bill. Scaccarij." A small folio book, thus headed at f. 2, at the beginning of which are entered two Warrants, signed by the Lords of the Treasury, and addressed unto William Wardour, Esq., Clerk of the Pells; the one requiring him to take account of all receipts and issues of Exchequer Bills, in his Weekly Certificates, dated 18 June, 1697 (f. 1ª), the other "from time to time, in a particular Booke by itself, to make entry of all Direccons made by the Auditor of the Receipt, for y^e^ issueing of the Bills of Credit to the use of the warr," to put his Recordatur to the same, &c., dated 29 Apr. 1697 (f. 1ᵇ). The entries in this book extend from 30 Apr. 1697, to 8 Feb. 1697 [—8]: it is headed as above, but not indorsed or inscribed outside. Bound in parchment, with strings, and two thirds of it are vacant. There does not appear to be any corresponding Roll of these Issues.
	1697—8	9 Will. 3	Mich.	ff. 24—36
460 (2)	1707 to 1709.	6 Annæ to 8 Annæ.	Easter to Easter.	ff. 3—19ᵇ.	Prefixed to this book is a Warrant of Lord Treasurer Godolphin, dated 26 Apr. 1707, addressed to Henry Pelham, Esq., Clerk of the Pells, in the same form as that of 29 Apr. 1697 (f. 1ª). The next leaf has been all torn out, except the margin, which shows that it contained at least one entry; and it is remarkable that in the separate Issue Roll of Exchequer Bills, the first membrane has been omitted, which ought to have been placed between the membrane containing the title, and the next; which nevertheless are marked "1" and "2," though the first entry is without a date, and corresponds with the last entry on the first page of Issues in this Book, now marked f. 3ª. The calculations at ff. 15ᵇ, 16ª, part of 16ᵇ, &c. are omitted in the Roll.
	1709 to 1714.	8 Annæ to 13 Annæ.	Easter to Easter.	ff. 53ᵇ—105ᵇ.	The first part of this book contains the Issues by Bills of the year "1707," dated from 28 Apr. 1707, to 5 Apr. 1709; the second those of the year "1709," dated from 6 May, 1709, to 23 July, 1714. It is a larger volume than the foregoing, but less than the rest of the series, which corresponds in size with the other Issue Books of the time: it is bound in parchment, with strings; inscribed "Exchequer Bills" on the cover, indorsed "Exchequ^r^ Bill Book, 1709°" and "Irrotulatur;" ff. 20—52, and 106—131, are blank, and some of the leaves are discoloured with damp and dirt.
*	1713 to 1714.	12 Annæ to 1 Geo. 1.	Easter to Easter.	..	There is no corresponding book for the Issues of the Bills of "1713," recorded in the latter part of the Roll aforementioned, which contains the "Pellis Exitus Billarum Scaccarij pro anno 1713," dated from 15 Aug. 1713, to 24 Sept. 1714 (mem. 51—61).
461 (3)	1725	11 Geo. 1	Easter	pp. 1—55	A large folio volume, bound in vellum, and indorsed "Exit. Bill. Scčrj. P 1725, P M 1726, P. 1727." Each term is separately headed in full, "Pellis Exitus, de termino," &c., as the other Issue Books and Rolls of that time are; and separately paged, with some blank pages between them. There is an Index at the end, and the book is in good condition.
	1726—7		Mich.	pp. 1—42
	1727	14 Geo. 1.	Easter	pp. 1—9
					There is a corresponding Roll for the two first terms of this Book only, from 16 June, 1725, to 14 March, 1725—6.
462 (4)	1727—8 to 1741—2	1 Geo. 2 to 15 Geo. 2.	Mich. to Mich.	pp. 1—411	A large folio volume, of the same description as the foregoing, but thicker; having every term distinctly and fully headed, but paged throughout; an Index follows. It is in good condition, but the following indorsement is now almost faded out of sight: "Exitus Bill. Scaccarij a fest. Mich. 1727, incl. ad fest. Pasch. 1742, incl. Irrotulatur."
					There is a Roll exactly corresponding with the contents and period of this Book.
463 (5)	1742 to 1754.	15 Geo. 2 to 28 Geo. 2.	Easter to Easter.	pp. 1—468	A large folio volume, as the preceding, only differing from it in having no vacant pages between the several terms. The entries are dated from 4 May, 1742, to 10 July, 1754. It is in excellent condition, and is thus indorsed: "Exitus Bill. Scaccarij a fest. Pasche, 1742, ad fest. Michaelis, 1754."
					There are no corresponding Inrolments now extant, though it is said "Irrotulatur" on the back of this book.
464 (6)	1754 to 1763.	28 Geo. 2 to 3 Geo. 3.	Mich. to Easter.	pp. 1—389	This volume exactly resembles the foregoing, and is in excellent condition. The entries extend from 4 Oct. 1754, to 3 Sept. 1763: an Index follows. It is thus indorsed: "Exitus Bill. Scaccarij, a fest. Sancti Michaelis, 1754, ad fest. Sancti Michaelis, 1763. Irrotulatur."
					The only Inrolments now extant, which correspond with this Book, are:—one Roll, containing the Easter and Mich. terms of both the years 1761 and 1762, beginning 10 Apr. 1761, and ending 2 Apr. 1763; and the first part of one Roll, which contains Easter term, 1763, and part of the contents of the next volume.
465 (7)	1763 to 1769.	3 Geo. 3 to 9 Geo. 3.	Mich. to Easter.	pp. 1—340	A like volume, containing also an Index at the end. The entries extend from 3 Oct. 1763, to 24 July, 1769. It is thus indorsed: "Exitus Bill. Scaccarij, a festo Sancti Michaelis, 1763, ad fest. Sancti Michaelis, 1769. Irrotulatur."
					The only Inrolment now extant, corresponding with this book, is the "Pellis Exitus Bill. Scaccarij," containing the last term of the preceding volume, and the three first terms of this volume (viz. P. and M. 1763, P. and M. 1764), beginning 14 Apr. 1763, and ending 4 Apr. 1765. If the latter part of this volume were ever inrolled, the record has been lost since.

(8)	1773	13 Geo. 3	Mich.	pp. 1, 2	This is a fragment of a later book, consisting of only the two first pages, headed in full, "Pellis Exitus de termino Sancti Michaelis Archangeli, A° regni domini Georgij Tertij R^is^ xiij° annoque Domini 1773," (&c.) It contains the Issues of 6 and 16 October, subscribed respectively thus: "Exchequer Bills charged on the Sinking Fund granted towards the Supplies of the year 1773," and "Exchequer Bills for the Relief of the E. India Company." It is written in the same fair manner as the foregoing books, and it is the only trace of any Issues by Exchequer Bills that can be found among the contents of the Office of the Pells, between 1769 and 1777. This leaf was found in a dirty state, among the loose papers and clearings of that Office, which were removed to Whitehall Yard before the old Exchequer was pulled down: it is now fixed in the foregoing volume.

466 (1)	1706	5 Annæ	Easter	pp. 66	A thin folio volume, bound in vellum, with strings, and exactly corresponding with the description of the ordinary Issue Book of the same term (except in thickness), and headed in full "Exitus Pasche, 1706" (&c.), just as that book is, without any peculiar title, but thus indorsed, "Exit. Pasche, 1706, Bank^{rs}: Ann^{ties}:" with the word "Irrotulatur" ingrossed down the back. There is no Index; but the book is perfect, and in excellent condition. The cover of this book, and of the next, is inscribed "Exitus" in a bold character; but the others are not so.

(17)	1737	10 Geo. 2	Mich.	pp. 1, 2	A portion of the first leaf of the book, headed, "Pellis Exitus, Pro Annuitat. £3700 per Septiman. De termino Pasche anno" (&c.), containing the heading (being the only one of this series which specially describes these Issues), and some of the Issues made 20 Apr. 1737. 481 (1)	1742 to 1746—7	15 Geo. 2 to 20 Geo. 2.	Easter to Mich.	ff. 71	A thin folio volume, similar to the thickest of the foregoing series, containing ten terms and the beginning of an eleventh, each separately paged; it is now foliated throughout with pencil. It is thus indorsed: "Exitus a Pasche 1742, ad Pasche 1747, inclus. 40000 per Ann. 1708." Every term is headed in full, thus: "Exitus Pasche 1742. Pro Annuit. 99 Annor. a 25 Martij 1708 per Act. Parl. anno regni Anne vij° concessis." (&c.) But the title of the Easter term, 1747, is written at the foot of the 18th page of the foregoing term, and five leaves that followed have been cut out: there being only two more leaves in the book, it is probable (unless the indorsement be inconsistent with such a supposition), that the said term was carried over to another book, now lost. This is the only book out of a long series that can now be found; it is in good condition, with the exception of the defect above mentioned. * * *
					 With respect to the two preceding series of Issues, it is difficult to say whether the Inrolments be extant; for though there are numerous Issue Rolls of Annuities, they are of different kinds, and have not yet been classed. The book No. 481 has no note of inrolment, within or without.

6.—Issues for the payment of Annuities charged on the Duties of Wrought Silver, commonly called "Plate Annuities," 1721, &c.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
482 (1)	1721 to 1738—9	7 & 8 Geo. 1 to 12 Geo. 2.	Easter to Mich.	ff. 214	A large folio volume, containing many successive terms, separately paged (and now foliated throughout with pencil), and each fully headed in this form: "Pellis Exit. De Annuitat. ad iiij^{or} per Cent. ex Debit. super Argent. Operat. De termino Pasche anno" (&c.) It is bound in vellum, and appears to have been bound after it was written, the paging being in some places cut off. The following title is ingrossed on the back, but now partly illegible: "Exitus. Wro^{t}. Plate. From P: 1721 to M: 1738, both incl. Irrotulatur." These Issues begin 27 Apr. 1721, and end 7 Feb. 1738[—9.] The book is in excellent condition, though a little wormed at the end. There are two Rolls that seem to correspond with this Book; one of "Exitus de Annuit. voc. Plate Annuities," 1721—1725; and one extending from 1726 to 1737: but whether there be others of this series cannot now be stated.

The foregoing Inventories have been examined and corrected.

 The documents described in the following Catalogue were found after the publication of the Catalogues contained in App. II. 3 April, 1513. Pope Leo X. to King Henry VIII., rehearsing the commendations of his royal master, continually received from the Bishop of Worcester, then Envoy to the Pope; highly flattering the King, and exhorting him more and more "to defend and increase the dignity, majesty, and glory of the Roman see;" and commending the Bishop to the King's especial regard. Dated at Rome, 3 April, 1513; and signed "P. Bembus."

The original on vellum, in perfect and beautiful condition. This is the earliest Brief in the whole series found among the Exchequer documents: many of the others are signed by Cardinal Bembo, as this; others by Cardinal Sadoleti.

(M. 9.) Saturday next after the Feast of the Ascension. { Middlesex.—Indictment taken at Westminster, charges that Thomas Burdett, late of Arowe, in the county of Warwick, Esquire, falsely endeavouring to exalt himself in riches, did on the 20*th April,* 14 Edw. 4, &c., at Westminster, &c., treasonably imagine and compass the death and destruction of the King. And in order to carry such his treason into effect, laboured with John Stacy, late of Oxford, in the county of Oxford, gentleman, and Thomas Blake, late of Oxford, clerk, at Westminster, on the 12*th of November* then following, to calculate the nativities of the King, and of Edward Prince of Wales, his eldest son, and also to know when the King and the Prince should die.

That the said John Stacy and Thomas Blake, knowing the treasonable intent of Thomas Burdett, on the said 12*th November,* imagined and compassed the deaths of the King and Prince: and afterwards, to wit, on the 6*th February,* 14 Edw. 4, at Westminster, the said John Stacy and Thomas Blake, in order to carry their traitorous intention into effect, worked and calculated by art magic, necromancy, and astronomy, the death and final destruction of the King and Prince.

And afterwards, to wit, on the 20*th May,* 15 Edw. 4, at Westminster, John Stacy and Thomas Blake did falsely and treacherously work in the said arts, although according to the determinations of Holy Church, and the opinions of divers Doctors, it is forbidden to any liegeman thus to meddle concerning Kings and Princes in manner aforesaid, without their permission.

And afterwards the said John Stacy and Thomas Blake, and the said Thomas Burdett, at Westminster, on the 26*th May,* 15 Edw. 4, treasonably declared and made known to one Alexander Russeheton and other of the King's people, that according to the calculation and the aforesaid arts, so worked by them the said John Stacy and Thomas Blake, the King and Prince would not live, and would in a short time die: to the intent that by the revealing and making known these matters, the cordial love of the people might be withdrawn from the King; and the King, by knowledge of the same, would be saddened thereby, so that his life would be thereby shortened.

That the said Thomas Burdett, seeking the death and destruction of the King and Prince, and the subversion of the laws, by exciting war and discord between the King and his lieges, did on the 6*th March,* and 4*th and* 5*th days of May,* 17 Edw. 4, at Holborn, in the county of Middlesex, falsely and treacherously disperse and disseminate divers seditious and treasonable bills and writings, rhymes and ballads, containing complaints, seditions, and treasonable arguments, to the intent that the people should withdraw their cordial love from the King and abandon him, and rise and make war against the King, to the final destruction of the King and Prince.

(Ms. 13 and 14.) Saturday next after the Feast of the Ascension, 17 Edw. 4, (17 May, 1477). { RECORD of the Special Sessions of Oyer and Terminer, setting forth the commission and the three several indictments. The prisoners being severally arraigned, plead Not Guilty.

The Sheriff is commanded to return Petty Juries on Monday next after the Feast of Ascension, 19 May, 1477, on which day the said Thomas Burdett, John Stacy, and Thomas Blake, being brought to the bar by John Duddeley Lord Duddeley, Knight, Constable of the Tower, the juries empanelled for their several trials, severally find them GUILTY, and that they have no lands or tenements, goods or chattels.

Judgment.—That the prisoners are to be taken back by the Constable of the Tower to the same Tower, and from thence severally drawn to the gallows at Tyburn and hanged, and each of them cast down to the ground and their bowels drawn out of their bellies and burnt, they living, and their heads to be cut off and their bodies divided into four quarters; and their heads and quarters to be disposed of at the King's pleasure.* And the prisoners are committed to the custody of the Constable of the Tower until Tuesday then next, to the end that they may better take care for their souls.

And the Constable, or his Lieutenant, are commanded that they, by virtue of the King's writ, are to deliver the prisoners to the Sheriffs of London to complete the execution on the said Tuesday.

And the said Sheriffs are commanded by several writs to receive the prisoners from the Constable on Tower Hill, on the same day, and to execute the judgment accordingly.

And by the King's command, the Session of the Court was adjourned until Friday next after the Octaves of the Holy Trinity, at Westminster.

On which day and place the same Session, held by the said Thomas Byllyng and John Nedeham, is adjourned to Saturday then next following, before the King, at Westminster.

The record was delivered into the Court of King's Bench, on Saturday next after the Octaves of the Holy Trinity, 17 Edw. 4, by the hands of Sir Thomas Byllyng, to remain there and to do as the Court should adjudge.

Note.—It appears from the Rolls of the King's Bench, Trinity, 17 Edw. 4 (Rot. de Corona 3), that on Monday next after the Octaves of the Holy Trinity, Thomas Blake was brought to the bar of the Court by the Sheriffs of London, by virtue of the King's writ.

And the Sheriffs, being asked why they had not caused execution to be done on the said Thomas, according to the foregoing judgment, answered that when they received the said Thomas Blake from the Constable of the Tower, the Bishop of Norwich showed to the said sheriffs that, upon his request, the King had pardoned the said Thomas Blake.

Whereupon the said Thomas Blake proffers his pardon, under the Great Seal, tested at Westminster 3*rd June*, 17 Edw. 4.

Trial and Conviction of Edward Earl of Warwick.—High Treason.—Court of the Lord High Steward and Peers, 21 November, 1499. 15 Hen. VII.

(M. 4.) Monday next before the Feast of St. Clement the Pope, 15 Hen. 7. London.—Indictment found at Guildhall before Nicholas Alwyn, Lord Mayor of the City; John Fyneux, Knight; Thomas Bryan, Knight; William Hody, Knight; William Danvers; Robert Rede; John Vavasour; Gilbert Talbot, Knight; Thomas Bourghchier, Knight; Richard Guldeford, Knight; Walter Hungerford, Knight; John Rysley, Knight; James Tyrrel, Knight; Richard Croftys, Knight; John Sapcotys, Knight; and Robert Sheffield, Knight, Justices sitting by virtue of a Special Commission of Oyer and Terminer.

The jurors find that Edward Earl of Warwick, late of Warwick, in the county of Warwick; Thomas Astwode, late of London, Gentleman; and Robert Cleymound, late of London, Gentleman; and other false traitors and rebels, imagined and conspired how they might deprive and depose the King from his royal dignity, and destroy the King, his Lords, and great men.

And in order that they might carry into effect their false and traitorous intent, the Earl of Warwick, Astwode, and Cleymound, on the 2nd August, 14 Hen. 7, at London, in the parish of All Saints, Barking, in Tower Ward, London, confederated and agreed that the Earl should assume the royal dignity, and erect himself King, and falsely and traitorously depose, deprive, and slay the King.

Also that the Earl of Warwick, Astwode, Cleymound, and others, in order that they might the sooner attain their traitorous intentions, confederated to keep and defend the Tower of London, with all their force, against the King, and to have the said Tower and all that is therein at their command, and to kill and destroy all who should resist them in such their evil doings.

And furthermore, they the Earl of Warwick, Astwode, and Cleymound, in order to carry their traitorous intention into effect, proposed to spoil the King's Treasury within the said Tower, and to carry away all the money, jewels, and treasure therein kept; which being done, they further proposed to fire all the gunpowder therein provided for the guns, to the end that when the King's lieges within the Tower should be employed in extinguishing the fire so to be occasioned, the Earl of Warwick, Astwode, and Cleymound, and other traitors, might escape, and take ship, and sail beyond the sea with the jewels and treasure of the King, and should wait beyond the seas: and should also make public proclamation in the said Tower that all who would come to them to raise and move war against the King, for the purpose of depriving him of his royal dignity, should receive 12*d.* per diem from the said treasure.

And in order to fulfil such false and traitorous proposals, the said Robert Cleymound then and there said to the said Earl,—"My Lord you are well minded in what danger, sadness, and duresse you here remain: but if you will help yourself according to the form and effect of the communication and discourse had between us, you shall come out of this prison with me, I will take you out of all danger, and leave you in surety,"—and in order to perfect his traitorous intention, Cleymound delivered a hanger to the Earl to defend himself, and the Earl received the hanger for such purpose. All which things being done, but the same having been revealed and made known to the King and his Council, the said Robert Cleymound afterwards, to wit on the 4th August then next, came to the Earl and said,—"My Lord, all our purpose which we intended to fulfil is made known to the King and his Council by Peter Warbeck, and the said Peter hath accused you and me and Thomas Astwode,"—and that therefore Robert Cleymound said he would put himself in surety, and the Earl advised the said Robert to do so.

And moreover the said Robert Cleymound told all the things which he had declared to the Earl, to a certain Thomas Ward, clerk; and he further declared to Thomas Ward, that he would pass to the sanctuary of Colchester, and there remain in sanctuary for the protection of his life.

And Thomas Ward answered that it would be better, for his comfort and help, that he should take the sanctuary of Westminster, and remain there, to which the said Robert Cleymound consented: and he immediately declared the same thing to the Earl, and begged him instantly that he would send some token to the said Thomas Ward, that he might be the more well affected to them.

Whereupon the Earl, upon the said 4th day of August, 14 Hen. 7, made a certain image of wood, and gave the same to Robert Cleymound, and desired him to give the same image for a token to the said Thomas Ward, and that he should pray him by the same token, that he should be friendly and aiding to the said Robert Cleymound and all the friends of the said Earl: by reason whereof the said Robert Cleymound delivered the said image to the said Thomas Ward, in the parish aforesaid; and also the Earl gave to Robert Cleymound a cloak and a jacket of velvet for his relief and help. And the Earl, Astwode, and Cleymound, and such traitors as aforesaid, did so machinate, compass, and imagine the death of the King.

(M. 5.) London.—And the jury further present, that Peter Warbeck, of Tournay, born in the obedience of the Archduke of Austria and Burgundy, an enemy of the King, with many other false traitors and rebels aiding and assisting him the said Peter, on the 7th September, 13 Hen. 7, at Penzance, in the county of Cornwall, with banners displayed, &c., raised and moved war against the King for the purpose of depriving him of his royal power, and finally destroying him. But that the said Peter and the other rebels were conquered and dispersed by the King and his true lieges, and he was taken, and afterwards, as the King's enemy, committed in sure and safe custody in the Tower of London, and kept there as prisoner until Edward Earl of Warwick, Robert Cleymound, and other false traitors, on the 2nd August, 14 Hen. 7, unanimously imagined and conspired the death and destruction of the King: and agreed that they would take and deliver the said Peter Warbeck and set him at large, and create and constitute him the said Peter to be King and Governor of England, and depose and deprive the King of his crown and dignity. And in order to carry their false and traitorous intention into effect, the Earl and Cleymound, on the said 2nd August, 14 Hen. 7, being in the chamber of the Earl in the Tower of London, the said Robert Cleymound, in order to comfort the said Peter, then being in a chamber in the Tower under their chamber, by assent of the said Earl, knocked upon the vault of the said chamber, to the intent that the said Peter might hear the Earl and Cleymound, and Cleymound said to the said Peter,—"Perkin, be of good cheer and comfort,"—and further showed to him that he had a certain letter directed to the said Peter which he had received from one James, a clerk of Flanders, which letter he, Cleymound would, as he promised, deliver to the said Peter on the following day.

And furthermore, when the Earl and Cleymound were both in bed in the Tower, Cleymound said to the Earl,—"My Lord, I have spoken with Perkin to-day, and he hath declared to me certain matters which make me very sad;"—praying the Earl to advise with him thereon. To whom the Earl answered,—"What is the matter?"—Whereupon Cleymound declared to him that Peter Warbeck advised him that he, Cleymound, should attempt to get the Tower for his will from Simon Digby, if he could perform the same by any subtlety or craft; and the Earl asked Cleymound how and in what manner he could get the Tower from Simon Digby? and Cleymound declared to him how. And the Earl asked Cleymound for what intention he wished to gain the said Tower for himself and his adherents?—To whom Cleymound answered, that he, together with many of his adherents, wished to do so for the Earl and Peter Warbeck. To which traitorous proposal the Earl assented; and in order to effect the same, the Earl delivered the before-mentioned image of wood, which he had lately received from Walter Bluet, to Robert Cleymound, on the 4th August, and earnestly desired that Cleymound should deliver the image to Thomas Ward, clerk, as a token, and should request the said Thomas, in the name of the Earl, that he should be friendly and give good advice to all the friends of the Earl aiding and helping him in the aforesaid treacherous purposes.

And further, the said Earl, on the said 4th August, made a hole in the vault of a certain chamber in which he resided, to the intent that he might converse with the traitor Peter Warbeck, who was in a certain chamber below the chamber of the Earl, concerning their said treason, through which hole the said Earl, on the said day and year, and many subsequent times, spoke to the said Peter, adhering to and comforting him, saying to him,—"How goes it with you? Be of good cheer;"—and in this manner the Earl, Cleymound, and others, aided, abetted, and comforted Perkin in his treason.

Memorandum.—That on Thursday next before the Feast of St. Clement the Pope, the indictment was delivered by Sir John Fyneux to John Earl of Oxford, High Steward of England.

That Nicholas Dolfyn, late of Plumstead, in the county of Kent, yeoman, on the 26th July, 15 Henry 7, feloniously stole four cows and one bull, the property of John Massy, at Plumstead.

That the said Nicholas Dolfyn, 16th February, in the same year, stole three cows, the property of Thomas Tevyt.

That Henry Brewster, late of Towcester, in the county of Northampton, tanner, on the 13th November, 16 Hen. 7, attacked and murdered a certain man unknown, at Ketbroke, near Shooter's Hill, on the King's highway.

The prisoners being severally arraigned, plead Not Guilty, and afterwards, to wit on Tuesday next after the Feast of St. Edmund the King, the petty jury find a verdict against both—GUILTY.

The prisoners respectively plead, that they are clerks, and pray benefit of clergy. Whereupon John Crosse, on behalf of the Crown, replies that the said Nicholas is not entitled to benefit of clergy, for that he the said Nicholas, at Wyllesdon, in the county of Middlesex, in the diocese of London, was lawfully married after proclamation of banns, to Agnes Hygdon, widow, and the said Nicholas thus being a bigamist, he was not entitled to benefit of clergy. He prays judgment.

Whereupon the said Nicholas rejoins that he is not to be denied benefit of clergy, for, inasmuch that before he married the said Agnes Hygdon, he was in Holy Orders, to wit, a subdeacon, and that at Oxford, in the diocese of Lincoln, he had been admitted into the Order of Preaching Friars: and inasmuch as the Court is not advised, the prisoners are remanded into custody.

Conviction of Rouland Lostehowse for Murder, with Special Pleadings as to Benefit of Clergy.—Huntingdon Gaol Delivery, 16 Hen. VII. 1501.

(Ms. 61 and 62.) Friday next before the Feast of Saint James the Apostle. { Huntingdonshire. —Delivery of the gaol of the Castle of Huntingdon before Robert Rede, and William Mordaunt, Justices of Gaol delivery. Rouland Lostehowse arraigned upon a coroner's inquest, upon the view of the body of Richard Preston, finding a verdict of murder against him; pleads Not Guilty.

Verdict of GUILTY given by the petty jury. Whereupon Rouland claims benefit of clergy.

Thomas Ereth, Clerk, the deputy of William Bishop of Lincoln, delivers in the book, and the culprit reads as a clerk, upon which he prays the benefit of clergy to be allowed to him.

William Woolf on the part of the Crown, replies that the said Rouland cannot enjoy benefit of clergy, inasmuch as he is a bigamist, having taken to wife at Cambridge, in the diocese of Ely, a certain Joan Slegge, widow of Edward Slegge. The parties join issue, and inasmuch as the cognizance of clergy belongs to the Ecclesiastical Court, it is sent to the Bishop of Ely, that he should certify the Justices at Huntingdon, on Friday the Feast of Saint Gregory then next, whether the said Rouland is a bigamist or not, and in the meanwhile, he is re-committed to custody.

Trial and Conviction of Edward Duke of Buckingham.—Constructive Treason.—Court of the Lord High Steward and Peers, 13 May, 1521. 13 Hen. VIII.

(M. 33.) 10 May, 13 Hen. 8. Commission whereby Thomas Duke of Norfolk and Earl Marshal of England, is appointed Lord High Steward of England, for the arraignment and trial of Edward Duke of Buckingham, against whom indictments for high treason had been found in the city of London, and in the counties of Kent, Surrey, Somerset, and Gloucester.—Fragment of the great seal appended.

(M. 28.) Wednesday, 8 May, 13 Hen. 8. London.—Indictment, found at Guildhall before John Brugge, Knight, Lord Mayor; John Fyneux, Knight; Robert Brudenell, Knight; Humphry Coningsby, Knight; John More, Knight; Richard Broke, Knight; Thomas Lovell, Knight; Henry Marney, Knight; Thomas Boleyn, Knight; Wistan Browne, Knight; Nicholas Vaux, Knight; William Fitzwilliam, Knight; Richard Weston, Knight; John Daunce, Knight; and William Shelley—Special Commissioners and Justices of Oyer and Terminer, sitting by virtue of Commission, dated 2*nd May,* 13 Hen. 8.

That Edward Duke of Buckingham, late of Thornbury, in the county of Gloucester, as a false traitor, &c., and falsely intending to exalt himself to the Crown of England and usurp the royal power and dignity, did 10*th March,* 2 Hen. 8, at London and also at Thornbury before mentioned, imagine and compass to deprive and depose the King from the same dignity, and also to effect his death and destruction.

And the Duke, in order to carry his intention into effect, did on the 24*th day of April,* 4 Hen. 8, send one John Delacourt, late of Thornbury, in the county of Gloucester, then his chaplain, from Thornbury to Henton, in the county of Somerset, to one Nicholas Hopkins, a Monk of the Carthusian Priory of Henton, who pretended to have knowledge of future events by certain revelations, which he feigned to have had, in order that the Duke might have further knowledge thereof from the said Nicholas. By reason whereof Delacourt repaired to the said Nicholas at the Priory, on the 24*th day of April,* 4 Hen. 8, but to which Delacourt, Father Nicholas would in no wise open himself, until Delacourt would take an oath to keep secret all that should be made known to him, and to declare the same to no one excepting the Duke his master. After which oath Nicholas told Delacourt to declare to the Duke, that the Duke should have all: and that he, the Duke, should endeavour to obtain the love of the Community of England. Delacourt having asked of Father Nicholas how he knew this, he replied—"By the grace of God;" whereupon Delacourt, on the 24*th April,* 4 Hen. 8, at Thornbury, related the same to the Duke, and the Duke commanded him to keep the same a secret; and afterwards, 22*nd of July,* 4 Hen. 8, the Duke sent his letters by Delacourt to the said Nicholas to know further concerning the fulfilment of his treasonable intentions, and Delacourt, on the 22*nd July,* repaired from Thornbury to Henton and delivered his letters to the Monk, who repeated as before that the Duke should have all, and that he knew the same by the grace of God. All which matters Delacourt related to the Duke at Thornbury on the 23*rd July then next.* Afterwards, when the King had taken his royal journey to France, the Duke, 26*th April,*

5 Hen. 8, again sent his letters from Thornbury to Father Nicholas, requesting him to inform the said Duke what would be the event of the King's war, and whether James, then King of Scotland, would enter the kingdom of England or not: to which letters the Monk replied, amongst other secrets, that the King should have no issue male of his body. Afterwards the Duke, in order to continue his treasons, on the 20*th February*, 6 Hen. 8, at Thornbury, said to Ralph "Nevell," Earl of Westmoreland,—"There be two new Dukes created in England, but that if anything except good should happen to the King, he, the Duke of Buckingham, was next in succession to the Crown of England."

And afterwards the Duke, 16*th April*, 6 Hen. 8, went in his own proper person to the Priory of Henton and treasonably put various questions to Father Nicholas, who informed the Duke he should be King of England; to whom the Duke answered,—that he would be a just Prince if the same should happen. Father Nicholas further said, that he knew the same by revelation, and advised the Duke to obtain the love of the community of England for the purpose of fulfilling his intentions, which the Duke was contented to hear. Moreover, the Duke then promised to give six pounds annually to the Priory for a tun of wine, and also traitorously granted to the Priory twenty pounds for conducting water to the priory, of which the Duke paid down ten pounds, and that to the said Father Nicholas he then gave three pounds, and at other times forty shillings, one mark, and six and eightpence sterling. And afterwards, the Duke went again to Father Nicholas, at the Priory, 20*th March*, 10 Hen. 8, and communicated with him on the premises, in order to obtain further knowledge thereof, and the Monk Nicholas again told the Duke he should be King of England; to which the Duke replied,—that the Monk Nicholas had well done when he before warned Delacourt to keep the matter secret, under the seal of confession,—adding,—that if the King got any knowledge thereof he, the Duke, would be utterly ruined.

And furthermore the Duke, to carry his traitorous intentions into effect, did, 20*th October*, 7 Hen. 8, send from Thornbury to London one Robert Gilbert, late of Thornbury, clerk, his Chancellor, to buy stuffs of gold and silver, and silks, each time to the amount of three hundred marks, in order that the Duke might traitorously give the same as well to the Knights, Gentlemen, and Valets of the King's guard, as to other his subjects, in order to obtain friends and adherents in his false and traitorous intentions; and Gilbert bought the stuffs at London accordingly, and sent the same to Thornbury, 4*th November*, 7 Hen. 8, and several other times; and that the Duke, at Thornbury, on the 20*th January*, 7 Hen. 8, and divers other times, distributed such stuffs to divers of the King's lieges, in order to fulfil his traitorous intentions.

And further that the Duke, on the 10*th July*, 10 Hen. 8, at Thornbury, appointed many more officers in his castles, honours, and hereditaments, than he had been accustomed to have before, to the end that such officers might assist him in his treasons.

And further, that the Duke, prosecuting his false and traitorous intentions, on the 10*th May*, 9 Hen. 8, sent the said Robert Gilbert to the King and his Council to London, and to East Greenwich, in the county of Kent, to obtain authority from the King to retain the King's lieges in the counties of Hereford, Gloucester, and Somerset, and that he might also transmit arms and warlike equipments at his pleasure to Wales; in order that he might by such gifts, retainers, and armaments so strengthen himself against the King that he might thereby destroy and subdue the King and take upon himself the Crown and royal dignity of England. And the said Robert Gilbert, on the 20*th May*, 9 Hen. 8, and at other times, laboured with the King, and made suit on behalf of the Duke, that the Duke might obtain such authority and licence from the King.

And further, that the Duke falsely and traitorously, 20*th July*, 9 Hen. 8, sent the said Robert Gilbert from Thornbury to Henton, to request Father Nicholas that he should send to the Duke what he had heard concerning him, who replied to Gilbert that before Christmas then next, there should be a change, and that the Duke should have the government of all England.

And further, 20*th February*, 11 Hen. 8, at Bletchingly, in the county of Surrey, the Duke falsely and traitorously told Gilbert,—that he, the Duke, would delay putting off his intentions until a more convenient time: and that the thing could be well done, if the noblemen of this kingdom would mutually declare their minds to one another, but that many of them were afraid so to declare their minds, and therefore this spoiled all.—And the Duke further told Gilbert,—that all that the father of the King had done, had been done in wrong, and that he the Duke had always murmured against what the present King had done,—he also further traitorously said,—that he the said Duke was such a great sinner, that he was certain that he wanted the grace of God, and therefore he well knew that he should be the worse for it whenever he began to do anything against the King.

And further that the Duke, in order to accomplish his treasonable intentions, and in order to excite, as well the nobles of this kingdom, as other the King's lieges to murmur and turn their minds and hearts and allegiances against the King and his heirs, did 20*th September*, 1 Hen. 8, at London, falsely and traitorously say to Gilbert,—that he had a certain writing, sealed with the great seal, containing a certain Act of Parliament, by which it was enacted, that the Duke of Somerset, one of the King's noble progenitors, was legitimated.

And further, that the said Duke said to Gilbert,—that he once intended to give the said writing to King Henry 7,—but the Duke said,—that he would not have done so for 10,000*l.*

And further, the Duke, persevering in his said treasonable intentions, 4*th November*, 11 Hen. 8, at East Greenwich, in the county of Kent, said to one Charles Knyvet, Esq.,—that after the King had blamed him, the Duke, for retaining Sir William Bulmer, Knight, in the service of him the Duke, he, the Duke, thought he should be committed to the Tower of London. The Duke further said to Knyvet,—that if he, the Duke, had understood that he should have been committed to the Tower, the chief actors therein should not profit by the same, but he would do what his father intended to do to King Richard 3. at New Sarum, in the county of Wilts, to wit that his father had made his suit to come into the presence of King Richard, having about him a concealed dagger, and that his father intended, when he should be kneeling before King Richard, to rise suddenly and plunge the dagger into the body of the said King Richard. And the Duke, thus saying, maliciously and traitorously put his hand upon the hilt of his sword and said,—that if he should be so ill treated, he would do the best to fulfil his treasonable intentions,—and swore a great oath thereupon.

And moreover, the Duke, rejoicing and exulting in his treasonable acts and imaginations, did, 10*th May,* 12 Hen. 8, being at London, in a certain place called the Red Rose, in the parish of St. Lawrence Poultney, in the ward of Candlewick-street, publicly, falsely, and treasonably ask of Charles Knyvet,—what were the conversations of London, and what was said about the King's voyage beyond seas,—and Knyvet said to the Duke that many people were afraid of the journey, for that the French intend deception and treason against the King; and the Duke then and there falsely and treasonably said,—"It is likely that it may come to pass according to the words of the holy Monk, for there is a certain holy Monk, in a certain Charter-house, who hath divers times sent to me that I should send him my Chancellor, and I sent him John Delacourt; which Monk would tell nothing to Delacourt until Delacourt was sworn that he would keep all the matters secret. And then Delacourt was sworn, that he would repeat nothing of the sayings of the Monk, except to me the Duke; and the Monk told Delacourt that he had knowledge. by the power of God, that neither the King nor his heirs should prosper, and that I, the Duke, should strengthen myself to the utmost of my power to obtain the love of the community of England, for that I, the Duke, and my blood, should prosper, and that we should have the government of the kingdom of England."—And then Knyvet said, "that the Monk might be deceived by the devil, and that it was bad to meddle in such things;"—and the Duke said to Knyvet, "that it could not damnify him."—And the Duke then and there falsely rejoiced at the words of the Monk; and the Duke said to Knyvet,—"that if it had gone well with the said King, when he the King was last sick, he the Duke would have caused my Lord the Cardinal, Sir Thomas Lovel, Knight, and others, to be beheaded;*"—and the said Duke said, "that he would rather die than be ordered as he then was."

And furthermore, the Duke, persevering in his traitorous and wicked intention, 10*th September,* 11 Hen. 8, at Bletchingly, in the county of Surrey, walking in his gallery with George Nevill, Knight, Lord Bergavenny, murmured against the councillors of the King and against their government, and he said to the said George Nevill,—that if the King died, he would have the government of England, whatever might be said to the contrary.

And furthermore he said to the Lord Bergavenny,—that if he the said Lord Bergavenny should say that the Duke had so spoken to him, that he the Duke would fight the Lord Bergavenny in this quarrel, and strike him with his sword on his head,—and this he affirmed with great oaths, and thus the Duke, in the before-mentioned manner and form, falsely and treasonably purposed and compassed the death of the King.

Trial and Acquittal of William Lord Dacre and Graistock, or Greystock.—Treasonable communications and alliances with the Scots.—Court of the Lord High Steward and Peers, 9th July, 1534. 26 Hen. VIII.

(M. 15.) 26 June, 26 Hen. 8. { Commission whereby Thomas Duke of Norfolk, Treasurer and Earl Marshal of England, is appointed Lord High Steward of England, for the arraignment and trial of William Dacre of Naward in the county of Cumberland, Knight, Lord Dacre and Graistok, against whom indictments for high treason had been found in the county of Cumberland.—Portion of the great seal appended.

(M. 12.) 23 May, 26 Hen. 8. { Cumberland. — Commission, whereby Henry Earl of Northumberland; Ralph Earl of Westmorland; Henry Earl of Cumberland; Thomas Clifford, Knight; Thomas Walton, Knight; Thomas Fairfax, Serjeant-at-Law; and Robert Chaloner, are appointed Justices and Special Commissioners, to receive indictments of all treasons, &c.; the Earls of Northumberland and Cumberland, Thomas Fairfax, and Robert Chaloner, or two of them, being of the quorum. Returnable in the King's Bench in eight days of St. John the Baptist.—Portion of the great seal appended.

(M. 10.) 15 June, 26 Henry 8. { Cumberland.—Indictment found at the Castle of Carlisle before the before-mentioned justices. The grand jury, to wit, Sir Edward Musgrave, Knight; Sir John Lowther, Knight; and others, present, that whereas the King, by his letters patent, 2*nd December*, 19 Henry 8, for the special trust and confidence which he had in William Dacre of Naward in the county of Cumberland, Knight, Lord Dacre and Graistok, and in order to protect and defend the West Marches towards Scotland, appointed him warden of the West Marches, whereby Lord Dacre held such office till 8 May, 26 Henry 8, and by virtue thereof had the government of the king's lieges within such Marches, as well in time of peace, as in time of war between the King and James King of Scotland. Nevertheless, Lord Dacre, against his allegiance, sought traitorously to deceive the King: and also machinated to the intent that Sir William Musgrave, Knight, the King's true subject, Constable of the King's Castle of "Bow Castle," otherwise "Both Castle," and all his tenants, might be slain by the Scots, the King's enemies, and their habitations, goods, and chattels burnt, robbed and destroyed.

And also, showing himself as an adherent of the Scots, and also abetting and aiding the Scots in the before-mentioned traitorous attempt; he afterwards, 8th November, 24*th Hen.* 8, at "Artureth" (Cumberland), made a wicked and treacherous agreement through Christopher Dacre of Croglyng in the said county, Knight, with certain Scots, to wit, with Thomas Armestrong, William Elwood, and Archibald Elwood, and other Scots, the king's enemies, inhabiting in a certain territory of Scotland called "Ledersdale," for surety against any acts of hostility, war, or invasion to be done by them against Lord Dacre, or against any others within his wardenship of the West Marches, except against Sir William Musgrave, his tenants and adherents; and that Lord Dacre, by Christopher Dacre, falsely and treacherously made a treaty with the said men of "Ledersdale" for their indemnity, and being kept harmless by the said Lord Dacre, and all the King's lieges within his wardenship, except Sir William Musgrave and his servants, and other the King's lieges then being under the said Sir William Musgrave. By reason of which false and traitorous treaties, the Scots living in "Ledersdale" afterwards, 1*st July*, 25 Henry 8, entered England in warlike manner as far as "Burghasteldale," and there slew one John Rutlege, one of the King's true lieges, then being under the command of Sir William Musgrave, for the defence of the kingdom, and committed many murders, burnings, and robberies upon the King's lieges under the command of Sir William Musgrave. And the same outrages were so committed without Lord Dacre making any reprisals upon the King's enemies.

Furthermore, Lord Dacre, machinating how he could cause Henry Earl of Northumberland, the King's lieutenant in the East Marches, to be conquered and destroyed, did, 5*th December*, 24 Henry 8, at "Ledersdale," make a false and traitorous treaty with "William Scotte, Lord of Bukclough," one of the magnates of Scotland, and then a great enemy of the King and kingdom. To wit that neither of them, the Lord Dacre and the Lord of Bukclough should harm the other of them or his retainers, whether in time of peace or of war, and that the Lord of Bukclough should, with all his power, invade and harm the Earl of Northumberland. By virtue of which false and traitorous treaty afterwards, to wit 5th December, 24 Henry 8, when war had been openly declared between the King and the King of Scotland, the Lord Dacre, with a great array of the King's lieges, invaded Scotland, and he, the Lord Dacre, and his uncle Sir Christopher Dacre of Croglyng, in the county of Cumberland, Knight, traitorously prevented Sir William Musgrave not only from spoiling the Scots dwelling upon a certain territory of the Lord of Bukclough, called, "Hassyndenbanke," but also prevented the said Sir William Musgrave from doing any harm upon the Lordships of the Lord of Bukclough: and that the Lord of Bukclough 20th December, 24 Henry 8, and many times before and since, by reason of the before-mentioned traitorous treaty, and not fearing that any harm would be done to him by the Lord Dacre, or other the King's lieges of the West Marches, invaded the East Marches with a great army of Scots, and attacked the King's lieges under the command of Henry Earl of Northumberland.

And further, that Lord Dacre and Sir Christopher Dacre, falsely and traitorously machinating how they might destroy the said Sir William Musgrave, and the King's lieges under his command, 1st October, 24 Henry 8, made a traitorous treaty at "Torlercryke" in the Debateable Ground, adjoining the county of Cumberland, with Robert Lord Maxwell, one of the Magnates of Scotland, and one of the King's great enemies, that neither of them, the Lord Dacre and Lord Maxwell, should harm the other or his retainers, whether in time of peace or of war. By reason of which traitorous treaty afterwards, to wit 10th December, 24 Henry 8, war then having arisen between the King and the King of Scotland, the said Lord Dacre, in fulfilment of his treaty, secretly sent his uncle Sir Christopher Dacre to the Lord Maxwell, giving him intelligence of the time when he the Lord Dacre intended to invade Scotland, which Lord Maxwell afterwards met Sir Christopher at "Redekirke" in Scotland, near the water of Eske, when Sir Christopher traitorously communicated, and agreed with Lord Maxwell that the army under Lord Dacre should invade the lordships and territories of the kindred and friends of the Earl of "Angwys," a true friend of the King. After which, within the two next days, when the Lord Dacre with the King's army entered the kingdom of Scotland, the Lord Maxwell entered this kingdom of England with a large army of Scots, and sparing the houses and territories of Lord Dacre, greatly spoiled the houses and possessions of the King's lieges in the West Marches, and particularly those who were serving under Sir William Musgrave.

Furthermore, in the observance and fulfilment of the said traitorous treaties with the Lords of Bukclough and Maxwell, and also by reason of the great favour and affection which the said Lord Dacre bore to the Scots, the King's enemies, he, the Lord Dacre would in no wise do, or suffer to be done, anything which should turn to the damage or annoyance of the Scots of the Scottish Marches adjoining the English East Marches. And the said Lord Dacre in order to confirm the said traitorous treaties, and to help the Scots, the King's enemies, and to cause the Earl of Northumberland and Sir William Musgrave to be slain and destroyed by the Scots, had various secret meetings with "Robert Charters, Lord of Hempesfeld," one of the Magnates of Scotland, and with divers others the King's enemies in time of war. During which proceedings, the said Lord Maxwell, in the night between the 27th and 28th March, 24 Henry 8, with two of his servants, came in a friendly way to a tower of the Lord Dacre, called the Tower of "Roclyffe" in the county of Cumberland, and there continued until 10 o'clock in the evening of the 28th of March, when the Lord Dacre with a single servant met the Lord Maxwell in a friendly way in the Tower, and there treacherously agreed that no harm should be done by the said Lord Dacre, or any one in his wardenship, against the Lord Maxwell or any of his retainers, during which time the Lord Maxwell was vehemently attacking the Earl of Northumberland and Sir William Musgrave, and that the Lord Dacre had many other friendly meetings with the Lord Maxwell. Shortly afterwards, viz., 12th April, 24 Henry 8, the Lord Dacre and Sir Christopher Dacre, in order to help the Scots, made public proclamations in the market place of Carlisle, that no one under pain of death, should make any raid into Scotland, to do any damage there, unless in the presence of the Lord Dacre, Sir Christopher Dacre, or one Thomas Dacre. By reason of which proclamations the Scots became so bold against the King's lieges, that within a short time afterwards many harms were done by the Scots in England without reprisals: and many Scots then inhabiting "Anerdale" and other parts of Scotland under the Lord Maxwell, invaded the East and Middle Marches with great strength against the Earl of Northumberland, doing much harm to the King's lieges.

And the jury further present that a certain Scot, the King's enemy, called "Jok of Galeway," a gunner, one of the servants of the Lord Maxwell, and keeper of the steeple of the church of Annandale in Scotland, which was then kept after manner of war, came to Carlisle 13th February, 24 Henry 8, to buy saltpetre and other materials for the purpose of making gunpowder, and transporting the same into Scotland. Whereupon John Wastlyn, or Wastlyng, one of the King's gunners, took and arrested Jok of Galeway, and kept him as a prisoner until Sir Christopher Dacre, hearing of the same, and intending to carry into effect the before-mentioned traitorous treaties, to wit on the 16th February then next, sent for John Wastlyn to come to him with his prisoner, which being done, Sir Christopher treacherously requested John Wastlyn to let his prisoner go free into Scotland, but Wastlyn refused, upon which Sir Christopher rescued Jok of Galeway from the custody of Wastlyn, and permitted him to return to Scotland freely with the saltpetre and other materials, for making gunpowder, which would be used against the King's lieges under the command of the Earl of Northumberland and Sir William Musgrave.

(M. 10.) Wednesday after one month of Easter, 27 Hen. 8.* { Middlesex.—Indictment found at Westminster, before the said Justices, sets forth the Statute 25 Henry 8, c. 22, § 5 (an Act for the Establishment of the King's Succession,) by which it is enacted that any person who shall by writing, printing, or any exterior act or deed, maliciously do anything to the peril of the King, or to the prejudice of his marriage, &c., shall be guilty of High Treason.

That Robert Feron, otherwise Robert Fern, late of Teddington, Middlesex, Clerk; and John Hale, late of Isleworth, Clerk, as false traitors and public enemies of the King, on earth Supreme Head of the Church of England, traitorously and falsely machinating to extinguish the cordial love which the true lieges of the kingdom bear to the King, and to excite sedition and rebellion against the King, and to deprive the King of his Crown, and to prejudice and scandalize the lawful marriage between the King and the Lady Anne, his lawful wife, and finally to procure the death of the King, did, 20*th May,* 26 Hen. 8, and at divers other times, between the 2*d May* and 20*th May,* 26 Henry 8, and divers subsequent times, at Isleworth and Syon, in the County of Middlesex, meet and have various treasonable discourses against the King and his marriage, when they were walking to and fro at Syon. Until after many scandalous and false words spoken by Feron to Hale, the said Feron asked Hale if there was no one who had written or would write against the King's evil deeds, which said Hale, exciting and procuring Feron to write against the King by the words after set forth, answered to Feron, that there was sufficient reason to write against the King. Furthermore, Hale, amongst other words, said and spake the following most execrable words in English concerning the King and against his Royal Majesty, viz.:—"Syth the realm of England was first a realm, was there never in it so great a robber and 'piller' of the Commonwealth read of nor heard of, as is our King. And not only we, that be of the spirituality, by his wrong be oppressed and robbed of our living, as if we were his utter enemies, enemies unto Christ, and guilty of his death, but also thus 'ungoodly' he doth handle 'innocents,' and also highly learned and virtuous men, not only robbing them of their living, and spoiling them of their goods, but also thrusting them into perpetual prison, so that it is too great pity to hear, and more to be lamented than any good Christian man's ears may abide. And he doth the same, as by that mean he would revenge his own injuries and the injuries of Christian faith, by whose title in a marvellous fashion he boasteth himself, to be above and to excel all other Christian Kings and Princes; thereby being puffed with vain glory and pride. Where, of a truth, he is the most cruellest, capital heretic, defacer, and treader under foot of Christ and of his Church, continually applying and minding to 'extinct' the same. And also the lay-fee, sometimes the nobles and sometimes the commons, without difference, upon chance and displeasure grown, or of truth forsought and feigned, he doth 'enpoverish,' destroy, and kill for none other intent but that he may enjoy and use his foul pleasures, and increase to himself great treasure and riches, enriching strangers, and pylling and robbing his own subjects, and making fair houses but most superfluous. Whose death I beseech God may be like to the death of the most wicked John, sometime King of this realm, or rather to be called a great 'tyran' than a King, and that his death may not be much unlike to the end of that 'manqueller' Richard, sometime usurper of this Imperial realm. And, if thou wilt deeply look upon his life, thou shalt find it more foul and more stinking than a sow, wallowing and defiling herself in any filthy place, for how great soever he is, he is fully given to his foul pleasure of the flesh and other voluptuousness. And, look how many matrons be in the Court, or given to marriage, these almost all, he hath violated, so often 'neclecting' his duty to his wife, and offending the Holy Sacrament of matrimony, and now he hath taken to his wife of fornication this matron Anne, not only with the highest shame and undoing himself, but also all this realm."

And that afterwards, to wit, 10*th March*, 26 Henry 8, the said Feron, or Fern, in consequence of this conversation, wrote down in Latin the treacherous words so spoken in English by Hale.

That in the same conversation between Feron and Hale, on the 20*th May*, Hale said to Feron,—"Until the King and the rulers of this realm be plucked by the pates, and brought, as we say, to the pot, shall we never live merrily in England, which I pray God may chance, and now shortly to come to pass. Ireland is set against him, which will never shrink in their quarrel to die in it;—and what think ye of Wales? Their noble and gentle Ap Ryce, so cruelly put to death, and he innocent, as they say, in the cause. I think not contrary, but they will join and take part with the Irish, and so invade our realm. If they do so, doubt ye not but they shall have aid and strength enough in England, for this is truth, three parts of England be against the King, as he shall find if he need; for, of truth, they go about to bring this realm into such miserable condition as is France, which the Commons see and perceive well enough, a sufficient cause of rebellion and insurrection in this realm. And truly, we of the Church shall never live merrily until that day come." To the King's contempt and in despite of the said marriage, &c.

27 June, 27 Hen. 8.—Precept for and return of the Grand Jury.

Monday next after the Feast of St. John the Baptist. } Middlesex.—Indictment found at Westminster, sets forth the substance of the Act of Supremacy, 26 Hen. 8, c. 1, and of part of the Act of 26 Hen. 8, c. 13.

That Sir Thomas More, late of Chelsea, in the county of Middlesex, Knight, traitorously imagining and attempting to deprive the King of his title as Supreme head of the Church, &c., did 7th May, 27 Hen. 8, at the Tower of London, before Thomas Crumwell, Esq., the King's principal secretary, Thomas Bedyll, clerk, and John Tregonell, Doctor of Laws, the King's Councillors, and before divers other persons, being examined, whether he accepted and would accept the King as Supreme head in earth of the Church of England, pursuant to the statute, refused to give a direct answer to such interrogatory, saying in English to the following:

effect:—"I will not meddle with any such matters, for I am fully determined to serve God, and to think upon his Passion, and my passage out of this world."

That afterwards, to wit 12*th May*, 27 Hen. 8, the said Sir Thomas More, knowing that John Fissher, clerk, was then and had been detained in the Tower for divers great misprisions committed by him against the King, and that the said Fissher, being examined, had denied to accept the King as before mentioned, wrote a letter to him, which was transmitted by one George Golde, by which he agreed with Fissher in his treason, and by the same intimated the silence which he, More, had observed when interrogated. Moreover, in such letter he wrote in English to the following effect.—"The Act of Parliament is like a sword with two edges, for if a man answer one way it will confound his soul, and if the other way it will confound his body."

That afterwards Sir Thomas More, fearing lest Fissher should reveal upon his renewed examination what he, More, had written to him, he, the said Sir Thomas More, at the Tower, 26*th May*, 27 Hen. 8, sent other his letters to Fissher, requesting him to answer according to his own mind, and not to give any such answer as he, Sir Thomas More, had written, lest the King's councillors should suspect confederacy between them. Nevertheless, in consequence of the letters first written by More to Fissher, it so came to pass that Fissher, being instructed by the letter of Sir Thomas More, did afterwards, to wit 3*rd June*, 27 Hen. 8, at the Tower, when examined by Sir Thomas Audeley, Knight, Charles Duke of Suffolk, Thomas Earl of Wilts, and others, the King's councillors, refuse to give a direct answer, but spake the following words in English:—"I will not meddle with that matter; for the statute is like a two-edged sword, and if I should answer one way I should offend my conscience, and if I should answer another way, I should put my life in jeopardy; wherefore, I will make no answer in that matter."

That the said Sir Thomas More likewise, when examined at the Tower, 3*rd June*, 27 Hen. 8, persevered in refusing to give a direct answer, and then and there imagining and contriving to deprive the King of his royal dignity, and to move sedition and hatred against the King, spake as follows, in English, to the King's councillors, viz.:—"The law and statute whereby the King is made Supreme head as is aforesaid, be like a sword with two edges. For if a man say that the same laws be good, there is danger to the soul, and if he say contrary to the said statute, then it is death to the body. Wherefore I will make thereunto none other answer, because I will not be occasion of the shortening of my life." And moreover, the said More and Fissher, in order to conceal their treacherous intentions, severally burned their letters which passed between them immediately after reading the same.

Afterwards, to wit 12*th June*, 27 Hen. 8, Richard Ryche, the King's Solicitor-General, came to the said Sir Thomas More in the Tower: and the said Richard Ryche charitably moved Sir Thomas More to be conformable to the before-mentioned Acts and laws; to which More replied,—"Your conscience will save you, and my conscience will save me". And Ryche then and there, protesting that he had no authority to make any communication with More, said to him,—"Supposing that it were enacted by Parliament that he, Richard Ryche, should be king, and that it should be treason to deny the same, what would be the offence if he, Sir Thomas More, was to say that Ryche was King, for certain," said Ryche, "that in his conscience there was no effect but that More would be obliged so to accept Ryche for king, because he, More, would be bound by the Act of Parliament." To which More then and there answered,—"that he should offend if he were to say no, for he was obliged by the Act, because he could give his consent to the same;" but he said that that was a light case; and wherefore the said Thomas More further said to Ryche that he would put a higher case, —"Suppose it should be enacted by Parliament quod Deus non esset Deus, and that opposing the Act should be a treason, and if it were asked of you, Richard Ryche, whether you would say quod Deus non erat Deus according to the statute, and if you were to say no, would you not offend?" To which Ryche answered More,—"Certainly; because it is impossible quod Deus non esset Deus; but, because your case is so high, I will put a medium one. You know that our Lord the King is constituted chief head on earth of the Church of England; and why, Master More, can you not affirm to accept the same, just as you would in the preceding case, that I should be made king, in which case you agree that you would be obliged to acknowledge and accept me as king."—To which More, persevering in his treasons, answered to Ryche,—"that the cases were not similar, because the King can be made by Parliament and deprived by Parliament, and to which Act every subject being in Parliament gives his consent; but in the first case the subject cannot be obliged, because his consent cannot be given for that in Parliament; and although the King might be so accepted in England, yet many do not assent to the same in foreign parts."

Thursday next after the Feast of St. John the Baptist, 27 Hen. 8, (1 July, 1535), At Westminster, Sir Thomas More is brought to the bar by Sir Edward Walsingham, Knight, Lieutenant of Sir William Kingeston, Knight, Constable of the Tower; pleads, Not Guilty.

Venire awarded; returnable immediately, to wit on the said Thursday next after the Feast of St. John the Baptist.

At which day the prisoner is again brought to the bar. Verdict, GUILTY.

Judgment as is usual in cases of high treason; execution at Tyburn.

Precept addressed by the High Steward to Ralph Felmyngham, Serjeant-at-Arms, commanding him to summon such and so many Lords, Proceres, and Magnates of the kingdom of England, peers of the said Queen Anne and Lord Rocheford, by whom the truth can be better known to appear.

Sir William Kingeston, Knight, Constable of the Tower, brings in the bodies of Queen Anne and Lord Rocheford.

Ralph Felmyngham, Serjeant-at-Arms, appears and returns that he has summoned such and so many Lords, Proceres, and Magnates of the Kingdom of England, &c., according to the Precept.

Proclamation made by the Lord High Steward, that as well all Dukes and Earls as well as Barons, peers of the Queen Anne and Lord Rocheford then present in Court, should appear and answer to their names, which several Dukes, Earls, and Barons then present in full Court, to wit, Charles Duke of Suffolk, Henry Marquis of Exeter, William Earl of Arundel, John Earl of Oxford, Henry Earl of Northumberland, Ralph Earl of Westmoreland, Edward Earl of Derby, Henry Earl of Worcester, Thomas Earl of Rutland, Robert Earl of Sussex, George Earl of Huntingdon, John Lord Audeley, Thomas Lord La Ware, Henry Lord Mountague, Henry Lord Morley, Thomas Lord Dacre, George Lord Cobham, Henry Lord Maltravers, Edward Lord "Powes," Thomas Lord Mounteagle, Edward Lord Clinton, William Lord Sandys, Andrew Lord Windsor, Thomas Lord Wentworth, Thomas Lord Burgh, and John Lord Mordaunt, who answer to their names, and whose names are severally recorded by the Lord High Steward.

Wednesday next after three weeks of Easter, 28 Hen. 8. Middlesex.—Indictment found at Westminster before Sir John Baldewyn, &c., by the oaths of Giles Heron, Esq.; Roger More, Esq.; Richard Awnsham, Esq.; Thomas Byllyngton, Esq.; Gregory Lovel, Esq.; John Worsop, Esq.; William Goddard, Gent.; William Blakwall, Gent.; John Wylford, Gent.; William Berd, Gent.; Henry Hubbylthorn, Gent.; William Hunyng, Gent.; Robert Walys, Gent.; John Englond, Gent.; Henry Lodysman, Gent.; and John Averey, Gent.*

That the Lady Anne Queen of England having been wife of the King for the space of three years and more, she, the said Lady Anne, contemning the marriage so solemnized between her and the King, and bearing malice in her heart against the King, and following her frail and carnal lust, did falsely and traitorously procure, by means of indecent language, gifts, and other acts therein stated, divers of the King's daily and familiar servants to become her adulterers and concubines, so that several of the King's servants, by the said Queen's most vile provocation and invitation, became given and inclined to the said Queen.

That the Queen, 6 October, 25 Hen. 8, at Westminster, by words, &c., procured and incited one Henry Norreys, Esq., one of the Gentlemen of the King's Privy Chamber, to have illicit intercourse with her, and that the act was committed at Westminster, 12 October, 25 Hen. 8.

That the Queen, 2 November, 27 Hen. 8, by the means therein stated, procured and incited George Boleyn, Knight, Lord Rocheford, her own natural brother, to have illicit intercourse with her, and that the act was committed, 5 November in the same year, at Westminster, against the commands of Almighty God and all laws human and divine, &c.

That the Queen, 3 December, 25 Hen. 8, procured and incited William Bryerton, Esq., one of the Gentlemen of the King's Privy Chamber, to have illicit intercourse with her, and that the act was committed at Hampton Court, 25 December, 25 Hen. 8.

That the Queen, 8 May, 26 Hen. 8, procured and incited Francis Weston, Knight, one of the Gentlemen of the King's Privy Chamber, to have illicit intercourse with her, and that the act was committed at Westminster, 20 May, 26 Hen. 8.

That the Queen, 12 April, 26 Hen. 8, procured and incited Mark Smeaton, Esq., one of the Grometers of the King's Chamber, to have illicit intercourse with her, and that the act was committed at Westminster, 26 April, 26 Hen. 8.

Furthermore, that the said George Lord Rocheford, Henry Norreys, William Bryerton, Sir Francis Weston, and Mark Smeaton, being thus inflamed by carnal love of the Queen, and having become very jealous of each other, did, in order to secure her affections, satisfy her inordinate desires; and that the Queen was equally jealous of the Lord Rocheford, and other the before mentioned traitors, and she would not allow them to show any familiarity with any other woman without her exceeding displeasure and indignation; and that on the 27*th day of November*, 27 Hen. 8, and other days at Westminster, she gave them gifts and great rewards to inveigle them to her will.

Furthermore, that the Queen and other the said traitors jointly and severally, 31 October, 27 Hen. 8, and at various times before and after, compassed and imagined the King's death, and that the Queen had frequently promised to marry some one of the traitors whenever the King should depart this life, affirming she never would love the King in her heart.

Furthermore, that the King, having within a short time before become acquainted with the beforementioned crimes, vices and treasons, had been so grieved that certain harms and dangers had happened to his royal body.

* The names of the Grand Jurors are given, on account of the importance of the transaction.

And thus the Queen and the beforementioned traitors had committed the beforementioned treasons in contempt of the King, &c., to the danger of the King's person and body, and to the scandal, danger, detriment, and derogation of the issue and heirs of the said King and Queen.

Thursday, 11 May, 28 Hen. 8. { Kent.—Indictment found at Deptford before Sir John Baldewyn, &c., by the oaths of Richard Clement, Knight; William Fynche, Knight; Edward Boughton, Knight; Anthony Seynt Leger, Esq.; John Cromer, Esq.; John Fogg, Esq.; Thomas Wylleford, Esq.; John Norton, Esq.; Humphrey Style, Esq.; Robert Fyssher, Gent.; Thomas Sybbell, Gent.; John Lovelass, Gent.; Walter Haryndon, Gent.; Edmund Page, Gent.; Thomas Fereby, Gent.; and Lionel Ansty, Gent., to the same effect as the Middlesex indictment, the commission of the acts of illicit intercourse being laid at East Greenwich.

Monday, 15*th day of May*, 28 Hen. 8, (1536) { Before the Lord High Steward, at the Tower, &c., Anne, Queen of England, comes in the custody of Sir William Kingeston, Knight, Constable of the Tower, and is brought to the bar: and being arraigned of the beforementioned treasons pleads not guilty, and puts herself upon her peers, whereupon the Duke of Suffolk, Marquis of Exeter, and other the beforementioned Earls and Barons, peers of the said Queen, being charged by the said Lord High Steward to say the truth, and afterwards being examined severally by the Lord High Steward, from the lowest Peer to the highest, each of them severally saith that she is GUILTY.

The King's Sergeants-at-Law and Attorney pray judgment.

Judgment.—That the Queen be taken by the said Constable back to the King's prison within the Tower, and then, as the King shall command, be brought to the Green within the said Tower, and there burned or beheaded as shall please the King.

Monday, 15 May, 28 Hen. 8, (1536). { Before the said Duke of Norfolk, High Steward, George Boleyn, Knight, Lord Rocheford is brought to the bar, and being arraigned pleads Not guilty, &c., upon which the Duke of Suffolk, Marquis of Exeter, and all the beforementioned Earls and Barons (the Earl of Northumberland only excepted, he being absent on account of a sudden illness), peers of the Lord Rocheford, being charged by the Lord High Steward to say the truth, and afterwards being examined severally by the Lord High Steward, from the lowest Peer to the highest, each of them severally saith that he is GUILTY.

The King's Sergeant-at-Law and Attorney pray judgment.

And that they did with arms, &c. levy war against the King, and took and slew divers lieges of the King, who refused to fulfil their traitorous intent. England, and to compel the King to hold a parliament; and did commit various rebellions and insurrections, &c. at Pontefract, divers days and times before the said 10*th day of October.*

And furthermore, that at Doncaster, 20*th October,* 28 Hen. 8, they assembled and conspired to levy war against the King.

And that, although the King had graciously pardoned them the conspirators, all offences committed by them from the beginning of the rebellion to 10*th December,* 28 Hen. 8, nevertheless they, the Lord Darcy, &c., persevering and continuing in their treasons, did subsequently to such pardon, viz., the 17*th January,* 28 Hen. 8, at Sedryngton, Tempyl Hyrst, Flambourghe, and Beverley, compass and imagine to deprive the King of his royal dignity, viz., of being on earth Supreme head of the Church of England, and to compel the King to hold a parliament and convocation of the clergy of the kingdom, and to annul divers good laws made for the common weal of the people of England, and to depose and deprive the King of his royal power, liberty, state, and dignity, by force and danger of death.

Also charges that after the pardon, viz., 28*th January,* 28 Hen. 8, at Tempyl Hyrst, &c. they mutually despatched various letters and correspondence to each other.

Furthermore, that Bygott and Lumley, 21*st January,* 28 Hen. 8, at Sedryngton, &c., with a great multitude and power of armed men, publicly proclaimed divers treasons to excite the King's lieges to levy war against the King.

(Ms. 12 and 13.) 12 May, 29 Hen. 8. { Lincolnshire.—The indictment, taken at Sleford, charges that John Huse, of Sleaford, in the county of Lincoln, Knight, Lord Huse; otherwise John Hussey, Knight, Lord Hussey, late of Sleford, on the 1*st October,* 28 Hen. 8, at Sleford, &c., together with William Burreby, late of Lowth, Clerk; Thomas Moigne, late of North Wyllyngham, in the same county, Gentleman; George Huddeswell, late of Horstow, in the same county, Gentleman; Philip Trotter, late of Horncastle, in the said county, mercer; Bryan Stone, late of "Mynnynesby," in the same county, labourer; Guy Keyme, late of Tetney, in the same county, Yeoman; Roger Folyat, late of Ruskynton, in the same county, Gentleman; and John Welscheman, late of Sleford, Yeoman; and others, traitorously conspiring to deprive the King of his dignity, right, and title, viz., of being on earth Supreme head of the Church of England, did, on the 2*nd October* in the same year, at Lowth, &c., by the aid and abetment of the Lord Huse, levy war against the King, and also made proclamations and caused the bells to be rung, by means of which they raised the people to the amount of 4000 persons, and continued together until 4*th October* following, and thence, with arms and implements of war, oaths being taken amongst them and captains named, continued together, and having increased to the number of 6000 persons, proceeded with banners displayed to Caister, in the county of Lincoln, and there compelled Sir Robert Tyrwhit, Knight, and other Justices of the King, then sitting in full sessions, to fly for fear of death, and took some of the said Justices prisoners.

And furthermore, that Burreby, Moigne, Huddeswell, Trotter, Stone, Keyme, &c., continued armed in manner of war from the 4*th October,* 28 Hen. 8, and made proclamation and ringing of bells at Lowth, Caister, Horncastle, Sleford, and Legbourne, and elsewhere, in the county of Lincoln, until 5*th October,* and about 10 o'clock on the same day, with a great power of armed men, to the amount of 10,000, proceeded to "Towys," in the said county; and on the same 5*th October,* by proclamation, &c., having assembled the King's lieges to the amount of 12,000 people with banners displayed, &c., believing and supposing that the greater number of the people of the kingdom would agree with them in opinion and fulfil their traitorous intents, and, at the instigation of the Lord Huse, took their way towards Lincoln, and continued in a certain field, called "Netlam Field," in the township of Netlam, in the county of Lincoln, near the city of Lincoln, to carry on their war against the King and deprive him of his royal war and dignity, and so continued in open field during the whole of the same day.

And that one Reginald Pole, late of London, Esquire, otherwise Reginald Pole, late Dean of Exeter; Michael Throgmorton, late of London, Gentleman; John Helyard, late of Warblyngton, in the county of Southampton, Clerk; Thomas Goldwell, late of Cheryton, in the county of Kent, Clerk; and William Petowe, late of West Greenwich, in the county of Kent, Brother of the Order of St. Francis, knowing the said Pope of Rome thus to be the King's enemy, did, 20 July, 28 Hen. 8, personally repair to the Pope of Rome, and pass beyond the seas, and there adhered to and became the liegemen of the said Pope: and falsely and unnaturally renounced the King, their natural liege lord.

well, and William Petowe, from the 20*th July*, have continued to live in the obedience of the Pope of Rome in parts beyond the seas, and are there vagrant and denying the King to be upon earth, Supreme head of the Church of England.

And for the fuller demonstration and publication of such false and treasonable opinion Reginald Pole did, 1*st Jan.* 28 Hen. 8, send certain letters written with his own hand to London, and therein openly denied the King to be Supreme head of the Church of England.

Furthermore, that Geoffrey Pole, late of Lurdyngton, otherwise Lordyngton, in the county of Sussex, Knight, otherwise Geoffrey Pole, late of London, Knight, as the King's false traitor and enemy, machinating to extinguish the cordial affection which the King's subjects bear to the King, and also to excite them to rebellion against the King, and to deprive the King of his crown, and also seeking the King's personal damage and death, and to deprive him of his royal dignity, viz., of being on earth Supreme head of the Church of England, and seeking to agree with and confirm Reginald Pole in his said opinion, had a discourse with Henry Pole, Knight, Lord Mountacute, 12 May, 27 Hen. 8, at Lurdyngton, where, amongst other most wicked words, he said the following in English, viz.,—"I like well the proceedings of my brother Reynold Pole, Cardinal at Rome, but I like not the doings and proceedings in this realm, and I trust to see a change of this world."

And furthermore the said Geoffrey Pole, at Lurdyngton, 14 April, 28 Hen. 8., said the following English words to one Hugh Holland, the King's traitor, then about to go to Rome, viz.,—"Commend me to my brother the Cardinal Pole, and show him I would I were with him, and I will come to him, if he will have me, for to show him the world in England waxeth all crooked. God's law is turned 'upso downe,' abbeys and churches overthrown, and he is taken for a traitor, and I think they will cast down parish churches and all, at the last: and because he shall trust you, shew him this token, and shew him further that there 'ben' men sent from England daily to destroy him, and that much money would be given for his head."

And furthermore to fulfil his treacherous intent, he on the 4 Nov., 28 Hen. 8, at Lurdyngton, in the county of Sussex, said the following words in English to George Crofts, the King's clerk, viz.,—"I must go northward, but I will shift for me well enough; if they come to fighting, I will, save one;"—in contempt of the King's crown and dignity.

Indorsed "Billa vera."

The name of Geoffrey Pole added at the bottom of the indictment.

And that Hugh Holland, at Lurdyngton, 14 April, 28 Hen. 8, having a traitorous discourse with the said Geoffrey Pole, took upon himself and promised the said Geoffrey that he the said Hugh would repair to the Cardinal Pole, and bear his message as follows, viz.,—"Commend me to my brother the Cardinal Pole," &c., as in the preceding indictment, which said traitorous words and other matters so by Geoffrey Pole declared, he the said Hugh Holland bore and declared to the Cardinal in parts beyond the seas, and by the command of the Cardinal brought back and declared divers of his business and words to Geoffrey Pole, at Lurdyngton, 1*st day of May*, 29 Hen. 8.

Trial and Conviction of Henry Pole Lord Mountacute.—Treasonable adherence to Cardinal Pole, and treasonable discourses:—Trial and Conviction of Henry Marquis of Exeter, for the same crimes.—Both in the Court of the Lord High Steward and Peers, 2nd and 3rd December, 1538. 30 Hen. VIII.,

(Ms. 27 and 26.) 30 November, 30 Hen. 8. { London.—Indictment taken at Guildhall, before William Forman, Mayor of the City of London; John Daunce, Knight; Ralph Warenne, Knight; Richard Gresham, Knight; Roger Cholmeley, Knight, Serjeant at Law; Thomas Kitson, Knight; and Nicholas Hare, Justices and Commissioners, &c.

After the several allegations against Reginald Pole, Throgmorton, Helyard, Goldwell, and Petowe, to the same substance as in the Sussex indictment, (Bundle 1, m. 21.) the indictment charges that Henry Pole, late of Bukmer, in the county of Bucks, Knight, Lord Mountacute, otherwise Henry Lord Mountacute, machinating, &c., to confirm Reginald Pole, &c., in his treacherous opinions, and to deprive the King of his dignity as Supreme head, &c., had a discourse with Geoffrey Pole, Knight, traitor and brother of the said Henry Lord Mountacute, the 24*th March,* 28 Hen. 8, at a certain mansion called Salisbury House, in the parish of St. Mary Botolph, in the ward of Walbrook, where he openly said the following words in English to Geoffrey Pole,—"I like well the doings of my brother the Cardinal, and I would we were both over the sea, for this world will one day come to 'strypes.' It must needs to come to pass one day, and I fear me, we shall lack nothing so much as honest men."

And furthermore, at the same day and place, Henry Lord Mountacute openly said to the same Geoffrey,—"I dreamed that the King is dead,"—and, moreover, the said Lord Mountacute falsely and wickedly wishing and desiring the King's death, did, on the said 24*th March,* 28 Hen. 8, in the said mansion, &c., wilfully and traitorously say the following words in English, —"He is not dead, but he will die one day suddenly, his leg will kill him, and then we shall have jolly stirring;"—and, moreover, the said Henry Lord Mountacute, persevering in his said traitorous mind, did, 1*st April,* 28 Hen. 8, at the said Mansion House, traitorously declare and say the following words to the said Geoffrey,—"The King said to the Lords that he should go from them one day,"—and in addition to, he further said,—"If he will serve us so, we shall be happily rid; I never loved him from childhood;"—and, furthermore, traitorously said to the said Geoffrey,—"He will be out of his 'wit' one day."

And further, that the said Henry Pole Lord Mountacute, on the 2*nd April,* 28 Hen. 8, at the said mansion, openly declared to the said Geoffrey, the following words in English, viz., —"Knaves rule about the King; I trust the world will amend, and that we shall have a day upon these knaves, and this world will come to 'strypes' one day."

And further that the said Lord Mountacute, in order to carry his wicked intention into effect, &c., at the said day and place, declared to the said Geoffrey Pole the following words in English,—"Cardinal Wolsey had been an honest man if he had had an honest master;"—contrary to the statutes in that case made and provided, and in despite and contempt of the King, &c.

(Ms. 24 and 23.) 30 Nov. 30 Hen. 8. { Bucks.—Indictment taken at Aylesbury before William Lord Grey de Wilton; John Baldewyn, Knight; William Barrynton, Knight; Walter Stoner, Knight; Edward Peckham; Robert Drury; Thomas Gyfford; George Gyfford; and Paul Darell, Justices and Commissioners, &c., against the Lord Mountacute, by the description of Henry Pole, late of Medmenham, in the county of Bucks, Knight, Lord Mountacute. It is to the same effect as the London indictment, only laying the venue of the traitorous discourses at Medmenham, charging the words "Knaves rule about the King, &c.," to have been spoken to John Colyngs, late of Medmenham, 25*th April,* 28 Hen. 8.

(Ms. 22 and 21.) 30 November, 30 Hen. 8. { Sussex.—Indictment, taken at East Grensted before William Shelley, Knight; John Gage, Knight; Richard Shirley, Knight; William Goryng, Knight; John Sackvyle, Esquire; Richard Sackvyle, Esquire; John Michell and John Caryll, Gentlemen, Justices, &c., against the said Henry Lord Mountacute, charges that, on the 12*th May,* 27 Hen. 8, at Lordyngton, otherwise Lurdyngton, in the county of Sussex, he said to the said Geoffrey Pole, in English, —"I like well the doing of my brother Cardinal Pole, and I never liked any doing of the King. I would we were both over the sea with the Bishop of 'Luke,' for this world will one day come to 'strypes.' A time will come; I fear me we shall not tarry the time. If we may tarry the time, we shall do well enough. It must needs come this pass one day, and I fear me we shall lack nothing so much as honest men. I had "lever" dwell in the west parts than at Warblyngton, for in the west parts the Lord Marquis of Exeter is strong. I am sorry the Lord of Bergavenny is dead, for if he were alive, he were able to make ten thousand men."

And further, that the Lord Mountacute, at Lurdyngton, 10*th July*, 29 Hen. 8, said to the said Geoffrey the following English words:—"Tusshe, Geoffrey, thou hast no 'caste,' the Lord Darcey played the fool, he went about to pluck the council, he should first have begun with the head: but I beshrew him for leaving off so soon;"—contrary, &c.

(M. 18.) 29 November, 30 Hen. 8. Surrey.—Indictment taken at Southwark, which, after the allegations concerning Cardinal Pole, Throgmorton, Helyard, Goldwell, and Petowe, charges that Henry Marquis of Exeter, late of West Horseley, in the county of Surrey, as a false traitor, &c., machinating the corporal hurt and death of the King, and to excite his subjects to rebellion, and seeking to maintain and adhere to the Cardinal Pole in his intention; and having a discourse with Geoffrey Pole, for the purpose of depriving the King as well of his royal dignity and power as of his dignity and title, of being on earth Supreme head of the church of England, did, 24*th July*, 29 Hen. 8, at West Horseley, say to Geoffrey the following words in English:—"I like well the proceedings of the Cardinal Pole;"—and further more desiring the destruction, &c., of the King, further said,—"But I like not the proceedings of this realm, and I trust to see a change of this world."

Furthermore, that the Marquis of Exeter, knowing the Lord Mountacute to be a false and abominable traitor, and in order to fulfil his traitorous intention, had many traitorous discourses with the Lord Mountacute in divers parts of the kingdom, and also machinating with the Lord Mountacute the death and destruction of the King, did, on the 25*th August*, 28 Hen. 8, at West Horseley, openly declare to the Lord Mountacute the following words in English, viz.:—"I trust once to have a fair day upon those knaves which rule about the King: and I trust to see a merry world one day."

And furthermore, that the Marquis of Exeter, persevering in his said malicious intention, did afterwards, to wit 1*st September*, 29 Hen. 8, at West Horseley, openly and maliciously say in English:—"Knaves rule about the King;"—and then wickedly and treacherously lifting up and stretching his arm, and shaking his clenched fist, spoke the following words in English,—"I trust to give them a buffet one day."

Bishop of Llandaff, President of the Council of the North; Marmaduke Constable the elder, Knight; William Copley, Knight; John Wentworth, Knight; Gervase Clifton, Knight; Thomas Fairfax, Serjeant-at-Law; and William Babthorpe; the said Earl of Shrewsbury, Bishop of Llandaff, Thomas Fairfax, and William Babthorpe, or any one of them being of the quorum.

(Ms. 22 and 23.) 20 November, 33 Hen. 8. { Yorkshire.—The Justices' Precept to the Sheriff, for the return of the Grand Jury at Doncaster, on Thursday, 24 November, and panel annexed.

(Ms. 20 and 21.) Thursday, 24 November, 33 Hen. 8. { Yorkshire.—Indictment found at Doncaster, charges that Katharine Queen of England, heretofore called Katharine Howard, late of Lambeth, in the county of Surrey, one of the daughters of Lord Edmund Howard, before her marriage with the King, committed promiscuous fornication, &c., and also charges specific acts of criminality with Francis Dereham, late of Lambeth, in the county of Surrey, Gent., 20*th May,* 32 Hen. 8; and with Henry Manak, of Streatham, in the county of Surrey, 24*th of the said month of May.*

And furthermore, that Queen Katharine conducted herself so craftily as to make the King believe that she was a virgin, and that the King believing her to be chaste, and free from any matrimonial contract, took her in marriage; and that the Queen and Francis Dereham having been examined before divers of the King's Council could not deny their offence, alleging for their excuse, that they were contracted in marriage before the solemnization of the marriage between the King and the Queen, which contract they concealed, to the intent of preferring the Queen to her Royal marriage: by which they deceived the King, to the great damage of any issue to be had between them, and the manifest injury of the whole kingdom of England.

And the Jury further find that after the marriage between the King and the Queen, the said Queen and Francis Dereham not intending to desist from their offences, on the 25*th August,* 33 Hen. 8, at Pomfret, traitorously imagined and procured that he, Dereham, should be retained in the service of the Queen, to the intent that they might continue their wicked courses; and that she did accordingly retain him in her service, 27 August, 33 Hen. 8, and had him in open favour above all other persons, and frequently had conversation with him alone in her secret chamber, and in other suspected places, and frequently committed her private affairs to him, as well by word of mouth as by writing. And that the Queen, in order to fulfil her wicked intent, traitorously gave various gifts to Dereham, and thus the Queen and Dereham being united and confederated, 27*th of August,* at Pomfret, compassed and planned that they should continue their vicious course of life.

Furthermore, that the Queen, in order to continue her wicked course of life, afterwards on the 29*th August,* 33 Hen. 8, at Pomfret, &c., had an unlawful meeting with Thomas Culpeper, late of London, Esquire, one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber, for the purpose of inciting him to have criminal intercourse with her, being so much in love with him, that on the 30*th August,* 33 Hen. 8, she intimated to him that she loved him above the King and all other men, and she gave him various gifts and tokens the more to excite him; and that Culpeper, 30*th day of August,* 33 Hen. 8, not only consented, but excited the Queen by various tokens, &c., asserting that he loved her, the Queen, more than the King or any other person. And in order to carry on their illicit intercourse with more ease and secrecy, she the Queen, as well as Culpeper, retained with great affection Joan Lady Rocheford, late of the city of Westminster, in the county of Middlesex, widow, otherwise called Joan Lady Rocheford, late widow of George Boleyn, Knight, late Lord Rocheford, being one of the Ladies of the Chamber of the said Queen, and took her into their counsel; and that the said Joan Lady Rocheford, 1*st September,* 33 Hen. 8, at Pomfret, &c. gave her consent, and as a common procuress between the Queen and Culpeper, procured meetings between the Queen and Culpeper as well in the chamber of her the said Lady Rocheford at Pomfret, as in the Privy Chamber and the Stole Chamber of the Queen, and that when the Queen and Culpeper were alone in such chambers she the Lady Rocheford watched at the doors to prevent their being surprised, &c. And thus the Lady Rocheford aided and abetted the Queen and Culpeper in their illicit intercourse on the 1st September, 33 Hen. 8, &c.

By which actings and doings of the Queen, Lady Rocheford, Culpeper, and Dereham, they conspired, imagined, and compassed, not only the danger of the Royal person and the scandal of the Royal marriage, but also the final destruction of the King.

(Ms. 19 and 20.) Friday next after the Feast of St. Lucia the Virgin, to wit, 16*th December,* 33 Hen. 8. { Surrey. — Indictment found at Southwark, setting forth that Katharine Queen of England, one of the daughters of the Lord Edmund Howard, before her marriage with the King, had illicit intercourse with divers persons in the mansion of Agnes Duchess of Norfolk, at Lambeth, where she was educated, and in particular that she was criminally connected with Francis Dereham and Henry Manak, and that the said Queen Katharine and Francis Dereham acknowledged the same, as mentioned in the preceding indictments.

That the Queen and Dereham, knowing the said Queen to be unchaste, and themselves, as they alleged, contracted in marriage, and Dereham knowing that the King intended to marry the Queen, did, when the King had sought Queen Katharine in marriage, and during the whole time before the marriage, conceal the wicked life of the said Katharine: and that she, the said Katharine, (the King believing her to be pure, chaste, and exonerated from any matrimonial contract,) did at Oatlands, 28*th of July,* 32 Hen. 8, contract marriage with the King.

That after the Royal marriage, Queen Katharine and Dereham were so intent upon continuing their criminal intercourse, that the said Katharine as well of her own mind as at the instigation of Dereham and several of his friends, contrived that he, Dereham, and a certain Katharine Tylney, who was the procuress between them, should be in her service at Oatlands, and being at Oatlands, 29*th November*, 32 Hen. 8, retained the said Katharine Tylney in her private chamber to be one of her chamberers, and she the Queen kept Dereham and Katharine Tylney in high love and favour, gave them various gifts, and employed Dereham in her secret affairs, by which matters, the Queen and Dereham, 30*th November*, 32 Hen. 8, not only deceived the King but also brought the King's royal person into great danger, and to the great scandal of the marriage between the King and the Queen, &c.

And the Jurors further find that the said Katharine Tylney, Alice Restwold, wife of Anthony Restwold, of the same place, Gentleman; Joan Bulmer, wife of William Bulmer, of the same place, Gentleman; Anna Howard, wife of Henry Howard, late of Lambeth, Esq.; Robert Damporte, late of the same place, Gentleman; Malena Tylney, late of the same place, Widow; and Margaret Benet, wife of John Benet, late of the same place, Gentleman; knowing the wicked life of the Queen and Dereham, and also knowing the Queen before the said marriage with the King to be unchaste, &c., and also knowing that the King intended to marry her; also knowing that the Queen after the marriage between her and the King retained Dereham in her service, and continued her illicit intercourses as well before the Royal marriage as after such Royal marriage, did conceal the same from the King and all his Councillors.

And that the said Agnes Duchess of Norfolk, with whom the Queen had been educated from her youth upwards; William Howard, late of Lambeth, uncle of the Queen and one of the King's Councillors; Margaret Howard, wife of the said William Howard; Katharine Countess of Bridgewater, late of Lambeth, otherwise Katharine the wife of Henry Earl of Bridgewater; Edward Waldegrave, late of Lambeth, Gentleman; and William Asheby, late of Lambeth, in the County of Surrey,—knowing the loose conduct of the said Queen whilst she was in the mansion of the Duchess, as well by many evil tokens, as by the intimation of divers persons, and also having vehement suspicion of an unlawful intercourse between her and Dereham; and also knowing that the Queen after her marriage retained Dereham in her service, and employed him in her affairs as well between her the Queen and the Duchess as between other parties, concealed the same from the King for the purpose of promoting the said Katharine to the Royal Estate: and did at Lambeth, 20*th July*, 32 Hen. 8, as well in the presence of the King as in the presence of other persons, falsely commend and praise the said Katharine for her pure and honest condition, by which the King was deceived concerning her, &c.

And furthermore, the Jurors present, that after the Queen and Dereham had been arrested for their several treasons, and after Dereham had been committed to the Tower, and after Robert Damporte had also been committed to the Tower for his before-mentioned misprisions, the said Duchess of Norfolk and William Asheby broke and opened certain chests of them the said Dereham and Asheby, in the keeping of the said Duchess, at Lambeth, 14*th November*, 33 Hen. 8, and took out various chattels, writings, and letters, being in the said chests, and concealed and detained the same from the King for four days and upwards.

THE

OF THE

DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,—

PURSUANT to the Statute made and passed in the first and second year of your Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for keeping safely the Public Records," I, the undersigned Deputy-Keeper of the Public Records, do hereby most humbly make my Fourth Report to Your Majesty for the year beginning 1st of January, 1842, and ending 31st of December, 1842, up to which date (save and except as to certain particular transactions which are herein quoted, as being of dates subsequent to the said 31st of December, 1842), this Report is made. And I further humbly show unto Your Majesty, that in order to render this Report more concise and available for general reference, the matters herein contained, are arranged under three general heads; the documents from which further details are to be collected being submitted to Your Majesty in the two Appendices hereto annexed.

I.—Proceedings relating to the taking possession of Records, and also to Records not yet in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and for the general purposes of executing the Act.

II.—Proceedings specially relating to the several Records or Repositories of Records, brought within the regulations of the Act: or relating to Records, upon which Officers acting under the Act have been employed.

III.—General matters connected with the care and management of the Records, and the Record Establishment.

I.—PROCEEDINGS RELATING TO THE TAKING POSSESSION OF RECORDS, AND ALSO TO RECORDS NOT YET IN THE CUSTODY OF THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, AND FOR THE GENERAL PURPOSES OF EXECUTING THE ACT.

1. Treasury Books and Records.—The Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury, by their letter of the 17th January, 1842 (App. I. No. 15 a), addressed to the Master of the Rolls, have requested his Lordship to depute a qualified person belonging to the Record Establishment, to report upon the state of the ancient Books, Documents, and Records of the Treasury, deposited in the Treasury Chambers, Whitehall, with a view to enable their Lordships to determine whether it will be advisable to transfer them to the Public Record Department. Their Lordships further state, that upon receiving such Report, they will consider, in connection with the Master of the Rolls, the course it will be proper to pursue. In compliance with such request his Lordship did, by his letter or warrant, dated 19th January, 1842 (App. I., No. 15 b), appoint Mr. Black, one of the Assistant Keepers of the Public Records, and who has acquired much knowledge of the ancient course of business at the Treasury by working upon the Pell Records, as a person properly qualified to make the Report. Mr. Black accordingly attended at the Treasury Chambers, from the 1st of February to the 30th of April: and, assisted by one clerk and two workmen, accomplished a complete examination and an extensive arrangement of the Treasury Documents. After having so employed himself, he attended on the average four days in the week throughout the months of May and June, and part of July, for the purpose of collecting materials for his Report, which Report is now in preparation: and it is expected that he will speedily be able to finish and present the same to the Master of the Rolls, for the purpose of enabling his Lordship to communicate with the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury on the subject.

2. Welsh Records: New Record Room at Welsh Pool.—An application was, in February, 1842, made to the Master of the Rolls by the magistrates of the County of Montgomery, containing a proposal for the erection of a new Record Room or Office at Welsh Pool, upon the following grounds, and for the following reasons, which are more particularly set forth in the Order of Court made at the Epiphany Quarter Sessions, 1842, the Report of the County Surveyor to the Sessions, the Resolution of the Committee of Magistrates at the Committee held at Welsh Pool on the 15th of January, 1842, and the Letter of the County Surveyor of the 7th of February, 1842, transmitting the same to the Master of the Rolls (App. I., No. 16*a*), viz.—Since the abolition of the Court of Great Sessions, the present building containing the Records, is no longer used for a place of business, but has been employed merely as a repository for the Records which had accumulated there. The greater part of the building is useless for the custody of Records, and is at present occupied by the private papers of the late Prothonotary:—in consequence of disuse, the building has become subject to dampness and is in a great state of decay;—and, as it obstructs the entrance to Powis Castle, the Earl of Powis offered to take it down at his own expense, and to erect another building which would be more convenient for the purpose. It has therefore been represented to the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls that the following advantages will result to the public by adopting the proposal, viz.—The new building will offer to the County, a desirable opportunity of providing a repository for the Records of the Peace, which are at present kept in the office of the Clerk of the Peace, and therefore liable to removal at any time;—such repository will be under the same roof, and equally protected from fire as the repository of the Records of the Great Sessions, and the Office of Searches, &c. will be common to both;—and it is also considered as a valuable improvement afforded to the town of Pool: and, plans and specifications having been submitted to the Master of the Rolls (App. I., Nos. 16 c, e), he gave his consent to the proposed removal, upon the following conditions:—

1st. That the removal should be effected under the superintendence of an officer belonging to the Record Establishment, and without any expense to the public;

2nd. That the new building be, in all respects, properly adapted to the safe and convenient custody of the Records;

3rd. That the Records to be placed in the new building should, in their new repository, be subject to the same authority, in all respects, as they are now, and also be subject to further removal, if required for their better management and protection, upon a system extending to all the Records in Wales; And

4th. That the Earl of Powis should bear the expense of sending an officer of the Record Establishment to superintend the removal of the Records; and that the means to be adopted for rendering the new Record rooms fireproof should be approved by the Board of Works. Upon those conditions being accepted, his Lordship signified that he would be ready to sanction the removal of the Records at the proper time, as set forth in his Lordship's letters of the 23rd of May and 20th of July, 1842 (App. I., Nos. 16 b and 16 d).

To these conditions the Magistrates and the Earl of Powis have severally acceded, and the Resolution of the Quarter Sessions of the 30th of June, 1842 (App. I. No. 16 c), the Specification of the County Surveyor (App. I. No. 16 e), and the Report received from the Office of Woods and Forests, dated 27th July, 1842 (App. I. No. 16 f), will show how the same are to be carried into effect. The new buildings are now proceeding, and, when completed, the County Surveyor (see extract from his letter of the 26th of February, 1843, App. I. No. 16 g) will give the further information which the Surveyor of your Majesty's Board of Works requires, and the arrangement will be altogether beneficial to the public service.

3. Welsh Records: Records of the County of Anglesea.—An application having been made by the magistrates of this County to the Master of the Rolls respecting the Records belonging to the County of Anglesea, and now deposited at Caernarvon, for instructions whether the same should be removed from their said present place of deposit at Caernarvon, it appeared advisable, under existing circumstances, that the same Records should remain as they now are, until further measures can be suggested, after a greater progress shall have been made in the arrangement of the metropolitan Records.

4. Accruing Records of the Courts of Common Law.—The several Records of Your Majesty's Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, and Exchequer, of more than twenty years date from the making thereof, and which have so accrued since the date and execution of the several Warrants of the 10th of July, 1840 (See Second Report, I. § 1, and App. I. to the same Report, Nos. 6, 7, and 8), have, pursuant to three Warrants, all dated the 30th day of November, 1842, hereto appended (App. I. Nos. 2, 3, and 4), all been transferred into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, as hereinafter more particularly stated (II. § 11, 12, 33,).

5. Records of the Registrar of the Court of Common Pleas: Records of the First Fruits and Tenths: Records of the Crown Side of the Court of Queen's Bench.—Pursuant to the several Warrants dated the 14th of March and 29th of December, 1842, and 17th of February, 1843, hereto appended (App. I. Nos. 1, 7, and 9), the several Records of the above-mentioned Offices have also been transferred into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, as hereinafter more particularly stated (II. § 13, 14).

6. Amendment of Records of Welsh Fines and Recoveries.—In a Report, addressed to the Master of the Rolls by Mr. Black, upon the State of the Records of Wales and Chester (First Report, App. No. 31), Mr. Black informed his Lordship that he had collected several important facts relative to the defective state of the Records of Fines and Recoveries, with the view of showing the necessity of providing indemnity to the persons whose titles depend upon such assurances. Pursuant to the instructions of his Lordship, a Report was made thereon by Mr. Black, dated 31st of January, 1841, containing various suggestions upon the remedy which ought to be applied to the case of these Records; together with an outline of a Bill which might be submitted to Parliament. The said Report having been laid before the House of Commons, in obedience to an order of the House, dated 28th April, 1842, the same was, 2nd May, 1842, ordered by the House to be printed (Sessional Paper, 2nd May, 1842); and, an Act founded upon Mr. Black's outline was subsequently made and passed in the fifth year of Your Majesty's reign, cap. xxxii, entitled "An Act for better recording Fines and Recoveries in Wales and Cheshire," which provides remedies for the defects in the Records.

II.—Proceedings specially relating to the several Records, or Repositories of Records, brought within the regulations of the Record Act: or relating to Records, upon which Officers acting under the Act have been employed.

Augmentation Office and Stone Tower.

Records of the late Augmentation Office: Exchequer Records late in the Queen's Remembrancer's Department. (Assistant Keeper, the Reverend Joseph Hunter).

1. Business of the Office.—The business transacted in this Division, as well as the duties performed therein by the Assistant Keeper, will appear from the several extracts from his Reports, and from the Tabular Summary of the business done in the several branches of the office (App. I., Nos. 10 and 19). It will be observed from the particulars given by Mr. Hunter, that the labour of assisting inquirers, in those cases where the Records are destitute of calendars or indexes, occupies a considerable portion of his time.

Mr. Hunter has also carefully attended to the training and official education of the clerks in his Division, some of whom have considerable skill, and whom he has rendered very effective.

2. Operations upon the Records.—The operations performed upon the Records in this division have been of a mixed nature, and from which, though very important, no immediate results can be produced. The searches and sortations needed for bringing together the membranes of the Rolls, detached by accident or violence, and blended into confused heaps; the critical attention required for the purposes of ascertaining and describing them, are all only the preparatory processes leading to the systematic arrangement and formation of inventories and calendars: and the utility, as well as the great extent, of Mr. Hunter's labours can only be sufficiently appreciated by those who have been enabled to compare the present state of the Records under Mr. Hunter's charge, with their condition previous to his receiving them.

3. Queen's Remembrancer's Records.—Upon these Records, the workmen have continued to be employed in cleaning and repairing the Documents so as to render them fit to be placed in the hands of Mr. Hunter for the purpose of describing and entitling them, the information thus collected being copied upon slips forming the basis of the Inventories and Calendars. In addition to the Records of this class, which in the past years were placed under Mr. Hunter's charge, and in addition to those which he has received from the Carlton Ride, he has operated upon a very large mass of similar Documents which were deposited in the Stone Tower of Westminster Hall, and which were transferred into his charge by the Warrant of the 1st November, 1841 (Third Report, App. I., No. 1). They were left in such a confused and neglected state, as to render them unfit for use, and inaccessible. Amongst them were found many Records, constituting broken sets or portions of the successive classes found by selection or sortation from or amongst the other Records of Your Majesty's Remembrancer in the Exchequer, and upon which Mr. Hunter has been so long employed (Third Report, II., § 2), and which required to be interpolated in the sets or classes to which they belong. All such of these Records, as are Rolls of Account found in a complete state, have been examined, their natures ascertained, and their contents described, and the descriptions placed in proper order, as the basis for the Inventories and Calendars.

4. Inquisitions Post Mortem.—Amongst these Records were many Post Mortem Inquisitions; and all the similar Inquisitions which have been found in the Office, dated from the beginning of the reign of Henry VII., when the Calendars printed by Your Majesty's late Record Commission terminate, have been collected together, and arranged in strict chronological order, and Calendars have been made of the names of the persons to whom the Inquisitions relate. The whole are now easily accessible; and, as often as fresh Inquisitions are discovered in the course of the examination of the unsorted Records, they are interpolated in the series. At present, no other operations can be performed upon the Inquisitions, but it must hereafter be considered how they can be best treated in conjunction with the other Records of the class to which they belong.

According to the ancient course of business, Inquisitions Post Mortem were returned or certified into three several Courts. The Inquisitions constituting the leading or main series, were returned into the Court of Chancery, and these are now in the Tower and the Rolls Chapel; other Post Mortem Inquisitions were returned or certified into the Court of Wards and Liveries, and are amongst the Records of that dissolved Court now deposited in the Chapter House. Lastly, are those in the Exchequer: therefore, after performing such operations as may be needed for rendering the Exchequer Inquisitions accessible and consultable, it will still remain to be considered how a Calendar, can be formed, which shall be applicable to the whole mass; so that, without mixing up the several Records (which, as they belong to different Courts, ought not to be amalgamated together), there may be the means of ascertaining whether the Inquisitions severally exist in single examples, in duplicate, or in triplicate, and of making the search by means of one Calendar, in the same manner as if they were all actually embodied into one consecutive series.

5. Documents arranged: cleaning and binding, &c.—The number of Documents belonging to the Miscellaneous Records of Your Majesty's Remembrancer, whether previously in Mr. Hunter's charge or brought from the Stone Tower, and which have been placed in the boxes after having been ascertained and fully described (being the processes preparatory to the formation of the complete Calendar) during the past year, have been 4988, making a total of 39,545 Documents described and ascertained, to the present time. They consist chiefly of Exchequer Accounts and their subsidiary instruments. In considering the operations of Mr. Hunter, it must be recollected that the unit in the numerals employed by him very frequently consists of many instruments, each of which has required to be examined and ascertained, and to receive particular notice in the descriptions; and this is very particularly the case with respect to files of Inquisitions, which sometimes contain from 50 to 100 Documents. The numbers which have been operated upon, as last mentioned, by Mr. Hunter, during the course of the year ending as before mentioned, are as follows:—

Edward II.	176
Edward III.	516
Richard II.	241

Edward IV.	247
Richard III.	13
Edward VI.	147
Philip and Mary	93
James I.	120
Charles I.	59
Interregnum	8
Charles II.	6
William and Mary	7
George I.	2
George II.	3
Undetermined	113
Total	4988

The other details of the operations performed by Mr. Hunter, and by the workmen under his direction, as well upon the Records in his charge, as upon those brought from the Chapter House, will appear in the extracts from his Reports, and in the Tabular Summary (App. I., Nos. 10 and 19).

6. Records in the Stone Tower.—Many Records of great importance, were and are contained in the Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall. Amongst these are the ancient Books or bound Volumes, comprising Monastic Chartularies, Abridgments of Domesday, &c.; also the Escheator's Accounts and Inquisitions, and the Ministers' Accounts (Third Report, App. I., No. 1). The operations which have been performed upon the Records of Account found in this Tower have been already noticed, (II. § 3,) but in the bottom of the Tower there remain numerous Documents belonging to the Customs. They constitute a large mass in bad condition, dirty, and confused, and have been left undisturbed. They appear to be of very little, if any, value; rather belonging to a class which probably it may become expedient to obtain Parliamentary authority to destroy.

7. Inventories.—The Inventory of Records of Accounts and Assessments, portions of which have been presented to Your Majesty in my preceding Reports (Second Report, App. II., No. 4, and Third Report, App. II., No. 1), has been continued to the fifth year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and such continuation is appended hereto (App. II., No. 1). The nature of these Records continues without any material alteration. Considered as Statistical Documents, the Records belonging to this class are of great value; and, in particular, I may notice those which relate to the Assessments upon the Royal Households, and also upon the citizens of London; and which, when taken in connexion with other Documents of the same nature, now in the Chapter House, afford very curious data both as to the capital and population of the realm. They are also of the highest importance in our constitutional history, inasmuch as they exhibit the progress and development of the system of taxation by Parliamentary authority. From the weight of other occupations, the portion of Inventory now presented to Your Majesty has not been so large as in former years; but it is expected that Mr. Hunter will, in the course of the current year, complete the same to the accession of Charles I., after which the Inventories of the Revenue Accounts will be continued upon a different plan.

8. Augmentation Office Records.—These documents, were received into the charge of Mr. Hunter in November 1841 (Third Report, I. § 4; II. § 6; App. I., No. 1.), and are generally in very good condition. They appear to have been the favourite objects of attention of preceding keepers; and, in particular they had the advantage of having been subjected to the care of Madox, one of the most useful and laborious legal antiquaries of the last age. These records are therefore in remarkably good order, and although in some important respects the arrangement is incomplete, still on the whole their condition is satisfactory.

Many of the documents in this office were (when received into the custody of the Master of the Rolls) already provided with Calendars and Indexes, not compiled with that fulness and accuracy which would now be required in similar documents, but sufficient for the purposes to which they were heretofore applied, viz., for a general search: but to other large classes, there is no kind of Calendar or Index whatever. This remark applies particularly to a class very frequently resorted to by inquirers, and which in the office have been denominated "Chartæ Antiquæ," consisting of a very large number of detached documents of various dates and objects, principally, but not wholly, deeds and charters. These had been classed, ticketed, arranged, and partially indexed by the late learned Dr. Ducarel. When Mr. Hunter took charge of the office, he found they had been thrown into confusion, the bundles having been all untied and the documents mixed, so that when any particular document was required, it became needful to turn over the whole collection of documents, one by one, in order to find the instrument required. They are placed in smaller boxes or cases deposited in drawers. Mr. Hunter carefully examined and re-arranged the whole set, and every document has been put into its proper place; and he caused search to be made for any stray documents belonging to this set which had been thrown into other classes, but which are nevertheless susceptible of being identified by the marks placed upon them by Ducarel, when he prepared his Index. Mr. Hunter has also caused the parcels to be tied up and ticketed; but notwithstanding all his labours, there still remain 120 documents occurring in Ducarel's Index which are not in their places, and which he does not consider at present as likely to be found. The result, however, of his operations, is, on the whole, satisfactory; for, with the exception of these last-mentioned documents, all the documents to which the Index refers, and which previously could not be found, except after a long and laborious search, equally tedious to the officers and the public, can now be produced without difficulty or delay.

Another large class uncalendared, are the valuable documents known in the Office, but not very definitely, by the name of Chartæ Miscellaneæ. Having completed a very careful examination thereof, Mr. Hunter discovered amongst them, several accounts belonging to the classes composing the Miscellanea of Your Majesty's Remembrancer in the Exchequer. The documents themselves, are no longer loose or detached, but are bound in large volumes, and Mr. Hunter, therefore, could not remove out of such volumes the documents in question, but he has done all that was practicable. He has caused descriptions to be prepared of the documents which are so misplaced, and inserted such descriptions amongst the descriptions of the sets to which they belong, and thus they are, for the purposes of search, united in one series.

Besides the two collections of Chartæ, called the Antiquæ and the Miscellaneæ, there is a third which has been called "Chartæ Selectæ." This consists of a collection of ancient evidences separated from the rest of the matter of the same kind, on account of their value or curiosity. To this collection there was no Index; and the practice has hitherto been for searchers to turn over the whole collection upon the chance or presumption of finding matters on which they were engaged, and to those evidences Mr. Hunter has caused an Index of Places to be prepared.

Amongst the documents to which there is no sufficient Calendar, the most important for practical use are the Rolls commonly called the Ministers' Accounts, and which contain the accounts of the church property which remained in the hands of the Crown at the Dissolution, as well as of other Crown lands. There are no Calendars to these Rolls, yet the order of matters contained in them being simple and uniform, and the disposition of them in the office being easily understood, the want of Calendars is, practically, less felt than might be expected. It may, however, be expedient to make such Calendars when time can be found for executing the task, for which the systematic arrangement of the matters they contain offers great facilities. Some outstanding Rolls, which are required to complete the series, still remain amongst the Records in the Land Revenue Office (Second Report, App. I., No. 28 a).

Besides the before-mentioned Records, the Augmentation Records include a very large collection of accounts of various kinds; viz. of Sheriffs, Escheators, Customs, Alnagers, Collectors of Subsidies, Ambassadors, Military and other Commanders, and of every species of minister who was employed in collecting the Territorial Revenue, or of the Crown, or of lands which have passed to the Crown by dissolution of monasteries or by escheat or forfeiture. These accounts are wholly destitute of any Calendar or Index. There is a general distribution of them according to Counties, and this distribution at present affords the only guide to the searcher. The Rolls are, however, fully prepared for calendaring. They are in good condition, and have been almost all covered and entitled by the late Mr. Caley, or by Mr. Cole, when he was employed upon the Augmentation Records by the late Record Commission. Mr. Hunter is employed in preparing proper descriptions of these miscellaneous Accounts, which will constitute the materials of a Calendar thereof; it is not, however, intended that such Calendar should appear as a distinct work, but that the descriptions should be united to and form part of the Calendar of the other Miscellaneous Records of Your Majesty's Remembrancer, these Records being for the most part members of the several series, and differing from them in no other respect than in having been deposited in another part of the Exchequer, and in being in a better state of preservation.

There are in Mr. Hunter's charge several documents in the form of books. All Records of this description found amongst the Miscellanea of Your Majesty's Remembrancer have been described in due course, and Mr. Hunter has taken account of all the books which are perfect; which perfected books have been rendered as complete as possible, by bringing together the detached leaves or fragments, down to the time of Charles I. He has also begun to describe the Chartularies, and, amongst other books, the Pershore Chartulary in the Augmentation Collection, and which is of considerable curiosity and value: but for the present, as far as relates to the matter contained in the books of the Augmentation Office, considered in their bearing on the objects of inquiries, Mr. Hunter avails himself of a very useful Index of Names and Places formed by Mr. Cole, who had charge of these Records previously to the Record Act coming into operation.

9. Removals of Records:—Suppression of the Repository.—It has been determined by the Master of the Rolls to remove all Records and documents in this repository to the Carlton Ride, and such removal has been begun with respect to the Augmentation Office Records, by virtue of the warrant hereto annexed (App. I., No. 8). This removal will (as it is hoped) be completed before the expiration of the current quarter of a year. The rooms now occupied by the Records may then be applied to any other branch of the public service for which they may be available, and the Repository being suppressed, Mr. Hunter, together with the other officers and the workmen under his direction, will be transferred to the Carlton Ride.

CARLTON RIDE.

Records of the Court of Common Pleas: Records of the Court of Common Pleas brought from the Chapter House and Tower: Records of the Common Law Side of the Court of Exchequer: Equity Records of the Court of Exchequer.—(Assistant Keeper, Mr. Henry Cole.)

10. Business of the Division.—The business of this Division (which answers to the Treasury of the Courts of Common Pleas and Exchequer, so far as the Records of these Courts are concerned) continues increasing. This increase results, partly from the numerous Records which have been brought into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and successively added during the two last years to the stock previously in the Repository, and partly in consequence of the greater facilities of search, and the convenience given to searchers, who, in case of not discovering the information which they seek in one class of Records, are induced to extend their searches into other classes, availing themselves of the advantages of finding the classes consolidated in one Repository. The extracts from the Reports made by the Assistant Keeper, hereto submitted to your Majesty (App. I. No. 11), are useful in shewing the nature of the business and the comparative resort made to the several classes of Records; and it may be expected that the further consolidation of Records in this Repository, as hereafter stated, will tend still more to increase its general utility to Your Majesty's subjects.

It is in this Division also that the largest body of workmen is established (and to whom, as is before mentioned (II. § 9), will soon be added the workmen now in the Augmentation Office); and the direction of the workmen, and the inspection of their proceedings, and the examination of the minute accounts kept of their work by Mr. Cole, occupies much of his time.

11. Records received into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and placed in the Division, &c.:—Common Pleas.—Pursuant to a Warrant, dated 30th November, 1842 (App. I. No. 3), all and every the Records in the Court of Common Pleas, of twenty years' date and upwards, which had accrued since the execution of the Warrant of the 10th July, 1840 (Second Report, App. I. No. 7), have been transferred by the proper Officers of the Court, into the custody of the Master of the Rolls: and the same have been removed into this Repository, and placed in continuation of the several series or classes to which they belong.

12. Records received, &c., as above mentioned:—Exchequer.—Pursuant also to another Warrant, bearing date the same 30th November, 1842 (App. I. No. 4), all and every the Records of the Common Law Side of the Court of Exchequer, of twenty years' date and upwards, which had accrued since the execution of the Warrant of the 10th July, 1840 (Second Report, App. I. No. 8), have been, in like manner, transferred into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and have been also removed into this Repository, and placed in continuation of the several series or classes to which they belong: and the Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer having requested (App. I. No. 17), in such manner as is directed by the Record Act, that the Master of the Rolls would consent to receive into his custody certain documents of less than twenty years' date, they have been included in the said Warrant by which the accruing Records were transferred, and placed in this repository accordingly.

13. Records received, &c., as above mentioned:—Chirographs of Fines, &c.—In my Third Report to your Majesty (I. § 7) it was stated that the Draft of a Warrant had been prepared for transferring into the custody of the Master of the Rolls the Chirographer's Notes of Fines, the Writs of Covenant, and the Books heretofore in the King's Silver Office, Return Office, and Alienation Office, and other documents of that class then in the custody of the Registrar of the Court of Common Pleas, and such Warrant has since been perfected and signed, and bears date the 14th March, 1842 (App. I. No. 1); and the classes, of which the following is a summary, have been accordingly removed into the Office. They consist of—the Chirographer's Notes of Fines on parchment, in bundles, containing one Term each, arranged chronologically and in alphabetical order of counties, from Michaelmas Term, 1 Geo. III., to Michaelmas Term, 1822, together with the original Writs of Covenant and Fines for the above-mentioned period;—the Books heretofore in the custody of the Clerk of the King's Silver Office, in which are entered the particulars of Fines passed through the same Office from 1612 to 1822; Books containing Extracts from the Writs of Covenant and Fines from Easter Term, 1576, to Michaelmas Term, 1822;—similar Books containing Extracts from Writs of Entries in Recoveries, from 1595 to Michaelmas Term, 1822,—and several Indexes thereof; of all of which further particulars may be found in the Schedule to the said Warrant.

14. Records received, &c., as above mentioned:—First Fruits and Tenths. Crown Office.—In pursuance of the several Warrants before noticed (I. § 6, and App. I. Nos. 7 and 9), the Assistant Keeper has also received into his charge the Records of the First Fruits and Tenths, and of the Crown Office of Your Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench, of which Records the particulars will be stated in a future Report.

15. Records of the Common Pleas removed from the Chapter House.—In pursuance of the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, dated 11th January, 1842 (Third Report, App. I. No. 7), a portion of the Records of the Common Pleas have been removed into this Repository from the Chapter House, viz.—

Plea or Common Rolls . .	1 Edw. I. to 24 Hen. VII.
Feet of Fines	Hen. II. to Jac. II.
Concords of Fines . . .	1 Eliz. to Jac. II.

and other portions of these Records are now in progress of removal, as hereinafter is more particularly stated, (II. § 27).

16. Records of the Common Pleas removed from the Tower.—Pursuant to the Warrant, bearing date the 14th February, 1842 (Third Report, App. I. No. 8), various Plea or Common Rolls of the Court of Common Pleas, from 7 Hen. III. to 19 Edw. II., and various Essoin Rolls, from 10 Hen. III. to 33 Edw. III., as specified in the Inventory annexed to my Second Report (App. II. No. 1, pp. 49-

52 of the printed copy), have been removed into this Repository from the Tower. All the above-mentioned removals (of which some further particulars will be found in the extracts from the Reports of the Assistant Keeper, App. I. No. 11), have required great time and labour, but they have been well accomplished, and, as before mentioned, are productive of much utility.

17. Removals from the Carlton Ride.—In pursuance of another Warrant bearing date the same 4th November, 1841 (Third Report, App. I. No. 5), 24 sacks of miscellaneous Exchequer Records have been removed to the Augmentation Office for the purpose of being arranged, repaired, and inventoried; and the Pleadings in 77 suits, have been from time to time, delivered over to the proper Officers of the Court of Chancery, pursuant to the Warrant of the 4th November, 1841 (Third Report, App. I. No. 2), and to the arrangements set forth in my Third Report (II. § 12).

18. Operations performed upon the Records:—Common Pleas:—Plea or Common Rolls, heretofore in the Chapter House.

The ancient Rolls here noticed, are of moderate size, and are, generally speaking, in good condition, except one, which required much repair. Of these, 771 Rolls have been uncoiled and laid flat in temporary brown paper covers, and ticketed. 7570 membranes have been smoothed and flattened, and 1710 mended. Further operations upon them have been postponed.

Plea or Common Rolls.—Such of these Records, heretofore in the Treasury of the Court at Westminster, as were in that state of putrefaction mentioned in my preceding Report, have had the decaying parts cut out, and further injury thus has been prevented. 47 Rolls, containing about 20,800 membranes, have been properly smoothed, flattened, and repaired, and covered with stout leathern covers. Each Roll is provided with two tickets, one outside and one inside. The outside ticket is varnished. Generally speaking, I should venture to point out these Records as affording an excellent pattern for the arrangement of any others of a similar bulk and nature.

Placita Terræ, or Recovery Rolls.—These are Records of very great importance, on account of the evidences of title which they contain. Of these, 273 Rolls are kept in the form of rolls, and 67 have been uncoiled, stretched, and laid flat: as in other similar cases, their bulk has rendered this alteration of their original form expedient; and all these Rolls, containing 100,710 membranes, have been rendered available for use. These Rolls have not suffered so much from decay as the Common Rolls, but the whole series will, nevertheless, require considerable care.

Remembrance Rolls.—Of these, 784 Rolls have been ticketed, and 1346 membranes cleaned and smoothed.

Feet of Fines.—Of these, 973 files have been brought from the Chapter House. These Records are generally in good condition, excepting the first Document upon each file, which first Documents have suffered greatly from the wear and rubbing of the parchment against the string upon which they are strung. Of these, 79 files —consisting of 55,312 Fines—have been re-folded and re-strung, and each Fine has been stamped, after having been inventoried, and, in order to render them more easily accessible and easy of reference, each bundle or file to the end of the reign of Elizabeth, has received a temporary ticket.

King's Silver Books, containing Entries of Fines. These Books sustained great damage by the fire, which, in March, 1838, destroyed the chambers in Paper Buildings, in the Inner Temple, wherein they were previously deposited. When received into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, the Books were in such bad condition as to be unavailable for search or use. Some were so charred, that they crumbled away beneath the touch; others were in masses, cohering together by the joint action of fire and water. Before these Books were thus damaged, they were the Records most frequently searched for the purpose of answering and satisfying inquiries relating to the titles of real property—an extract from these Books being the evidence which was usually produced and delivered over with the title-deeds, when the original chirograph was not forthcoming. The same information is to be found in other classes of Records; but these Books can be more conveniently searched than Records in the shape of Rolls, and therefore they have been more generally resorted to, although they do not contain the evidence of the proclamation of the Fine.

Such being the practical importance of these Records, Mr. Cole, as they were received into his charge, considered (and very properly) that they required immediate attention; and he therefore examined them with great care, and selected the most skilful of his workmen to assist him in the tedious as well as delicate operations which they required. Several of the volumes were in such bad condition, as to render them incapable of repair or restoration for any useful purpose; but about 764 volumes have now been rendered as perfect as is practicable; and some idea of the labour and care which they have required will be afforded by the statement, that upwards of 29,000 leaves of these Volumes were so agglutinated together that they could not be opened until separated by the workmen, and upwards of 2800 leaves required mending: and every page has been examined and numbered. The binding of these volumes has been begun; and, as the modern volumes are those most needed for searches, they were the first selected for binding. All the burnt leaves have required guarding; and it is expected that all the operations that can be effected with respect to the series, will be properly performed in the course of the current year. The substance of the subject-matter of each Fine is repeated with more or less fulness in each set of Books or Records (Second Report, App. I. No. 23), and examples of the Entries in the different Books are given by Mr. Cole, who has made some useful remarks thereon (App. I. No. 11 a).

Alienation Office Books.—Of these, 533 Volumes which contain Entries of Fines, have been dusted, cleaned, and ticketed.

Inquisitions, and Bills against Attorneys.—Of these, 142 bundles have been fitted into canvass bags, which have been tied up and ticketed.

Affidavits verifying the Execution of Warrants of Attorney for suffering Recoveries.—Of these, 227 bundles or files, containing 47,366 Documents, have been dusted, folded, tied up, ticketed, and fitted in bags; and 1937 Documents have been smoothed and cleaned.

Exchequer Records.—All the Documents of this description delivered into the custody of the Master of the Rolls by Your Majesty's Remembrancer, have required, and will require, great attention and care. Considerable progress has been made in the needful arrangements, as will appear from the following statements: and in the tabular view furnished by Mr. Cole (App. I. No. 11 d), he has stated the further operations which these Records will need.

Bills and Answers.—Of these, 42 bundles or files have been operated upon, containing 7941 membranes, of which 7941 have been dusted, 3069 cleaned and smoothed, and 1285 mended and arranged in portfolios.

Original Decrees and Orders.—The Original Decrees and Orders have been properly cleaned and tied up in bundles; and 1112 bundles, part thereof, have been stamped, arranged, and ticketed.

Barons' Depositions and Interrogatories.—8822 bundles have been collected together, dusted, and cleaned. Of these, 4484 bundles or rolls, consisting of 40,071 Documents, have been indorsed, and the indorsements have been abstracted preparatory to arrangement.

Reports and Certificates.—Of these, 166 bundles, containing about 23,464 Documents, have been cleaned, tied, and arranged.

Special Commissions.—These Documents, which abound with curious and useful information available for legal purposes as well as for topographical inquiries, were, when received into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, in a state of great confusion, and required particular attention. They have been collected from the different boxes, chests, and bags, in which they were found, unarranged and dispersed. They have been flattened, sorted into reigns, and placed in portfolios. Of these, 23,217 membranes have been cleaned and smoothed, and 4629 have been mended; and an arrangement of the whole in chronological order has been commenced.

Affidavits and Bills.—406 bundles and files have been collected from the various places in which they were found dispersed, and have been dusted, tied up, ticketed, and arranged.

Duplicates of Land Tax Accounts.—Of these, 11,031 bags or bundles, containing on the average 66,186 Documents, have been collected together from various boxes and chests, sorted into counties, and arranged chronologically in each county, tied up in parcels of years, and ticketed, and neatly fitted in canvass bags, which have also been ticketed and arranged in the loft of the Repository.

Memoranda Rolls, or Remembrances of the Exchequer.—These were generally in good condition, except the covers. They have been repaired when needed, and the larger Rolls have been laid flat, and temporary tickets placed on each Roll, and arranged chronologically in one press.

Writs and Process against Receivers and Collectors of Taxes.—These were found in great disorder. 501 bundles, containing on the average 35,070 Documents, have been dusted, ticketed, fitted in canvass bags, and chronologically arranged.

Enrolments of the States of Public Accounts.—Generally speaking in good condition. They have been unrolled and tied flat, dusted, covered with cartridge paper wrappers, ticketed, and chronologically arranged.

19. Miscellaneous Books.—The following Books belonging to the Exchequer have been arranged in classes :—

The books are in tolerable condition, but will require the operations noticed in Mr. Cole's Reports (App. I. No. 11); and in the same Reports, as well as in the Tabular Summary (App. I. No. 19), will be found some further particulars of the work generally performed upon the Exchequer Records.

20. Coast Bonds and Port Books.—Amongst the Documents in the Carlton Ride, are certain classes, not having any connexion with any practical portion of Government or public business, with real property, with legal evidence, with family history, or with any subject of historical curiosity. Amongst these, are included the Coast Bonds and Port Books, of which the earliest are found in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and which were discontinued in 1828. It was the practice to transmit them from the outports in casks or hogsheads; they now fill 257 sacks. They are never known to have been searched, and in the opinion of the Officers of the Exchequer are useless (App. I. No. 11 c). Mr. Cole concurs in this opinion; nor do I see any reason to differ from it. In a previous Report I have submitted to Your Majesty some observations upon the means needed for the purpose of preventing the accumulation of useless Documents (Second Report, III. § 172, and App. I. No. 31), and the present instance is one, in which the expediency of possessing the power of destroying useless Records is very apparent.

EXCHEQUER OF PLEAS.

Placita.

The removals, as well as the press of office-business, have prevented Mr. Cole from making more progress in the Inventories, especially of the Special Commissions.

22. Arrangements of Records, Repairs thereof, &c.—The arrangement of the Records upon the racks and shelves has been effected with the greatest possible economy of space: and in many cases, the Records occupy two-thirds less room than before such re-arrangement. Considered as specimens of arranged Records, the methods here adopted, both with respect to stowage and to repairs, will afford many useful hints and examples for similar proceedings when the General Repository shall be erected. With respect to such Rolls and Books as are ticketed, this is an operation which requires much attention. The plan adopted is clear and satisfactory (App. I. No. 11 a); and though the tickets are of small bulk, yet every individual ticket describes all the particulars of the Office, the class, the genus, and the species to which the Record belongs, so well distinguished by the variation of types, that each particular can be collected without confusion. All these forms of tickets have been printed by a small hand-press in the Office, and are therefore set up as occasion requires, by which much time and expense are constantly saved. In this Repository there has also been adopted a plan of distinguishing the classes of Records by the colours of the presses, a contrivance which is of considerable use in directing the workmen in their operations.

23. Alterations in the Buildings of the Office.—Connected with the matters stated to Your Majesty in the previous sections, are the preparations which have been begun, and are yet proceeding, for the occupation of the whole of the building of the Carlton Ride as a Record Repository, and the additions and enlargements made thereto for the reception of officers and workmen from other Repositories.

Pursuant to arrangements with the Officers of Your Majesty's Household, conducted by Your Majesty's Commissioners of Woods, Forests, and Land Revenue, the portions of the building occupied for certain purposes connected with the departments of Your Majesty's Lord Chamberlain and the Master of Your Majesty's Horse, have been cleared of their contents, except some old stores, in order that the same may be given up to the Record Service, and the whole building will then be occupied as one Repository; and it is proposed to bring into this Repository, the several Records of the Court of Queen's Bench now deposited in the Rolls House and the Chapter House, together with certain other Records from the last mentioned Repository, when the same shall be suppressed, and also the Records in the Vaults in Somerset House; and when these transfers shall have been carried into effect, the whole of the Records of Your Majesty's three Courts of Common Law at Westminster, in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, will be consolidated within one building.

The removals of the Records of the Augmentation Office, pursuant to the Warrant of the 8th February, 1843 (App. I. No. 8), are in progress.

And, in order to accommodate the establishments now located at the Augmentation Office and the Chapter House, when these Repositories shall be suppressed as well as to give increased facilities to the public in making searches and perusing the Records, two ranges of rooms have been erected on the north-west side, and amongst which rooms there is also an apartment for the Deputy Keeper, to enable him to transact such business there as may be required, —an accommodation which has hitherto been much needed.

On the south-west side of the front, the workshop has been enlarged to accommodate the workmen who will come from other Repositories.

All these buildings have been completed in the plainest and cheapest manner, even the plastering of the walls having been dispensed with; but at the same time they will, as far as I can judge, be entirely convenient for the purposes for which they are to be employed.

24. Proposed Presses.—For the reception of the Records to be removed into the Repository, communications have been had with your Majesty's Board of Works, and it has been proposed that presses should be made of iron, and upon such a plan as to admit of their removal to the Central Repository whenever the same shall be erected, and a model has been accordingly made, and the subject is now before Your Majesty's Board of Works; and the Commissioners also have to decide whether it will be expedient to incur the greater expense of having the presses so made of the best materials, and with a view to their removal, or to make them more roughly and merely for temporary use. Whichever plan be prosecuted, a loss will be occasioned to the public by these temporary arrangements, and which would have been prevented had measures been taken for the erection of the General Repository.

25. Fire Precautions.—A cast-iron cistern or tank has been placed over the entrance, and supplied by the high service in Carlton Gardens; a main has been laid along the building, properly furnished with hose, and fire-buckets are hung in proper places. Two fire-watchmen are kept upon the premises. The first watchman comes on duty at 4 P.M. and remains till midnight, when he is relieved by the second, who remains till 8 A.M.; and two tell-tale clocks have been provided to check the attendance of the watchmen.

Chapter House.

Common Law, Exchequer, and Miscellaneous Records.—(Assistant Keeper, Mr. Frederick Devon.)

26. Business of the Division.—The business transacted at this division has received an increase in consequence of the transfers made of the Records of Fines, as next after mentioned. The amount of increase of business and some other particulars, will also appear from the Tabular Summary herewith submitted to your Majesty (App. I. No. 19).

27. Transfers of Records.—The removal of the Notes of Fines, from the custody of the Registrar of the Court of Common Pleas to this Repository, noticed in my Third Report (I. § 7, II. § 16), has been carried into effect pursuant to the Warrant of the 14th March, 1842 (App. I. No. 1), hereto annexed. In the course of examination it has been found that several of the bundles are defective, that is to say, wanting various Chirographs which ought to be placed therein, but which have been lost or mislaid, though heretofore in the custody of the proper Officers, as appears from the Indexes delivered together with the Records. Whenever these deficiencies have been noticed, the same have been noted by Mr. Devon or Mr. Cole; and although the circumstance of the same matter existing upon Record in other forms of legal evidence, diminishes the inconvenience of such losses, it is nevertheless much to be regretted that they should have been so sustained.

Mr. Cole, in conjunction with Mr. Devon, has continued the operations of the removal of the Common Pleas Records from the Chapter House to the Carlton Ride, as mentioned in my Third Report (II. § 16); and a very large number of bundles of Writs from the time of Edw. I. to Hen. VII., which had been built up in the shelves against the wall, have been taken down, dusted, ticketed, and placed in sacks, for the purpose of removal. Many of them are in very bad condition, and a more complete account of these proceedings will be presented to Your Majesty when they are concluded. It may, however, not be unimportant to observe, that these documents, which had been stored in a similar manner to those in the White Tower, as mentioned below (II. § 42), are of considerable value, though of a different character. Many of the Returns annexed to the Writs are very curious, and they will also furnish a valuable series of original Writs, which are very rarely fully enrolled.

It having been judged expedient that a considerable portion of the Pell Rolls, State Papers, and Miscellaneous Documents should be removed to the Rolls House, a Warrant was signed accordingly by the Master of the Rolls, bearing date the 10th December, 1842 (App. I. No. 6). This removal is now in progress.

28. Inventories, &c.—Mr. Devon has enlarged his Index of persons and places to 900 Miscellaneous Documents. Under his directions, the Clerks have indorsed 802 other Documents, which have been prepared for binding at the Augmentation Office. Mr. Devon has also completed the first part of the Inventory of the Records of the Court of Wards and Liveries hereto appended (App. II., No. 3); and he has also, under my direction, begun a Calendar of the Deeds and Evidences anciently deposited in that Court, and which will be of considerable utility in genealogical and topographical inquiries. Some other particulars of the work in this Division will be found in the Tabular Summary (App. I., No. 19).

The other operations in numbering the Notes of Fines by the Clerk, under Mr. Cole's directions, are noticed in his Reports (App. I. No. 11).

Rolls Chapel Office.

Records of the Chancery, &c.—(Assistant Keepers, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Holden.)

29. Business of the Division.—The business of the division will appear from the Tabular Summary (App. I. No. 19), and from the Extracts from Mr. Palmer's Reports (App. I. No. 12). In the same Return Mr. Palmer has included the business of the Queen's Bench Records deposited in the Rolls House, and of the Exchequer Records deposited in the Vaults at Somerset House, both the latter being under his temporary charge.

With respect to the business of the Rolls Chapel Division, it is fluctuating and uncertain, occasionally heavy, and requiring much vigilance and attention on the part of the Officers, in order to protect the Records from sustaining injury. The facility of access given to Your Majesty's subjects, by the diminution of fees, has occasioned a great and increasing use of the Records by the public; and the number of searchers and other persons who have resorted to the Office on business, during the last year, amounts, as Mr. Palmer states, to about 3000. They consist of persons of all professions and various conditions, not merely persons practising in the different branches of the law, but other individuals searching for information for historical purposes, for evidence of title, or for matters connected with arts and manufactures. Many of the latter are common workmen; and it may be remarked, that many of the unprofessional persons so making searches have acquired the habit of prosecuting them with great patience, intelligence, and perseverance.

30. Transmissions and Removals of Records.—The following Records have been placed in the charge of Mr. Palmer since the last Report:—

Parliament Rolls of the 4th and 5th years of Your Majesty's reign, consisting of 50 parts, in 53 rolls; and of the 5th year of Your Majesty's reign, consisting of two parts, have been transmitted from the House of Lords.

Patent Rolls of the 8th, 9th, and 10th Geo. IV., consisting of 44 parts, together with 44 corresponding bundles of Privy Seals and Signed Bills, have been transmitted from the Petty Bag Office.

Close Rolls of 8th Geo. IV., consisting of 93 parts, with 24 bundles of Memorials of Annuity Deeds, from the Chancery Enrolment Office.

Enrolments of 11 Decrees, together with the Dockets thereof, from the Six Clerks' Office.

Three Rolls of Specifications of Patents have been made up in the Office.

31. Arrangements of Records, Repairs, Inventories, &c.—The operations performed on the Records under the directions of Mr. Palmer have been the following:—

Patent and Close Rolls, from Richard III. to George III., and Confirmation Rolls in the Rolls Chapel.—A very useful work has been performed upon these Rolls, by affixing tickets to the shelves of the racks in the dark passages under the galleries in the Chapel, wherein the Rolls are deposited. In consequence of the darkness of the passages (which, though partly remedied, is still inconvenient), the Rolls were heretofore taken out almost at hazard, the persons so taking them out being only guided by their general knowledge of the position of the Records, and putting them back again in the same manner. Hence they were liable to constant displacement. The Records can now be found by a common workman, with ease and security. When the Documents shall be removed to a General Repository, this arrangement, though much required and very useful, will have become useless: and I venture to submit this fact to Your Majesty, as one of the numerous disadvantages under which the service at present labours, of performing a great deal of work and incurring a great deal of expense in temporary arrangements, which will be in a manner turned to waste when the Central Repository shall be erected.

New covers and indorsements have been given to the Confirmation and Pardon Rolls, the Patent and Close Rolls have in like manner been indorsed and covered, and 265 membranes of Patent and other Rolls have been repaired. The several bundles of Privy Seals and Signed Bills deposited in the roof of the Chapel, and upon which much dirt had accumulated, have been opened and well cleaned, amounting to 1232 bundles, and 1141 of these bundles have been carefully arranged, tied up in paper, indorsed, and ticketed, as a temporary measure; but when funds can be spared for the purpose, it will be expedient to give greater protection to these valuable Documents, of which the use is by no means superseded by the enrolments.

Inquisitions Post Mortem.—With respect to the Inquisitions Post Mortem, the binding of the 84 volumes mentioned in my previous Report (App. I. No. 12) has been completed, together with two additional volumes, making in the whole 86, and the cleaning and repairing of the Inquisitions of the same class belonging to the reign of Charles I. is proceeding, and has advanced as far as the fourth year of that reign; and 1414 membranes have been cleaned and repaired for binding; and will form 22 additional volumes.

Of the Miscellaneous Documents upon files, in addition to the 44 bundles enumerated in my Report, as before quoted, 20 more have been inspected and put in order; the membranes which have been cleaned, damped, flattened, and prepared for more particular examination, amount to 2480; and in addition to the several Inventories herewith submitted to Your Majesty (App. II. No. 4), an Index has been made of the Memorials of Annuity Deeds, and of some of the Patent Rolls, in such manner as is stated in the Extracts from the Reports of the Assistant Keeper, herewith submitted to Your Majesty (App. I. No. 12).

The Dockets of Decrees have also been cleaned, dusted, and tied up in 869 bundles.

32. Records in the Vaults at Somerset House.—This Repository, as before mentioned (II. § 29), is under the temporary care of Mr. Palmer, who visits it when searches, inspections, or copies of Records are required. This arrangement is troublesome and inconvenient, and therefore it is intended to consider the propriety of removing these Records to the Carlton Ride, as soon as possession can be obtained of the whole of that building. The work performed is confined to the Great Rolls of the Exchequer, of which those as far as 27 Henry VIII. have been new covered.

Rolls House (Queen's Bench).

Records of the Court of Queen's Bench, being the Repository answering to the Treasury of the Court.—(Assistant Keepers, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Holden).

33. Transfers of Records.—In pursuance of the Warrant of the Master of the Rolls, bearing date the 30th November, 1842 (App. I. No. 2.), the Masters of Your Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench have delivered into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, the following Records of that Court:—

51 Plea Rolls, from Hilary, 1820, to Michaelmas, 1822
12 Crown Rolls, }
11 Docket Rolls, from Easter, 1 Geo. IV., to Michaelmas, 3 Geo. IV.

34. Inventories, &c.—Mr. Holden has begun to collect materials for an Inventory of the Repertory Rolls, which are in the nature of Indexes to the Plea and Corona Rolls; and such work as has been performed upon the Placita Rolls is stated in Mr. Palmer's Reports and in the Tabular Summary (App. I. Nos. 12 and 19).

I have continued from my Third Report (II. § 24, and App. II. No. 6) the Calendar of the contents of the Baga de Secretis; the portions for the reigns of Edward VI., Mary, Philip and Mary, and Elizabeth, are herewith submitted to Your Majesty (App. II., No. 7). Like the preceding portion, it includes Documents of great historical curiosity, such as the trials of Lady Jane Grey, Archbishop Cranmer, Thomas Duke of Norfolk, the Earl of Essex, and others. The concluding portion, which, amongst other documents of considerable interest, includes the proceedings against the adherents of the House of Stuart, is in progress.

ROLLS HOUSE.—PELL RECORDS, &c.

Pell Records, and other Records of the Receipt of the Exchequer, late in the Custody of the Comptroller-General.—(Assistant Keeper, Mr. William Henry Black).

35. Business of the Division.—This is but small, the resort to the Records being principally for literary purposes; but upon some points of inquiry, arising out of questions transmitted from the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, Mr. Black has, by his searches amongst the Records, been enabled to afford useful information.

36. Arrangement of Records, &c.—Mr. Black's attention has been in part diverted from these operations by his employment at the Treasury Chambers, before alluded to (I. § 1), but he has nevertheless made considerable progress, as will appear from the extracts from his Reports (App. I. No. 13), which, besides the particulars of his operations and Inventories, contain some curious explanations of the nature of the Pell Records. The process of arrangement has been extended to various Records not before examined and digested, and many which had been arranged, have been reviewed and improved, both in their local disposition and their chronological order. The following is a summary of his proceedings, of which the further particulars appear in his Reports, and in the Tabular Summary (App. I. No. 19):—

Original Privy Seals, on vellum. These have been separated from the miscellaneous parchment Documents, and digested into reigns, from Henry VIII. to George III. inclusive—2848 in number.

Miscellaneous Records found amongst the clearings of the Pell Office, formerly in three sacks. These have been sorted; many curious Records and fragments have been selected, the latter of which have been united with the Books and Rolls to which they belonged, and the remaining papers put up into bundles.

Miscellaneous modern Papers of the Auditor's Office, sorted and put in order in bundles.

Papers and Vouchers of the Exchequer Bill Office. These have been arranged in bundles.

Tellers' Yearly Accounts: 9 Rolls of the reign of Henry VIII., selected from the sacks, and ticketed.

Privy Seal Bundles, selected from the sacks, and stamped.

The Issue Roll, or Pells of Issue, from Henry III. to Edward IV. inclusive, which had been sorted into reigns only, now chronologically arranged in an ancient press lately fitted up for that purpose.

All the other Pell Rolls revised, and their arrangement improved, with the utmost care.

Pells Declaration Books arranged, and lists made, preparatory to an exact Inventory.

Books of the Exchequer Bill Office re-arranged, a list of some of them made, and all removed into a more safe and convenient place.
Auditors' Assignment Books (from the vault), arranged, cleansed, mended, and ticketed.
Pells Posting Books, 1718—1834, the like.

Beside the above-mentioned Records, numerous volumes have been cleaned, repaired, and ticketed; the process of stamping has been extended to numerous Books and Documents; and almost all the Records which were selected from the contents of the Vault at Somerset House, have received a distinguishing mark, in addition to the common stamp.

37. Inventories, Calendars, &c.—But the principal business performed by Mr. Black upon these Records consists in the continuation of the Inventories, of which the first portion accompanied my Third Report (App. II. No. 4). They are, in fact, not merely Inventories, but ample descriptive Catalogues of the Records to which they relate, and in some instances complete Calendars of their contents. They are constructed with extraordinary precision and diligence, upon a system exhibiting an exact analysis or classification of the Records of the Receipt of the Exchequer, of which there are three principal kinds, namely, Rolls, Books, and Documents. The Books have been taken first, because they are most wanted for use, and present least difficulties in the way of description; their first and second classes were described last year; some additions to them, together with the third class, now appear. When the classes, now in hand, are completed, as mentioned in the extracts from the Assistant Keeper's Reports (App. I. No. 13), the Pell Rolls will be described, which are now rendered much more complete, by the accession of a large number of like Rolls from the Chapter House, as after noticed (§ 38); and every similar Roll that can be found in the various Repositories of Exchequer Records will be added to them without delay, to make the collection perfect.

The Inventories and Calendars compiled by the Assistant Keeper, and annexed to this Report (App. II. No. 6), comprehend the following entire series of Books of the late Pell Office:—

Assignation Books from 1678 to 1689.
Posting Books of Issues upon Privy Seals, from 1597 to 1627.
Posting Books of Bills of Salaries, Annuities, and Allowances, from 1718 to 1834, being Books of great use and importance.
Enrolment Books of Letters Patent, from 1597 to 1834.
Enrolment Books of Letters of Privy Seal, for the same period.
Enrolments of Patents and Privy Seals, in Rolls, for part of the reign of James I., not contained in the aforementioned Books.
Calendar of the Letters Patent passed under the Great Seals of Oliver Cromwell and Richard Cromwell, as Lords Protectors of the Commonwealth of England, and by the Keepers of the Liberty of England, till the Restoration. This is a very curious historical Document.

All these compilations are illustrated by introductory notices, explaining the official construction and present use of the Records therein described, and generally speaking these Inventories, &c., are affording the groundwork for a proper History of Your Majesty's Court of Exchequer. The 'History of the Exchequer,' by Madox, only extends to the reign of Edward II., and is confined to one branch of the Court; whilst Mr. Black's researches, conducted with no ordinary degree of zeal and knowledge, will, as they advance, explain the whole organization of the Court of Receipt.

To the above must be added the short Supplementary Calendar of Papal Briefs (App. II. No. 6 a).

38. Records brought into the Division.—Very many Pell Rolls were amongst the Records of the Receipt of the Treasury of the Exchequer in the Chapter House: hence it was thought expedient to unite them to the series received from the Comptroller-General of the Exchequer; and, accordingly, such Rolls, as well as a large selection of Papal Bulls and Miscellaneous Documents, have, by virtue of the warrant of the 10th of December, 1842, (App. I., No. 6), been received into this Division under the charge of Mr. Black. Mr. Black has ascertained the time and manner when the Chapter House Pell Rolls were separated from those in the late Pell Office; and his observations thereupon, as well as the particulars of the removals, will (as it is proposed) be submitted to Your Majesty in a future Report.

39. Fire Precautions.—These extend to the whole range of building appropriated to the Record Service. Tanks have been made upon the premises, a fire-engine provided, and buckets placed in several parts of the Rolls House, and two watchmen are kept upon duty, who are checked by tell-tale clocks.

Tower of London.

Records of the Chancery, Courts of Common Law, Admiralty, &c. (Assistant Keepers, Mr. Hardy and Mr. Roberts.)

40. Business of the Division.—The business transacted in this Division appears from the extracts from the Assistant Keeper's Reports (App. I., No. 14), and from the Tabular Summary (App. I., No. 19).

41. Transfers of Records.—In further pursuance of the Warrant of the 14th of February, 1842 (Third Report, App. I., No. 8), various ancient Records of the Court of Common Pleas have been removed into the Carlton Ride, in the manner before mentioned (II. § 16). In pursuance, also, of a Warrant dated the 8th of December, 1842 (App. I., No. 5), the Assistant Keeper has received into his charge the ancient oak chest formerly deposited in the Six Clerks' Office, containing several curious and valuable documents relating to the Court of Chancery.

42. Arrangement, Repairs, and Calendars of Records.—These operations have been of considerable importance, in consequence of the peculiar nature of the documents which have been operated upon. The documents themselves are individually of small bulk, and therefore, though they make less show upon the shelves than documents of a more recent period, they exact in their arrangement a greater degree of skill, intelligence, and labour. In my Third Report (II., § 34), I had the honour to submit to Your Majesty, a general description of the Miscellaneous Records upon the Files of the Chancery, together with remarks upon their importance. They were built up, as it were, against the wall in the White Tower, and though remarkably perfect as to preservation, being quite uninjured either from damp or mildew, they were very dusty: and the Assistant Keeper has performed such operations as may make them, to a certain degree, accessible to the public, and prepare the way for a more perfect arrangement. It has appeared, upon a preliminary examination of these Records upon the file, that they fall into two classes; the first, which may be considered more properly as Records of the Chancery; the second, consisting of Writs, which it may possibly be proper to consider as susceptible of being arranged with the Records of the Courts to which they were addressed. Whether it will be advisable to separate these two classes will be a matter for future consideration; and, in the meanwhile, Mr. Hardy has, under my directions, prepared an Inventory of the first series, hereto annexed (App. II., No. 5 a), and which, by giving a general view of the contents of the files, is sufficiently descriptive to guide any person wishing to consult them. Upon perusal of this Inventory, it will be seen that the documents are of the greatest importance, not only as evidences of the property, but as containing ample materials for the history of the civil and ecclesiastical policy, of the realm. From the importance of the labours pursued by Prynne, when he was Keeper of the Tower Records, it will be proper to institute a special investigation in order to ascertain the specific bundles or classes of "Brevia" upon which he worked, and whether the documents which he quoted are still in existence. A particular calendar of these Records will be in the highest degree desirable; but a long period must, I fear, elapse before it will be in the power of the establishment to give the needful attention to them.

The bundles, so treated, are 939 in number, containing, by estimation, 244,750 documents.

43. Royal and other Letters.—Many of these exceedingly valuable Historical Documents are written upon very small pieces of parchment or vellum. There is considerable practical difficulty in treating documents of this description so as to prevent their being lost, and yet to afford the means of convenient consultation to inquirers. The plan of inlaying them upon leaves of paper or parchment, and binding the leaves, so formed, in books, is in some cases advantageous, but it has the disadvantage of being expensive, and also of not admitting of the insertion or interpolation of other documents of the same nature which may be found subsequently to the first arrangement. Hence, in such cases, whatever care may be used, the need of such interpolations will occasionally arise, and an interruption is occasioned in the proper consecutive order. The mode adopted, under my directions, by Mr. Hardy, (who suggested the same,) obviates all such difficulties. Each document is inlaid separately in a sheet of strong paper, and the sheets themselves are placed in portfolios, constructed according to the suggestions of the Assistant Keeper, and in which the several sheets, though not stitched or connected together, are, nevertheless, effectually secured. Of these documents he has begun, under my direction, a Calendar, of which the first portion is hereto annexed (App. II., No. 5 c), and 1823 letters have been thus treated.

44. Inquisitions Post Mortem.—The Inquisitions Post Mortem to the 6 Edw. II., have been cleaned, flattened, repaired, and arranged, so as to correspond with the printed Calendars, and in such a manner as materially to assist persons consulting them. The old arrangement was in bundles,—a form which, besides being very inconvenient for consultation, is injurious to the Records by breaking and crumpling them. They have now been entitled, numbered, and arranged in large interleaved books, which have been made expressly for them. Some of the membranes which are too large to be inserted in books have been placed in portfolios, and marked with a number corresponding to the number in the books, and also with the printed Calendars.

In the systematic arrangement of Records there is often a practical difficulty arising from the different sizes of documents belonging to the same series, and no general plan can be laid down for the course to be pursued, but each case must be dealt with as it arises, and the plan adopted by Mr. Hardy is judicious and convenient. The arrangement is so simple, that a document can be produced for consultation in less than half a minute, and replaced in the same quantity of time. It is now next to impossible for any of these Records to be misplaced. These Inquisitions have been inventoried, and their condition fully described. This Inventory contains and particularizes the actual number of Writs and Inquisitions at present known, and the number of membranes composing each Inquisition, and it includes the whole of the Inquisitions Post Mortem known to be in the Tower, viz. about 57,129 membranes. This Inventory operates as an effective check upon the workmen, and prevents the documents from being mixed or mislaid while under repair. The state of the documents has been carefully noticed in this Inventory: and this particularization will be useful in the selection of those which, having been injured by the injudicious application of tincture of galls, are becoming illegible, and of which it may be desirable to cause authenticated copies to be made to supply the place of the originals.

45. Inquisitions ad quod Damnum.—A Calendar of 72 of these documents, found in the course of the recent searches, has been made and interpolated in an interleaved copy of the Calendar of these Records, printed in 1803 by Your Majesty's late Record Commission. The documents themselves have been repaired and inserted in the general series. An Inventory and Description of these documents has been made in the same manner as that of the Inquisitions Post Mortem, and to which all the remarks made with respect to those Inquisitions equally apply.

46. Probationes Ætatis.—Some more bundles of these very curious and valuable documents, containing 390 membranes, have been discovered, and a Calendar been made of them, which is herewith submitted to Your Majesty (App. II., No. 5 b). The documents themselves have been flattened and cleaned.

47. Workmen's Work: Further operations, &c.—The particulars of the work performed by the workmen, will appear in the extracts from the Assistant Keeper's Reports (App. I., No. 14). The Rolls are liable to great injury in coiling and unrolling; and this subject having been attentively considered by Mr. Hardy and Mr. Cole, a plan has been ingeniously contrived by them for the protection of the Chancery Rolls, and the prevention of injury by friction, as well as by crumpling, in the process of rolling and unrolling; and the details of the plan which they have so suggested are annexed to this Report (App. I., No. 14 c). It appears to me to be desirable that it should be hereafter adopted.

It is proposed in the ensuing year to continue the Calendar of the Royal and other Letters, the arrangement and repair of the Inquisitions Post Mortem, the Inventory of Inquisitions ad quod damnum, and to form an Inventory of the bundles of Privy Seals which are now deposited in the Wakefield Tower, and also of the Proceedings of the Commissioners of Forfeited Estates. All these documents, which in many cases are of considerable curiosity and utility, have scarcely ever been examined, and the Inventories have appeared to me to be the best means of making the said Records more generally known.

III.—General Matters connected with the Care and Management of the Records, and the Record Establishment.

1. General Repository.—On the 24th March, 1842, a letter was addressed by the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury to the Master of the Rolls, transmitting therewith a copy of a Report of the Commissioners of Your Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenue, dated the 4th November, 1840, together with the enclosures referred to in such Report, upon the subject of a general plan for the future accommodation of the Public Records: and the Master of the Rolls was thereby requested to state his opinions on the plans for the permanent accommodation of the Records therein detailed. In reply thereto, his Lordship, by his letter of the 4th October, 1842, has given his opinion upon the subject (App. I. No. 18 a), and, viewing the question in connexion with the erection of new Courts of Justice and new Law Offices, he considers that it would be very convenient, and ultimately a great saving of expense to the public, to erect the Record Office in the close vicinity of the Law Offices and of the Courts: and, having regard to all the circumstances, his Lordship is of opinion that the Rolls Estate, now vested in the Crown, affords the most convenient site for the Record Office, and for the new Offices for the several Courts of Law and Equity, and if the space be sufficient, or sufficient ground can be obtained, that the same site would also be the most convenient for the Courts of Justice.

To that communication his Lordship received a reply, dated the 28th November, 1842, in which their Lordships postpone their decision upon the subject for the reasons therein stated (App. I., No. 18 b).

I venture most respectfully to submit to Your Majesty that, fully admitting the propriety of giving very mature attention to the subject in all its bearings, the need of speedily coming to a final decision, not only remains undiminished, but becomes more urgent year by year. The longer the erection of a General Repository is delayed, the greater will be the waste of public money in temporary fittings and arrangements, and in precautions against fire, which, indispensable as they are for the present accommodation and safety of the Records, will become useless when the General Repository is completed.

2. Recapitulation of Proceedings under the Record Act since the Appointment of the Deputy Keeper.—I shall now submit to Your Majesty a brief recapitulation of the several proceedings and operations which have taken place in execution of the Record Act since I had the honour of being appointed to the situation which I now hold.

Of the Records which the Act directs to be placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls, the following classes have been transferred into his custody, all the accruing Records of the Courts of Common Law having been transferred, up to Michaelmas Term, 1822, together with some of later periods which have been received into his Lordship's custody, upon the application of the functionaries having authority over the same.

and buildings and premises of or appertaining to all the several Record Offices, properly so called, in the following places or bearing the following names, viz., the Tower of London, Rolls Chapel, Rolls House, Chapter House, Repository 3 Whitehall Yard, Augmentation Office; Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall, Carlton Ride, and Pipe Office and Vaults under Somerset House, having been also delivered into the possession of the Master of the Rolls, are all still in his possession, with the exception of the Repository No. 3 Whitehall Yard, which has been given up to Your Majesty's Board of Works (Third Report, II. § 36), and all are to be understood and taken as the Public Record Office, pursuant to the proviso in the Act.

By these proceedings, all the Records in the Metropolis, within the purview and scope of the Act, have been reduced into possession under the same Act, with the exception of the following classes, respecting which it will be expedient, for certain reasons, to postpone proceedings, viz.—

1. The Records of the Office of the Land Revenue and Enrolments.
2. The Records in the Petty Bag and Crown Offices of Your Majesty's Court of Chancery.
3, 4. The Records of the Marshalsea and Palace Courts, and the Records of the Admiralty.

With respect to the Records and Record Offices situated out of the Metropolis, and comprehended in the Act, the Records of the Principality of Wales and Chester have been carefully surveyed (First Report, App. No. 31), and the Master of the Rolls has, from time to time, given such directions as were required concerning them, but it may be doubted whether it will be expedient to take any steps for their removal until the erection of a General Office: and thus, in connexion with the operations upon the Metropolitan Records, as before mentioned, the Act has been carried into execution to the fullest extent which circumstances will admit of, with the exception of the examinations of the Records of Durham and Ely, which have been postponed.

In addition to the Records comprised by name or description in the Act, the Master of the Rolls has taken or received into his possession a portion of the Correspondence and Documents of Your Majesty's Admiralty, late in the Dock Yard at Deptford (Second Report, I. § 5; Third Report, I. § 6), and the Papers of the late Charity Commission (Third Report, I. § 8); and has, as before mentioned, at the request of the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury (I. § 2), caused the Treasury Documents to be examined.

During the before-mentioned period, the following Inventories, Calendars, Catalogues, and Indexes have been prepared in manuscript, or presented to Your Majesty in my several Reports, viz.—

NOTE.—Materials have also been collected for Inventories and Calendars of the Repertory and other Rolls of the Queen's Bench in the Rolls House, the Brevia, &c., in the Tower, the Barons' Depositions in the Carlton Ride, and the State Papers, Diplomatic Documents, and Private Deeds, in the Chapter House.

The above Inventories and Calendars, &c., will become the basis of a systematic arrangement of the Records when the same shall be consolidated in a General Repository. In the meanwhile, as they proceed, they identify the Documents, and facilitate searches and inquiries.

Whether considered in relation to antiquity, to historical curiosity, or to bulk and richness, Your Majesty's Public Records are far more important than any similar muniments existing in the European community. Detached Documents of earlier date may be found in the continental archives, yet none (so far as I am informed), with the possible exception of the Papal Registers in the Vatican, possess any series which can be compared to those which appertain unto Your Majesty's Crown. Those of France, which might seem to rival those of England, do not exist with any degree of completeness until the reign of Saint Louis. The Great Record of Doomsday, a survey of a kingdom unparalleled for its singularity and its curiosity, stands at the head of Your Majesty's Records; and though some chasms intervene in the succession of the several classes of Records, yet the information, deficient in some portions, is so well supplied by others, that, taken as a whole, they afford materials (as yet but most imperfectly employed) for investigating the progress and development of the laws and statutes, the history, constitution, and policy of the realm, from the Norman Conquest to the present age.

With respect to the very important labours of repairing, cleaning, and arranging the Records, full particulars will be found in each of my Reports, in the Reports of the Assistant Keepers, and in the Tabular Summaries of Proceedings annexed to each Report (Second Report, App. I. No. 40; Third Report, App. I. No. 16; Fourth Report, App. I. No. 19), which Summaries, compiled with great care by Mr. Thomas, the Secretary of the Public Office, (who is most diligently employed, in addition to his other duties, in tabularizing and digesting the matters relating to the Records,) will give a very clear view of the extent of the work performed.

The following is the general summary of such repairs, &c.; and the consideration of the matters which will appear in detail from the sources before referred to, will show the progress which has been made in the arrangement and repairing of the Documents in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, (many of which were previously quite inconsultable,) and in preserving them from future damage or injury.

Besides extensive operations upon the Common Pleas and other Records, which cannot at present be included in the general summary.

In all the proceedings now or heretofore reported to Your Majesty, serious difficulties, arising from the very peculiar circumstances under which the Records were placed when the general Record Act came into operation, have had to be encountered. Whole classes of documents had been exceedingly neglected: and, instead of a regularly organized office, in which the officers were already accustomed to a uniform course of business under one superior, it became needful to combine five distinct establishments, each previously independent, subjected to different schemes of management, and guided by different feelings and rules, into one establishment, subject to one authority and a uniform system of rules. This process has been effected nearly as far as it can be, until all the Records shall be placed in one building. In the mean while, the inconveniences arising from the previous dispersion of the Records in so many different localities have been greatly diminished, and will probably be much more so, in the course of the current year, within which period, or not long afterwards, I trust that the Metropolitan Records (except as before excepted) will be brought together in the Rolls House and Chapel, the Tower, and the Carlton Ride, and all the officers and workmen of the establishment located in these three several Repositories.

When this shall have been accomplished, and the Records so consolidated within the three Repositories, it will be practicable for the Deputy Keeper to give a greater degree of personal inspection over the proceedings of the establishment than hitherto has been accomplished, and the system of the service will have been brought to as definite a state as is practicable, until the final consolidation of the establishment and of the Records in the General Repository.

All which is most humbly submitted to Your Majesty.

Dated this 28th day of February, in the year of our Lord 1843, in the sixth year of the reign of Your Majesty.

(Signed) FRANCIS PALGRAVE,
The Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

I most humbly certify to Your Majesty that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, under my direction, pursuant to the statute.

DURING the whole period I have discharged, with the assistance of the clerks, the duties attending the management and charge of the Records of the Augmentation Office. I have done the same in respect of those Records of the Exchequer which remained in the Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall, after the removals which took place to Carlton Ride. I have also done the same in respect of those Records of the Exchequer which have been recovered from the confused mass which formed what were called the Miscellaneous Records of the Queen's Remembrancer, and which are now deposited in rooms adjoining the Augmentation Office.

These duties have been, to assist the public in the use which has been made of them, and in preparing the copies, certified or uncertified, which have been required.

The following Table will show the number of Searches, Inspections, Copies and Authentications in the several months of the past half year, with the Fees which have been received and paid over to the Secretary and Accountant:—

The operations of Cleaning, Repairing, Covering, Entitling, Describing, and Arranging, have proceeded, and I annex an account of what has been done on each of the several collections of Records on which these works, or any of them, have been performed.

THE RECORDS OF THE AUGMENTATION OFFICE.—These were committed to my charge in the month of November, 1841, and my first business in respect of them was to obtain a general acquaintance with their nature, and the deposits of each kind of document in the Office, as well as with the amount of assistance to be derived from the Old Calendars and Indexes.

It was soon apparent that there is much in this Office to which there is no kind of Calendar or Index whatsoever; and that in one of the departments, to which there is very frequent resort by inquirers, called the Chartæ Antiquæ, consisting of a miscellaneous assemblage of documents of all periods, and relating to very various subjects, many of the very numerous documents were not in the boxes to which the Index pointed, and could not be produced (if at all) except by long and laborious search. * * * * *

Beside these there is a large body of Compotuses of very various kinds, Sheriffs', Escheators', Customers', Alnagers', Collectors of Subsidies', Ambassadors', Persons engaged in Military Service, together with every species of Minister who was employed in collecting the territorial revenue of the Crown, or of divers Religious Houses, or sometimes of individuals, of which there is no Calendar or Index whatever. There is a rude distribution of them according to Counties, and this distribution affords at present the only guide to any document to be found amongst them. They were covered and entitled by the late Mr. Caley. Of these I have begun to prepare descriptions for a Calendar, not intended to be a distinct work, but to be united with, and to form part and parcel of, the Calendar which has been in progress of the Miscellaneous Documents of the Queen's Remembrancer: these Records being for the most part members of the same serieses, and differing from them in nothing else but in having been deposited in another department of the Exchequer, and in being in a better state of preservation.

In the examination of the Chartæ Antiquæ, and of another large body of miscellaneous documents known in the office as the "Chartæ Miscellaneæ," bound up by Mr. Caley in volumes, I discovered several small Compotuses which belonged to the serieses, of which the main portions compose the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer. Of these I have had descriptions prepared, and placed in chronological order, in the serieses to which they respectively belong.

The Compotuses relating to the possessions of the Duchy of Cornwall, and to the Temporalities of the Bishops (sede vacante), have been collected from their several depositories in the Office, described, and the descriptions placed in order with the similar descriptions of documents of the same kind found amongst the Records of the Queen's Remembrancer.

Beside the two collections of Chartæ, called the Antiquæ and the Miscellaneæ, there is a third, which has been called the Chartæ Selectæ. This consisted of a small body of ancient evidence, separated from the rest of the matter of the same kind on account of its supposed greater value. To this there was no Index, and the practice has been to turn over the whole collection, whenever the question arose whether something was to be found among them that might assist an inquirer. To these Chartæ I have caused an index of places to be prepared.

The Miscellaneous Records of the Queen's Remembrancer.—The workmen have continued to be employed in cleaning and repairing these: and the processes of describing and entitling have gone forward. There has been no time in the past half year for the distribution and arrangement of more than a small portion of the great body of the descriptions which have been formed of them, or for any digest of them in the Calendar of Compotuses of the Exchequer to be prepared. * * * *

The Records of the Chapter House.—One of the workmen employed here has been almost constantly engaged in cleaning, trimming, and repairing a quantity of paper documents belonging to that depository.

It remains only to notice the ancient Books:—Whatever in that form has been found among the Miscellanea of the Remembrancer has been described in its course, and we have accounts of all the Books which are perfect, or as complete as we can hope to make them, down to the time of Charles the First. I have also begun to describe the Chartularies and other ancient Books found in the Stone Tower. I have also described the Pershore Chartulary, which is one of the Books of the Augmentation Office. But for the present, for the matter contained in the Books of this Office in its bearing on the objects of inquirers, I avail myself of a very useful Index of names of places formed by Mr. Cole.

Receipts and Removals of Records.

Under authority of the Warrant under the hand of the Right Hon. the Master of the Rolls, dated November 4, 1841, there have been transferred to Mr. Cole such documents as still remained in the Stone Tower, which fall within the scope of that Warrant, after the removals noticed in my last Report.

And there have been transferred to him sundry other documents of the same classes and kinds which have been discovered among the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer.

Also, under authority of another Warrant dated on the same November 4, I have received from Mr. Cole various small parcels of Compotuses and matter subsidiary to them which has been discovered by him at Carlton Ride, or elsewhere, and not deposited in the sacks.

The documents returned repaired to the Chapter House have been 310: and 301 more have been received from Mr. F. Devon.

Particulars of Inventories, Calendars, or Indexes.

The sum of the descriptions which have been prepared of the various documents in the past half year preparatory to the calendar, is 3076, making the total of described Exchequer documents (chiefly Compotuses) 37,633.

The following Table will show the reigns to which they belong:—

The number of documents belonging to the Miscellanea of the Remembrancer, or brought from the Stone Tower, which have gone through the hands of the workmen, is 4841.

The number of Chapter House documents repaired, 383.

The number of Clerks employed on this establishment on January 1, 1842, was 4. To these, a fifth was added on January 24.

The number of workmen has been 6, beside Gay the foreman, and a boy.

In the Return made from the Tower, inserted in the Second Report, (Appendix II., p. 45, 46,) twenty-one Subsidy Rolls are named belonging to the period from Edward III. to Elizabeth. These are evidently Rolls which have been separated from the large collection of Subsidy Rolls now in this Department, and I take the liberty to suggest that there would be a convenience in having them removed to this depository, and placed in sequence with the large body of such Accounts that are here collected and described.

Also among those described as "Miscellaneous Rolls belonging to no particular class," p. 53—65 there are several which belong to serieses or classes which are brought within the scope of our descriptions.

10 b.—Extracts from Report of Proceedings for the Half Year ending 31*st December*, 1842.

No change has taken place in the nature or general character of the duties in which I have been engaged since my last Report. I have continued in the same relation to the three great bodies of Cognate Records in which the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls was pleased to place me by his Warrant, dated on the 4th of November, 1841; viz. (1) those of the Augmentation Office; (2) the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer; (3) the Records late of the same Office, deposited in the Stone Tower adjoining to Westminster Hall.

These duties have been, to exercise a general care and superintendence over them, and to give all necessary directions concerning them; to assist the public in the use which is made of them, both by guiding them to the sources from which information is to be obtained in reference to the objects of their inquiries, and by assisting them generally with such information as I am able to afford them. I have also had the duties to discharge of preparing Copies from those Records, certified or not certified; of receiving and accounting for the Fees, and all the other duties which pertain to the office of a Keeper of a portion of the National Records.

I have also had to prepare myself for the duty of assisting inquirers by much attention to the Records themselves, to considerable portions of which there is no access by Calendars or Indexes, and by giving information and instruction to the Clerks to qualify them to do the same.

The processes of cleaning, pressing, and repairing the matter forming the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer have also gone on; also the ascertaining, preparatory to the intended Calendar. * * * *

In addition to these duties, there have been a number of paper documents sent from the Chapter House to be repaired, which have occupied nearly the whole time of one of the workmen.

The following table presents a view of the several Searches in the Calendars, Inspections of Records, Copies and Authentications, in the past half year, together with the Fees received in each month. The term "Searches in the Calendars" is used, that it may not be supposed that the number indicates the number of applications made at the Office, many persons resorting here having no occasion to use the Calendars.

The number of documents which have been placed in the boxes, and of which descriptions have been prepared as the first step towards the formation of a complete Calendar, is 1912, making the total of documents ascertained, chiefly Exchequer Compotuses and their subsidiary instruments, 39,545. The unit in these numerals often consists of many instruments, each requiring and having received particular notice in the descriptions, and this is more particularly the case in the period comprehended in the present Report, in consequence of there being so many files of Inquisitions, sometimes consisting of 50 to 100 distinct instruments each requiring to be placed in the descriptions.

10 c.—Mr. Hunter's summary of Proceedings as to Repairs of Records and Inventories.

No. 10 c. Summary of Proceedings of the Assistant Keeper at the late Augmentation Office.

The following is a summary of our proceedings both as to repairs of Records and Inventories for the whole period included in my Reports, that is, from May 9, 1837, to December 31, 1842.

The classes of documents are those of the Miscellanea of the Queen's Remembrancer, which are by far the principal portion. To these are to be added, Miscellanea of the Augmentation Office, and Paper documents brought from the Chapter House. On these last our business has been only to repair.

Books, Bundles, Files, Pouches, Rolls, and Records in single membranes, in number 39,545, had been ascertained and described as the first step towards a properly digested Calendar. A large proportion of these descriptions had been classed and arranged chronologically, as a further step toward the formation of the Calendar. Some, that is the Accounts of Subsidies, had undergone the rectification which the whole requires, and been digested in a Calendar or Inventory, as far as the ascertainment of them had proceeded up to certain periods.

The above 39,545 had been also cleaned, repaired, covered, and taped, where necessary; the pouches, rolls, and books entitled, the parcels also in which Records which it had not been thought expedient to roll are placed; in short, put for the most part in a proper state for future permanent custody and use. Subject, however, as to their dates and titles, to that rectification which will take place whensoever the Digest is formed.

In the number above given, the unit in some instances represents a great number of distinct documents, each of which required to be separately examined and described.

To the number above given is to be added a floating mass of documents which were in the hands of the junior clerks, of which they had prepared descriptions, but the descriptions had not then been compared with the originals, nor has the comparison yet taken place. As an approximate estimate, these may be taken at 4,000.

No estimate of the number of membranes, pieces of parchment, pieces of paper, and leaves of books, can be formed without taking up a great deal more time than can be contemplated. For the purpose of identifying the documents, these particulars are placed on the slips, which contain the descriptions, so that computation may be said to be practicable, if thought worth the time it would require. By estimation, I should think that the number of membranes, pieces of parchment, pieces of paper, and leaves of books, may be averaged at ten or twelve to each of the documents as above enumerated. Say then, at such a guess as this, that they amount to 400,000.

To this, in considering the repairs, are to be added all the floating matter in the hands of the clerks which has been above spoken of, and all the fragmentary and other matter cleaned in the hands of the foreman, or deferred by us as not at present within our proper scope. Perhaps this would not fall short of another 100,000 membranes, leaves, or pieces of parchment and paper.

To these are to be added, the cleaning and repairing of about 1,633 paper documents brought from the Chapter House.

MISCELLANEOUS OBSERVATIONS.

Importance of a Departmental Division of Duties.—The increasing magnitude of the works, as well in respect of the public as of the Office business, seems to me to render it of the highest importance, with a view to the proper economy of labour, to carry the consolidation of the Offices as far as possible, and to divide the labour into departments.

The same amount of labour which is now employed in this Branch, in the several processes of the public searches, in keeping the accounts, checking the receipts, and registering the documents used in public searches, and in checking their return to their places, &c., would nearly, if not wholly, provide for the performance of the same duties for the whole of the establishment. In like manner, if all the workmen of the service were brought together, there would not be any corresponding increase of labour in superintending the increased force employed in arrangement and repairs.

Employment of Colours in Arrangement.—As an auxiliary in the arrangement and in the preservation of order, I have adopted colours to mark the large and general divisions, taking red to represent the department of the Common Pleas, and blue that of the Exchequer. The presses have been so coloured respectively, and I propose to carry out the principle into other details. With such an obvious guide, even the most ordinary workman has no excuse for placing a Common Pleas Record on a shelf or press belonging to the Exchequer classes.

Modes of Ticketing.—In the modes of ticketing, I have thought it right to make every individual ticket describe all the particulars of the Office, the class, the genus, and the species to which it belongs. The hand-press has enabled me to convey much other information in this direction, which I should have hardly thought of doing had I been obliged to send forms of tickets out of the Office to be printed. The following are specimens of the tickets:—

STATE of RECORDS at time of Transfer or Removal, from—1. Exchequer, 2. Chapter House, 3. Serjeants' Inn.

1. Exchequer.

BEFORE the transfer of the Records of the Queen's Remembrancer of the Exchequer took place, I had fortunately been able to arrange all the Common Pleas Records then deposited in Carlton Ride in series, so that they were well known and easily consultable. The putrefaction which was consuming certain of them had been stopped, (see Appendix I. to Second Report of Deputy Keeper, pp. 24, 25,) and all were placed as far as possible beyond liability to further injury. I had looked forward to proceed rapidly with the measures recommended in my letter of the 20th October, 1840; but further progress, especially with the Common Rolls, has been almost wholly arrested by the transfers and the incidental proceedings connected with them;—first, of the Exchequer Records; next, of the Common Pleas Records from the Chapter House; and lastly, of the Records relating to Fines from Serjeants' Inn. Under the authority of the Deputy Keeper's letter of 20th November, 1841, I partially suspended the works on the Common Rolls, and proceeded to employ the greater part of the strength of the establishment on the Exchequer Records. Before I had nearly brought the Exchequer Records into accessible order, the transfer from the Chapter House followed, and then that from Serjeants' Inn. I allude to these transfers as having delayed the arrangement of the Exchequer Records. I now proceed to speak of the condition of the Records transferred on these occasions:—

First, of the Exchequer Records.—Though these Records existed in large series, it cannot be said that any one series was in that state of consultability which it ought to be. The first measure taken was to bring from the Stone Tower and the Temple all portions belonging to the larger series in the Carlton Ride, and consolidate both together. I have no means of ascertaining that every Record once kept by the Exchequer Clerks has been given up. The following Table describes briefly the past and present state of the principal classes of the Queen's Remembrancer's Records, now in Carlton Ride, exclusive of those which are considered as "Miscellaneous":—

Title or Class.	Period.	Where Deposited at time of Transfer.	Condition.	Accessibility.	Operations Performed.	Future Operations.
1. Memoranda Rolls or Remembrances.	Hen. 3 to Geo. 4. The last 20 years remain with the Queen's Remembrancer.	At Carlton Ride, from Eliz. to Geo.4. At Stone Tower at Westminster, from Hen. 3 to Eliz.	Generally very good, except the covers, which need repairs and new strings.	Easy, but local arrangement defective.	The series consolidated in Carlton Ride; the large rolls laid flat; temporary tickets placed to each roll, and arranged in chronological order in one press.	Repairs to covers, new strings, inventory and calendar wanted.
Equity Proceedings. 2*a*. Informations. b. Bills and Answers c, Depositions. d. Examinations.	From 1 Eliz. to present time.	At Carlton Ride.	Good from the time of Will. and Mary.	Before Will. and Mary very defective; in disorder, and almost inconsultable; several sacks of miscellaneous which require to be sorted.	The whole series brought into one part of the Treasury, excepting the miscellaneous sacks.	Examination and arrangement on all before William and Mary; repairs probably wanted to many; they should all be flattened, compared with the entry books called Bill Books, and an inventory made; it is proposed to commence these operations forthwith.
3. Original Orders and Decrees.	From 34 Eliz. to 1825.	At the Stone Tower.	Pretty good from 25 Car. 2.	Tedious and imperfect before 25 Car. 2.	Removed to Carlton Ride; they have been dusted and all ticketted and arranged in chronological order, and are now perfectly consultable. From 1734 to 1831 they have been stamped and compared with the calendar, and the deficiencies noted, and an inventory made. The inventory of this antecedent period has been made, but it is subject to additions.	The earlier portion requires stamping, and identification with the calendar.
Original Orders and Decrees entered in books.	From Eliz. to 1841.	At the Stone Tower.	Very good .	Easy.	None	Chiefly binders' work; inventory to be made.
4. Barons' Depositions.	Eliz. to Victoria	Carlton Ride .	Dirty, and many crumpled.	Very defective	None	Cleaning, repair, arrangement, inventory.
5. Inrolment of the States of Public Accounts.	From 1711 to present time.	Carlton Ride .	Very good .	Wanted local arrangement.	Unrolled and tied flat, dusted, ticketed, and arranged; inventory made.	Inventory to be amplified, and the numbers of the membranes to be added. Query if calendar is necessary.
6. Duplicates of the Land Tax and Assessed Taxes, and Books of Entry thereof.	From 1621 to 1825.	Carlton Ride; some in the loft, some in the Treasury.	Good . . .	Needed arrangement, a search often occupied several days.	The series consolidated, sorted into counties; counties chronologically arranged and inventoried.	Twenty counties remain to be treated and finally arranged; probably no calendar is necessary.
7. Affidavits and Bills.	Jac. 1 to Geo. 4	Stone Tower .	Generally good, but dirty.	Wanted arrangement.	Dusted, ticketed, chronologically arranged, and inventory of the number of bundles made.	Numbers of documents to be added to the inventory. Query if calendar is wanted.
8. Writs and Process against Receivers and Collectors of Assessments and Taxes.	From 1689 to 1822.	Stone Tower .	Generally good	In disorder .	Dusted, ticketed, chronologically arranged, and inventory of the number of bundles made.	Numbers of the documents to be added to the inventory. Query if calendar is necessary.
9. Special Commissions.	Eliz. to Geo. 3 .	Stone Tower and Carlton Ride.	Bad; dirty .	Arrangement wanted very much.	Arranged chronologically; works of cleaning and flattening are in progress.	To be finally arranged, inventoried, and calendared.

Title or Class.	Period.	Where Deposited at time of Transfer.	Condition.	Accessibility.	Operations Performed.	Future Operations.
10. Excise Writs and Posteas, Extents and Inquisitions.	Geo. 3 . . .	Carlton Ride .	Pretty good .	Readily accessible.	None.	Examined, dusted, tied up; inventory wanted.
11. Writs of Extent and Inquisitions relating to Stamps and Taxes.	Geo. 2 and 3 .	Carlton Ride .	Generally good	Wanted arrangement.	None	Cleaning, arrangement, and inventory.
12. Miscellaneous Writs of several classes.	Geo. 3 . . .	Carlton Ride .	Dirty . . .	Want arrangement very much.	None	Cleaning, arrangement, and inventory.
13. Bails and Recognizances.	Geo. 3 . . .	Carlton Ride and Stone Tower.	Good . . .	In disorder .	Parted into series, dusted, arranged, chronologically tied up and ticketed.	Inventory to be made, and they are to be placed in sacks.
14. Reports and Certificates.	From 1648 to 1833.	Temple . . .	Good . . .	Wanted sorting	Dusted, sorted, and the miscellaneous entered in index; ticketed and tied up, and arranged in boxes. Inventory.	None.

2. From Chapter House.

The Communia Placita, removed from the Chapter House, had been kept in pasteboard boxes, and much mildew was found upon them, which it was necessary to remove. Each Roll was dusted and wiped, and where its bulk rendered it awkward to be rolled up, it was laid flat, tied up in brown paper, and placed on an open shelf. Tickets were appended to every Roll so flattened, and to some others where necessary. Several Rolls were in a very decayed state. In some, great numbers of their membranes were divided apart, and in fragments. As they could not be arranged unless repaired, these repairs have been done.

The Feet of Fines appear to be in good condition, excepting the first documents on each file, and not to require immediately any other measures than those which have been taken with them. As far as they have been examined, the first documents on the files have suffered greatly from their wear against the string on which they are strung, and from being squeezed up, crumpled, and creased. It seems to me, that hereafter all should be flattened and placed in portfolios. For the purposes of accessibility and convenient packing, each bundle or file to the end of Elizabeth has received a temporary ticket. The state of the Concords of Fines has not, at present, received much investigation, but they appear to be in good condition.

3. From Serjeants' Inn.

The state of the burnt King's Silver Books required instant measures. These volumes were damaged by the fire in the Temple, which occurred in March, 1838, and are described by Mr. Sherwood (Appendix to First Report of Deputy Keeper, p. 47,) "as being unavailable for public search." Nothing whatever appeared to have been done to remedy the evils inflicted on them by that catastrophe at the period of their transfer. Immediately after the receipt of them, I caused a very careful examination to be commenced. It is still in progress, under the charge of one of the most skilful of the workmen. The combined action of the fire and water had cemented the whole together in masses, and great care and skill were necessary to part these masses. About 300 volumes, relating to as many Terms, have been made perfect, and after they have undergone the necessary repairs and rebinding, they will be in a consultable condition. If the dates of this series, said to extend from "about the year 1612 to 1832," (Appendix to First Report of Deputy Keeper, p. 47,) are correct, there ought to be forthcoming upwards of 800 volumes. I am apprehensive that no such numbers will be made good. There are masses remaining so hard and indivisible, that it is almost a hopeless task to think of recovering them. The labour of doing so will be very great, and it may be a question whether it would repay its performance, and whether it would not be a shorter plan to supply the deficiencies by transcribing the entries on the King's Silver Rolls, which are nearly identical.

Appendix I.

No. 11 a. Extracts and Statements from the Reports of Proceedings of the Assistant Keeper at the Carlton Ride.

These books were the popular documents in searches for Fines. They were preferred to any of the several other documents, the King's Silver Rolls, Notes, and Feet, which contained somewhat fuller information. The entries on the King's Silver Rolls before 25 Elizabeth, are bound with the Communia Placita, and afterwards with the Placita Terræ, or Recovery Rolls, and agree almost word for word with the entries in this series of book. The King's Silver Rolls are Records in the legal sense, and indisputable evidence; it may be a question whether, if the point had been raised, the King's Silver Books would have been so received. Yet the latter were preferred for consultation, chiefly, I imagine, because the book shape was found to be so much the more convenient than any other. The large series of volumes, containing "Extracts from Writs of Covenant," on which Fines were paid, is generally in good condition, excepting the binding of certain volumes. These volumes give, in chronological order of Terms, the names of parties and properties, being the same information as the King's Silver Books; but as it is not classified in Counties, as in the latter case, a search in them is a less convenient and ready operation. As showing, however, the issue of the Writ for every Fine, they contain more notices than the King's Silver Books, which only notice Fines that have passed through a subsequent stage. They do not appear hitherto to have been much known, or if known, much searched; since, however, they have been in this Office, they have been often consulted. The subjoined extracts from each book show the relative amount of information by them severally:—

5. King's Silver Roll.	10*s*. In the recent transfer from Serjeants' Inn, several boxes and baskets of Miscellaneous Records were brought hither. They have been roughly sorted, and found to consist of fragments of Remembrance Rolls, of divers Writs of Covenant, and of Notes of Fines, extending from Edward I. to Charles II. They were described to me by Mr. Sherwood as being documents which, having been exposed for sale, had been recovered some years ago by Mr. Black. Until these early Notes came to light, the general impression seemed to have been that this class of documents did not commence until the reign of Henry VIII. They are conclusive evidence of the existence of a series as early as Edward I., and the inference appears warrantable that this series must have been co-extensive with the "Pedes Finium." I do not find, indeed, in any of the Reports, any distinction drawn between the Notes and the Feet of Fines. The "Kalendars and Inventories of the Exchequer" trace the deliveries of the "Pedes Finium" into the Chapter House to the reign of James II. The "Pedes Finium," from that period, until transferred to the Public Record Office, remained in charge of the Custos Brevium of the Common Pleas. When a removal of the Fines and Chirographs of the period between the reigns of Henry VIII. and Geo. II., (see General Report of Record Commissioners, 1837, pp. 11 and 12, and, Kalendars and Inventories of the Exchequer, Introduction, 40,) from the Temple to the Chapter House in 1809, is spoken of, no distinction is made between Notes and Feet of Fines. Such removal applied only to the "Notes." * * *

11 c.—MR. COLE'S Observations upon the "Coast Bonds" deposited in the Carlton Ride.

No. 11 c. Observations upon the "Coast Bonds" deposited in the Carlton Ride.

THERE are in the roof, as nearly as I can estimate, about 250 sacks of Coast Bonds, and about 7 sacks of Port Books. The dimensions of each sack average 3 feet in height, 18 inches in depth, and 18 inches in width. I find the following mention made of these documents in the Report of 1800:—

"The Port Books returned, being useless, are lodged in a room without arrangement."

"Forfeited [cancelled?] Coast Bonds, which at present are not numerous, are arranged in separate parcels, each parcel containing the bonds taken at each Port, with an indorsement of the year in which such bonds were taken."

In the Report of the King's Remembrancer, dated 29th January, 1833, and printed in Appendix to Report of Commissioners of Public Records, 1837, that Officer speaks of the "Old Port Books" as never resorted to now. The earliest are found in Elizabeth's reign, and they are discontinued about 1828. They were sent from the various Ports in hogsheads. Of the Coast Bonds I cannot find that he makes any mention. The bag-bearer (Mr. Trickey) informs me that he has never known, during an experience of 20 years, either Port Books or Coast Bonds in any state of arrangement whatever, and that the latter were considered by all to be entirely useless. Of the inutility of attempting to arrange, and of preserving, the Coast Bonds, I entertain no doubt whatever as at present advised. With respect to the Port Books, the propriety of the destruction of them may be doubtful; at all events, until it is ascertained whether they form any link in the series of the earlier Custom Accounts arranged by Mr. Hunter.

Whatever may be the destination of either of these classes of documents, I have no doubts whatever, that they must be thoroughly examined before any final decision can be pronounced upon them.

(Signed) HENRY COLE.

12 b.—Extracts from Report of Proceedings for the Half-Year ending 31*st December*, 1842.

Mr. Palmer has continued the Index to the Patent Rolls, which are periodically brought into the Chapel from the Petty Bag Office, and has indexed the Rolls of 7 Geo. IV. being 13 in number, containing 199 documents, and 10 Rolls of the 8 Geo. IV, containing 190 documents.

Mr. Holden has examined and corrected the rough Draft Index or List of Memorials made by the Clerks, for the year 1821, from No. 885, and alphabetically indexed the same to the end of the year, 542 instruments, making 1,427 for the whole year; the like for the year 1822, as far as No. 600, after which number no draft was made, and Mr. Holden has completed the index for this year from the Memorials themselves, in all 1,490 instruments. He has in like manner indexed the Memorials for 1823, as far as No. 1050, and has completed the Office Index of Memorials for the year 1825, from No. 862, 504 instruments, making 1,366 for the whole year. The total number of Memorials indexed by Mr. Holden since 1st January, 1842, is 3,586, of which number, 1,096 were returned as indexed in Mr. Palmer's Half-Yearly Report to 30th June, 1842. The Indexes to the Memorials for the years 1823 and 1826 are now in progress.

Mr. Lascelles has been occasionally occupied in making and examining office copies, and in examination of inventories. He has put fresh labels to the racks in the Chapel and Record room, indorsed new covers for the Confirmation and Pardon Rolls, and many of the old Patent Rolls. This useful work has caused a great saving of time in the Office, and a document can now be brought forth, and replaced without difficulty or delay even in the darkest passages, by any Clerk or workman in the establishment. He has made use of an ingenious contrivance in writing the tickets and indorsements, which renders the progress in that work very rapid. The great uncertainty and fluctuation in the current business of this Office render some extra exertion occasionally necessary on the part of all for the immediate service of the public, and Mr. Lascelles has always, when required, shown great willingness in affording his assistance.

The Deeds on the Close Rolls of 8 Geo. IV., consisting of 93 parts, have been numbered, and the names and numbers extracted into a book, which serves as a check when making the Index, and in the meantime, as a guide to any document on the Rolls. Mr. Kentish has indexed the Memorials for the year 1826, as far as No. 551.

From the circumstances above mentioned, it will be seen that little progress has been made in the inventories this year. The Inventories of the whole of the Confirmation Rolls, of the Close Rolls, from 1 to 13 Eliz., p. 17, and the Tables of the Miscellaneous Bundles, are sent herewith.*

The Inquisitions Post Mortem, to 4 Car., p. 1, consisting of 1,414 membranes, have been prepared for binding, and will form 22 additional volumes: 265 membranes of various Rolls taken down for inspection have been repaired and re-stitched; 14 bundles of miscellaneous documents, which were in a very bad state, have been damped, flattened, and carefully tied up ready for a more particular examination; they amount to 2,480 pieces.

The Docquets of Decrees have been carefully dusted and tied up in 869 bundles, and 371 bundles of Privy Seals and Signed Bills have been dusted, arranged, indorsed, and ticketed.

The Pipe Rolls have been newly covered to the 27 Hen. VIII. inclusive.

ROLLS HOUSE.—Exchequer and Miscellaneous Records.—Extracts and Statements from the Reports of Proceedings of Mr. Black, the Assistant Keeper.

No. 13 a. Extracts and Statements from the Reports of Proceedings of the Assistant Keeper (Exchequer and Miscellaneous Records) at the Rolls House.

13 a.—Extracts from Report of Proceedings for the Half-Year ending 30*th June,* 1842.

BY reason of my attention to the Records and Documents of the Treasury, analogous to those which are already under my charge, I have little to report, this half-year, of progress in the measures pointed out in my former Reports, as yet needful to be executed among the Records at the Rolls House.

As to Arrangement, I may observe that the Rolls of Receipt and Issue in the Court Gallery have been materially improved in this respect, by a careful comparison of them with Mr. Devon's MS. Catalogue; and they are more commodiously disposed on the racks. A brief Repertory of the several presses has been formed, to serve until a complete Inventory can be made; and a brief tabular account of all the classes of Rolls of the Pell Office has been framed, with a view to the same general design. A Repertory of the arrangement of the Receipt Books and Issue Books has been made also.

Many miscellaneous Books of the Pell Office have been examined and arranged, especially the Declarations, of which some early ones have been found that ought to have been bound up with two sets of them, in five volumes, bound at Whitehall Yard; and all those which are later than the Commonwealth have been duly arranged, and a list of them is made. Some draughts and fragments, found among the "clearings of the Pell Office" (mentioned in my last Report), yet require consideration. Those "clearings" have been made up into 22 bundles of papers; and the fragments, for the most part, have been identified and attached to the Books and Rolls to which they belong. The sackfull of dorses and covers has been disposed of in like manner; and such as belonged to any of the Books described with my last Report, have not only been attached to them, but were posted into the Inventories before they were printed.

I have distinguished the "Posting Books" of the Pell Office from the Books of the Auditor's Office, with which they were confused, and made them up into a series of 12 great volumes, from 1718 to 1834, which I have numbered and ticketed. They are of great use and value, not only as a key to other Pell Records, but as serving other purposes, which I cannot sufficiently explain at present. The Auditor's Papers have also been improved by recent researches (as stated hereafter); and the Papers and Vouchers of the Exchequer Bill Office are separated from all others, and locked up in a chest provided for the purpose.

* Printed in App. II., No. 4.

Stamping.—Of the eighteen sacks of modern Tellers' Vouchers mentioned in my last Report, eight have been emptied and their contents stamped, without disturbing the order of the papers in their several daily or weekly bundles. When all are done, they are to be distributed under the names of the Tellers, and arranged in years.

The Books brought from the Vault at Somerset House are now additionally stamped with the word "Vault," to distinguish them from the Books which remained at Westminster on the abolition of the old Offices in 1834. This work has been lately begun, and is in progress.

Inventories and Calendars.—The only Inventory or Calendar that has been completed in the past half year is a short Supplement to my former Catalogues of Papal Briefs and State Papers, which was presented after my last Report, and is printed with it. But an Inventory of the Inrolment Books of the Pell Office is in progress, on an ample scale, which will be presented with the next Report, with notices of documents other than Patents or Privy Seals therein contained. I have begun an Inventory of the Rolls, which form a part of the series of Inrolments of Patents and Privy Seals, both on the Pells and on the Auditor's Side, in the reign of James I. To those of the latter department is now added one Privy Seal Roll, found among those of the Pells, in a very bad condition compared with those which remained in the Auditor's Office in 1834. I have also prepared notes for an Inventory of the Pells Breviates of Issues, 1597-1627, but want of time prevented me from completing it in readiness to be presented with this Report.

Ticketing.—The Issue Books were ticketed by me in the course of constructing the Inventory; but the Receipt Books have been since ticketed by my Clerk in the same manner, who has also ticketed the Breviates of Receipts. They are all done in duplicate, without and within, corresponding with their respective Inventories.

General Business.—Beside these operations, I have completed the researches which were required by Lord Monteagle, relative to the proceedings of the old Exchequer Bill Office; by means of which I have become better acquainted with that part of the books and documents in my charge which was not of a public nature, or (at least) not accessible to the public. I have also made researches on two matters referred to me from the Treasury; one of which, relative to a pension paid there before 1782, and afterward at the Exchequer, occupied three or four days in the past month, and required me to put in better order many of the unarranged Papers of the Auditor's Office.

Within the period of this Report I have superintended the printing of my "Observations on the defective state of certain Records of Fines and Recoveries in the Principality of Wales and County Palatine of Chester," dated 31 January, 1841, being in the nature of a Supplement to my Report on the Records of the Great Sessions of Wales, &c., dated 31 March, 1840, which was printed in the Deputy Keeper's First Report. That paper has been laid before both Houses of Parliament;* and the legislative measure which I had framed at the end of it having been approved by the highest legal authorities, was introduced into Parliament by Sir James Graham on the 29th of April, and hath since been passed into a law, having received the royal assent on the 18th of June.† Common defects in those Records are supplied at once by the declaratory parts of the Act; and such provisions are made by it as will enable the parties easily and effectually to secure their titles, in those cases where any negligence has occurred.

Treasury Chambers.—My principal occupation in the period of this Report has been at the Treasury Chambers, in obedience to a letter addressed to me by Lord Langdale on the 19th of January, whereby I was directed to examine the old Records and Documents there, and report thereon to his Lordship. The difficulty and extent of this work have been great, but it is now almost accomplished. From 1 February to 30 April, I had two workmen constantly employed in clearing out Books and Papers from dark, dusty, and damp repositories and putting them into a decent and accessible condition, and I still have one attending me. By the aid of my Clerk, Mr. William Henry Clerke, who came to this Office on the 12th of January, I have made arrangement, more or less exact, of the Papers and Books earlier than 1782, and lists, more or less comprehensive, of the numerous sacks and bundles now containing them. I am now busy on my Report, which still occupies me four days in the week at Westminster; hence the small extent of the operations performed on the Records at the Rolls, as I premised at the beginning of this Report.

Arrangement.—The miscellaneous Parchment Documents which were made up in 94 bundles, in order to their removal from Whitehall Yard, have been examined, and all Letters of Privy Seal separated from the rest. These Privy Seals have been sorted into reigns, and made up into 24 bundles; but the remaining documents, which are of various kinds, have not yet been sorted; they now fill 33 brown paper bundles, beside one of fragments. The following is an account of the number of original Privy Seals as now put into reigns:—

A considerable number of Files of Letters of Privy Seal and Writs of Great Seal, have been selected out of the sacks of Rolls and Files brought from the Vault at Somerset House, which Files are more or less complete; and the process of reducing them into order will be resumed at the earliest opportunity, chiefly for the purpose of retrieving those which belong to the reigns of Richard III., Henry VII., Henry VIII., Edward VI., Philip and Mary, and part of Elizabeth's reign, for which period there are no Pells of Issue. Some few Files of a still earlier date have been found.

The older series of the Issue Rolls, from 10 Henry III. to 19 Edward IV. inclusively, remained in an imperfect state of arrangement until October last for want of a proper receptacle.* At length two ancient presses of the Pell Office were brought from Westminster, and set up at the Rolls House. The larger one stands in the hall; the other (bearing a curious inscription in gold letters, dated 1555) in the room No. 4, and an addition has been made to the upper part of it, so that it now contains all the ancient Rolls of Issues that were in the custody of the late Clerk of the Pells; and a brief Repertory has been made of their arrangement, which makes their number amount to 413.

The Books of the Exchequer Bill Office have been removed into a more appropriate situation, in the room No. 3, and have been entirely re-arranged.

The Auditors' Assignment Books, from the Vault, have been arranged and numbered; and a brief list made of them, both in order to a more perfect Inventory, and for the purpose of the Report on the Books under process of description at the Treasury Chambers.

Stamping.—The stamping of the modern Tellers' Vouchers was continued for a short time only within this half-year. The work of distinguishing, with a separate mark, those books which were brought from the "Vault" has been continued and completed; and all the numerous Parchment Documents aforementioned, both Privy Seals and others, have been stamped with the ordinary stamp, and with the word "Vault" also.

Inventories and Calendars.—The description of the Pell Records, begun in the Inventories printed with last year's Report,† has now advanced almost to the end of the third general class of books. Those which relate to the Receipt, and those which relate to the Issues, of the Revenue, are completed, by the papers which accompany this Report. The third class is that of Inrolments, comprehending all Letters Patent and Letters of Privy Seal, from the revival of the Pell of Issue in 1597 to the abolition of the Pell Office in 1834. The following is an enumeration of the volumes described in those papers, which, though few in proportion to the number of volumes described last year, have required more attention, and been more difficult of description:—

I. Pell of Receipt:—
	Receipt Books (concluded)	2
	Assignation Books	14
II. Pell of Issue:—
	Posting Books, first series	32
	„ second series, modern	16
III. Inrolments:—
	Patent Books	46
	Privy Seal Books	59
	Patent and Privy Seal Rolls	6
	Total Books and Rolls	175

One more series of Books remains to be described, belonging to the third class; and the rest of the Pell Books will be distributed into different subdivisions of the following classes:—

IV. Books of Entry, kept by the Clerk of the Pells.
V. Books of Account, made, rendered, or kept by the same.
VI. Miscellaneous Books of the Pell Office.

The utmost care has been taken, in the constructing of the Inventories presented with this Report, to make them not only descriptive of the Records, and guides to facilitate reference to them, but so to exhibit their official formation and history, and their relation to each other, and

* See Report, dated 14th January, 1842, in Deputy Keeper's Third Report, App. I. p. 29.
† Third Report, App. II. No. 4, pp. 156—187.

to show what useful purposes they may serve to historical or legal inquirers. The following remarks on some of them are submitted here, in addition to the introductory notices prefixed to the several Inventories or Calendars.

The Books of Assignationes were left unnoticed last year, having been erroneously placed with the Assignment Books of the Pell Office, which belong to the fourth class; their intimate technical relation to the Pell of Receipt was not then perceived. They afford copious biographical and genealogical evidence concerning persons eminent in rank and literature; the name of Dryden the Poet, and other well known names, frequently occur in their pages, and some Corporations appear to have been interested in the loans there recorded.

The Posting Books contain such a mass of information, historical, biographical, and financial, within a small compass, that they deserve to be specially pointed out here. The two series are as distinct in nature as they are in their respective periods of time; the description of the former series is made as perfect as possible, by the addition of Calendars of some special contents, to the Inventory which relates to the volumes generally.

As to the Inrolment Books, it must be here observed that, though an earlier book under the title of "Brevia sub magno sigillo, Hen. 7 and 8," stands foremost in Mr. Devon's "Catalogue of Pell Record Books, Henry VII. to William IV.," (MS. folio,) which title is used also to designate some of the Inrolment Books in question; yet the series are perfect at and from their beginning, (which was in 1597,) and that volume is of a different nature. It contains, indeed, short entries or dockets of Writs for Issues, both under the Great Seal and under the Privy Seal, from Mich. 1 Hen. VII. (1485) to Mich. 12 Hen. VIII. (1520—1) inclusively; yet the conclusion, derived from a careful examination of its contents, is, that it could not have belonged to the Pell Office, but must have belonged originally to the Auditor, among whose books therefore it is now placed. It is, in fact, a Calendar of the Files of Writs for Issues, which were (in and from that period at least) filed with the Auditor, and never belonged to the custody of the Clerk of the Pells, who at that time also had nothing whatever to do with Issues, but wrote the Pell of Receipt only. Nor does it contain any notices of Letters Patent; being manifestly anterior to the period when the practice of recording them in the Receipt of the Exchequer arose. It serves well to illustrate the remarks prefixed to the Inventory of Patent Books, respecting the separate filing of the two kinds of Writs for Issues; and it is peculiarly valuable, as affording notices of payments extending over five and thirty years, in which no Issues were recorded in the Pells, and few of the original Writs are extant. It may be added, that a Table, in the nature of a Calendar or Index, has been lately made and prefixed to that volume; and a similar Table has been made to a large and valuable volume of Declarations of Issues, from Mich. 1544 to Easter 1560, found among the Pell Records, but manifestly belonging to the Auditor's Office.

The extent and importance of the Pell Records in the third class (Inrolments) will best appear by the following enumeration of the entries contained in them, compared with the smallness of the number of articles described in the Inventories.

	Volumes, &c.	Entries.
Patent Books	46	10,468
Privy Seal Books	59	40,326
Patent and Privy Seal Rolls	6	872
Total	111	51,666

It was intended to present a Calendar of such of their contents as might not be expected, from the peculiar designation of the respective series, to be contained in these volumes; those Miscellaneous Documents are, however, necessarily deferred to a future time. In the meanwhile, to supply in some measure the loss of the Rolls of Chancery for the periods of the Civil War and the Protectorates, the entire contents of the unique and very important records of that time, found among these Patent Books, are described in Calendars which are appended as Schedules to the Inventory of them; and these may serve as specimens of the whole. All these Books are furnished with their respective Indexes; and it is proposed to copy those Indexes into one alphabetical series, for the purpose of facilitating searches; but this cannot be done until other more pressing business shall have been disposed of.

Subjoined to the Inventories aforementioned is a further Supplement to the Catalogue of Papal Briefs, printed with the Second Report, containing notices of four such documents, found in sorting the Miscellaneous Parchments, as already stated.

Ticketing.—The Receipt Books, No. 511—516, and all the great Inrolment Books, have been ticketed in duplicate; written tickets have been put on the Posting Books, and on the Auditor's Patent Books from the Vault; and some other Books have been ticketed for temporary use until they are rebound or farther repaired. The like may be said of such Rolls and Bundles as have been selected, from time to time, from the unarranged masses saved from the Vault.

Repairs.—Here it must be observed, that a considerable amount of substantial repairing has been effected by the mere use of needle and thread, cartridge paper, and paste. Thus, all the Auditor's Assignment Books from the Vault, have been repaired, the great modern Posting Books, and a considerable number of the Issue Books; and it appears from the result of this work, which was begun as an experiment, that this mode of repairing is far preferable, in most instances, to the expensive system of rebinding, which was begun upon the Pell Books in or about 1836; as it leaves the volumes in a genuine state, preserves the original uniformity of their appearance, and sufficiently guards them from injury in future use, except where the progress of decay has gone so far as to require extraordinary repair. The old parchment covers, which were stripped off by the binder employed at Whitehall Yard, have supplied excellent materials for use in this work. All those volumes, and a multitude of others, have been cleansed throughout from mould and dirt; many of them required every page to be brushed or wiped.

Transfers.—By occasion of the removal of the Comptroller's Office from No. 1 to No 3, Whitehall Yard, some additional Records have been brought to light and transferred to the Rolls House, viz.:—

Original Powers of Attorney, from 1745 to 1787, bound together in a thick folio volume.

Accounts of the Income and Expenditure of the Civil List, from 1 August, 1714, to Michaelmas, 1718; in folio.

Sir D. Cuningham's Book of Accounts, for the year ended at Michaelmas, 1636; in folio, on vellum. This book fills up a gap in the series described in the Second Report (App. II., p. 203), in addition to one of Michaelmas, 1619, also found since the publication of that catalogue.

Exitus de Annuitatibus, Pasch. 1699; an unfinished Roll, made up only to the 40th membrane; of which the other membranes were already in this house, tied up confusedly in a large bundle among the Issue Rolls.

General Business.—The past half-year has been chiefly occupied in the construction of Inventories, and in the examination and arrangement of Records, necessary to throw light on their subject-matter and history. Several matters of Government business have been referred to the Assistant Keeper, which took up much of his time and attention.

14 c.—REPORT on Preservation of Rolls of Chancery, &c.

Branch of Public Record Office, Carlton Ride, December 9th, 1842.

SIR,

IN devising the best means of preserving the Records in our several custodies, the condition of Rolls formed of membranes sewn together end to end, has recently engaged much of our attention.

The results which ensue from frequent consultation of Records of this description seem to us to militate much against their preservation, and we beg leave to bring the subject under your immediate consideration.

In coiling and uncoiling these Rolls, the Roll itself rests on and moves over a level surface. The table, &c., and the friction consequent thereon, has occasioned the writing on that side of the Rolls, called the "Dors," to be much obliterated, so much so indeed, that, if some remedy be not speedily devised against further destruction, the instruments on that side of the Rolls will be entirely defaced, a thing much to be deprecated, as on some Rolls,—the Close, for instance,—the most important instruments are there recorded.

A second evil arising from the present system of rolling is, the liability of making on the membranes folds or creases which in time wear to holes.

A third evil is the wear and tear of the sides, occasioned by the hand in coiling and uncoiling the Rolls.

After having given our best attention to the prevention of the evils we have stated, we believe we have succeeded in finding a remedy for them, and we have invented an apparatus whereby they may be effectually prevented and other incidental advantages obtained.

This apparatus consists of a small roller attached to two circular ends; the diameter of the ends to be regulated by the size of the Roll. The small or middle roller is divided into two equal parts, and is attached to the ends by means of a worm screw. The length of this roller to be regulated by the width of the Roll.

By means of the worm screw, which should fit tightly, the length of the middle roller may be contracted or extended to suit the circumstances of the case.

The top membrane of the Roll is to be inserted into the middle roller, and around it the Roll will be coiled.

The two circular ends being greater in diameter than the Roll, are so projected beyond that they, and not the Roll itself, will run on and move over the level on which they are placed.

On the two ends a small circle will be sunk to receive the ticket.

It is proposed to keep each Roll permanently on one of these rollers, and so, when it is desired to consult the Roll, it will be uncoiled by means of another roller of the same description.

The advantages likely to be gained by these means are as follows:—

1st. That in coiling or uncoiling the Rolls, there is no friction on the Dorses.

2nd. That there can be no folds or creases in this process of consultation, the Roll being unable to travel beyond the bounds of the circular ends.

3rd. That all parts of the Roll are protected from contact with the ground, table, or shelf, and the edges will not be subjected to wear by the friction of the hand.

Appendix I.

No. 14 c. Report on Preservation of Rolls of Chancery, &c.

4th. That the Roll itself may thus be preserved free from the touch of the finger, an advantage which we see evidenced in the Domesday Book.

5th. That the Roll being more tightly coiled, and almost air tight, is less liable to harbour dust.

6th. That the tickets will exhibit themselves better and be much more permanently and neatly preserved than according to the present mode.

A model of one of these rollers, sufficiently illustrative of the proposed plan, though susceptible of some improvement in construction, accompanies this Report.

Under these circumstances, after having subjected these rollers to a variety of experiments, we beg leave to state, as our joint opinion, that they would be found to add to the preservation of Rolls made up in the Chancery fashion, and we recommend their adoption in our Offices.

16 a.—THE COUNTY SURVEYOR of Montgomery to the Master of the Rolls, as to the proposed New Record Office at Welsh Pool.

MY LORD, Morley's Hotel, Trafalgar Square, 7th February, 1842.

BY the enclosed Order of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Montgomery (No. 1), your Lordship will be made acquainted that, at the last Epiphany Sessions, a Committee of Magistrates was appointed to take into consideration a Report (No. 2), which, as Surveyor of the County, I made to the Court upon the state of the Record Office at Welsh Pool, together with a communication that I then also made by the direction of the Earl of Powis, expressing his Lordship's readiness, at his own expense, to remove that building to a site belonging to his Lordship, adjoining the Assize Court, and which site his Lordship is willing to convey to the County in lieu of that which the present building occupies.

In consequence of this Order, the Committee met at Pool on the 15th of January, and a Report of their proceedings (No. 3) is herewith enclosed; by which it will appear that the measure was unanimously approved of, and so reported to the Sessions; and I was instructed by the Committee to take measures to furnish your Lordship with such information as may be required for obtaining your Lordship's approbation of the proposed arrangement.

The present building was erected about the year 1785; and from that time, till the abolition of the Great Sessions, the business of the Prothonotary's Office, as also that of the Chancery of the Counties of Montgomery, Denbigh, and Flint, was transacted in it. Since the abolition, it has been used merely as a repository for the Records that had accumulated there. The greater portion of the building is entirely useless for the safe custody of Records, and is at present occupied with the private papers of the late Prothonotary. In consequence of the disuse of the building as a constant place of business, it has become subject to dampness, and is in a state of decay.

Although the enclosed Order of Sessions is so recent, this measure has been long contemplated, for it is upwards of 12 years since I first brought the subject under the notice of the Magistrates; and it will be found, by Mr. Black's published Report on the Welsh Records, that at the time when he visited Pool the proposed demolition was mentioned to him.

The advantages to be derived from the proposed change are threefold:—

1. It offers to the County a most desirable opportunity of providing a Repository for the Records of the Peace, which are at present inconveniently kept in the private Office of the Clerk of the Peace, and liable to removal at any time. Such Repository will be under the same roof, and constructed with the same regard to safety from fire or other injury as the Repository for the Records of the Great Sessions; with an Office for searches equally available to both.
2. A valuable improvement to the Town of Pool, without any expense to the public.
3. An improvement in the only approach from the Town to Powis Castle, the present being an inconveniently narrow lane.

In addition to these advantages, the Records of the Great Sessions will find in the new building a place far more safe from damp and depredation, as the windows in the present outer rooms do not afford sufficient security from either; and as the entrance to the new Office will be from the covered arcade of the Assize Court, the whole building will be more securely protected from damp or other injury.

By the proposed plan, which also accompanies this letter (No. 4), your Lordship will perceive that it is intended to provide an outer Office or room common to both Record keepers, for the convenience of those who may require searches; and two Record-rooms, one for the Records of the Great Sessions, the other for the Records of the Peace, each amply sufficient in area and cubical contents both for the existing Records and for future accumulations. The whole building will be fire-proof, and so constructed as to admit of ventilation and an admission of warm air to prevent damp, but totally unconnected with any fire flue. I shall be much gratified in furnishing your Lordship with further explanation of the plans, for which purpose, if requisite, I shall do myself the honour of personally attending your Lordship.

I have, &c.,

The Right Hon. Lord Langdale, &c. &c. &c.

Enclosure No. 1.

ORDER of Court respecting the Record Office at Welsh Pool.

Epiphany Quarter Sessions, 1842.

No. 16 a. (1) Order of Court respecting the proposed new Record Office at Welsh Pool.

THE County Surveyor having been required by the Earl of Powis to advise his Lordship as to the improvement of the approach to Powis Castle, and he having reported that it appeared to him that an opportunity is now offered of effecting the arrangement heretofore contemplated for the removal to a more convenient situation of the Record Office at Pool, and that as the general want of repair to the building is injurious to the structure, and would soon require a considerable outlay to remedy, and as the building from its construction appears to be much changed as to its permanency, he thought it advisable to submit to the Earl of Powis the advantage which may arise if his Lordship would allow the removal of the building to take place at this time. And having further reported that he had authority to communicate to the Court his Lordship's assent to this proposal; and as in the removal of the building advantages may be obtained from a different arrangement, particularly as regards obtaining a safe and convenient depository for the custody of the County papers connected with the office of the Clerk of the Peace, he submitted to the Court that a Committee of Magistrates be named to direct and superintend the completion of this measure. It is ordered—that the said report be filed, and that Sir John Edwards, Bart., Sir Charles Thomas Jones, Knight, Panton Corbett, Robert John Harrison, David Pugh, John Davids Corrie, Martin Williams, Wythen Jones, John Jones, and John Robinson Jones, Esqrs., and the Reverend George Arthur Evors, Clerk, be appointed to take the said report into consideration, and take such measures in pursuance thereof as they may deem expedient; and that the powers hereby given to the said Committee may be exercised by the major part of its members present at their respective meetings, the whole number present not being less than three; and that they report to the next adjournment of the Sessions.

By the Court,

REPORT of the County Surveyor of Montgomery to the Hilary Quarter Sessions, 1842, as to Record Office at Welsh Pool.

County Record Office at Pool.

HAVING been required by the Earl of Powis to advise his Lordship as to the improvement of the approach to Powis Castle, and it appearing to me that an opportunity is now offered of effecting the arrangement heretofore contemplated for the removal to a more convenient situation of the County Record Office at Pool, and as the general want of repair to the building is injurious to the structure, and would soon require a considerable outlay to remedy: further, as the building from its construction appears to be much changed as to its permanency, I thought it advisable to submit to the Earl of Powis the advantage which may arise if his Lordship would allow the removal of the building to take place at this time.

I have authority to communicate to the Court his Lordship's assent to the proposal; and as in the removal of the building advantages may be obtained from a different arrangement, particularly as regards obtaining a safe and convenient depository for the custody of the County Papers connected with the office of the Clerk of the Peace, I have to submit to the Court that a Committee of Magistrates may be named to direct and superintend the completion of this measure.

MY LORD, South Street, 23rd May, 1842.

I HAVE had the honour to receive your Lordship's letter of the 12th instant; and

No. 16 b. The Master of the Rolls to the Earl of Powis, as to the proposed new Record Office at Welsh Pool.

having been informed that the new building, proposed to be erected by your Lordship for the reception of the Records now deposited in the Prothonotary's Office at Welsh Pool, is convenient for the purpose, and of sufficient extent to contain the Records now at Welsh Pool, and some additions, if thought desirable to make them, I beg leave to inform your Lordship that, when the new building is completed and properly dried and prepared for the reception of the Records, I will give directions for the removal of the Records now in the Prothonotary's Office, and forming part of the Public Records of the Realm, into the new building, upon the understanding,—

1. That the removal shall be effected under the inspection and superintendence of a Record Officer, to be sent down from London at the expense of your Lordship;

2. That the new building is to be employed for the reception and use of Records in such manner, and for so long time as may be required by the Master of the Rolls for the time being;

3. That the Records to be placed in the new building are to be, in all respects, subject to the same control and management as they would have been if they had not been removed from their present places of deposit.

As some of these points have not been adverted to by your Lordship, I have to request your Lordship to state whether they meet with your entire concurrence.

My Lord, Oswestry, 13th July, 1842.

At the last Quarter Sessions for the County of Montgomery an Order was made by the Court, subject to the approval of your Lordship, to erect a Grand Jury Room, which will be attached to the County Hall at Welsh Pool, over the Record Rooms now building at the expense of the Earl of Powis, under your Lordship's sanction.

I am directed by the Court to forward a copy of the Plans to your Lordship, which I have herewith the honour of enclosing, in which the proposed arrangement is shown.

The Earl of Powis, who was present at the Sessions, and who is now in London, was requested to call upon your Lordship on this subject; and a Copy of the Order of Court has been sent by the Clerk of the Peace to Earl Powis, who will, no doubt, communicate with your Lordship on this subject.

I beg to observe that I delivered the original Plans to Sir Francis Palgrave, to whom I have also written on this subject.

As the building is now proceeding, it is of importance I should know your Lordship's decision at the earliest convenient time.

I have also enclosed to your Lordship a copy of the Order of Court.

Sir John Roger Kynaston, Bart., Sheriff.

The Clerk of the Peace having read to the Court a letter addressed by the Master of the Rolls to the Earl of Powis, in which his Lordship requires (in case the proposed removal of the Record Office at Welsh Pool is carried into effect), "That the new building shall be employed for the reception and use of Records in such manner, and for so long a time, as may be required by the Master of the Rolls for the time being:

"And that the Records to be placed in the new building are to be in all respects subject to the same control and management as they would have been if they had not been removed from their present place of deposit:—"

This Court doth order that the new Building and Records shall, in all respects, be subject to the like control and management as they have been and are at present. And the Court respectfully requests the Earl of Powis to communicate this Order to the Master of the Rolls.

The Court having also taken into consideration the present limited accommodation afforded to the Grand Jury at the Assizes in the County Hall at Welsh Pool, and also the facility now offered to erect a suitable and convenient Grand Jury room, attached to the Courts, by increasing the height of the walls of the proposed new Record Office, so as to erect a room over the Record-rooms.

No. 16 c. Order of Court respecting the proposed new Record Office at Welsh Pool.

It is ordered, that the Plan of the Record-rooms now produced to the Court, which has been adopted by Lord Langdale, together with the Plan also produced for the proposed Jury-room, and a description of the same, be forwarded by the County Surveyor to his Lordship: and that the Earl of Powis be also requested to wait upon the Master of the Rolls on the subject, and to express the wish of this Court that the proposed measure of erecting a room over the Record-rooms for a Grand Jury room, which can at present be carried out advantageously to the County, may receive his Lordship's sanction.

16 d.—THE MASTER of the ROLLS to the Earl of Powis, as to the proposed New Record Office at Welsh Pool.

MY LORD, Rolls House, 20th July, 1842.

I HAVE had the honour to receive your Lordship's letter of yesterday's date, and I beg leave to say that I am entirely satisfied with your Lordship's assurance respecting the expense of sending an Officer to superintend the removal of the Records into the proposed new Building, and with the Order made by the Court of Sessions for Montgomeryshire on the 30th June last, respecting the other matters referred to in my former letter to your Lordship.

And provided that the new building be made fire-proof in a proper manner, I see no reason to object to the Grand Jury room being erected over the Record-rooms.

I am informed that the County Surveyor will not object to send a specification of the means by which he proposes to make the new Record-rooms fire-proof, to Sir F. Palgrave, in order that the same may be submitted for approbation to the Board of Works; and not apprehending that any difficulty will arise on this subject, I approve of the erection of the proposed new Record-rooms, and shall be ready to sanction the removal of the Records at the proper time.

The interior of the walls are to be cased with bricks, with a cavity to secure the building from damp and for the purposes of ventilation.

Arches of bricks, on two rings, are to be turned upon proper centres over each of the Record-rooms, as also over the adjoining office.

Each ring of the brick-arch is to be set close in mortar, with the backs or extrade well filled in, pinned and grouted with hot lime and gravel, and the whole of the spandrels to the curl of the crown of the arches, filled in solid with brickwork, according to the section, well laid close in mortar and grouted; so that the whole, from the soffit or underside of the arches to the curl of the crown thereof, shall form one solid mass.

The Master of the Rolls to the Secretary of the Treasury, as to the Site, &c., of the General Record Repository.

SIR, South Street, 4th October, 1842.

WITH reference to your letter of the 24th March last, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, that I have considered the report made by the Commissioners of Woods, &c., (dated the 4th November, 1840,) on the subject of the plan proposed for the accommodation of the Public Records.

The site of the proposed building, and the nature and extent of the accommodation which it should afford, are to be considered.

1. It does not appear to me that the site of the General Record Office ought to be determined without reference to the other buildings, which are now required for the public service, and the site which may be most eligible for them.

It is obviously desirable that buildings which will have to be resorted to by the same classes of persons should be erected in the same vicinity, and, if practicable, should be made parts of one connected whole.

The other buildings which are now wanted are new Courts of Justice, and new Offices for the several Courts of Law and Equity.

The question, whether new Courts of Justice ought to be erected in the neighbourhood of Lincoln's Inn, for the purpose of enabling the Judges to sit there in Term time, has recently been made the subject of Parliamentary inquiry, and I do not, on this occasion, trouble their Lordships with my opinion on that question; but assuming that two new Courts for the use of the two new Equity Judges out of Term must be erected in the neighbourhood of Lincoln's Inn, and that there is an urgent necessity for the erection of new Offices for all the Courts of Law and Equity, I beg leave to express my opinion that it is inexpedient to consider the buildings which may be required for the Courts, for the Offices, and for the Records, as independent buildings, and without reference to each other; to consider the accommodation required for the Courts without reference to the Offices; the Law Offices without reference to the Equity Offices; or the Offices for the business of the Courts of Law or Equity without reference to the Records.

I am persuaded that it would be very convenient, and ultimately a great saving of expense to the Public, to establish the Record Office in connection with, or in the close vicinity of, the Law Offices and of the Courts.

I conceive that it would be altogether impracticable to remove the Law Offices from the neighbourhood of the Inns of Courts; and to the extent in which the Records are to be consulted for all purposes connected with legal inquiries, and the investigation of titles to estates and dignities, it is plain that convenience would be consulted by having the Records near the Offices; and if ultimately it should be determined to have the Courts permanently established in the same vicinity the convenience would be still more striking and important.

It further appears to me to be very important that the Courts of Justice, the Law Offices, and the Record Office, should be erected on Government property, and be vested in Her Majesty.

When the Lord Chancellor of the day, instead of holding his Court out of Term in his private residence, obtained leave from the Society of Lincoln's Inn to sit in their dining hall, he took a step which I apprehend to have been equally convenient to himself, to the profession of the law, and to the public. It has been very profitable to the Society: and I doubt not but that all the Inns of Court, being sensible of the advantage of having any public Court or Office within their precincts, will be at all times ready to afford accommodation; and, as a temporary expedient, it may be justifiable for the Government to borrow or hire the accommodation which may be wanted.

But, considering the things which are required, Courts of Justice, Offices without which the Courts of Justice cannot perform their functions, and a building for the safe custody of the Records, I own that I cannot see the propriety of making any of them in the least degree dependant on Inns of Court or individuals for their lasting continuance. I am, indeed, at a loss to know why Government, having property of its own most conveniently situated for purposes so important, should let that property to tenants; and having so lost the immediate means of supplying its own wants, should proceed to hire other property in the same neighbourhood, and no better, if so conveniently, applicable to the purposes required. I beg leave to state my opinion, that if there be no decisive reason to the contrary, the Courts, the Offices, and the

Appendix I.

No. 18 a.
The Master of the Rolls to the Secretary of the Treasury, as to the Site, &c., of the General Record Repository.

Record Repository, ought all of them to be vested in the Crown, and be in no way dependant on any Society or persons, or subject to the payment of any rent, or the observance of any covenants whatever.

'And having regard to all the circumstances, I submit to their Lordships that the Rolls Estate, which is now vested in the Crown, affords the best and most convenient site for the Record Office and for the Law Offices. If the space be sufficient, or if adjacent ground can be obtained, the same site would also be the most convenient for the Courts of Justice; and there are reasons which incline me to think that it would, on the whole, be beneficial to have the Court of the Master of the Rolls in the building which contains the Rolls and Records of which he is Keeper, whether the other Courts can or cannot be accommodated in the same building or in the immediate vicinity.

The Victoria Tower would be a very convenient place for the deposit of the voluminous documents and papers belonging to the two Houses of Parliament; it would, in my opinion, be a very inconvenient place for the deposit of the Judicial Records, and the various other Records and Documents which are intended to be placed in the General Repository.

It therefore appears to me, and I submit to their Lordships,—

That the Rolls Estate affords the most convenient situation for the General Record Office, for the new Offices for the several Courts of Law and Equity, and for the new Courts of Justice;

That, for the purpose of making the whole estate available for the purposes required, surrenders of the still existing leases ought to be procured on proper terms;

That, if the whole estate should be insufficient for all the purposes, land, as nearly adjacent as may be, should be obtained; and that proper approaches from the neighbouring thoroughfares should be procured;

And that, whether all the buildings required can be erected on one plot of land or not, it is important to have them near to each other, and to have them erected on one uniform design.

2. With respect to the nature and extent of the accommodation which should be afforded to the Records, having regard to the provisions of the Statute 1 and 2 Victoria, c. 94, and the various Records, Documents, and State Papers, which may with great advantage to the public service be brought into the General Repository, I think that the space required for the reception and accommodation of the Records has been estimated very much below its just amount; and even if a more just view had been taken of the bulk of the Records and Papers to be accommodated, it would appear to me that the mere space (the number of cubical feet) now occupied by the same Documents, or which would be occupied by them upon such improved arrangements as might be adopted after obtaining a general repository, does not of itself afford the means of determining what ought to be the size of the building in which they are to be placed.

Adequate ventilation and light, convenient access, and convenient means of consulting the Records, are to be provided.

If it had been considered that the Records and Documents placed in a well-ordered Repository ought to be accommodated no worse than the books in a well-ordered library, I think that the nature, form, and size of the building would not have been estimated merely with reference to the space in which the Records and Documents are or may be packed or stowed away.

The estimate is also defective: 1. In making no provision for the accommodation of many Public Documents and State Papers, from the care of which it might be convenient and desirable to relieve some of the Public Offices: 2. In making no provision for the accommodation of the collection of printed Books relating to Records, which, if not absolutely necessary, would be at least so useful, convenient, and proper for the information and encouragement of the Officers that it ought not to be dispensed with: 3. In providing no accommodation whatever for the Master of the Rolls. It is true that the Master of the Rolls cannot, consistently with his other duties, give a constant and uninterrupted attention to the business of the Record Office; but the business of the Office cannot, in my opinion, be conducted satisfactorily either to the public or to the Government without some active attention and superintendence on his part; and it is necessary that he should be accessible and ready to inquire whenever it may be thought that his interference would be useful. In order to the discharge of his duty some accommodation in the Office must be afforded; and the provision of such accommodation will not be without its importance as a means of reminding him, the establishment, and the public, that he has a duty the performance of which is required.

For these reasons, and under these circumstances, I submit to their Lordships that the extent of accommodation necessary for the Records requires further consideration.

I presume it to be unnecessary to urge upon their Lordships the great importance of having the General Repository for the Records provided. Their Lordships must be aware that the great risks to which the Records are exposed, the inconveniences to which the persons consulting them are subjected, and the unnecessary expense of imperfect, divided, and inefficient management must continue until the Records can be collected into one fire-proof and proper Repository, and be therein subjected to the constant and vigilant superintendence of the Deputy Keeper.

I herewith return the several Documents which accompanied your letter of the 24th March.

I have, &c.,

MY LORD, Treasury Chambers, 28th November, 1842.

THE Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury have had under their consideration your Lordship's letter of the 4th ultimo, relative to the plans which have been suggested for the building of a General Record Office for the deposit of Public Records; and I am commanded to acquaint you that my Lords see no reason to differ from the opinion expressed by your Lordship that it would be inexpedient now to make a separate provision for the Public Records, and that, considering the site and extent of a building for that object, it is necessary also to decide upon the locality of any new Courts of Justice and new Offices for those Courts which it may be determined to erect, in order that the busines of the Courts may be transacted, and the Records preserved in the immediate vicinity of the Courts themselves to which they belong.

My Lords further agree with your Lordship that it would be advisable that the buildings to be erected for these purposes should be built on land the property of the Crown, and that the public should no longer be dependent on private individuals or public bodies for such necessary accommodation.

It is evident, however, that a general combination on any one spot of all or any number of the Courts of Justice, together with their respective Offices and Depositories of Records, could not be effected without a very large expenditure of public money, whatever might be the site ultimately selected for that object.

It must also be borne in mind, that provision has been made by Parliament for retaining certain Courts of Law, and for preserving a great quantity of Public Records, in the building now in progress of erection for the accommodation of the two Houses of Parliament, and that the immediate vicinity of those Law Courts which are there provided for, was one of the motives which led to the determination of Parliament to continue their sittings on the site of the old Palace of Westminster.

My Lords do not undervalue the objections which may be raised to the Victoria Tower as a Depository for Public Records; but as a very large provision has been made in that Tower and in the new Houses of Parliament for the reception of a far larger mass of Records than can ever belong exclusively to the two Houses, my Lords do not feel that they should be justified in not endeavouring to render available for the purpose for which it was intended, a building which has the advantage of affording the greatest possible security against fire.

Under these circumstances, and adverting more especially to the large expense to which the public is now, and must be for some time, annually subject, for the erection of the buildings in Westminster, my Lords do not think that it would be proper to undertake any new legal buildings of great extent and cost until they shall, by the further advance of the buildings now on hand, be in a situation to judge of the precise extent of further accommodation which may be required for the combined objects to which your Lordship has adverted.

I am, at the same time, directed to acquaint your Lordship, that my Lords will deem it advisable to avail themselves of any opportunity which may offer of adding to the Rolls' Estate, or of obtaining possession of the buildings on the south side of Bridge-street, Westminster, with a view of securing an adequate site in both those quarters for any buildings which it may hereafter be necessary to erect; and their Lordships will give the necessary directions accordingly to the Commissioners of Woods and Forests to omit no favourable opportunity of making such purchases, on fair terms, for the public.

I have, &c.

The Lord Langdale, &c. &c. (Signed) C. E. TREVELYAN.

Assistant-Keeper of the Public Records.

No. 2.—COMMON PLEAS.

Continuation of INVENTORIES of the RECORDS of the COURT of COMMON PLEAS deposited in the Division of the Carlton Ride, heretofore considered as the Treasury of the Court.

INVENTORY OF COMMON PLEAS REMEMBRANCE ROLLS.

Appendix II. 2. Common Pleas.

2 (a).—REMEMBRANCE ROLLS, with a statement of the Number of Membranes each Roll contains, the condition in which it was found, and the operations to which it was subjected during the formation of the Inventory.

Inventory of Common Pleas Remembrance Rolls.

THE Masters of the Court of Common Pleas in January, 1840, state that this series of Records "demand care and attention, and would have been much more frequently searched had not the difficulty of making the search been almost unsurmountable." When these Rolls were transferred from the Masters' custody into the Public Record Office they were extremely dirty, many much decayed; destitute of tickets and arrangement, and were in fact practically inconsultable. They are now cleaned and rendered consultable, as far as practicable. The state of many of the Rolls is so bad that it has been judged expedient to keep them flat; where this is the case they have been tied up in brown paper covers and ticketed. The Masters account for the incompleteness of the series by stating, "that a number of them were feloniously abstracted from the Secondaries office some years ago," (App. to First Report Dep. Keeper, pp. 41 and 43,) and they judiciously suggest (p. 43,) "that during the period to which the Draft Rule and Court Minute Books exist the deficiencies should be supplied from these sources." Before the 11th Geo. III. each Prothonotary kept his own roll distinct, on which he entered his share of the business of the Court; but after this period they united their offices, jointly keeping one roll for Secondaries Remembrances, and the other for entries of Præcipes of Recoveries. In the 43 Geo. III. the Secondaries Remembrances assume the form of Books. The total number of Remembrance Rolls is 1,577, consisting of 43,366 membranes (errors excepted). The following Inventory was compiled under the direction of Mr. Cole.

Specimens of the Entries, which are made in a technical and very abridged form, on these Rolls.

2 (c).—INVENTORY OF FILAZERS' REMEMBRANCE ROLLS.

A consecutive series of these documents does not commence until A.D. 1749, but it is stated in "An Index to the Records," printed for G. Hawkins, 1739, that there were Filacers' and Exigenters' Rolls from 1 Henry VIII. to the then present time, p. 25. After 1749 it continues to 1820. Before 1749, there are only two Rolls; one for Easter Term of 21 James I., for the Counties of Kent, Sussex, and Surrey. Another for Michaelmas Term of 3 William and Mary, for London, Middlesex, Cambridge, and Huntingdon. The total number of Rolls is 1007, consisting of about 3200 membranes.

When, upon sortation, but a few documents of a particular year have been discovered, they have been added to the bundles of the year, which were delivered as such to the Public Record Office, and have been so distinguished.

The bundles which were delivered sorted, tied up, and ticketted have been but partially examined. The old tickets, where good, remain, but new tickets have been added where necessary.

Miscellaneous bundles and bundles of mixed years have been sorted carefully, and made up into bundles, and are thus distinguished: "From bundles of various years;" or "Collected from bundles in disorder."

* Or Count of Maurienne, afterwards Savoy. Perhaps a mistake for B., as there does not appear to be any contemporary Count of Maurienne with whom the initial G. can correspond.

destroyed his Castle of "Aucernio," as Henry Troubleville, Seneschal of Gascony, well knew; wherefore he requests the King to take such measures as may promote their mutual advantage, since he and his castles are at the King's service.

156. Peter de Savoy to the King of England.—The letter, ordering him to be with the King's messengers before the King of France, at Paris, on the Quinzaine of the Purification, reached him at "Gebennas," [i. e. Geneva] but it was then too late to obey the instructions.

157. Hugh de Vivon to the King of England, informing him that when the King of France left Rochelle, he came to Poitiers, and sent the Seneschal of Poictou and Count la Marche to Gascony, who came to St. Melio where the burgesses made oath to them, and from thence they came to St. Macchar and Longon'; and Peter de Gavaret gave up both the castles, and the burgesses of those towns also did fealty in the presence of the Bishop, and then 6000 of the burgesses of La Riole came and made oath to them; but neither the burgesses of La Riole nor St. Melio permitted one of the King of France's men to enter their town, and no garrison was put in either town or castle which they gained. Hugh de Vivon thinks the King may soon recover all the places if speedy assistance be sent, and begs the King will excuse his delay in Poictou as he had been confined to his bed at Rochelle, but he will hasten to England as soon as possible, if not detained by William de Putot, who is also ill.

158. H. de Zudendorp, citizen of Cologne, to the King of England,—the Archbishop [of Cologne]* had been killed by his near relative,—but for this misfortune the Archbishop would have brought the King's business to a good termination.

159. Guido de Poconeria to the King of England, beseeching him to protect and defend his estate in England, the rights and rents of which had been kept from him by the knights and suitors of his hundred, and to cause the said rights to be restored to him in the same entirety as he had received them from King John.

160. The citizens of Aqn' [? Acqs] to the King of England, stating that two of their citizens, W. Roberti and A. Ri, had lent a sum of money (the former 100 marks of silver, and the latter 80 livres Tournois) to G. de Nevill, his chamberlain, to complete the King's business, which they wonder he has not paid, and beg the King to compel him to do so.

161. The Common Council of "Aquis" inform the King of England that Rostagn de Solerio [Solers], citizen of Bourdeaux, his bailiff of Gascony, acts faithfully in the charge committed to him, taking care of the country, and executing justice to the satisfaction of them and other the King's subjects.

162. The Mayor, Jurats, and Commonalty of Bayonne to the King of England,—a fire has destroyed half their city, with part of the church, its bells, &c.;—their rich merchants were in foreign parts,—they had lost the third part of their property this year by storms at sea; wherefore they entreat the King to procure them a respite until Christmas, for the payment of 600 livres Morlannois which they owe the Lord Edward.

163. The Echevins and Burgesses of Ghent to the King of England,—being so full of business they cannot at present pay the debt they owe him, wherefore they beg a respite until the next Michaelmas.

164. The Advocates and Echevins of Ypres to the King of England, relating to a robbery committed on John called Baderel, a burgess of that place, by some of the King's people. [See No. 137.]

165. The Freemen and Jurats of Jersey to the King of England,—when Philip de Aubigney held assise there by the King's direction, he ordered that the assise should be holden according to the right and ancient customs of Normandy, whereon a jury of lawful men was chosen, which found some persons guilty, who immediately fled. Since then they have returned, bringing the King's letters of pardon, and letters from the King's court, directing their lands to be restored to them, at which the said Freemen and Jurats greatly wonder, since it is contrary to the right and custom of Normandy, and a thing unheard of in England. Wherefore they beg the King to consider the matter, for if such men are allowed to recover their inheritance, they know not how robbers, who abound there, are to be punished.

166. The Mayor and Commonalty of Bourdeaux to the King of England, begging him to confirm the patent which King John granted them, a transcript whereof they send; for which favour the men of Bourdeaux, both poor and rich, will feel most grateful to him, although for many years they had been oppressed by many burdens for wars, &c., and in fortifying their town, and they entreat the King to send an answer by Rostand Columbi.

167. The Mayor and Commonalty of Bourdeaux to the King of England, soliciting the confirmation of a gift made by his Chamberlain to the Hospital, called Bardernac, recently founded by a citizen of Bourdeaux to accommodate poor Christians returning "de Beato Jacobo" [from Compostella], and where a church had been erected, in which service for the perpetual salvation of the soul of the late King John his father was to be performed.

* Englebert de Berg, killed 7 November, 1225, by the Count of Isenberg.

168. The Mayor and Commonalty of Bourdeaux to the King of England, on behalf of Rostand de Solario, [Solers] beseeching him to pay to the said Rostand a debt of 104*l.* sterling, and to transmit the sum by G., his cross-bowman.

169. The Judges, Eschevins, Council, and Citizens of Cologne to the King of England, informing him that Herman, the bearer, has been defrauded by the men of Winchelsea of goods to the value of 100 marks, and praying for redress.

170. The men of the Castle of Dusar to the King of England,—King Richard had built the Castle of Dusar and peopled it with his own men, and kept it during his own life, and demised it to King John with his other land—war arose between King John and the King of France, Gasto de Bearn, and other Barons of Gascony, and when peace was restored, King John committed the town to the Viconte of Tartas, who had sworn to keep it with the same ordinances and customs as King Richard; which Viconte having held it a year and three months, on the night of the Feast of St. Gregory collected all the people and slew some, and robbed them of more than 100,000 sous Morlanaix, and, compelled them to swear that they would not complain, and that they would not remain subject to the King of England, and gave some of them to some knights, and many of the houses to various persons; the truth of which they had shown to many of the King's bailiffs, who took no notice thereof, until Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, came into Gascony, who made inquiries on the subject and restored the Castle. Wherefore the said men entreat the King to maintain all their possessions as King Richard and King John had done, and to give them his letters patent like those of King Richard, which were burnt in the Chapel of St. Katherine, in the castle by the Viconte.

171. The Mayor and Commonalty of St. Jean d'Angeli to the King of England, begging his aid for the protection and defence of his subjects in Poictou.

172. The Consuls and Commonalty of St. Junien in Limosin to the King of England, —they have always been faithful to him and his predecessors, and still are so.—When King John visited their town, he ordered the destruction of a tower which J., formerly Bishop of Limoges, built by desire of the King of France, which they accordingly destroyed, and the said Bishop excommunicated them, but King John wrote to the Pope and procured the excommunication to be taken off. One B., being now made Bishop of Limoges, and by the advice of their enemies wishing to injure them, has again laid them under excommunication; but they, maintaining their fidelity to the King of England, fear nothing as long as he will protect them. Wherefore they beseech the King to use his influence with the said Bishop for them.

[This document is much decayed.]

173. P. de Miner, the Podesta, Consuls and Commonalty of Milan to the King of England, thanking him for the reception he had given to their late messenger:—They had learnt that the Monks of Glastonbury, who are called his Barons, on receiving the royal requests and orders in the affair of A. de Summa, and M. de Summa, his brother, had not only disregarded such requests and orders, but had abused their messenger; —they entreat the King to compel the said Monks and Barons to make satisfaction to the said nobles. And although the said A. de Summa, at the instance of the said M. de Summa, Procurator of Glastonbury, has pledged his possessions, and exposed himself to much danger for the sake of the said monastery, the said Monks have made no return either to the said Procurator or his brother, whereby they have sustained the loss of upwards of 3000 marks.—The King's interference is sought.

174. The Mayor and Commonalty of Niort to the King of England.—Although a truce has been entered into between the King and the Count of La March, yet the Count has distrusted them, and set his guard over them before the termination of the truce, and so oppressed them that they cannot introduce corn, wine, wood, or other necessaries into the Castle of Niort, the roads being so guarded that Scalo de Rupeforti and others dare not bring them such things. Wherefore they implore the King to send them speedy assistance, and such a Governor as he has often promised.

175. The Mayor and Burgesses of Niort to the King of England.—They have always resisted his enemies, by which they have sustained innumerable losses in their goods and persons, and still sustain worse by the Count of La March and others; in such troubles their only aid is the Bishop of Saintes, who is always ready to exert himself for the King's honour and their good; and they entreat the King to give him thanks accordingly.

176. The Mayor and Burgesses of Niort to the King of England's Clerks,* stating their constant fidelity to the King and their losses sustained thereby, and extolling the fidelity of the Bishop of Saintes. [See No. 175.].

177. The Mayor and Echevins of St. Omer to the King of England.—The Bailiffs of London have seized the goods of the Burgesses of St. Omer on account of some custom or rather exaction never paid in times past, commonly called "Muraille," [i. e. Murage] which they endeavour to extort, although when a similar vexation had been referred to the King, he had decided that the said Burgesses and many others of Flanders were free and exempt. Wherefore they entreat the King to stay such annoyance.

* Probably the Magistri of the Chancery.

180. The King thanks R[alph] Bishop of Chichester, his Chancellor, for his diligence in the administration of affairs, in conjunction with S. de Segrave, during the King's absence. The King has arrived well and safe in Poictou, where he has won over many of the nobles [enumerated by name], so that now almost all the Barons of Poictou are in his service except the Count of la Marche and Geoffrey de Rancon; in Normandy also Fulk Paynel and Will. Paynel, and many knights of their kindred, have joined his service, and he believed many more will do so as soon as he approaches Normandy, in short that his affairs would advance prosperously if he had plenty of money. Wherefore the King urges the Chancellor to exert himself in procuring him money, and not to believe any false report he may hear of disputes between the King and his Justiciar, whom he esteems more than ever. With those who hold of the King in chief, the King directs the Chancellor to have patience until his return, or further orders. Pons, 18th July, [? 1230: 14 Henry 3.]

183. Writ of Summons [apparently a draft] to G[odfrey] Bishop of Worcester, to be at Westminster on the Feast of St. John the Baptist, when the King intends to take leave of them and other prelates and nobles in contemplation of his departure to the Holy Land, and to provide for the government of the kingdom during his absence. The King thanks Phillip Basset, Justiciar of England, and Walter de Merton, the Chancellor, for their attention to his affairs, as well in the matter of Thornebrugge as other things which they had written about; and having read the Charter which they had sent him, he collects that it was granted to St. Edmund, formerly Archbishop of Canterbury, and that he had seisin of the castle [of Thornebrugge]. The King therefore commands them to permit him* to have custody thereof. 3rd August, 1262: 46 Henry 3.

193. Lincolnshire.—Writ to the Sheriff, directing him to return before the Justices at Westminster, on the morrow of the Purification of St. Mary, 24 Knights of his county from the visne of Lincoln, and 24 Burgesses of the city of Lincoln, to certify concerning the death of Hugh, son of Beatrix, whom the Jews crucified and slew; the Jews imprisoned in the Tower of London for this offence having put themselves on the verdict of the said Knights and Burgesses. 7*th January*, 1256: 40 Henry 3.

199. The King to H[enry] Archbishop of Dublin, Justiciar of Ireland.—The extent lately made of the King's demesne of Obrun is so heavy that his tenants are not able to sustain it without great loss and damage; a new and more moderate extent is therefore ordered to be made of that demesne, and then it is to be delivered up to Geoffrey de Turville, the King's clerk, to whom the King has granted it for four years, and who is to answer for it at the Exchequer of Dublin. 1*st April*, 1224: 8 Henry 3.

200. Draft of Letters Patent, reciting that a peace had been concluded between the King and M[agnus], King of Norway, concerning all injuries done to their respective subjects up to Wednesday after Assumption-day, A.D. 1269, except certain injuries done to the Norwegians at the fair of St. Botolph, and elsewhere. And the King grants that the injuries so committed should be redressed according to the law and custom of England. [See Treaty in Fœdera, vol. i. p. 480.]

201. The King to Pope Gregory.—War having long subsisted between the nobles R. de Ponte and B[oniface] of Maurienne and their ancestors, for avoiding such calamities they had joined their son and daughter together in marriage, being of the fourth degree of consanguinity, who had issue three sons then living, and one daughter deceased;—two Bishops of Saintes having tolerated such marriage, the King implores the Pope to excuse it, so that without mortal sin they may remain in wedlock, and the issue be legitimate; for if the marriage be annulled, the said nobles, who use their great interest in support of the King's right and power, will go over to the King of France, whereby the King's influence in those parts would soon cease.

202. The King to O., Cardinal Deacon of St. Mary, "in via lata,"—although the great men of his kingdom were deterred from undertaking "the business of Apulia," yet he, having confidence in the apostolic see, had endeavoured to advance the business to the honour of both parties; and whereas both he and his brother Richard, King of the Romans elect, intended during the truce which was granted them, to send messengers to the apostolic see, fully instructed to answer all the Pope's commands concerning the business, therefore he begs that nothing may be done to his prejudice in the mean time, especially as four months remain of the time allowed him, within which his messengers would explain the cause of the delay. Moreover, as to the payment of the merchants he will give such orders that they shall have no cause to complain.

203. The King, to H[ugh X] Count of la March.—The Count, who has married the Queen [Isabella] his mother, is requested to come to England, to treat with him on their affairs, and to cause the King's sister to come under safe conduct to Rochelle, there to be delivered to Jodewyn de Doet and Ralph Gernun, whom the King sends for her. 22*nd May*, 1220 [? 4 Henry 3.] [Fœdera, vol. i. p. 160.]

204. The King to the Dean and Chapter of Limoges, with professions of love and goodwill. He requires them to put themselves and their church under his rule and dominion, for

To Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England.

206. Stephen Langton, Cardinal and Archbishop of Canterbury, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, in favour of Geoffrey de Luci, who, having taken the cross, is on the point of setting out, requesting him to hasten the restitution of his property at Hales, which had hitherto been delayed. [? About 1219: 3 or 4 Henry 3.]

207. W[alter], Archbishop of York, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—Alice de Bella Aqua sues her grandson, the heir of her deceased son Geoffrey de Appelton, for a debt, by the authority of the Legate. He therefore requests, that, since the heir is under age, and in the custody of the King, the Justiciar will obtain an interview with the Legate, and prevent the youth from being troubled till he is of sufficient age to answer for himself. [? About 1218: 2 or 3 Henry 3.]

208. W[alter], Archbishop of York, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—He has, according to instructions, signified to Hugh de Bolebec the impropriety and unusual course of surrendering a castle upon the receipt of any Writ.—At a meeting held at Durham, at which he himself, the Bishop of Durham, and others were present, and where Hugh de Bolebec demanded testimonial letters from himself and the said Bishop before surrendering the castle to Roger Bertrham, he the Archbishop protested against that surrender to the great displeasure of Roger Bertrham and his friends;—since his return to York he has heard a report that the Bishop of Durham had granted the letters upon receiving the son of Roger Bertrham as a hostage. He further states that, having received letters from the King with respect to conducting the King of Scotland [Alex. II.] to York fifteen days after the Feast of St. Michael, there to meet the King of England, he is unable to attend at London upon the assise of "Darrein Presentment" to the living of Clavreburc, claimed by Adam de Hibernia, and therefore he requests that a Writ "de waranto" may be issued. [? 1220: 4 Henry 3.]

W[alter], Archbishop of York, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, sending him a copy of the Charters relating to the Liberties of his Church at Southwell, granted to that Church by King John, and confirmed by his son, Henry the Third, and requesting him in like manner not to permit those Liberties to be infringed, and also to send Letters in the King's name to the Sheriff of Nottinghamshire, to the same purport.

210. W[alter], Archbishop of York, to Hubert de Burgh.—Upon receiving the King's command, he proceeded to the south, although previously informed of the King's departure from Winchester to meet the King of Jerusalem and the Archbishop of Canterbury; but that, on account of his contention with that prelate, he has deferred his journey to London, and now awaits the King's orders at his "manor" in the county of Gloucester. He also requests to receive his counsel concerning his knights, by Jordan de Esseby and W. Martel, whom he sends to him, and in what manner he shall treat those who had neglected the King's summons.

211. W[alter], Archbishop of York, to P[eter] Bishop of Winchester, and Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—He has been taken dangerously ill at Nottingham, on his road from Gloucester; so that he reached the abbey of Rufford with difficulty; and at length, after many days, he arrived at his manor of Scroby, where he found Ralph de Norwich, whom they had sent to him. He is troubled that he cannot in any way proceed with the Legate, but he will attend to the King's affairs in his neighbourhood, &c.

212. H[enry] Archbishop of Dublin and Legate, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, requesting writs for obtaining the service of the land of Walter de Lasci to fortify a castle for the use of Richard de Tuit in Delvene. As Ireland has been inconvenienced by the want of the writ of "Mort d'Ancestor," since the departure of the King from Ireland, he prays that the said writ may be as current in Ireland, as it has been in England since the coronation of King John. [1216—1228.]

213. W[alter] Bishop of Carlisle, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar, stating that after the departure of N. de Molis (with letters from the Emperor), the Archbishop of Cologne had come to him with a more cheerful countenance than usual, consoling him, and saying that there was no fear for the desired issue of the business on which they were engaged, as he had received letters to that effect,—the Emperor would not put off the business unless compelled by the urgency of affairs between him and the Pope; but, as there seemed more delay than he expected, the Bishop thinks he had better return to England; though the Archbishop of Cologne would be displeased if he did so before his messengers returned from the Emperor, and begs permission to do so.

214. R[ichard], Bishop of Durham, the King's Chancellor, to Hubert de Burgh, requesting that W. de Lancaster may be allowed to defer his homage till the King's arrival at York, as he is unable to bear the expenses of the journey. [1217—1227.]

215. R[ichard], Bishop of Durham, the King's Chancellor, to H. de Burgh, the King's Justiciar.—The King has commanded the Sheriffs and Knights of the shires of York and Northumberland to collect the money arising from the amerciaments in the Eyre of the Justiciar. [1217—1227.]

216. R[ichard], Bishop of Durham, the King's Chancellor, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, requesting him to put in respite the pleas of Novel Disseisin, which concern R. de Ros, until his arrival at York, conducting the King of Scotland [? Alexander II.] [? 1220: 4 or 5. Henry 3.]

217. R[ichard], Bishop of Durham, the King's Chancellor, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, informing him that R. de Veteri Ponte met him at Dudereshou, in Richmondshire, and that upon his laying before him the Legate's injunctions, R. de Veteri Ponte answered that he would not postpone the day appointed him for the trial against the Countess Augy, [of Eu ?] but that he would hasten his return, so as to meet the King of the Scots at the Tweed, and conduct him to York. [? 1220: 4 Henry 3.]

218. P[eter], Bishop of Winchester, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, sending him the letters of the Legate, which request him to choose a fit religious person for the completion of some business not specified. [This document is partly decayed.]

221. W. Mar', Earl of Pembroke, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, praying justice of Fulk de Brealte, for detaining the wood of Norton, and other lands of John Maresceall, and imprisoning his Bailiff in the Castle of Northampton. [See No. 226.]

222. W. Maresc', Earl of Pembroke, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—The Bailiffs of Fulk de Breaut, have entered upon his lands in Bedfordshire;—he beseeches the Justiciar to command that no one should spoil or enter upon his lands, in Bedfordshire and elsewhere.

223. W. Maresc', Earl of Pembroke, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, stating that Thomas de Berkelay, brother and heir of Robert de Berkelay, married his niece; and beseeching that he would give him redress against the Earl of Salisbury, who has seized his Castle and inheritance of Berkelay, contrary to right and the law of the land. [See No. 244.]

225. William Longespee, Earl of Salisbury, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—After his departure from the Exchequer, he received a communication from the Earl of Albemarle, desiring to break off the contract which had been made between his daughter and the Earl of Salisbury's son; he therefore forewarns the Justiciar, that should the said Earl of Albemarle act in any respect unlawfully, it is not by his connivance or counsel.

226. William Longespee, Earl of Salisbury, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, stating, that John Mar' has informed him that when he sent the King's letters to Fulk de Breaut, for possession of his wood of Norton, and his lands in his bailiwick, the said Fulk refused to obey them, and took the said John's Bailiff of Norton, and imprisoned him at Northampton. [See No. 221.]

307. Evan ("Evinus") Vechain to R[alph], Bishop of Chichester, the King's Chancellor; intimating that he intends coming to deliver up his son to the Chancellor as he directed.

308. G. de Nevill, Chamberlain, to R., Bishop of Chichester, begging attention to the request of Richard, the King's brother, the Earl of Salisbury, and himself, on behalf of a person who had been in the King's service in Gascony.

309. Charter, by which Henry Benjamin covenants to serve King Henry the Third and his heirs faithfully.

310. Charter, by which Richard de Beseville covenants to serve King Henry the Third and his heirs faithfully.

316. Charter, by which Pantolf covenants to serve King Henry the Third faithfully during his life, and for the greater security of his service he pledges the whole of his land. [?1217: 2 Henry 3.]

317. Neither the name of the writer, nor that of the person to whom the letter is addressed appears. The writer wishes to be excused from going the York Circuit with Martin de Patishull, for the said Martin is strong, and in his labour so sedulous and practised, that all his fellows, especially W. de Ralegh and the writer, are overpowered by the labour of Patishull, who works every day from sunrise until night. The writer, therefore, prays to be eased of his office and allowed to go quietly to his church in the County of York to which he had been lately presented, and to have Letters of Dispensation.

318. Neither the name of the writer, nor that of the person to whom the letter is addressed appears. The writer states that Gilbert de Byham, Canon of Salisbury and Wells, died before Thursday before the Feast of St. Vincent, and that his Prebend of Salisbury, called Chesingebyr', is worth about one hundred marks per annum; but the value of his Prebend of Wells and his other Benefices, and their names, are not known.

319. Neither the name of the writer, nor the person to whom the letter is addressed appears.

William de Lascy's castle, called Crennoch Oraely, has been taken by Oraely and by Walter de Ridelesford, and Richard Tuit who had been sent to his [O'Reily's] assistance;—the mother, wife, and brother of the said William de Lascy, with Michael Grossus and many more, are kept in the castle as hostages; the castle of Kilmore has been captured, in which were Henry Blundus and others. On the back of the letter it is written that the castle of Rathune, the castle of Walter Sancmell, the castle of Rathfoy, the castle of William Fitz John, the castle of Rathmore were taken before the arrival of the Earl Mareschall.

320. A part of a Roll relating to Knights' Fees in Nottinghamshire.

321. Rayner, Cardinal Deacon of St. Mary "in Cosmedin," to R. de Nevill, intimating that as he had given assistance and advice to Master Benedict, the said Rayner's Clerk, when he came to the King's Court; he requests his favour for Rainald his servant whom he was going to send on business into England.

322. Blanche, Queen of France, to Guy de Lusignan, giving him permission to prolong his stay in England until the Octaves of Pentecost, but no longer. April, 1252: 36 Henry 3.

323. Florent, Count of Holland, to the Bailiff of "Lundercen," requesting that he would cause the truce to be observed which Nicholas de Cats, Knight, had made with the King of England, between his territory and the Count's, so that the Count's subjects with their merchandize may safely come to England and return therefrom, and he, the Count, will cause the same to be observed in his territory; also that he will cause the appointment to be kept for treating of peace, and that an inquiry shall be made on both sides concerning their subjects' goods which were lost.

324. The Mayor and Twelve, and the Council of Bayonne, to R. de Nevill, the King's Chancellor.—Their fellow citizens, Garsias Arn' de Ardir, and William P. de Camped, and their partners, made a contract with the Lord Randolph, son of Nicholas de Abomina, [Bodmin?] in Cornwall, for the purchase of a quantity of tin, for which they then paid the whole stipulated price, but he still owed them 28,000 pounds of the quantity of tin agreed on, and refused to give it them, although it was now two years since he had received their money. Wherefore they entreat the Chancellor to recommend to their Lord the King of England the best mode of compelling the said Randolph to deliver them the tin and make satisfaction for the loss sustained.

325. Bertram de Cardalhac, the King's Seneschal of Limosin, informs the King that the Consuls and University of Limoges have done fealty in the King's name, and that they appear well disposed to his government. Wherefore he commends them to the King's notice when they or their messengers shall come to the royal presence.

326. This document is much defaced, but it appears to be a petition from H. de Bosco to the King's Council for some pecuniary assistance (in consideration of his faithful services to the late and present King), without which he will be obliged to sell his house, &c., in Niort.

327. The Council and Burgesses of La Reole to R. de Nevill, the King's Chancellor, thanking him for his assistance in procuring the King's confirmation of the liberty of Package, which King John granted them at Bourdeaux. Since then, Gerard Bruchad, a Templar, had come to Bourdeaux with the King's Patent to collect the King's dues as well by land as by water, who said that he should take Package, the exemption from which the King had confirmed. Wherefore they beg that the King's Writs may be sent to Gerard not to require the said duty, and also the King's confirmation of the exemption; and as the King had promised to assist them in fortifying their town, the expenses whereof had been great, they beg him to induce the King now to assist them with money for the work.

To Pandulph.

328. S[tephen], Cardinal and Archbishop of Canterbury, to Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Chamberlain and Papal Legate, P[eter], Bishop of Winchester, Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, W. Briwer', and the other Counsellors of the King, requesting them to inspect the inclosed letters which had been sent to him, and to act upon their contents.

329. W., Archbishop of York, to Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, asking him to signify his further pleasure concerning the Church of Barton, to be given to R., nephew of E. de Greinvill, the King's steward.

330. W. Longespee, Earl of Salisbury, to Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, &c., in which he objects and refuses his consent to the Earl of Albemarle being sent to take charge of Poictou, as proposed by Pandulph and the King's Council, for as he had not been obedient to the King's commands in England, where he had but a small charge, it was not likely he would be so if he obtained the great charge of the seneschalcy of Poictou.

331. P[eter], Bishop of Winchester, to Pandulph, Elect of Norwich.—He had waited for the Justiciar, at Winchester, upon the business relating to the affairs of Poictou, but had received a letter from the Justiciar requesting him to meet him and Pandulph upon the same business and that of Henry FitzCount, and that although i was expedient for him to remain at Winchester, yet he will hasten to them, and will bring with him the Deacon of Poictou, who is skilled in the affairs of that Province.

332. Fulk de Breaut to Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, concerning a dispute between the men of the King's Manor of Beyfort and Esendon and the Bailiffs of the said Fulk de Breaut. [See No. 231].

333. The Mayor and Commonalty of Bourdeaux to Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, the Pope's Chamberlain, and Henry King of England and his Counsellors, stating, at the request of the men of Rochelle, that when Hugh de Lusignan, Count of la March and Angouleme, had proposed to attack the men of Rochelle, of St. Jean d'Angeli, and Niort, because of injuries done him on account of the marriage of Queen Isabella the King's mother, he, at the prayer of the Bishops of Saintes, Poictiers, Angouleme and Perigord, desisted from his purpose, and therefore beg that the said Hugh may not be removed from the King's service.

From Pandulph

334. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to the King, praying that he will give the royal assent to the election of William, Prior of Goldclive, to be Bishop of Llandaff, and receive his fealty. [? 1219].

335. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to the King, stating that he, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Bishop of Salisbury, by the Pope's authority, have chosen the Abbot of Fountains as Bishop of Ely; and asking the King to receive his fealty. [? 1220].

336. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to P[eter], Bishop of Winchester, desiring that letters be directed on behalf of the King of France and to P. de Collemed, Pope's Chaplain, concerning a prorogation of the truce. [See No. 345].

337. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, to P[eter], Bishop of Winchester, and to W. Briwer, commanding them if they had not yet sent any one to receive the Castle of Fotheringay from W. Marescall, E. of Pembroke, in accordance with their agreement, to send one of the King's household to hold it till an interview had been held with the King of Scotland.

338. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to the Bishop of Winchester and H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, asking that they would command the bailiffs of the Bishopric of Ely to assign all royalties to the Abbot of Fountains, whom he, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and Bishop of Salisbury have appointed Bishop of Ely. [? 1220].

339. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, desiring that according to the form inclosed, or another if he thinks it better, he cause letters on the King's behalf to be made and sent to the King of France concerning a prorogation of the truce. [Fœdera, vol. i. p. 157].

340. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—He is hastening to London on the urgent affairs of the King and Kingdom.

341. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, stating that at his instance he, (Pandulph) will return from his journey to Wales and come towards London. [Fœdera, vol. i. p. 158].

342. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England.—Understanding from the letters which Philip de Hulecot has sent concerning Roger Bertran that he has not obeyed the King and his command, he proposes that when he and the Justiciar shall be together at Worcester they shall dispose of this among other matters, as such excess cannot be left unpunished. [Fœdera, vol. i. p. 158].

343. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, stating that he had conferred the Church of "Cumba," in the King's gift, on the son of the Count of Savoy. [See No. 234].

344. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to the Justiciar of England, asking that having disposed of the Exchequer as he thinks best, he should come to Worcester on the Morrow of the Octaves of the Purification of the Virgin, which is the day appointed for Lewelin.

345. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, asking that he would send some one on the King's behalf to the King of France to treat together with Peter de Collemedio, Pope's Chaplain, concerning prorogation of truces; and also that he would provide a person to go to Poictou. [See No. 336].

346. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, commanding that he should obtain the King's writs to the Marshall prohibiting him from fortifying the Castle of "Malesbergia."

347. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, praying that the Sheriff of Yorkshire may be set at liberty according to justice and the laws of the land.

348. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Papal Legate, to H. de Burgh, Justiciar of England, praying writs prohibitory to the Sheriffs of Essex, Herts, Norfolk, and Suffolk, that they do not make any collections or exactions from Robert Fitz Walter, a Crusader.

349. Pandulph, Elect of Norwich, Chamberlain and Papal Legate, to Hubert de Burgh, Justiciar of England, exhorting him to remain firm against the ill-disposed, who he hears are flocking to London—He also requests to be informed whether he had chosen a fit person to send into Poictou, and begs him to come to Worcester at the day previously appointed with Lewelin.

They are now numbered in continuation (515 and 516), as the fifth and sixth volumes, being very little out of their proper place.

In their general description they answer to the other books of this class, but they are thinner and not indorsed.

6. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, at the Rolls House.

I. (iii.)—The Assignation Books, or Books of Assignationes, for the payment of Interest upon Bankers' Loans, 1678—1688.

I. (iii.)—The Assignation Books, or Books of Assignationes, for the payment of Interest upon Bankers' Loans, from 1678 to 1688.

Nature and Use of these Books.—Although these Books are technically a branch of the Pell of Receipt, they really contain the records of payments of interest upon loans. In order to explain their contents, it is needful to state the nature and operation of the two different kinds of Tallies, the inscriptions whereof constitute the entire contents of the Pell of Receipt. (1.) The first was "the Tally of Sol," given forth to a person making a payment into the Exchequer, as in the case of every ordinary entry made in the Pell of Receipt; whereon the word Sol was written, to show that the money, denoted by the inscription and notches of the Tally, had been actually paid into the Exchequer, and to serve as a legal acquittance for the same, in the Exchequer of Account. (2.) The second kind was "the Tally of Pro," which at first operated as a modern cheque on a banker, being given forth in payment from the Exchequer, as a charge upon some public accountant, for him to pay the sum expressed thereon, out of the revenues in his hands, before they should reach the Exchequer; it afterward served as a voucher, for which he had credit upon his account in the Exchequer of Account, in like manner as if for money actually paid by him into the Exchequer of Receipt.

The latter kind of Tally received its denomination from the preposition standing first in a part of the inscription, which occupies the right hand extremity of the Bill or Tally, and which stands on that margin or column in the record, where the amount and Teller's name usually are written. That part of the inscription declares that the Tally was struck Pro (or for the benefit of) the person there named, and mentions the purpose of the payment, with other particulars. The Bills for these Tallies were recorded among the ordinary entries of Recepta, day by day, in order that the true amount of revenue might appear in the Pell; and that credit might be given on record to the accountant, by anticipation, just as if the money assigned by Tally had been actually paid to the Officers of the Exchequer, who were (in fact) represented by the bearer of the Tally. Hence all payments by Tallies of Pro must be sought, not among the Issues (where ordinary payments are recorded), but on the Pell of Receipt; and these are the "Assignationes" which are mentioned in the Inventory of the Receipt Books, Nos. 198—243, (Third Report, App. II. p. 164—5),) as having a separate list or alphabet prefixed to the Index of each volume, in a certain period of those records.

Great loans were advanced to the Government by the "Goldsmiths" or Bankers of London, in the year 1677, on the credit of the hereditary revenue of Excise; to pay the interest of which, terminable annuities were secured, and charged upon that revenue, by Letters Patents granted to the several contractors, or principal creditors, who, in their turn, made Assignments of divers portions of those annuities, to the persons who had contributed toward their loans. Those Patents are recorded in the Auditor's Patent Book, Second Series, No. 11 (described in the Second Report, App. II. p. 211), and in the "Liber septimus Caroli Secundi," of the smaller series of Patent Books of the Pell Office; and the Assignments are recorded in special Assignment Books, of both the Auditor's and the Pell Office, not yet described.

The interest on those loans being payable to the several contributors and assignees at the Excise Office, and not at the Exchequer, it became needful to strike numerous Tallies for that purpose; and this business became so extensive, that, as separate Assignment Books had been established, so a separate Pell of Receipt became needful, and was opened for the recording of those Assignations by Tallies. There do not appear to be extant any separate Receipt Rolls of this nature, but the following Books contain entries, day by day made in the Pell Office, as the Tallies were applied for and struck; in the same manner as the common entries of Tallies of Sol and of Pro, for ordinary purposes, were made in the Receipt Books of the same period.

Period and State of Completeness.—These books, as a distinct series, began with the Easter half-year, 30 Car. II., 1678, and continued to the end of that reign, in fourteen volumes called Liber Primus, &c.; of which the first, seventh, and fourteenth are lost. A new series of numbers began with the next reign, of which only the first and third are extant in a perfect condition; the seventh (as it must have been), stripped of its covers and blank paper, remains but a fragment of the book in which the entries were first made. How much farther the series extended, cannot at present be stated or conjectured; but the last mentioned book (now marked No. 14), which serves for the Easter half-year, 4 Jac. II., 1688, and part of Michaelmas following, is the only one now remaining later than 1686.

Language, General Description, and Condition.—They are all in Latin, and in every respect resemble the ordinary volumes of Recepta of the same period, being in large folio, bound in boarded parchment, with green strings; and are indorsed with the term and regnal year in large letters on the back, and the reign and Christian year written smaller between, thus: "M.—Caroli scdi 1678.—XXX." (No. 1.) Each also has a full title prefixed, ordinarily as a heading; but, in No. 7, 8, 9, it occupies a whole page, and in No. 11 a separate leaf. They are all inscribed with a brief title on the cover. Their condition is sound and good, unless where described otherwise in the following Inventory.

 The form of the entries will more distinctly explain the nature and use of these Books, than any farther description of their contents; the title and first entry, (which fill the whole first page) of Liber Secundus, are therefore presented here:—

* These two words occur, in smaller writing, in the titles of No. 1 and 2 only. On the covers of No. 12 and 13, the preposition ab is properly omitted; but all those of Charles II. have it.

Appendix II.

6. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, at the Rolls House.

II. (ii.) 1.—Posting Books, (First Series;) or, Breviates of Issues upon Letters of Privy Seal, 1597—1628.

II.—Exitus, or the Pell of Issue.

II. (ii.) 1.—Posting Books, (First Series;) or, Breviates of Issues upon Letters of Privy Seal, digested under heads; from 1597 to 1628.

Nature and Use of these Books.—A large proportion of the payments made out of the Exchequer, at the time of the restoring of the Pell of Issue, being made by virtue of Privy Seals which were not satisfied by a single payment, but operated as the authority for successive payments at intervals, as the Lord Treasurer or the Privy Council might require or direct;—the Clerk of the Pells forthwith posted into a book, under various names, either of individuals, or of offices, departments, and services, the dates of all the Privy Seals then in force, as severally applicable thereto, with references to the places of their inrolment in his Privy Seal Book, in the margin on the left hand. In the body of the page, he set down an abstract of the grant; and on the right hand, or below, he set down the payments from time to time made thereupon, specifying the sum and the date, and in most instances an abstract of the Issue in English. By this plan, he was enabled to ascertain how far every Privy Seal was satisfied, and whether there remained sufficient of the original sum specified therein, to warrant any payment directed by any Order for an issue to be made upon that authority. Such Letters of Privy Seal, as did not expire in a single issue, were, in the technical language of the Receipt, said to be dormant; they were not dead, but sleeping; and they only rested until they were put in operation by the Treasurer's Order. Hence these Books were inscribed "Dormant Privie Seales;" but, as this name does not sufficiently express their nature, (for these documents are only abstracted here, but are entered at large in the Privy Seal Inrolment Books,) the Assistant Keeper has thought proper to apply to them the name, by which a modern series of "Posting Books" was long known in the Pell Office; and, in the heading of this Inventory, he has ventured to describe them as containing "Breviates of Issues upon Letters of Privy Seal, digested under heads;" they bearing some such relation to the Pell of Issue, as the "Breviates of Receipts" (described in last year's Report) bear to the Pell of Receipt. Indeed, it seems that they contain notices of all Issues upon Privy Seals, whether dormant or not, within the period to which they relate.

Such was their ancient use. To the modern inquirer, they furnish a convenient and comprehensive clue to the most important contents of the Pell of Issue, and that for a period in which the Issue Books are unindexed. Omitting the ordinary payments of salaries and pensions, they exhibit all the great expenditure of the crown, for purposes naval and military, domestic and foreign. Every head of expense, excepting the minute distribution and application of the gross sums, (of which the Exchequer of Receipt took no cognizance,) can be easily traced and calculated, by the aid of these digested abstracts. They have never yet been used for historical purposes; but to any one investigating the public transactions, or affairs of the court, in that time, they cannot fail to be useful in the highest degree.

As specimens of the nature of the headings, and the general arrangement of the contents of these books, copies of the lists of them, prefixed to No. 1 and No. 2, are annexed to this Inventory. Every book, except No. 14, 16, 23, 29, 30, contains such a list: but the completeness of some of the lists is, perhaps, doubtful. They are the only Indexes with which these books are furnished.

There are other contents, in some of these books, which are only accidental to the original design. As those entries were arbitrary and irregular, and yet of considerable importance; separate Calendars have been constructed, and subjoined to the Inventory, describing them under the following heads:—

1. Tellers' Remains.—These are the balances of moneys, remaining in the hands of the four Tellers respectively, either upon the making up of their weekly Certificates, or on the determination of their half-year's Account. The latter was called "the general remain." These remains, or balances, added together, constituted the full amount of the treasure of the crown, actually lodged in the Treasury of the Exchequer; and serving as the funds ready to meet the calls of the ensuing week or half-year. The Calendar will explain itself. It needs only to be added, that the earliest regular record of Tellers' Remains in volumes, now extant, is in the Auditor's Certificate Books, beginning at Michaelmas, 1610, in a full and regular series of entries;* the Tellers' Certificates on the Pells' side, begin a year later, at Michaelmas, 1611.

2. Miscellaneous Entries,—consisting of rough notes for insertion in other books; memoranda relating to the death, departure, or appointment of officers in the Receipt; and other notes, which serve to illustrate the course of business in this Exchequer.

Period and State of Completeness.—They begin at Michaelmas, 1597, for which term there are two books; and they extend to Michaelmas term 1627—8, inclusively. There ar 30 books, each serving for two terms, except one separate book (No. 1) for the first term of all; and the last term of the reign of James I. is in a separate book; before that time the Michaelmas term stands first in each book; but the Easter and Michaelmas terms are in the next book, (No. 28,) and the two last books (Nos. 29, 30,) are for separate terms. The following terms are wanting:—

——— ———	1623—4.
Easter	1626.
Michaelmas	1626—7.

* Described in Second Report, App. II. pp. 231—3.

Whether any occasion happened for the discontinuance of these useful books, or whether the later books of the reign of Charles I. have been lost, cannot be ascertained; perhaps the use of the "Alphabetical Abstracts," two of which are placed with them, may have caused the change.

Language.—They are all in English.

General Description, and Condition.—These books are in folio, written on paper. The first three are small books: the others are of the same sized paper as the Issue Books of that time, but thinner. They were rebound in 14 volumes, under Mr. Devon's direction: but the binder has placed them without regard to their correct order, and lettered them on the back "Dormant Privy Seals," with dates, taken by guess from the dates of the Privy Seals quoted in the books, rather than from the years in which the issues were made. One only has been found, since their removal to the Rolls House, which had happily escaped the binder's hands: it stands No. 28 in the series; and its description, in this Inventory, will serve to show what the others were, in their original state; the covers of which, with their titles and indorsements, have been destroyed by the binder. The leaves of No. 25, 26, 27, are so intermingled and confused, as to render the volume, in which they are bound together, almost unintelligible.

Arrangement.—They stand in volumes now numbered, on paper tickets, in the following order:—

Vol. I.	No. 1, 3.
II.	2, Bound unlike the others, and improperly lettered "Issue Book, 1596, 1598."
III.	4, 7.
IV.	5, 6.
V.	8, 9, 10.
VI.	11, 12.
VII.	13, 14.
VIII.	15, 16.
IX.	18, 17. Transposed.
X.	19, 20.
XI.	21, 24.
XII.	22, 23.
XIII.	27, 26, 25. In inverse order, and the leaves confused.
XIV.	28. In the original parchment covers.
XV.	29, 30.
XVI.	(1)	Alphabetical Abstracts of Privy Seals.
XVII.	(2)	Alphabetical Abstracts of Privy Seals.

It remains only to notice the two last volumes here enumerated. They contain a sort of Alphabetical Calendar of the Privy Seals from 1620 to 1627, the substance of each being amply recited, with reference to the Inrolment Book, where it is entered in full. The date is set down in one margin, and in the other are briefly noted the amounts and dates of the Issues made upon each document. One of them has been rebound, uniformly with the Posting Books: the other is in its old parchment covers.

There was one earlier book, of which the parchment covers now alone are extant, indorsed thus: "Index Irrotulament. Brevium sub Privato Sigillo domini Regis, Anno RR. Jacobi incipien. nono." (9 Jac. I. 1611.)

There is also a similar Abstract of one of the Patent Books, (No. 6,) made up in the very same manner; which is noticed in the Inventory of those Records.

II. (ii.) 1.—INVENTORY of the POSTING BOOKS, (First Series;) or Breviates of Issues upon Letters of Privy Seal, digested under Heads.

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
1	1597—8	39—40 Eliz.	Mich.	ff. 1—109	On the first page are written the following notes:—"Da gratiam, Domine, in diebus nostris. Primo Octobris anno RR^ne^ Eliz. xxxix^o^ 1597. CHI. WARDOURE. This was the first booke that I kept for the Exitus, uppon the re-establishing of that Recorde, uppon the Queens Ma^tes^ speciall Pryvie Seale graunted in that behalfe." f. (1^a^). The list of headings, or Index, occupies ff. (3)—(5). There are 130 leaves; of which ff. 87^b^—107^b^, and 109^b^—124, are blank. The other contents are described at the end of this Inventory.
2	1597—8 1598	39—40 Eliz. 40 Eliz.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—125^b^	Thus intitled on the first page (after the motto and signature of Chi. Wardoure):—"Termino Michaelis, anno RR^ne^ Elizabethe xxxix^o^ finiente et xl^o^ incipiente, 1597 et 1598. Et termino Pasche A^o^ RR^ne^ præd. xl^o^ 1598." f. (1^a^). The note which follows, relative to Lord Burghley's death, is given among the other miscellaneous entries described at the end of this Inventory. This book contains 138 numbered leaves, of which the last is but a fragment, now mended; and 17 more at the beginning: it is of a smaller size than the other books of this series. The Index, or list of heads, occupies ff. (5)—(7).
3	1598—9 1599	40—41 Eliz. 41 Eliz.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—119	Thus intitled on the first page (with Wardoure's signature):—"Termino Michaelis, anno RR^ne^ Eliz. xl^o^ finiente et xlj^o^ incipiente, 1598 et 1599." It contains Easter Term also. This book contains 140 leaves, the last of which has been mended; and 9 at the beginning, which include the Index, or list of headings, at ff. (4)—(6).

No.	A.D.	Regnal Year.	Term.	Leaves or Pages.	Description and Observations.
	1600	42 Eliz.	Easter
5	1600—1 1601	42—43 Eliz. 43 Eliz.	Mich. Easter	ff. 4^b—120^b	Containing 143 numbered leaves, beside the first leaf, which is inscribed with a date (as before) for Mich. Term only. The Index or list of contents occupies ff. 2—4; prefixed to which is a separate list, or calendar, showing "The date of every Pryvie Seale for Ireland causes, expressed in this booke, w^th thier folios." (f. 1^a).
6	1601—2 1602	43—44 Eliz. 44 Eliz.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—112	Containing 130 numbered leaves, beside 7 at the beginning; which latter contain a calendar of "Pryvie Seales conserning Ireland," f. (1^ab), and an Index or list of headings, f. (5)—(6^b).
7	1602—3 1603	44—45 Eliz. & 1 Jac. I. 1 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 5—124^b	Without title. There are 146 numbered leaves (wanting f. 145), of which ff. 2—3^b contain the Index or list of headings, without references to the folios: a separate calendar or list of the subordinate headings for "Ireland," with references, occupies the first page, being an unnumbered leaf.
8	1603—4 1604	1—2 Jac. I. 2 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. (6^b—7^b), 1—128	Containing 138 numbered leaves, beside 7 at the beginning, the last of which was originally marked "O." The first page bears the date of Mich. Term only, and an imperfect memorandum, the margin of the earliest leaves having been damaged by damp, but lately repaired. The Index, or list of contents, occupies ff. (4)—(6^a), and (2); which last seems to have been misplaced by the binder.
9	1604—5	2—3 Jac. I.	Mich.	ff. (4), 1—117	Two books, both relating to the same period, but having different contents; there are numerous payments of annuities in each. The one contains 119 numbered and 4 unnumbered leaves; the other "138" leaves, of which ff. 108—129 and 137 are wanting (probably blank), and 7 unnumbered leaves at the beginning. There is a list of headings in each book, ff. (2)—(3) and ff. (2)—(5), respectively.
10	1605	3 Jac. I.	Easter	ff. (7^b—9^b), 1—136^b
11	1605—6 1606	3—4 Jac. I. 4 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. (4), 1—136^b	Consisting of 139 numbered leaves, beside 4 at the beginning, which contain the Index or list of headings, ff. (2, 3.)
12	1606—7 1607	4—5 Jac. I. 5 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 2—152^b	Consisting of 154 numbered leaves, beside 5 at the beginning, which contain the usual Index, ff. (3, 4.)
13	1607—8 1608	5—6 Jac. I. 6 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. (1^b), 1—154^b	Consisting of 164 leaves, beside 1 at the beginning, not numbered. The usual Index is at the end, (ff. 160^b—1^b,) and is unfinished, reaching only to f. 96. This book was damaged toward the beginning, but has been repaired.
14	1608—9 1609	6—7 Jac. I. 7 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—182	Consisting of 182 leaves, of which the first 24 were damaged, and have lost the upper covers, together with much of the writing; but they are now repaired. There is no Index.
15	1609—10 1610	7—8 Jac. I. 8 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—144	Consisting of 145 leaves, beside 3 unnumbered at the beginning; where is an Index or list of headings, by a different old hand, f. (2).
16	1610—11 1611	8 Jac. I. 9 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter.	ff. (1^b), 1—128	Consisting of 137 leaves, beside one not numbered at the beginning. There is no Index to this book.
17	1611—12 1612	9—10 Jac. I. 10 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—140	Consisting of 144 leaves, of which the last 4 are misplaced, so as to precede 6 other blank leaves at the beginning: it is destitute of Index.
18	1612—13 1613	10—11 Jac. I. 11 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—173^b	Consisting of 173 leaves, and 1 blank at the beginning; and destitute of Index.
*	1613—14	11—12 Jac. I.	Mich.	* *	Wanting.
*	1614	12 Jac. I.	Easter	* *
19	1614—15 1615	12—13 Jac. I. 13 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter.	ff. 1—146	Containing 147 leaves, beside 1 blank at the beginning. F. 146^a contains a list of "Orders wanting, and not yett abreviated." There is no Index.
20	1615—16 1616	13—14 Jac. I. 14 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—129	Containing 130 leaves, beside 1 blank at the beginning. F. 129^a contains a list of "Orders yett wanting, and not abreviated;" which is subscribed, "This booke examined w^th the Certificates." There is no Index. The margins (but not the writing) were slightly damaged at the beginning of the book; but are mended.
21	1616—17 1617	14—15 Jac. I. 15 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—118	Containing 140 leaves (except that ff. 120—133 are wanting, which probably were blank), and 2 blank leaves at the beginning. F. 140^a contains a rough list of "Orders wanting in this booke," many of which are struck out: it is subscribed, "This booke all examined by my selfe." There is no Index.
22	1617—18 1618	15—16 Jac. I. 16 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—71^b	Containing 75 leaves, beside 1 blank at the beginning. There is no Index; but at the end is a table of "Orders wanting," (f. 74^a), subscribed as in the foregoing book.
23	1618—19 1619	16—17 Jac. I. 17 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. (2^b), 1—148^b	Containing 149 leaves, beside 2 blank at the beginning. There is no Index, nor any such list as in the four preceding volumes. Under the first heading ("King's Roabes") is this note: "This book all ex^r by my selfe," f. (2^b).
24	1619—20 1620	17—18 Jac. I. 18 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. 1—90	Containing 92 leaves, beside 1 blank at the beginning. There is an Index, or list of headings, by a different old hand, at f. 92, which has been damaged, and since mended.
25	1620—1 1621	18—19 Jac. I. 19 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. (1^b), 1—69^b	This book consists of 71 numbered leaves, beside one extra at the beginning, which contains a list of headings, f. (1^b). It is bound, with No. 26 and 27, in one volume; but the leaves of the three books have been so confused by the binder, that with great difficulty their respective parts are found; and the whole volume needs to be unbound for the purpose of better arrangement. Ff. (1), 1—11, are prefixed to No. 27, the first leaves of which are transposed into their place.
*	1621—2	19—20 Jac. I.	Mich.	* *	Wanting.
*	1622	20 Jac. I.	Easter	* *
26	1622—3 1623	20—21 Jac. I. 21 Jac. I.	Mich. Easter	ff. (1), 1—73	Consisting of 73 numbered leaves, beside one at the beginning, which contains a list of headings; bound with No. 25 and 27, but their leaves are intermingled together. F. 38 has the lower half, which was blank, torn off.

27	1624—5	22—23 Jac. I. & 1 Car. I.	Mich.	ff. (2—3), 1—77[b]	Consisting of 88 numbered leaves, beside 3 of smaller paper, containing the list of headings, which have been mounted by the binder, and misplaced between ff. 5, 6, of that part of No. 26 which is prefixed to No. 25. F. 80 seems to be lost. It is almost impossible to describe exactly the confusion which pervades the whole volume.
28	1625	1 Car. I.	Easter	ff. (1—2), 1—58[b]	Consisting of 58 numbered leaves, beside 1 at the beginning and 17 at the end, which are blank. The Index is written on a sheet of smaller paper, which lies loose at the beginning. This is the only book of the whole series which has escaped the modern binder's hands: it is a thin book, in unboarded covers of vellum, damaged; which are thus inscribed in front: "Dormant privie Seales. Pasche j[mo] & Mich'is j[mo] 1625;" and indorsed thus: . . . . . "privie Seales. Pasche et Mich'is a° primo RR. Caroli."

30	1627—8	3—4 Car. I.	Mich.	ff. 1—53	Consisting of 55 leaves, the last of which contains a list of "Orders wanting this tearme." There is no Index.

* ALPHABETICAL ABSTRACTS of LETTERS of PRIVY SEAL, with Notes of the Issues made thereupon.

1	1620 to 1624—5	18 Jac. I. to 22—23 Jac. I.	Easter to Mich.	ff. 4—164	Consisting of 185 numbered leaves, whereof the 3 first, containing letter A, are lost, so that the first 10 and last 21 leaves, as the book now stands, are blank, with many others between the different letters, the beginnings of which are denoted by small labels of parchment. Bound in unboarded parchment, which is partly loose; it is not inscribed or indorsed. It refers, for every article, to the pages of No. 9 of the great Inrolment Books of Privy Seals.
2	1625 to 1627	1 Car. I. to 2—3 Car. I.	Mich. to Easter	pp. 1—519	Containing 526 pages, many of which, as well as 3 leaves at the beginning, are blank. It has been bound uniformly with the foregoing series of books, and lettered like them. It contains letters A—Y, and is perfect; but only the three last of the small labels remain. It refers to No. 10 of the great Inrolment Books of Privy Seals.

Letters of Privy Seal "Dormant. To aucthorise the Lo: Buckhurst and S[r] John Fortescue, duringe the vacancy of the Lo: Treasour[er]s office," (11 Aug. 40 Eliz. 1598.) f. (10).

* Dated 15 May, 41 Eliz.; recorded in the Pells Patent Book, No. 2, f. 9.

† "W[ch] is entered into the Pell of Exitus of Pasche xlj°." It may be here observed that, in the Issue Book, No. 4, f. 32, (as now first foliated), a second part of the Pell of Easter term is made to begin, with a fresh heading, the date of "Solis, xiij° die Maij, 1599," an account of the treasure then remaining in the hands of the four Tellers respectively, and of the appointment then made of Sir Thomas Sackville, Lord Buckhurst, to the office of Treasurer of the Exchequer, and a full entry of his Writ of assistance addressed to the Barons and Chamberlains of the Exchequer, dated 16 May, (one day later than his Patent;) all which are in Latin. The same record occurs in the Issue Roll of same term, word for word; but with the addition of an entry of the Letters Patent, following the Writ of assistance.

Mem. about moneys paid to "S[r] Henry Killigrew, one of the Tello[rs] for the revennew of the Lady Leniolxes landes in York," 20—31 Eliz.; with a reference to the "Pell of Introitus" (or Receipt), 35 Eliz. f. 140[a].

Mem. of Mr. Robert Tayllour's surrender of his office, as one of the Tellers, 31 May, in Easter term, 1 Jac. I. 1603; and of his several payments over to his successor Mr. Francis Egioke, down to 26 May, 2 Jac. I. 1604. f. 144b.

This last is written invertedly.

Six notes relating to the same or similar cases, of fees taken by the Auditor; with the dates of the times when the Clerk of the Pells obtained information thereof, in 1604. f. 119a.

Both these leaves were damaged by damp, and have been repaired: the first has lost its margins (and dates), having originally lined one of the covers of the book.

No. 10. Short note of a "tryall" in K. B., between the Earl of Nottingham and Lady Russell. f. (3)a.

No. 11. Notes of the fee paid by Richard Patrick "in Mr. Pytt's * office," upon receiving 40*l.* for the iron work about Queen Elizabeth's tomb; and of the "portage" of money received by Sir W. Brereton, and the fee by him paid to Sir V. Skynner. f. 139b.

* The Tellers' names were Cary and Egioke, by whom the issues in question were made: see the Issue Book, No. 18, under the dates 13 May and 9 July, 1606, set in the margin of these notes; which notes were evidently made for an invidious purpose by the Clerk of the Pells, and illustrate the longbred quarrel between him and the Auditor.

No. 21. Cancelled entries of two Orders, for payments, to Sir Edward Conway and others, sent on an embassy into Germany; and to the Treasurer of the Navy. (26 and 31 July, 1621.) f. 140b.

II. (ii.) 2.—Posting Books, (Second Series,) containing brief Entries of all Issues by Debentures, arranged under the names of the several Grantees; from 1718 to 1834.

Nature and Use of these Books.—These Books are in the nature of modern cash accounts, wherein, under the names of the several persons and corporations to which salaries, pensions, or perpetuities were payable, by virtue of Letters Patent, Sign Manual Warrants, or other Appointments recorded in the Patent Books, every payment thereof made was briefly entered, from time to time, in columns, after the manner of a merchant's or banker's account, only without sums total. The method is best illustrated by the following explanatory headings, written over the columns of a blank page, at the beginning of the first volume.

"Record^r or when paid.	For what Time.	To what Time.	Summe p^d."

Each page (which is thus divided into four columns) is superscribed with the name of a Grantee, the date of the Patent or other authority for payment, and the amount of the yearly allowance. Thus, the first entry in that volume begins, "The Prince of Wales, on 20,000*l.* per ann. Pat. 1° Oct^r. 1715." (No. 1, p. 1.) Then follow, the Commissioners of the Treasury,

Appendix II.

6. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, at the Rolls House.

II. (ii.) 2.—Posting Books (Second Series), containing brief Entries of all Issues by Debentures, 1718—1834.

the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Auditor, Clerk of the Pells, Tellers, and other officers of both Exchequers, the Judges and Officers of the Courts, Members of the Royal Family,* Officers of the Royal Household, political and foreign Ministers, Perpetuities, and Pensions. When any page was filled with entries, a new account was opened farther on in the book; and any person succeeding another in office was inscribed on the same page, so that his payments made one series with those of his predecessor. Though the arrangement follows a kind of regular plan, having relation to offices rather than names, yet the Index at the end of every volume makes the reference to any individual, by name, easy and certain.

The original use of these books was, to ascertain whether the Debentures were correct, when they were brought from the Auditor's Office to the Pell Office to be recorded, before they could be presented to the Tellers for payment. Every payment being posted into these volumes, at the same time that the Debenture was recorded at full length in the Pell of Issue, a double payment was prevented, by perceiving how late the last payment had been brought down; and these books gave that information immediately, without the trouble of searching the Pells. Hence the four earliest volumes are intitled, "Debenture Books," and the latest "Posting Books;" which latter, being a more appropriate name, is applied to the whole series by the Assistant Keeper, in preference; because there is a voluminous series of "Debenture Books" of the Auditor in his custody, which contain full copies of all Debentures, as they were made out and delivered by him to the parties applying for payment, and which contain the proper evidence of the making out of Debentures, though not of the issues of money to pay the same. Moreover, since the year 1782, the greater proportion of pensions has been paid by general Orders, in classes, founded upon Sign Manual Warrants, and not by individual Debentures; yet all such payments are regularly entered into these Posting Books. In the case of the principal Members of the Royal Family, the different modes of payment will appear by the following examples, taken from the beginning of No. 8:—

The Queen (Charlotte) by Debenture, upon three several Patents, dated 14 Nov. 1761, 18 Sept. 1762, 22 Aug. 1786; altogether amounting to 58,000*l.* a-year.

The Prince of Wales, or his Treasurer, by Order, upon a Privy Seal, dated 17 Nov. 1783; 50,000*l.* a-year.

The same, by Order, upon a Privy Seal, dated 28 July, 1787; 10,000*l.* a-year.

The same, for the Princess Charlotte, by Order, upon a Sign Manual, dated 4 June, 1801; 6,000*l.* a-year.

Henry Norton Willis, Esq., Comptroller and Paymaster for the Princess Charlotte (on the revocation of the foregoing,) by Order, upon a Sign Manual, dated 14 July, 1806, 6,000*l.* a-year; and farther (in the stead of the same) by Debenture, on a Sign Manual, dated 17 Sept. 1806, 7,000*l.* a-year.

Although these books are not (strictly speaking) Records, any more than the foregoing series, yet they afford good primâ facie evidence of the payments mentioned in them; and, being very compendious, they are highly useful for several important purposes. They serve as a guide both to the Patent Books and to the Pell of Issue: to the former they refer by means of the dates of the grants at the top of the pages; and to the latter voluminous records they direct with the utmost precision by the dates in the first column, which point out the day of the recordatur, or inrolment of every issue. They help to show the death of the party, or other determination of his office or grant; they show who succeeded in every office, and when; and they have been found useful in ascertaining whether any and what arrears of pensions remained unpaid.

Period, and State of Completeness.—They begin at and from 25 March, 1718, [4 Geo. I.], and are complete to the abolition of the old Exchequer in 1834, excepting from March, 1757, to Michaelmas, 1760, the last three years and a half of the reign of George II., for which there is a chasm, and one book perhaps is lost, though the period is not half so long as the other books comprehend. Within the present century, the creation of several new classes of pensions required the simultaneous use of several volumes; and it is believed that all of them are perfect. It must be observed that there are some few old books remaining, among the Miscellaneous Pell Books, containing methodized entries of "Feoda, Annuitates," etc., which resemble those of the Auditor, described in the Second Report, App. II., pp. 243—6; but they are quite in a different form, and appear to be rather Books of Account, made up year by year; consequently they will be hereafter described among books of that nature.

Language.—They are all in English, and in plain writing.

General Description, and Condition.—They are all written on paper, except the Indexes of No. 7—11, which are written on fine thick vellum; and all are large volumes in folio. The first six are bound in parchment, and are of the same size and general description as the Issue Books of the time, only about double their thickness: the three next are increased, in both height and thickness, to a very unwieldy bulk, and are strongly bound in leather; and the latest are lettered on the back, with gold letters. A particular description of each is given in the Inventory. Having been in constant use for many years at a time, they are much worn, but are in sound condition; the oldest, particularly No. 1, 2, and 6, have been recently repaired and strengthened, the loose leaves are fixed in, and the Indexes cleansed and guarded.

Arrangement.—They had been placed, at the Comptroller's Office, among the Auditor's Books; and the earlier volumes being unlike the later, both in name and in external appearance, they remained asunder, until all the 16 volumes were lately reduced into one series, and ticketed with numbers and dates by the Assistant Keeper.

* In most of the volumes these come first.

III.—Irrotulamenta, or Inrolments made by the Clerk of the Pells.

III. (i.)—The PATENT BOOKS, or Books of INROLMENT OF LETTERS PATENT, Royal Sign Manual Warrants for Pensions, Treasury Constitutions, and Appointments to Offices, for the periodical issuing of moneys out of the Exchequer; recorded in the Pell Office, from 1597 to 1834.

III. (i.)—The Patent Books, or Books of Inrolment of Letters Patent, Royal Sign Manual Warrants for Pensions, Treasury Constitutions, and Appointments to Offices, 1597—1834.

Nature and Use of these Books.—The invariable course and order of the Exchequer, respecting payments, was grounded on this fundamental principle, that no payment could be made out of the Receipt, unless authorized by the King's Precept under either the Great Seal or the Privy Seal. In ancient times, the payment of salaries and pensions, from time to time, was made by Writs of the Great Seal, issued out of Chancery upon the passing of Letters Patent that granted any such salary or pension; and special payments were granted, for the most part, by Writs of Privy Seal; these were filed in two separate files, but made up into one bundle of Brevia, for the half year in which they were issued and filed. Consequently the monies were received at the Exchequer by the several grantees, without the necessity of recording, and probably without even the exhibition, of their Patents at the Exchequer.

When the system of paying by Debentures was invented and adopted, it became needful that the officer, to whom the preparation of them was confided, should have entries of all Letters Patent in his office, for the purpose of making out those papers from time to time, in the right names, by the right descriptions, and to the true amount of the several allowances. So far as the Assistant Keeper can yet ascertain, it seems that this system was adopted at Michaelmas, 19 Hen. VIII., 1527; and certainly from that time, to the abolition of the old Exchequer, all such Patents were entered in the office of the Tally Writer or Auditor, by whom the Debentures were made and signed. At that period, the Pell of Issue had been discontinued; and, so far as the Issues were concerned, the only system of controlment or cheque consisted in the comparison of the Tellers' yearly Accounts, with their Vouchers; which was done by the Tally Writer, who thence obtained the title of Auditor of the Receipt. This was, however, an imperfect system; because the final examination of the Accounts of Issues was thereby intrusted to the same officer, who had drawn the Debentures and Orders, whereon the payments were made; and there was no sufficient provision against a mistake or wrong on his part, except in the supervision of the Lord Treasurer and Under-Treasurer of the Exchequer.

At length, after many struggles, the Pell of Issue was revived and restored, at Michaelmas, 39 Eliz., 1597;* and this measure, which was one of the latest acts of Lord Treasurer Burghley, was so complete, as to enable the Clerk of the Pells fully to control all the receipts and payments of the Tellers, and all the acts of the Auditor. He was authorized, not merely to record the fact of every issue, but to ascertain its correctness, by comparing every Debenture and every Order, with its respective authority under the Great Seal or the Privy Seal, and to mark it with his recordatur, before the money could be paid by the Tellers. Such was the fact, as the measure was forthwith carried into effect; although the terms of the Letters of Privy Seal "for the restoringe of the Pell of Exitus," (dated 24 March, 39 Eliz., 1596-7,*) directed only that this Pell should "be written and kepte" by the Clerk of the Pells, "with all and singuler the services, functions, and rightes, to the same belonginge." An alteration of the method of paying pensions and salaries, having taken place since the former keeping of the Pell of Issue, it became needful, therefore, for the Clerk of the Pells, as well as the Auditor, to have entries of all Letters Patent relating thereto; and they have been regularly recorded in his office, and entered in the Auditor's office from that time. Nor did the Act of Parliament passed in 1697, "for the better observation of the course anciently used in the Receipt of the Exchequer,"† which required the Clerk of the Pells to "duely enroll or record all Letters Patentes, and Letters of Privy Seale for issuing of the Kinges treasure," make any alteration in the practice of those offices, in this respect; but the same course continued, from 1597, to the abolition of both offices in 1834.

* See the notice Introductory to the Inventory of Pells Issue Books, in the Third Report, App. II. p. 173—4.

The contents of these volumes are, principally, all Letters Patent, granting wages, fees, salaries, or pensions, either for life or during pleasure, payable out of the Receipt of the Exchequer; together with all Contracts between the Crown and the subject, for the out-payment of any public moneys, and between the Treasury and the Bank of England for the circulation of Exchequer Bills, or for other purposes, requiring any payments to be made out of the Exchequer from time to time. There are, likewise, all such Sign Manual Warrants for payments, as were not granted on Privy Seals, but operated as Letters Patent; in which form almost all pensions, since the year 1782, have been granted, and all diplomatic salaries in recent times; though formerly they were granted, the former under the Great Seal, the latter under the Privy Seal. There are also Surrenders and Revocations of any of the aforesaid instruments; excepting certain Surrenders of the reign of James II., which are entered in one of the Privy Seal Books. (No. 21.) These Books also contain all Constitutions by Lords Treasurers or Commissioners of the Treasury, Deputations and other appointments in the Exchequer, and all other Appointments to offices under the Crown, upon which payments were made by Debenture at the Receipt of the Exchequer.

Here it must be observed, that Letters Patent, and other instruments, relating to payments out of the Revenues before they reached the Exchequer, or to payments to be made into the Exchequer, at least during the reigns of Charles II., James II., and William III., were not entered in the Great Inrolment Books now under description, but in a supplemental series, which will be noticed in a subsequent Inventory. (III. iv.)

The importance of these records is very great, for historical, biographical, and genealogical purposes; and, being in the form of books, properly indexed, they are almost as easy of reference as the great collection of records in Rymer's Fœdera; the use of which for domestic purposes, consists greatly in the official patents that are contained in its latest volumes, however the introduction of such documents, among those properly relating to foreign affairs and policy, may have been inconsistent with the original design of that work. For such historical, biographical, and genealogical purposes, these books are not only more accessible and convenient than the Patent Rolls of Chancery; but they are more complete, in two respects: for, first, the entries are made from the original Patents themselves, (not from the Writs or Signed Bills,) and include all the clauses at full length, many of which are given in an abridged form in the Chancery Enrolments; and secondly, they contain a large proportion of grants and documents, which are not recorded in the Patent Rolls, or any other Roll of Chancery. The inquirer may also be confident of finding, in these volumes, every grant of office, dignity, pension, or other emolument, in what form soever it was made, by virtue whereof periodical payments were required to be made out of the Exchequer, during the whole period through which they extend. It will be observed, also, that there is a constant correspondence kept up, between these Books and the Issue Books, or Pells of Issue; the latter records referring always, for the authority of their payments, either to Letters Patent recorded in these Books, or to Letters of Privy Seal recorded in the other series of Inrolment Books.

Period, and State of Completeness.—In a return made by Mr. Ellis, Clerk of the Pells in 1831,‡ it is stated, that the records of "The Patents," begin "in the reign of Philip and Mary;" but Mr. Devon, both in his Report on the Pell Records,§ and in the Introduction to his translation of the two Issue Rolls of 44 Edw. III.‖ says, of both the Patents and the Privy Seals, that "These Books and Rolls commence in the first year of King James I." Both these accounts are erroneous. The former may, perhaps, be accounted for, by the appearance of some of Philip and Mary's Patents in the earliest volume, which contains also some of the foregoing reign of Edward VI.; but the very title and indorsement of that book, distinctly, mention the name of Queen Elizabeth; and it is quite certain that the Clerk of the Pells could not have had an earlier record, of this kind, than the first one described in the following Inventory. Indeed the Return made in 1800, by the then Deputy Clerk of the Pells, correctly places the beginning of "The Patents, in Queen Elizabeth's reign;"¶ that is, at Michaelmas, 39 Eliz., 1597, simultaneously with the revival of the Pell of Issue; from which time these Records of Patents are perfect down to the abolition of the office, 10 October, 1834; on which day the three latest documents were recorded and examined, being Sign Manual Warrants of William IV., preceded by three Indentures relative to King Leopold's annuity of 50,000*l.*, which were recorded on the same day, but examined on the 21st of April, 1835. It is most remarkable that all the Records of Patents made in this office, from the breaking out of the Civil War to the restoration of Charles II. inclusively, are preserved: for both the paper book written in the Exchequer at Oxford, and the great book of the Protectorate, are included in the series here described; the particular contents of which are fully detailed in the calendars annexed to this Inventory. The Auditor's Patent Books of that eventful period are not extant; but his inrolments, though far less complete as a series than those of the Clerk of the Pells, supply all that is deficient in the latter, by reason of arrears of business, left unfinished in the year 1642.

Language.—Until the abolition of the use of the Latin language in public records, in 4 Geo. II., almost all Patents granting offices and pensions were in Latin; Commissions, Indentures, and some other documents under the Great Seal, were, however, in English. Since that time, all the instruments recorded in these Books are in English, except only the Treasury Constitutions for the office of Auditor or Tally Writer, which were continued in Latin to the year 1834,* and for that of the Clerk of the Pells down to 1802,† by virtue of the Statute (6 Geo. II., c. 6), which enabled the Receipt of the Exchequer to continue the use of Latin as before. The titles of the volumes are always in Latin.

General Description and Condition.—They are very large and heavy volumes, in folio; bound in rough brown leather, with brazen corners, bosses and clasps; and the backs are coated with buff leather, and lettered with gold letters, thus—"Irrot. Patent," adding the King's or Queen's name. They are all written on vellum, except No. 1, 2, and 11, which are on paper. The last of these is fully described in its place; the first differs from the general description only in its material and size, being a smaller volume; and the second was stripped of its old covers by the binder at Whitehall Yard, and bound up with a fragment of an Auditor's Patent Book, which is now separated from it, and restored to the volume to which it belongs, being No. 9 of the series found in the Vault.‡ They are all in sound and excellent condition.

Though these volumes are called "Inrolments," yet they are, in fact, Register Books. The term "to inroll," was, in the age when they were begun, often used synonymously with the verb "to record;" but in the reign of James I. its obvious impropriety seems to have led to the actual use of rolls for the entry of Patents and Privy Seals, as is already shown; nevertheless the convenience of books was found so much greater, for constant official use, that the rolls were soon laid aside, although the term inrolment was yet kept up.

Here it may be observed that the first volume evidently consists of two paper books, which were bound together uniformly with the rest, about the end of Queen Anne's reign, as appears by the type used for the lettering of all the volumes to that time. (No. 1—26; excepting No. 11, and perhaps No. 2.) Its numerous entries are written in a more cursive hand than in the subsequent books; and that they were made directly from the original Patents, is manifest from one of those documents, which was never restored to the party, but was found among the contents of the Vault at Somerset House. It is "A Patente during lyfe, graunted unto Christofer Slade, gent,"§ whereby he had an allowance of 12*d. per diem.* On the right side of the fold, at the foot of the document, appears the following memorandum, in the handwriting of the Clerk of the Pells:—"Irr' p: Chi: Wardoure Clericum Pellium, xxiiij^to. die Dec. A° RR^ne Eliz. quadrages°, 1597." This was done in imitation of the Auditor's autograph note of the "Inrolment," or entry of the same Patent, in his office, almost eleven years before; which is thus inscribed on the left side of the same fold:—"Irr' in Thesauraria Recept. octavo die Martij, anno regni regine Eliz. xxx^mo. Per Robertum Petre."‖ The same order of recording was observed to the very last; namely, that all documents recorded in the Receipt of the Exchequer were taken, first to the Auditor's office, and to the Pell office afterward. With respect to the book, No. 2, it may also be observed, that, though by the title it professes to contain the entries made in the reign of Elizabeth and time of Lord Treasurer Buckhurst, yet there are many to the very end of her reign entered in No. 1; for example, one of 31 January, (f. 221^b), two of 3 February (f. 223^b, 226^b), one of 16 February (f. 222), and two of 20 March (f. 223, 228), all in the 45th year of Queen Elizabeth, 1603. The total number of Patents in the first book, later than the 39th year of Queen Elizabeth, is 22; there are three entries that are not Patents, at ff. 19^b—20, 196^b, 210—1.

Arrangement.—At Whitehall Yard these books were mixed up with the Privy Seal Books, reign by reign, but without strict chronological order; and so they were numbered in one series, as may be seen in Mr. Devon's Catalogue. They are now separated, arranged chronologically, and ticketed with printed tickets both on the back and within the cover of each volume. They form, together with the Privy Seal Books, (which are labelled and arranged in like manner,) a very noble collection of registers, of the highest importance to the financial and general history of this country.

* The appointment of Lord Auckland, dated 14 January, 1834, recorded in No. 46, f. 158.

‡ See the Second Report, App. II. p. 207.

§ So indorsed; in good condition, only the seal is lost. The first payment upon this grant which appears in the Pell of Issue, was made 21 October, 1597, for one quarter ended at Michaelmas, 39 Elizabeth, with a reference to the date of the Patent. (Issue Book, No. 1, f. 39.)

The first 19 entries are all dated in the 40th year; the 20th is dated 3 Feb., 41 Eliz., so that this book appears to have been used to enter the new Patents, which came into the Exchequer during the progress of entering the accumulation of old Patents in the foregoing book. This book is not in old binding, but was injudiciously bound up with a fragment of an Auditor's Patent Book, (see Report, 1841, App. ii., p. 207, No. 9,) which has been lately removed.

*	[Annunc. 7 Jac. 1. Annunc. 8 Jac. 1. Annunc. 9 Jac. 1.] From March, 1609, To March, 1611-12.	* *	* *	* *	* *	The Letters Patent recorded by the Clerk of the Pells, in the 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th years of James 1. (1608—1611), were entered in Rolls (not in books), together with the Letters of Privy Seal of the same period. Those of the tenth year are entered, in the same indiscriminate manner in the Privy Seal Book, No. 6. See the respective Inventories.
4	[Annunc.11Jac.1?] From 1613, To 1616.	. . . . 24 Jan. 10 Jac. 1 24 Feb. 10 Jac. 1 17 Nov. 9 Jac. 1 5 June, 11 Jac. 1	. . . . . 14 Dec. 13 Jac. 1 20 Nov. 10 Jac. 1 23 Dec. 13 Jac. 1 17 Feb. 13 Jac. 1	173 157	ff. 1—19 ff. 21—157^b	The 173 entries at the beginning of this book (which are not noticed in the third column), are Recognizances made by Baronets, for the payment of portions of their creation-money, dated from 4 June to 16 Sept., 9 Jac. I, 1611; they are almost all cancelled, and the dates of the tallies of Sol, by which they were vacated, are set in the margins. Three blank pages follow, and there is no heading to this book. The two first entries, of which the dates are mentioned in the third column, are not Patents, but Deputations made by one of the Chamberlains of the Exchequer. F. 28 is almost all blank; the entry, a large Patent, being left unfinished. The Index occupies ff. 158—160 at the end. On vellum.
5	[Annunc. 13 Jac.1] From 1615, To 1619.	11 Mar. 13 Jac. 1 2 Nov. 13 Jac. 1 2 Mar. 13 Jac. 1 23 Mar. 13 Jac. 1	23 July, 4 Jac. 1 17 July, 10 Jac. 1 11 Jan. 16 Jac. 1 25 June, 2 Jac. 1†	166	ff. 1—145	The Index occupies three out of five leaves at the beginning; and the title is thus briefly inscribed on the first following page:—"Patentes de annis decimo tertio, decimo quarto, decimo quinto." The book evidently includes the sixteenth year also. On vellum. † This last Patent is entered by a different hand, and subscribed thus:—"Irrotulat^r xvj^to Febr. 1641." It is the only entry in the volume, that shows the date of its inrolment.
*	17 Jac. 1. 1619, 1620.	* *	* *	* *	* *	There is a separate Roll for the Patents of the seventeenth year of King James 1, 1619-20. See the Inventory of those Rolls, (iii.) No. 6.

Jac. 1	26 July, 21 Jac. 1 12 Apr. 22 Jac. 1 18 Oct. 22 Jac. 1 10 Dec. 22 Jac. 1	211	ff. 1—176	Thus headed:—"L're Patentes Domini Regis Jacobi, de annis decimo octavo, xix^o. xx^mo. xxj^mo." (f. 1^a.) This book also includes the 22nd year, to the end of the King's reign. The Index occupies three pages at the beginning, and three blank leaves precede it; all on vellum. There is a separate Index, or Alphabetical Abstract of this book, uniform with the Abstract Books of Privy Seals, described at the end of the Inventory of Posting Books, First Series. (No. 1, 2.) It is a folio volume, written on paper, bound in a parchment cover, neither indorsed nor inscribed; but the title is thus ingrossed on the third leaf:—"Abreviatio Literarum Patentium pro annis decimo octavo, decimo nono, vicesimo, vicesimo primo, vicesimo secundo." (18—22 Jac. 1.)

No.	Term when begun, and Period of Inrolment.	Date of First Entries.	Date of Last Entries.	No. of Entries.	Leaves or Pages.	Title, Index, and Description.
7	[East. 1 Car. 1] From Apr. 1625, To Nov. 1629.	16 Apr. 1 Car. 1 6 Apr. 1 Car. 1 9 Apr. 1 Car. 1 14 May, 1 Car. 1	19 Feb. 3 Car. 1 19 Mar. 6 Car. 1 9 Sept. 5 Car. 1 11 May, 7 Car. 1	292	ff. 1—187[b]	"Irrotulamenta L'rarum Domini Regis CAROLI Patentium, de annis primo, secundo, tertio." (f. 1[a].) The Index occupies three pages at the beginning. On vellum. The book evidently includes a longer period than is stated in this heading; for the date of inrolling the first entry is subscribed thus:—"Irr. 25° Aprilis, 1625," and the two entries on f. 186[b] were inrolled 18 and 20 Nov. 1629, respectively. The three entries on the last leaf were made after the next book was begun; one of them being "Irr. 21 Martij, 1630[-1,]" but the others not subscribed.
8	From Nov. 1629, To Aug. 1637.	24 Sept. 5 Car. 1 23 Aug. 4 Car. 1 22 July, 6 Car. 1 28 Mar. 4 Car. 1	9 May, 12 Car. 1 19 Apr. 13 Car. 1 11 July, 13 Car. 1 27 June, 12 Car. 1	212	ff. 1—140	"Irrotulamenta L'rarum Domini Regis Caroli Patentium, de annis quinto, sexto, septimo, octavo, nono, &c., decimo, undecimo."—The two last words were added after this title was first ingrossed on f. 1[a]. The Index fills two of the six spare leaves at the beginning. On vellum. The second entry was "Irr. 30 Novembr. 1629;" and the last but ten entries was "Irr. 18° Aug. 1637." This is the first volume in which the dates of the recording of the Patents are set down; yet they do not invariably occur.
9	From June, 1637, To . . . 1642.	28 Mar. 12 Car. 1 10 May, 12 Car. 1 22 Feb. 12 Car. 1 1 May, 13 Car. 1	21 Sept. 15 Car. 1 9 Oct. 14 Car. 1 8 Feb. 17 Car. 1 4 Feb. 17 Car. 1 . . . 17 Car. 1	126	ff. 1—85	Without title. The Index occupies ff. 177[b]—180, at the end. Ff. 73—78, greatest part of f. 83, and all 85[b]—177[a], are left blank; the last entry, a "Commission granted for the mannaging of his Ma[tes] revenue in the vacancy of a Lo. Tr'er," being left unfinished. (f. 84[b]-5[a].) The only date of inrolment, which appears in this volume, is that of the sixth entry, "Irr. xxiij[tio] die Junij, anno xiij[tdo]." [1637.] f. 4[a]. On vellum. The lower corners of the leaves have been damaged by damp.
10	From . . . 1637, To . . . 1642? (Supplementary.)	22 Mar. 9 Car. 1 28 Nov. 11 Car. 1 2 Oct. 11 Car. 1 21 Dec. 7 Car. 1	8 Mar. 14 Car. 1 26 Dec. 14 Car. 1 14 May, 15 Car. 1 18 May, 16 Car. 1	35	ff. 1—154	Without title. This appears to be a supplementary volume, used for the purpose of fetching up arrears of inrolments, which were evidently in an irregular state at this time; it contains chiefly Indentures with the Crown, and other large grants, of which the 10th, 12th, 22nd, and 28th entries are left unfinished; and ff. 49[b]—84[b], 90[b]—105, 129[a], 139—141[b] are left vacant (besides ff. 3, 143,) to complete them. The Index, 3 pages, is prefixed. On vellum. The only date of inrolment is at f. 24[b], thus:—"Irr. 2[do] Maij, 1637."
11	From Mar. 1642-3, To June, 1646. (At Oxford.)	3 Mar. 18 Car. 1	1 June, 22 Car. 1	17	pp. 1—35	A paper book, in smaller folio, containing 170 pages, and bound in a parchment cover, which is thus inscribed:—"Inrollment of His Ma[tes] L'res Patents for Fees and Annuities." It has no heading; the Index occupies pp. 161—4. A Calendar of the contents of this unique and important volume is annexed to this Inventory: see pp. 187-8. The dates of the several inrolments are therein set forth, as subscribed to the several entries.
*	* *	* *	* *	*	*	From the surrender of Oxford, in June, 1646, to the re-establishment of the Receipt of the Exchequer, by the Protector Oliver, at Mich., 1654, there was a cessation of the business of the Pell Office; consequently there are no inrolments of that period.
12	Mich. 1654. From Oct. 1654, To July, 1660.	21 August, 1654 31 August, 1654 27 October, 1654 27 October, 1654	4 July, 12 Car. 2 11 July, 12 Car. 2 10 July, 12 Car. 2 13 July, 12 Car. 2	171	pp. 1—244	Without title. There is an Index at the end, occupying pp. 393—8; and a duplicate of it, by a later hand, fills three leaves at the beginning. Pages 173—6, 220—3, 237—241, and 245—403, (excepting the Index,) are left blank; the number "77" has been omitted in the old paging. A copious account of the contents of this unique and valuable book, showing also the dates of the inrolments, may be found in the Calendar subjoined to this Inventory, pp. 189-200. The volume is lettered, "IRROT. PATENT. OLIVARI."
13	From July, 1660, To Jan. 1661-2.	19 June, 12 Car. 2 4 July, 12 Car. 2 11 July, 12 Car. 2 13 July, 12 Car. 2	28 Nov. 13 Car. 2 28 Nov. 13 Car. 2 28 Nov. 13 Car. 2 16 Jan. 12 Car. 2	389	ff. 1—199	"Irrotulamenta Literarum Domini Regis CAROLI SECUNDI Patentium, incept. secundo die Julij anno regni sui duodecimo, annoque Domini 1660. Prenobili Thoma Comite South'ton, Summo Anglie Thesa[u]rar. existen. Willielmo Wardour, armigero, Clerico Thesaurar. alias Clerico Pellium ibidem."—Such is the heading prefixed to this volume, but it is evidently inappropriate to the earliest contents of the book; for, though Mr. Wardour may have been restored to the duties of his office on the second of July, there is no inrolment so early, and the Lord Treasurer here named was not then appointed. The first entries are:—The Commission for the Treasury, directed to Sir Edward Hide and others, dated 19 June, 12 Car. II., inrolled 20 August, 1660; five grants re-entered from the cancelled portion of the foregoing volume, each subscribed with the same date of inrolment, as is set forth in the aforementioned Calendar of those entries, viz. 4—19 July; next, Wardour's Patent, dated 22 Aug. 12 Car. 2, inrolled 12 Sept. 1660; and then the Earl of Southampton's two Patents, one for the office of Lord Treasurer, dated 8 Sept., the other for that of Under Treasurer, in addition, dated 12 Sept. 12 Car. 2, both inrolled 17 Sept. 1660. (ff. 4[a], 4[b].) Nevertheless, other entries follow, which purport to have been recorded in August; so that, it may be conjectured that paper copies of all these documents were taken, and that these dates of Irrotulatur were the dates of the copies. The last entry but one in the book, was recorded 6 Jan. 1661[-2]; but the last entry was made eleven years afterward, being subscribed thus:—"Irr. xxviij. Junij, 1673." On vellum; except the Index, which occupies four leaves of paper at the end of the volume.

(&c. as before.) The Irrotulatur of the first entry is dated 7 Jan. 1661[-2], and that of the last but one, 8 Feb. 1663[-4]. On vellum; but the Index occupies five leaves of paper at the beginning.

CALENDAR of the "Inrollment of His Majesties LETTRES PATENTS for Fees and Annuities," recorded by the CLERK OF THE PELLS, in the Exchequer holden at OXFORD, from 1643 to 1646. (No. 11.)

 The Pells Patent Book, No. 11, which contains the entries described in the following Calendar, is inscribed with the title quoted above, on its parchment cover.

Beyond five parts of the Patent Roll of the 18th year of King Charles I., in which occur 51 Patents tested at Oxford, there are no Inrolments of Patents now extant in Chancery, for the whole period from the King's arrival there in October, 1642, to the surrender of Oxford in 1646; excepting only one solitary Roll of the 20th year, containing 13 Patents: all the other Patent Rolls have perished. The only evidence, therefore, of what actually passed the Great Seal, throughout that period, consists in the respective Docket Books of the Clerk of the Crown and the Clerk of the Patents; which were printed by order of the late Commissioners on the Public Records, under the editorship of the present Assistant Keeper; but the work is not yet published.* In the Appendix of the Introduction to that work will be found copies of all the Patents that the editor was able to collect, from originals and from transcripts, in order to supply the loss of those records; the latter (transcripts) comprise all the creations of peerage, of one of which, Earl Scarsdale's, two records have been since found in the Patent Books of this office.† But the volume, of which the contents are here enumerated, is altogether a new discovery; and, few though the entries are, there is none other record or copy of them known. They are indeed all (except the fifth document, which is a Sign Manual Warrant, and the sixteenth, which is a Treasury Constitution,) briefly entered in the Docket Books afore mentioned; and the dates, there given, correspond with the copies entered in this Inrolment Book.

The dates, expressing the time when the Inrolments were made by the Clerk of the Pells, are given in this Calendar, exactly as they are subscribed to the documents, in every case where they occur. Upon examination of the Docket Books above mentioned, it will be found that most of the Patents were of such a nature, as, either not to require entry in the Exchequer, or to have been unavailing for payment, in the then impoverished state of the King's treasury. Hence Lord Scarsdale's was not recorded until after the Restoration of Charles II., for the payment of his "creation money," or annuity of 20*l.*, granted by his patent of peerage aforesaid.

CALENDAR of LETTERS PATENT passed under the Great Seals of OLIVER CROMWELL and RICHARD CROMWELL, successively Lords Protectors of the Commonwealth of England, and by the KEEPERS OF THE LIBERTY OF ENGLAND, until the restoration of King CHARLES II.; recorded in the Patent Book of the Pell Office. (No. 12.)

 The following Calendar is constructed (excepting the five last entries) from the dockets written in the margin, at the head, and along the sides, of the several entries; with the addition of such words within brackets, or exclusively of inverted commas, as are needful to complete the sense. The dates of the documents, and of the times of their respective entries in the book, are given in separate columns, with references to the pages of the book.

There is an Index of names of Grantees, at the end of the volume; and a duplicate of the same, in a less ancient hand, at the beginning.

It must be observed that all those Patents which are marked with a star prefixed, in this Calendar, are in the nature (and partly in the form) of Letters of Privy Seal, being addressed unto the Commissioners of the Treasury, who are named in the ninth entry, (under date 3 Aug. 1654,) for the issuing of specific sums of money. Some of them relate to pensions. Few of them are later than the 7th of July, 1655, which is the date of the earliest document entered into the Privy Seal Book of the Protectorate: the first inrolment in that book is dated 18 July, 1655. (Privy Seal Books, No. 13.)

 These five entries are cancelled with strokes drawn through them; and the following note is at the end of the last:—"Vacantur, quia Irrotulantur in alio libro, Anno duodecimo Caroli Regis Secundi." (p. 244.) They may be found, accordingly, in No. 13, ff. 2–3; being the first entries next after the Commission for the Treasury, dated 19 June, and inrolled 20 August, 1660; and they have the same dates of inrolment in that book as here, although the first stands fifth, and the fifth stands third, in that book. All the rest of this volume (No. 12) is left blank, except the Index at the end.

† Five blank pages follow this entry; and the next page begins with a space for a heading, but there is none.

III. (ii.)—The PRIVY-SEAL BOOKS, or Books of Inrolment of LETTERS OF PRIVY SEAL, and ROYAL SIGN MANUAL WARRANTS grounded thereon, for the payment of moneys out of the Exchequer; recorded in the Pell Office, from 1597 to 1834.

Nature and Use of these Books.—The principle, on which the Pell of Issue was re-established, having required every authority for the payment of money to be recorded in the Pell Office, the course of business observed by the Auditor was followed, in the distinction between Letters of Privy Seal and Letters Patent under the Great Seal; and, consequently, the records of the former constitute the second class of Inrolment Books of the Clerk of the Pells, as it has been already shown that they did in the Auditor's Office.* These volumes, therefore, contain entries of all Letters of Privy Seal addressed to the Treasurer and Chamberlains of the Exchequer, for the payment of any moneys out of the Receipt of the Exchequer. Whatever may be the merit of the opinion, they have, in fact, been always esteemed Records of higher importance and authority than those of the Auditor; who, having entered these Writs or Letters in the Books of his office, transmitted them to be recorded in the Pell Office; and to whose duty it afterward belonged to file and retain them, and to make out the Orders for payment of the whole or part of the moneys specified therein, pursuant to Warrants of the Treasurer or Commissioners of the Treasury grounded on those Writs, the custody of which Warrants also belonged to the Auditor.

The nature of those payments which were made by virtue of Letters Patent under the Great Seal having been already explained, it must be evident that all the great and miscellaneous expenditure of the Crown was authorized by the Privy Seal: hence all payments for the support of the Royal household, and the dignity of the Crown, and for every branch of the state, (excepting of course yearly fees, salaries and annuities, and pensions,) all the expenditure relating to peace and war, the support of the navy, the administration of justice, the domestic and colonial government, and all foreign relations, must find their authority in these documents. It often happens that very numerous payments were made, from time to time, by Orders grounded on one single Writ; and this practice, which was to a considerable extent used at the very time when the Pell of Issue was re-established, was found so convenient, that Writs were issued solely for the purpose of authorizing such payments as should be directed either by the Lords of the Council, or by the King himself under his Royal Sign Manual. At length, since the restoration of Charles II., there were issued, at the beginning of every reign, Letters (or a Writ) of Privy Seal, for general purposes; on which were grounded the Royal Sign Manual Warrants relative to miscellaneous expenditure, throughout the whole reign. From that time, the Lord Treasurer or Commissioners of the Treasury having ceased to sit at the Exchequer, his or their own Warrants became needful for issuing money upon Royal Warrants, which were directed to them and the Chamberlains only; and thus the Royal Warrants were always recorded among the Privy Seals, (because they operated exactly in the same manner as those Writs,) while the Treasury Warrants were entered into records of a different class.

For purposes of general and particular history, and for genealogy, these volumes afford a vast fund of information, on every subject; and they may be consulted with ease, by means of the chronological guide, contained in the following Inventory, the Indexes with which they are furnished, and the marginal dockets which occur, especially in the earlier volumes. In addition to which, it is very desirable that a complete Index of Names, and another of Subjects, should be made, applicable to the whole series: but the work would be one of great labour, there being more than 40,000 entries contained in these volumes, many of which are long, and some of them accompanied with ample and most curious schedules. In the mean time it is proposed to copy the several Indexes of the respective volumes into one book, for the furtherance of researches in these valuable records. Their importance also will appear, from the fact, that Privy Seals were not recorded elsewhere than in the Receipt of the Exchequer: there are, indeed, books of entry containing them, at the Treasury Chambers, for the period subsequent to the restoration of Charles II., and there are Docket Books containing abstracts of them in the Privy Seal Office, from the year 1571; but none other public records, except the two series of Inrolments of the Auditor and the Clerk of the Pells. The like may be said of the Royal Sign Manual Warrants; of which indeed there is none other record at all, except in these two series of Inrolments, and such Entry Books as may be preserved at the Treasury Chambers.

As in the case of the Patents, so the Privy Seals of the Protectorate are peculiarly interesting. The book of that period (No. 13) contains entries of the Writs of Discharge for baronets created by Oliver and Richard, perhaps the only evidence of their creation now remaining on record. It was intended to subjoin a Calendar of the contents of that volume; but, for want of time, it must accompany a future Report.

Here it may be observed, that some Letters Patent occur in these volumes, which might not have been expected there. Some such, indeed, may have operated both as Patents and as Privy Seals; as Francis Carter's grant of the office of Chief Clerk of the King's works, with a yearly fee of 100 marks for life, recorded in No. 6, ff. 79*—81; the cause of this was, perhaps, that it authorized the payment of his travelling expenses, from time to time, in addition to his stipend. But there are other documents that appear to have been entered here by mistake; such as the Admission of a Master in Chancery, in No. 22, (noticed in the Inventory,) and the Patent of George Vernon, a Baron of the Exchequer, in No. 10, p. 312. It must be observed also, that all the Patents of the tenth year of James I. are entered among the Privy Seals of that time, in the Book No. 6, as stated in the Inventory.

Period, and State of Completeness.—The beginning of the Records of "Privy Seals and Signs Manual," was placed by Mr. Roberts in "1612;"* and the same statement was repeated by Mr. Ellis, in 1831.† Mr. Devon has placed their origin in the first year of James I. But these errors have arisen in consequence of not perceiving their intimate connexion with the Pell of Issue, and have been confirmed by the misplacing of the first volume among the Posting Books, with which it was bound uniformly, and lettered as stated in the Inventory, while at Whitehall Yard. It is now ascertained to comprehend entries in full of all the Privy Seals that were in force at the revival of the Pell of Issue, beginning with "The Dormant Pryvie Seale of anno secundo R. R^ne^ Elizabeth." dated 19th March, 2 Eliz. (1560.) Such of them, as were of this nature, are superscribed "Breve Dormiens." The contents of each document are docketed in the margins, and bear references to the Pell of Issue; and subsequent Privy Seals were entered in continuation, in the same book, to the end of Elizabeth's reign.

The period of James I. was found in great confusion, and attended with great difficulty. Some of his Privy Seals are recorded on rolls, partly with the Patents, and partly separate: some are in volumes; of which some are entered by entire and distinct years; others have little or no regularity at all. In the reign of Charles I. there had accumulated many years of arrears; so that, when the Officers of the Exchequer were summoned away to Oxford, the book then in use was left behind, destitute of all the entries which ought to have been made for almost six years foregoing. The Privy Seals of the Exchequer at Oxford are lost. For the earliest parts of Oliver's Protectorate, and of the reign of Charles II., respectively, the grants usually made by Privy Seal were made under the Great Seal, and are to be found in the Patent Books. From that time to October, 1834, they are perfect, and, for the most part, recorded with regularity and care: the only irregularities that occur are, one entry of a Privy Seal of Charles II. in a kind of supplementary book, containing Surrenders of Letters Patent in the reign of James II.; and nine entries of copies of Privy Seals, that were burnt in 1672, in a volume of Additional Recepta. These, and all other irregularities and defects, are pointed out in the Inventory.

It will appear, by the perusal of the Catalogue of Auditor's Privy Seal Books, given in the Second Report,‡ that those books begin earlier than the corresponding series now described, namely, at Michaelmas, 36 Eliz., 1594, three years before the revival of the Pell of Issue. Since, however, the preceding volume of that series has been discovered among the Pell Records, being the volume intitled thus, in Mr. Devon's MS. Catalogue, No. "12 a. Warrants of Queen Eliz. from 1569 to 1593, in English. Indexed." In reality it is the Auditor's Book of Inrolments of Privy Seals, from Michaelmas, 12 Eliz. [1570], to the end of Easter term, 36 Eliz. [1594]. Thus these documents may be traced back, in books, twenty-seven years earlier than the Pell Records afford; and in addition to the Auditor's Calendar of them, for the reigns of Henry VII. and VIII. (mentioned in the introduction to the preceding Inventory), there are thousands of original Privy Seals from Richard III. to George IV., inclusively, among the records of the Receipt of the Exchequer at the Rolls House.

Language.—All Letters of Privy Seal, within the period last mentioned, are in English; as also are all the Royal Sign Manual Warrants. There do not appear to be any Latin documents entered in these books.

General Description and Condition.—In size and appearance, both without and within, they are uniform with the Patent Books of the corresponding period, being written on vellum and strongly bound. Beside the first volume, however, three others are wholly on paper, No. 7, 8, 9. They are all in an excellent state of preservation; only it is to be regretted that the original binding of some of them is lost: for No. 1 has been already described; and No. 2 and 3 (which now make but one volume), No. 5, No. 7, and No. 9, have been rebound, so as to present an appearance quite unlike all the rest of the series. The first nine volumes are not so tall as the others.

Arrangement.—They were formerly mixed up with the Patent Books, but now constitute a separate series; all properly labelled with tickets, of which duplicates are pasted, for preservation and identity, within the covers.

III. (ii.)—Inventory of the Privy Seal Books, or Books of Inrolment of Letters of Privy Seal, and Royal Sign Manual Warrants grounded thereon, for the payment of Moneys out of the Exchequer; recorded in the Pell Office.

No.	Term when begun, and Period of Inrolment.	Date of First Entries.	Date of Last Entries.	No. of Entries.	Leaves or Pages.	Title, Index, and Description.
1	[Mich. 39 Eliz.] From Oct. 1597, To March, 1602-3. Including earlier entries throughout the reign of Elizabeth.	19 Mar. 2 Eliz. 27 Aug. 39 Eliz. 17 Aug. 39 Eliz. 17 Aug. 39 Eliz.	1 June, 43 Eliz. 3 May, 44 Eliz. 12 Nov. 25 Eliz. 28 Feb. 45 Eliz.	198	ff. (10[b]), 1—123[b]	The first volume is intitled only with the term in which it was begun; thus, "Termino S[ti] Michaelis Archangeli Anno RR[ne] Elizabethe xxxix[no] et xl[o]. 1597. Chi: Wardoure." This title is written twice, on f. (8[a]) after the Indexes, and on (f. 10[a]), which is the first leaf of the book, as originally made. The book consists of 142 leaves of paper, (whereof the last 18 are blank,) and 9 leaves prefixed; which latter contain two Indexes, the one referring to Letters of Privy Seal for payments out of the Exchequer, the latter to those authorizing "Assignaciones," (ff. 2-3, 3[b]-4.) It is a folio volume, of the same size as the first Patent Book, but not so thick; and not in the original binding, having been rebound uniformly with the First Series of Posting Books, and lettered "Dormant Privy Seals. Various years. Time of Elizabeth." It is in good condition. There are no dates of the times of recording the several entries, in this or the following ten volumes.
2	[Annunc.†1 Jac. 1.] From April, 1603, To March, 1604-5.	14 May, 1 Jac. 1 27 April, 1 Jac. 1 9 May, 1 Jac. 1 15 May, 1 Jac. 1	20 Mar. 2 Jac. 1 4 Mar. 2 Jac. 1 23 July, 2 Jac. 1 27 Nov. 2 Jac. 1	303	ff. 1—112	"Privata Sigilla Jacobi, Dei gratia, Anglie Scotie, Francie et Hibernie Regis, fidei defensoris, &c. Not in the original binding, but rebound with No. 3, in one volume, lettered thus, "Privy Seals, 1, 2, 3, & 4 Jam. I." † Although the Auditor's practice in the reign of James I. was, clearly, to begin his Inrolments at and from Easter, yet it seems that the Clerk of the Pells made his Inrolments, of that period, to begin with the beginning of the regnal year, namely, the 24th of March: hence the term of the Annunciation (25 March) seems preferable for use in this Inventory.
3	[Annunc. 3 Jac. 1.] From March, 1605, To March, 1606-7.	30 Mar. 3 Jac. 1 25 Mar. 3 Jac. 1 30 Mar. 3 Jac. 1 3 April, 3 Jac. 1	10 Jan. 4 Jac. 1 8 Jan. 4 Jac. 1 10 Jan. 4 Jac. 1 10 Jan. 4 Jac. 1	234	ff. 1—106	"Privata Sigilla de annis RR[is] Jacobi tertio, quarto."—Heading at f. 1. Prefixed is an abridgment of the contents, in the form of a Calendar, of all the entries in the book, having a page for every month; which is intitled, "Abbreviatio Privat. Sigill. per singulos menses de dat. eorundem: viz." extending from 26 "Martij 1605," to 17 "Martij 1606 & 1607." The 16 leaves containing it are now deranged; the 4th, 6th, 3rd, and 5th, being misplaced at the end of the volume, by the modern binder, who bound this and the foregoing book together. This Calendar occupies pp. 1-25, (as now numbered,) and the Index of names, pp. 26-31, following it. All on vellum.
4	[Annunc. 5 Jac. 1.] From March, 1607, To Sept. 1608.	25 Mar. 5 Jac. 1 28 Mar. 5 Jac. 1 28 Mar. 5 Jac. 1 20 May, 5 Jac. 1	6 Jan. 5 Jac. 1 3 Aug. 5 Jac. 1 10 June, 6 Jac. 1 25 June, 5 Jac. 1	179	ff. 1—112	"Privata Sigilla de annis quinto et sexto R. Regis Jacobi, 1607 et 1608."—Thus headed at f. 1; and part of the same title occurs, ingrossed on the third of 19 vellum leaves at the beginning, now marked page "1"; which is followed by the Calendar, or "Abbreviatio Privat. Sigill. per singulos menses," (&c. as in No. 3.) pp. 2-20, extending from 26 March, 1607, to 2 Sept. 1608 inclusively; and an Index, pp. 27-32. Pages 21-26 were prepared to continue the Calendar to March, 1608-9, but are left vacant. All on vellum: in the original binding, lettered "Privat. Sigill. Jacobi I[mi]." In good condition.
5	[Annunc. 6 Jac. 1.] From April, 1608, To May, 1609.	22 April, 6 Jac. 1 8 Sept. 6 Jac. 1 5 July, 5 Jac. 1 8 July, 6 Jac. 1	30 June, 4 Jac. 1 28 July, 6 Jac. 1 9 June, 1606 18 Aug. 7 Jac. 1	160	ff. 1—87[b]	"Privata Sigilla de annis sexto et septimo R. Regis Jacobi, 1608 et 1609."—Thus headed at f. 1. On vellum, consisting of 162 leaves, (whereof almost half is blank,) and 18 more prefixed, containing the Calendar or Abbreviatio, from "April 1608" to "Maij 1609," (pp. 3-31,) and part of a form for an Index, (letters N—Z, pp. 32-34,) which latter is not filled up. Prefixed to the Calendar is the following note: "Memorandum, there are diverse Privie Seales of Anno quinto entred in this booke of Anno vj[to], and abreviated in the monethes of this yeare, marked in the abreviation with this ☞." The Calendar contains also, in the months of April, May, June, and November, 1608, and March 1608-9, references to the membranes of the Roll No. 2, mentioned below, thus, "50 Rotulo 7°," "6 Rotulo vij°," &c. Rebound uniformly with the volume containing No. 2 and 3; and lettered in like manner: in good condition.

The last entry in the foregoing book belongs to the period of the first of these Rolls, viz. August, 1609.
6	[Annunc. 10 Jac. 1.] From Mar. 1611-2, To May, 1613.	24 April, 10 Jac. 1† 24 April, 10 Jac. 1† 5 June, 10 Jac. 1† 9 June, 10 Jac. 1	2 May, 11 Jac. 1 21 April, 11 Jac. 1† 9 Sept. 11 Jac. 1† 14 Aug. 11 Jac. 1† 20 Oct. 10 Jac. 1 26 Oct. 1612	206 33	ff. 1—104[b] ff. 106[b]-118	The greater portion of this book, containing the entries of the tenth year, has no title: but the following heading, for the eleventh year, occurs (after 3½ blank pages) occurs at f. 106[b], "Anno xj° R. Jacobi, 1613." On vellum, consisting of 120 leaves, beside 13 at the beginning, wherein are contained an Abbreviation or Calendar, from "March, 1612," to "February, 1612"[-3], with a vacant page for "March, 1612"[-3], (pp. 1-13;) and an Index. (pp. 14-19.) This volume is in excellent condition, in the original binding, lettered exactly like No. 4: it nevertheless is not merely a Privy Seal Book, but contains all the entries of Letters Patent of the tenth year, (which are wanting in the Patent Books,) and so affords a continuation of the mixed Inrolments contained in the Rolls immediately preceding it. All the dates, marked thus †, in the third and fourth columns, belong to Patents: those of 2 May and 20 Oct. alone belong to Privy Seals; the others being documents of different kinds.

Those of the 17th and 18th years follow, ff. 146–176, 176b–181. Only three entries of the sixteenth year occur, at f. 135: the others are on the Roll mentioned below. One leaf is blank between f. 180b, and 181b; and then, after many blank leaves, thirteen Writs of the 17th year are entered, being chiefly Baronets' Discharges. (f. 1.) After f. 17, begins a new foliation for the second part of the book, which has no title, and continues only through 30 leaves; of which indeed 3½ are blank, (pp. 8–11,) one entry being unfinished. Most of the entries in the second part are subscribed "Irrotulatur," but without any date of inrolment. This volume consists of 180 leaves of paper, all blank except the few above mentioned, and ff. 7, 8, which contain an Index to the Privy Seals, only not referring to the Warrants.

Pages 183—211 are vacant; and the written portion of the volume, which follows, containing the 21st and 22nd years, is headed "Brevia de Privato Sigillo, anno xxj° R. This volume contains Privy Seals of the 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th years, intermingled with some of earlier years. The first entry is the only one of the fourteenth year, which it contains: the last entry is unfinished, leaving part of p. 157, and all pp. 158–390, vacant, except that the Index occupies pp. 378–383. On vellum. More than half of this fine volume is blank.
*	[From May, 1638, To Feb. 1643.]	*		*	*	The only entry of a later date than the last in the foregoing book, (18 July, 1637,) is the first entry in it, dated 16 May, 1638. No Privy Seals of later date appear among the Records of the Clerk of the Pells till the time of Oliver; and it is evident, from the unfinished state of the last entry in No. 12, that the Clerk of the Pells was almost six years in arrear of this part of his business, when he was called to Oxford in Feb. 1643. The Auditor's Inrolments of Privy Seals of this period are extant, in the books No. 9 and 10; which were found in the Vault at Somerset House, and are described in the Second Report, App. II. pp. 214–15: they come down to 16 Aug. 18 Car. I., 1642, and appear to be complete to the close of the business of the Exchequer at Westminster.
*	[From Feb. 1643, To June, 1655.]			*	*	There is not extant any Record of the Letters of Privy Seal of Charles I. at Oxford. Doubtless they were inrolled by the Clerk of the Pells, as the Patents, Warrants, and Orders of the time were regularly recorded by him: but there are no Auditor's Records of that time existing to supply their loss. After the surrender of Oxford, in June, 1646, there were no Privy Seals in use, until the restoration of the ancient course of the Exchequer, by the Protector Oliver; and for some months after that event, from Michaelmas, 1654, to the beginning of July, 1655, his Great Seal was used in the stead of a Privy Seal. The documents of this class, therefore, for that short period, may be found recorded in the Patent Book No 12.

This volume contains the Privy Seals of the Protectorate. All those of Oliver have dates in the margin, showing when each was recorded: but those of Richard (pp. 252–304) have the dates of the documents themselves set in the margin, as also in that part of the Patent Book No. 12, which was written by John Pykering, Clerk of the Pells. The first entry was inrolled here, "July 18th, 1655;" and the last of Oliver, (except some few entered among those of his successor,) "Sept. xxijth, 1658." The first entry of Richard is left unfinished, on the same page. (p. 251.) It serves well in the stead of the Auditor's Privy Seal Book, No. 11, which is in a very damaged state: the latest entries correspond, except in order, with those of the Auditor's Privy Seal Book, No. 12; in the description of which this book is referred to. See the Second Report, App. II., p. 216. The volume contains 304 written pages, beside 14 blank leaves at the beginning, and 44 at the end: all on vellum. But there is no Index: a Calendar of its contents, therefore, will accompany the Inventories of the Pell Books in a future year. It is in excellent condition, in the original binding, and is lettered "Privat, Sigill., Olivari."

See also what is said on this subject, in the description of the Auditor's Privy Seal Book, No. 10; in the Second Report, App. II., pp. 214–5, and the note at p. 217.

The two last documents of the reign of James II. are,—A Privy Seal for Anthony Lord Falkland, Treasurer of the Navy; and the Admission of Roger Meredith, as a Master in Chancery, (which ought to have been entered in the Patent Book;) inrolled 21 and 24 Jan. 1688[-9]. There is no heading for the new reign: its two first entries were made 20 and 21 Mar. $168\frac{8}{9}$; and are,—A Privy Seal for "Lord Godolphin & al. to issue and pay out of the Exchequ^{r}, from time to time, such summes of money to the Navy, Forces, Ordnance, or for any other publick services, as the King by his Signe Manual shall direct;" and a "Signe Manuall for the Navy, Ordnance, &c.," grounded thereon. The dates of these documents are stated in the fourth and third columns. The first and last entries in the book, were made 5 Mar. 1686[-7], and 16 Mar. 1690[-1]. The first entry was made 3 Apr. 1691; the last but one, 3 Aug. 1694; and the last is entered by a different hand, without such date: it is a Deed whereby Ralph Earl of Montagu, constituted Charles Bland his Deputy Master of the Wardrobe, (f. 153$^{a b}$). 6. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, at the Rolls House.

Calendar of Letters of Privy Seal entered in one of the Receipt Books of the Pell Office, 1672-3.

CALENDAR of LETTERS of PRIVY SEAL, not recorded in the Privy Seal Books, but entered from copies of lost Originals, in one of the Receipt Books of the Pell Office, 1672—1673.

 In the Receipt Book, No. 515, (described among the Additional Recepta at the beginning of these Inventories,) are contained some entries of Privy Seals, made from copies, and not from the originals; because the latter were lost or destroyed by fire, in the Auditor's Office, before they could be transmitted to the Clerk of the Pells for inrolment. They occupy ff. 17—23b of that volume, as now foliated, and the pages are numbered from 1 to 10 by the old hand. Half of the first page is left vacant for a title. It is probable that they were but temporarily entered in that paper book, so that, in case the originals should be found, they might be duly recorded from the originals, in the great Inrolment Book; but that does not appear to have been done; and the following Calendar of them is consequently subjoined to the Inventory, as mentioned therein, in a note between No. 17 and No. 18.

Appendix II.

6. Inventories of the Books of the Pell Office of the late Receipt of the Exchequer, at the Rolls House.

III. (iii.) Patent and Privy Seal Rolls, 1603—1620.

III. (iii.)—INVENTORY of PATENT AND PRIVY SEAL ROLLS, or Rolls of Letters Patent, Privy Seals, and other Instruments relating to the Revenue and Expenditure of the Exchequer, recorded in the Pell Office, in sundry Years of King James I., from 1603 to 1620.

 In the foregoing Inventories of Inrolments, made in the form of Books, references have been made to certain portions of the two several series, existing in the shape of Rolls. The following are all the records of that form and description, that can be found among the contents of the late Pell Office, being six in number, and all of one reign.

It will be readily seen that three of them contain Patents and Privy Seals (together with the documents usually recorded with them), entered promiscuously, No. 2, 3, 4. One is a Patent Roll only, No. 6; one a Privy Seal Roll only, No. 5. The first (No. 1), which extends through the greater part of the reign of King James I., contains Patents, Privy Seals, and various other documents, promiscuously; but they are professedly distinguished in the title of the Roll as having relation principally to the Pell of Receipt: it is therefore related to the series of volumes which will be described in the next Inventory, not at present ready for publication. (III. iv.)

It may be here remarked, that No. 1 is the only roll made up in the form of the Pells of Receipt and Issue, or the Patent Rolls in Chancery: all the others are made up as the Rolls of the Exchequer of Account and the Courts of Law, and are written on both sides of the membranes.

No.	Period.	Title and Description of Roll.	Membranes	Entries.
1	2 Jac. I. to 12 Jac. I. [1604—1615.]	"Rotulus Warrant. tempore regni JACOBI Dei gratia Anglie Scocie Fraucie et Hibernie Regis, fidei defensoris &c. tam sub Magno quam sub Signeto et Privato Sigillo, cum al. Warran. Ordin. et Decret. domini Thesaur. et Cur. Scaccarij, Pell. Recept. maxime concernen. Chidioco Wardoure ar. et Edwardo Wardoure gen. Clericis Pellium."—Headed thus in an ingrossing hand; and indorsed in large Roman letters, "Rotul. Warran. Tempore RR^is Iacobi." At the head is annexed a membrane or schedule, containing an Index, or brief list of the contents, but omitting the first entry, which is the "Lo. Tre'r [Dorset's] Warrant to cancell tallies levied uppon the Cofferer's assignem^te, and in lieue thereof to levie others." (20 April, 1604.) The next is a Royal Sign Manual Warrant, dated 14 July, 4 Jac. I., 1606; and the fourth entry is the Exemplification of "An Acte of Parliament for assigninges of fyftie thousand poundes yearelie, for the expense of the Kinges howse," (1 Jac. I.) The last entries are,—a Warrant of Robert Earl of Salisbury, for the cancelling of tallies, and striking of others, dated 9 June, 1610; and three Orders of the Treasurer, Under-Treasurer, and Barons of the Exchequer, (acting under a Commission dated 5 Feb., 6 Jac. I., for compounding with the King's debtors,) two whereof were made in Mich. term, 12 Jac. I., and one in Hilary term, 12 Jac. I., which last is dated at the foot, 30 Jan. 1614[-5.] This large roll is made up of consecutive membranes, 12 inches wide, written on one side only. It is for the most part in good condition; but the last membrane and two others are torn, and need repair. The dorse is sewn to the head of the roll.	73	45
2	From Annunc. 7 Jac. I., to Annunc. 8 Jac. I. [1609-10.]	"Brevia de Magno et Privato Sigillo, et alia Mandata, de anno septimo RR^is Jacobi, 1609.—Thus headed; but wrongly indorsed thus, by an ancient hand,—"Brevia de Magno et Privato Sigillo, de anno sexto et septimo R. Regis Jacobi, 1608 & 1609." In this roll the Patents, Privy Seals, and other documents, are all entered together indiscriminately: the following dates, of the first and last entries, will show that this roll properly belongs to the year set forth in the second column:— 28 April, 7 Jac. I. [1609], Pat. 6 May, 7 Jac. I. [1609], Pat. 26 June, 7 Jac. I. [1609], Pat. * * * 19 Jan., 7 Jac. I. [1609-10] P.S., two of this date. 1 Aug., 7 Jac. I. [1609.] Charter of Robert Earl of Salisbury, granting the office of Usher of the Treasury of the Exchequer to John Hodgkin. The membranes of this roll are all written on both sides, and filed together at the head. M. 41 and m. 51 are	64	209 double numbers: greater part of m. 56 is blank, as are the last five following membranes, to the last of which (61) the dorse is sewn, which is decayed. There is an alphabetical Index prefixed, filling one membrane, which is not numbered: it is slightly torn, and many of the membranes want smoothing and trimming.

3	From Annunc. 8 Jac. I., to Annunc. 9 Jac. I. [1610–11.]	"Brevia de Privato et Magno Sigillo, et alia Mandata, de anno octavo R. Regis Jacobi, anno Domini 1610."—Thus indorsed by the ancient hand, but not headed. The entries are recorded indiscriminately, as before. The first and last entries (excepting those mentioned below) are dated as here following:—	58	215
		18 Aug., 7 Jac. I. [1609.] P.S. 20 Dec., 8 Jac. I. [1610.] Pat. 19 July, 7 Jac. I. [1609.] P.S. 12 April, 8 Jac. I. [1610.] P.S. } Mm. 1—4.

		9 Feb., 8 Jac. I. [1610–11.] P.S. 5 March, 8 Jac. I. [1610–11.] Pat. 17 Dec., 8 Jac. I. [1610] P.S. } Mm. 45, 46.
		This roll has been irregularly made up. The first 50 membranes, as now numbered, consist of mm. 3—42 of the old notation, some of which are double numbers, and some transposed, also some not numbered; and mm. 47, 48, 50, are blank: to this last is sewn the dorse. M. 49 contains an alphabetical Index.
	8 and 9 Jac. I. [1610–11.]	To these have been added, by way of rider, the membranes now marked 51—58, which appear to have been left out when the rest of the roll was made up. They contain the entries 176—215, being Privy Seals only, to which the Index makes no reference. They are all of the eighth year, except the second entry, which is dated as late as 25 Nov., 9 Jac. I. [1611.]
		In good condition, except m. 52, which is somewhat damaged; and many of the membranes need smoothing and trimming. The dorse is decayed, and too narrow.
4	From Annunc. 9 Jac. I., to Annunc. 10 Jac. I. [1611–12.]	"Brevia de Magno et Privato Sigillo, de anno nono R. Regis Jacobi, anno Domini 1611."—Thus indorsed by the ancient hand, but not headed. The entries are made indiscriminately, as in the two foregoing rolls. The first and last entries are dated as here following:—	86	251
		10 April, 9 Jac. I. [1611.] Pat. 10 May, 9 Jac. I. [1611.] Pat. 1 Sept., 6 Jac. I. [1608.] Pat. 6 July, 9 Jac. I. [1611.] Pat.

		There are 85 membranes, numbered by the old hand; also one at the end containing an alphabetical Index, and one blank, which is torn, and to which the dorse is sewn. They are filed at the head. This roll needs rather more repair than the foregoing one.

[1618–19.]	"Brevia de Privato Sigillo, de anno decimo sexto regni Regis Jacobi, 1618."—Thus headed, and indorsed (in the same hand and form as No. 1) thus, "Privat. 		26 Feb., 16 Jac. I. [1618–19.] 15 March, 16 Jac. I. [1618–19.] 19 Jan., 1619, 17 Jac. I. This last is an Agreement between Sir Will. Bronker, and Chr. Awbrey of Mere, Wilts, relative to a matter disputed in the Court of Chancery, to which the 11th, 17th, 24th, 42nd, and 55th entries also relate.
		All other entries are Privy Seals, except two Assignments (63, 70,) and one Letter of Attorney (64).
		The membranes are shorter and more compactly made up, than in the foregoing rolls: they are filed at the head. M. 24 contains an alphabetical Index, to which is sewn the dorse. Mm. 5—9 are damaged, a mouse having nestled in the cavity of the roll, and eaten away part of them; in other respects it is in good condition.

I think John Fitzwilliams might be persuaded to do it, because he seems by his countenance to be so manly a man, that he will not refuse any peril that might come to his own person to deliver his whole native country from so many and so great dangers as be now offered thereunto if he might be made to understand them,*" which words the said Sir Nicholas afterwards, viz., 24 December, at London, in the parish of St. Anne, in the ward of Aldersgate, repeated to James Croftes, Knight, one of the conspirators, with Sir Thomas Wyatt, a traitor, who had been attainted for levying war against the Queen, whereof the said James Croftes was also attainted.

And the said William Thomas, not contented with the before-mentioned treasons, in order more fully to fulfil such his imaginations, 27 December, went from London to Devonshire, to a place there called Mount Sautrey, then inhabited by Peter Caro, Knight, with which Peter Caro, an abominable traitor, the said William Thomas had a traitorous conference and consultation, and then and there aided the said Peter Caro; and afterwards, to wit 4 February, fled from Mount Sautrey, from county to county, in disguise, not knowing where to conceal himself, and yet he did not desist from sending seditious bills and letters to his friends, declaring his treasonable intentions, in order that he might induce them to join him in his treasons.

(M. 6.) 20 April, 2 and 3 Philip and Mary. { Surrey.—Indictment found at Southwark against the said John Throkmerton, for that he, together with Henry Dudley and Christopher Aston, at London, in the parish of St. Martin Orgar, in the ward of Candlewick-street, compassing not only to deprive the King and Queen of their royal dignity, but to cause their deaths, together with Dudley and other traitors, 10 March, 2 and 3 Philip and Mary, at Chyllyng, in the county of Southampton, met in the Mansion-house of Richard Uvedale, late of Chyllyng aforesaid, Esquire, and he, the said Richard Uvedale, being then in the said house, and aiding and adhering with them in their treason, promised to help them.

Furthermore, that Throkmerton, together with one John Dethycke, at London afterwards, 16 March, 2 and 3 Philip and Mary, met and took an oath upon the Holy Bible, that they would be faithful to one another in their treasonable intentions, and would nowise declare them, but would conceal them, the said Throkmerton then speaking in English the following treasonable words:—"If any of us be accused by any man, let us 'revyle' him, and stand earnestly against him, but I trust it shall never come out, for I had rather my dagger were in her heart (thereby meaning the Queen) and all her Council."

(M. 7.) Saturday, 2 July, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary. { London.—Indictment found before Thomas Curtis, Mayor of the City of London; John Baker, Knight, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Clement Hygham, Knight, Chief Baron of the Exchequer; and Robert Brooke, Knight, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, setting forth to the following effect:—

That Edward the Sixth, by his Letters Patent, dated the 13 June, in the 6th year of his reign, granted to one John Harleston, Esquire, the office of Lieutenant or Captain of his Castle of Ruysbank, in parts beyond the seas, for the term of his life; and the said King, by other letters patent, dated 16 April, in the 7th year of his reign, granted to Edward Grymston, Esquire, the office of Comptroller of his Town of Calais and the Marches, during pleasure.

Furthermore, that Queen Mary, by her Letters Patent, bearing date 13 September, in the 1st year of her reign, granted to the said Thomas Lord Wentworthe the office of Deputy of Calais during pleasure.

Furthermore, that Philip and Mary, by their Letters Patent, dated 25 September, in the 1st and 2nd years of their reign, granted to one Ralph Chamberlayn, the office of Lieutenant of the Castle of Calais during life.

Also, that one Nicholas Alysaunder, Gentleman, held, by appointment of Queen Mary, the office of Captain and Warden of the Castle of Newenham Bridge (near Calais) during pleasure.

The said parties before-mentioned, having severally taken upon themselves the execution of their several charges and offices, they, 20 December, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary, became the adherents of Henry, King of the French, (Rex Francorum) the enemy of the King and Queen: and, as false traitors conspired to deprive the King and Queen of the Town and Castle of Calais, and the Marches thereof, and also of the Castles of Ruysbank and Newenham Bridge, and to surrender the same into the hands of the King of the French. And in order to carry their treasonable plans into execution, the King of the French, by the secret covin and assent of the said Lord Wentworthe, John Harleston, Edward Grymston, Nicholas Alysaunder, and Ralph Chamberlayn, did, 26 December, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary, send the Duke of Guise with a great army, amounting by estimation to the number of 15,000 men, to the Town of Calais to receive the same and the Castles before-mentioned, from the before-mentioned traitors; whereupon, 2 January, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary, the Duke of Guise, with his army, came before the Castle of Newenham Bridge, in order to receive the same by the covin of the before-mentioned adherents; the said Duke of Guise nevertheless, craftily pretending and making show, as if he would take the same by siege and not by treachery. And further charging, that before the arrival of the Duke of Guise, at the Castle of Newenham Bridge, Lord Wentworthe might have levied a sufficient force, as well for the defence of the Town and Castle of Calais as for the Castles of Ruysbank and Newenham Bridge, from amongst the Queen's loyal subjects fit for arms, inhabiting the same, if he had chosen to do so, whereas in truth, by reason of his treasonable adherence and conspiracy as before-mentioned, he, the Lord Wentworthe, did not array even one of the inhabitants of the Marches, but neglected to make any levies, in order that the Duke of Guise might, as before-mentioned, take the before-mentioned towns and castles into the possession of the King of the French.

Furthermore, after the Duke of Guise, with his army, had advanced to the Castle of Newenham Bridge, as before-mentioned, although he, the said Nicholas Alysaunder, being Captain thereof, had sufficient garrison and provisions within the Castle for the defence of the same, nevertheless he, the said Nicholas Alysaunder, pursuant to the before-mentioned conspiracy, evacuated the Castle with all his forces, 3 January, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary, and left the same in the possession of the King of the French, whereby the Duke of Guise took possession thereof: whereas in truth he, the said Nicholas Alysaunder, might and could have defended the Castle for many days, if he had done his duty.

Afterwards, but on the same 3 January, the Duke of Guise, by reason of the before-mentioned conspiracy, advanced to the Castle of Ruysbank, with the intention of receiving possession thereof, by the treason of Harleston, Captain thereof, here also making a show of a siege: and Harleston, having within the Castle a sufficient garrison and provisions, surrendered the same to the King of the French, without making due defence, and the Duke of Guise took possession thereof. And afterwards, but still 3 January, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary, the Duke of Guise advanced to the Town and Castle of Calais with the intention of receiving possession thereof by the treason of the said Lord Wentworthe, Ralph Chamberlayn, and Edward Grymston, he making, nevertheless, a show of a siege thereof: after which arrival of the Duke of Guise and his army, Chamberlayn did, 6 January, without making any resistance or defence, surrender the Castle to the King of the French, and the Duke of Guise took possession thereof.

Afterwards, to wit, 7 January, 4 and 5 Philip and Mary, the said Lord Wentworthe, Chamberlayn, Grymston, and Alysaunder, sent a herald and trumpeter to the Duke of Guise, in order, according to their conspiracy, to surrender the Town of Calais with all its arms and stores, and also the goods and chattels of divers lieges of the King and Queen, worth 200,000*l.* and upwards, into the hands and power of the King of the French. And the herald and trumpeter, by command of Lord Wentworthe, Chamberlayn, Grymston, and Alysaunder, spake and treated with the Duke concerning such surrender, and they, the said Lord Wentworthe, Chamberlayn, Grymston, and Alysaunder, permitted a captain of the French army with 30 armed men to enter into the Town of Calais by "Bulleyn" Gate, with the intention that the Duke and his army might obtain possession of the town, which, being done: the Duke of Guise on the said 7 January, by the assent and agreement of the said Lord Wentworthe, Chamberlayn, Grymston, and Alysaunder, sent an unknown gentleman from his army to them in the town, in order to treat concerning the surrender. And whilst Lord Wentworthe, Chamberlayn, Grymston, and Alysaunder were treating with the gentleman for the surrender, they permitted the Duke to enter into the town without making any resistance.

(M. 11.) 19 February, 5 Elizabeth. Surrey.—Indictment found at the Hall of St. Margaret's, commonly called Justice Hall, Southwark, charges that Arthur Poole, late of London, Esquire; Edmund Poole, late of London, Gentleman; Anthony Fortescue, late of Lambeth, in the County of Surrey, Gentleman; John Prestall, late of London, Gentleman; Humphrey Barwyke, late of London, Gentleman; Edward Cosyn, late of London, Gentleman; Richard Byngham, late of London, Gentleman; and Anthony Spencer, late of London, Gentleman; as false traitors did, 1 September, 4 Elizabeth, at Lambeth, conspire not only to depose the Queen, but to effect her death and total destruction, and to erect and place Mary Queen of Scots in the royal authority.

For the purpose of carrying their traitorous intentions into effect, they conspired to excite insurrection and war against the Queen; and for the furtherance of their wicked designs, they the said Arthur Poole, Edmund Poole, Anthony Fortescue, John Prestall, Humphrey Barwyke, Edward Cosyn, Richard Byngham, and Anthony Spencer, 1 September, 4 Elizabeth, at Lambeth, conspired together to cross the seas to Flanders, and from thence to France: and that when they should be in Flanders, they should publish and declare the said Arthur Poole to be Duke of Clarence, and that he, the said Arthur Poole, should address his letters to Catherine the Queen Mother of the King of the French, to Anthony the King of Navarre, and Francis Duke of Guise, and should by his said letters signify to them the arrival of him the said supposititious Duke of Clarence, and request their aid in order to carry his treasonable intentions into effect.

And to the end that their said treasonable proposals might receive more acceptance and friendship from France, they on the said 1 September, 4 Elizabeth, conspired, that when and as soon as they should come to France, they would have a conference with the Duke of Guise concerning a marriage to be had between the said Edmund Poole and the Queen of Scots, and to obtain an army of 5 or 6,000 armed men, and in May following land therewith in Wales, and there publish and proclaim the said Queen of Scots as Queen of England.

Furthermore, to advance from Wales into England, and to procure the Queen's lieges, as well in Wales as in England, to rise against the Queen, and to make Mary Queen of Scots Queen, and bring her into England; and after she the Queen of Scots should be made Queen of England, to create the said Arthur Poole, Duke of Clarence.

And furthermore, that they the said conspirators, should, after their arrival in Flanders send letters to John Goldewell, Clerk, late Bishop of St. Asaph, being at Rome, to the intention that he should obtain from the Bishop of Rome assistance for them in their aforesaid treasons, and that they would promise the Bishop of Rome by such letters, to seek the restoration of religion in England.

And furthermore, the said John Prestall and Edward Cosyn, 10 September, 4 Elizabeth, at Southwark, practised various incantations and conjurations of evil spirits in working their said affairs: and inquired of an evil spirit how to carry their treasons into effect.

And furthermore, in order to carry their treasons into effect, the said Anthony Fortescue, on the 16 September, 4 Elizabeth, with the assent of the other conspirators, told and related the intended conspiracies to Charles de Foix, the Ambassador of the King of the French, at the Hospital of St. Mary Spyttell, in the County of Middlesex, and to "Alvaro de Quadra," the Ambassador of Philip, King of Spain, at Durham Place, in the Parish of St. Martin in the Fields, requiring their aid in their conspiracy, and that the Ambassadors would write to their respective Kings and to the Duke of Guise in their favour, and particularly to obtain the help and adherence of the King of the French and the Duke of Guise to fulfil such their treasons, and that he also declared and showed to the said Ambassadors the pretended title of the said Arthur Poole to the Dukedom of Clarence, and afterwards, viz., 10 October, 4 Elizabeth, John Prestall and Edward Cosyn went to parts beyond the seas, with the intention of carrying their before-mentioned treasons and conspiracy into effect, and to fulfil all the treasons and conspiracies so plotted by them and the others.

And furthermore, that Anthony Fortescue, 11 October, 4 Elizabeth, with the assent of the said Arthur Poole, Edmund Poole, Humphrey Barwyke, Richard Byngham, and Anthony Spencer, hired a tilt boat of one Henry Watson, London, Yeoman, and caused the boat to be brought to a place near the foot of London Bridge, called St. "Olyes" Stairs, for the purpose of conveying them the said Anthony Fortescue, Arthur Poole, Edmund Poole, Humphrey Barwyke, Richard Byngham, and Anthony Spencer to a ship of Flanders, called "a hoy," then being in the river Thames below Gravesend, six miles towards the sea, which hoy the said Anthony Fortescue had, with the assent of the others, hired for the purpose of conveying them to Flanders to fulfil their before-mentioned treasons.

And furthermore, that they the said Arthur Poole, Edmund Poole, Anthony Fortescue, Humphrey Barwyke, Richard Byngham, and Anthony Spencer, 14 October, 4 Elizabeth, caused money, arms, and armour, to be put on board the tilt boat, and prepared themselves to get on board the same; and in a certain inn, called the Dolphin, for the space of three hours, waited and prepared to go by the said tilt boat to the hoy at Gravesend, and by the hoy to Flanders.

In order to carry their wicked conspiracy into effect, the said John Felton and Cornelius Irysheman, afterwards, to wit, 24 May, 12 Elizabeth, did, about eleven o'clock at night, affix to the gate of the Bishop of London's Palace a copy, printed upon paper, of a Bull of Pius the Fifth, Bishop of Rome, promulgated against the Queen; which Bull contained, among other treasonable matter, the impious and most wicked declaratory sentence of the said Bishop of Rome, in which he assumes and usurps power and authority within this Kingdom of England, and whereby the Bishop of Rome, amongst other false and impious matters, declares that the Queen was never at any time true Queen of this Kingdom of England, but only the pretended Queen, and that she had been lawfully deprived of her Royal authority within the Kingdom of England. And by the same Bull, the Pope absolved all the Proceres, subjects, and people of the realm of all oaths of fidelity and allegiance to the Queen.

Further, that the said John Felton afterwards, viz., 27 June, 12 Elizabeth, in the parish of St. Ann, in the ward of Aldersgate, by a writing, signed by his own hand, affirmed all the matters contained in the Bull; and declared that the Queen ought not to enjoy the style, honour, and regality of Queen, and that she ought not to be Queen of England.

Also that he compassed to excite sedition,—to cause great slaughter amongst the Queen's lieges,—to levy war and rebellion against the Queen;—to subvert the government, and to change and alter the pure religion established in the kingdom; and also to bring in divers strangers and aliens not being the Queen's lieges, to invade the kingdom, and to carry on a bitter war against the Queen.

And for bringing to pass his traitorous compassings and intentions, he, the Duke, knowing that Mary, late Queen of Scots, pretended to have a title to the Imperial Crown of England; and also that the said Mary, late Queen of Scots, had asserted that the Queen had no right to the Crown of England: and also that she the said Mary had usurped the title of Queen of England, and had so named herself in divers writings, and had joined the arms of England to the arms of Scotland without any difference or distinction; and also that the said late Queen of Scots had not renounced her said unjust claims, he, the said Duke, at the Charter House, 23 September, 11 Elizabeth, sought, without the consent of the Queen, to conjoin himself in marriage to the said late Queen of Scots, and traitorously wrote divers letters to her, and sent to her certain pledges and signs, called tokens.

Also, at the Charter House, on the said 23 September, he lent to the said Queen of Scots and to her friends and adherents divers large sums of money, and received letters and various signs and pledges, called tokens, from the said Mary, late Queen of Scots.

And that, notwithstanding the said Duke had before been specially prohibited by the Queen from treating about any such marriage with the late Queen of Scots.

And also notwithstanding the Duke, by divers letters and instruments, written with his own hand to the Queen, had refused and renounced such marriage, promising that he would in no wise meddle or proceed therein.

Furthermore, that Thomas Earl of Northumberland, late of Topclyff, in the county of York, and Ann his wife; Charles Earl of Westmoreland, late of Brandspeth, in the county of Durham; Richard Norton, late of Norton Conyers, in the county of York, Esquire; Thomas Markenfeld, late of Markenfeld, in the county of York, Esquire; together with other false traitors, the Queen's enemies, seeking to depose the Queen from her Crown and Dignity, &c., &c., in order to carry their wicked compassings into effect, did, 16 November, 11 Elizabeth, at Ripon, in the county of York, meet with a great multitude of people to the amount of 4,000 men and upwards, for the purpose of raising open and bitter war against the Queen, of all which treasons the said Thomas Earl of Northumberland and Ann his wife, Charles Earl of Westmoreland, Richard Norton, and Thomas Markenfeld, together with many other traitors and rebels, were afterwards lawfully outlawed and attainted, as appears by the Records then being in Court; and after the perpetration of the before mentioned treasons, the said Thomas Earl of Northumberland and Ann his wife, Charles Earl of Westmoreland, Richard Norton, and Thomas Markenfeld, with many other false traitors and rebels, did, 20 December, 12 Elizabeth, flee the kingdom into the kingdom of Scotland, and were there received by divers Proceres and Magnates of the kingdom of Scotland, to wit, by James Duke of "Chastle-le-roy," the Earl of Huntley, the Lord "Harrys," the Lord Hume, the Lord of "Buclughe," and the Lord of "Fernyhurste," and other Scots, subject to the King of Scotland, and by them aided, and comforted, and detained from the Queen; and that for such cause the Queen, afterwards, by Thomas Earl of Sussex, the Queen's Lieutenant General in the northern parts, with a powerful army, proclaimed war as against her enemies and the enemies of the kingdom of England: by reason of which war the said Charles Earl of Westmoreland, Ann wife of Thomas Earl of Northumberland, Richard Norton, and Thomas Markenfeld, fled from Scotland to Antwerp, in Brabant, where they continued to reside, against their allegiance; nevertheless, the said Thomas Duke of Norfolk not being ignorant of the preceding transactions, but being well acquainted with the same, did afterwards, viz. 6 August, 12 Elizabeth, traitorously send, deliver, and distribute various sums of money to the said Charles Earl of Westmoreland, and Ann Countess of Northumberland, for their relief and maintenance.

Furthermore, the said Thomas Duke of Norfolk, 16 July, 13 Elizabeth, adhered to, comforted, and aided the said James Duke of "Chastle-le-Roy," Earl of Huntley, Lord "Harrys," Lord Hume, Lord "Buclughe," and Lord "Fernyhurst."

Furthermore, that Pius the Fifth, Bishop of Rome, was and is a notable and capital public enemy of the Queen, and the said Duke of Norfolk, well knowing the same, did, 10 March, 13 Elizabeth, advise and procure one Robert Rydolphye, a merchant stranger beyond the seas, to be sent to the Bishop of Rome, as also to Philip King of Spain, and to the Duke of "Alba," to obtain from the said Bishop of Rome divers sums of money, to be expended in maintaining an army of soldiers and of armed men to enter and invade the kingdom of England, and to raise war in such kingdom against the Queen, and that the King of Spain, by the means of the Duke of "Alba," should send into England an army to invade the kingdom, and carry on war against the Queen.

Furthermore, that the said Duke of Norfolk, 10 March, 13 Elizabeth, conspired and agreed with Robert Rydolphye to raise and discipline all the force and power which he, the Duke of Norfolk and his confederates, could raise within the kingdom of England, for the purpose of joining such force to the army to be sent by the King of Spain: and with such army and force, to levy war against the Queen, and to deliver Mary, late Queen of England, out of the custody of the Queen, and afterwards to deprive the Queen of her royal dignity, and at the same time that he the said Duke should marry the late Queen of Scots.

Furthermore, that the said Robert Rydolphye wrote three several letters of credence in the name of the said Thomas Duke of Norfolk, one to the Duke of "Alba," another to the Bishop of

Rome, and the third to Philip King of Spain; and that afterwards the Duke of Norfolk traitorously intending, and desiring in his soul the fulfilment of the traitorous messages sent by Rydolphye, did, 20 March, 13 Elizabeth, despatch one William Barker, Gentleman, his servant, to "Guerraw Despes," the Ambassador of the said King of Spain, to show and affirm that he the Duke would affirm the before mentioned credentials in the same way as if he had signed them with his own hand.

Furthermore, that Rydolphye, 26 March, 13 Elizabeth, at Dover, took his journey to parts beyond the seas, to fulfil the said treasonable messages with the consent of the Duke, and afterwards Rydolphye declared and communicated the said treasonable messages to the Duke of "Alba" and the Bishop of Rome.

Moreover Rydolphye conveyed a letter from the Duke of "Alba," written in cyphers to the Duke of Norfolk, which he, the Duke, traitorously received, 18 April, 13 Elizabeth, at the Charter House, and delivered the same to William Barker to be deciphered and written in common letters, and afterwards the Duke, 25 April, 13 Elizabeth, received, inspected, and read the same, and kept it by him: by which letter the said Rydolphye, amongst other things, notified to the Duke the favourable audience which he had had from the Duke of "Alba" in his treasonable messages, and that the Duke required the friends and favourers of the confederacy to be ready whenever a power from the King of Spain should arrive in the kingdom of England.

Furthermore, that the said Thomas Duke of Norfolk, 16 June, 13 Elizabeth, received a letter from the Bishop of Rome, by which the Bishop promised to the Duke help for the assistance of Mary, late Queen of Scots, and also for carrying into effect his, the Duke's, treacherous intentions.

Elizabeth, at Westminster, conspired to dethrone and slay the Queen, and subvert the pure religion established in this country, and the government of the realm.

Moreover, Parry, by his letters, notified to Gregory, Bishop of Rome, his intent and purpose, and by the same letters requested absolution from such Bishop of Rome: and Parry afterwards, viz., 31 March, 26 Elizabeth, at Westminster, received certain other letters from a Cardinal of the Church of Rome, commonly called "Cardinal Como," sent to him, Parry, by the direction of the Bishop of Rome, whereby the Cardinal notified that the intentions of him, Parry, had been approved of by the Bishop of Rome, and for such cause, the Bishop had granted him absolution: by which letters, Parry was persuaded and encouraged to carry into execution his most treacherous intentions; whereupon afterwards, viz., 31 August, 26 Elizabeth, Parry proceeded to the vill of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, to persuade one Edmund Nevyle, Esquire, to assist him in carrying his treasons into effect; and on the same 31 August, 26 Elizabeth, he, Parry, as well at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, as in other places, persuaded and incited Nevyle to join him in his treasons.

Great Seal preserved, but detached.

(Ms. 14 and 15.) 5 September, 28 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.— The Justices' Precept to the Sheriff for the return of the Grand Jury, at Westminster, in the Great Hall of Pleas there, on Wednesday, 7 September. Signed by Edmund Anderson, Roger Manwood, William Fletewoode, and John Brograve. Seals appended, and panel annexed.

(Ms. 18 and 19.) Wednesday, 7 September, 28 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—Indictment found at Westminster, in the Great Hall of Pleas there, charging, that, whereas William Gyfford, Professor of Theology, and Gilbert Gyfford, at Rheims, in Champagne, in parts beyond the seas, moved and incited John Savage, late of London, Gentleman, that he, John Savage, should wickedly and traitorously slay the Queen: and, the more easily to move and persuade Savage to execute his treason, William Gyfford and Gilbert Gyfford affirmed and asserted to Savage, that it would be an action not merely pious and lawful, but even honourable and meritorious.

Furthermore, that when Savage had bound himself by oath to William Gyfford to slay the Queen, he, 1 April, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, in the county of Middlesex, did conspire and imagine not only to deprive and disinherit the Queen, but also to slay her, and to change and subvert the established religion and government; and, in order to fulfil his traitorous intentions, 30 May, 28 Elizabeth, repaired to St. Giles's to one John Ballard, Clerk, to treat and consult with him how he could so slay the Queen.

Furthermore, that Savage, 31 May, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles's, received certain treasonable letters from one Thomas Morgan, the Queen's traitor, and from William Gyfford and Gilbert Gyfford, sent from parts beyond the seas, and by which letters, the writers moved and incited him to commit the before-mentioned treason.

(M. 20.) Wednesday, 7 September, 28 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—Indictment found at Westminster, as before mentioned, charging, that whereas Barnardine de Mendoza, a Spaniard, Charles Pagett, and John Ballard, late of London, Clerk, 20 April, 28 Elizabeth, at Paris, treated and conferred how and in what manner England could be best invaded and entered by the Queen's enemies, and in what manner Mary, late Queen of Scots, could be delivered from confinement and restored to her full liberty; and having the counsel and assent of one Thomas Morgan, and other notorious traitors, it was agreed, that Ballard should go as speedily as possible from Paris to England, for the purpose of making out and understanding all ways and means by which assistance could be given to such alien and invading enemies, and what port would be most fitted for their landing, and also to procure and provide the ways and means for delivering the late Queen of Scots.

Furthermore, that when Ballard came to England, he and Edward Wyndsore, late of Bradenham, in the county of Bucks, Esquire; Anthony Babyngton, late of Dethycke, in the county of Derby, Esquire; John Savage, late of London, Gentleman; Thomas Salysburye, late of Llewenny, in the county of Denbigh, Esquire; Edward Abyngton, late of Henlyppe, in the county of Worcester, Esquire; Chidiock Tychborne, late of Portchester, in the county of Southampton, Gentleman; Charles Tylney, late of London, Esquire; Robert Barnewell, late of London, Gentleman; Edward Jones, late of Cadogan, in the county of Denbigh, Esquire; John Traves, late of Prescott, in the county of Lancaster, Gentleman; Henry Dunne, late of London, Gentleman; and Gilbert Gyfford, late of London, Gentleman, 5 June, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles's, compassed to depose and slay the Queen, to levy war against her, subvert the established religion and government, &c., and to introduce the alien enemies and invaders into the country; and that Ballard and Gilbert Gyfford, afterwards, to wit, 7 June, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles's, had a discourse with Babyngton how they should fulfil their treacherous intentions, and conferred with him concerning the invasion intended and prepared by the then Bishop of Rome, with the aid of Philip, King of Spain, and other foreign princes, to be carried into effect in the then present summer; and that they treacherously told and declared to Babyngton that it had been required on the part of Mendoza and Pagett that measures should be taken for procuring, in England, aid and assistance to the invaders; as also for the delivery of Mary, late Queen of Scots: whereupon Ballard, Gilbert Gyfford, and Babyngton, 7 June, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles's, resolved that this could not be carried into effect but by the destruction of the Queen; and Babyngton, on the same day, traitorously agreed with the other two, that the Queen should be slain, and the late Queen of Scots delivered by force from her imprisonment, and help raised in the kingdom for the before-mentioned purposes; and that all these things should be done simultaneously.

Furthermore, that Babyngton and Salysburye, 8 June, 28 Elizabeth, had a discourse and consultation, to carry their traitorous intention into effect, when they agreed that the latter should go to Denbigh, to raise a rebellion against the Queen in the said County; and he should secretly persuade the Queen's lieges, in Denbigh and elsewhere, in North Wales, to assist in delivering the late Queen of Scots, and aiding the enemy; and afterwards, viz. 9 June, Babyngton and Savage, went to St. Giles's to consult upon their treasons; and, 10 June, they agreed that Savage should slay the Queen, and that Babyngton and Savage should treasonably join the Queen's enemies in their before-mentioned hostile invasion.

Also, 11 June, 28 Elizabeth, Babyngton, Tylney, Barnewell, and Tychborne, traitorously went to St. Giles's, for the purpose of consulting how to carry their treasons into effect; and afterwards, viz. 12 June, agreed that Tylney, Barnewell, and Tychborne, should slay the Queen, and join the hostile invasion as before mentioned.

Furthermore, that Salysburye and Jones, in order to carry their treasonable intentions into effect, 13 June, 28 Elizabeth, repaired to St. Giles's, to have a consultation amongst themselves, thereupon: and moreover, 15 June, they agreed that Jones should join himself to Salysburye to assist in delivering Mary, late Queen of Scots, and in the hostile invasion.

Furthermore, that Traves, in order to carry his treasonable intentions into effect, 15 June, 28 Elizabeth, went to Clerkenwell in order to have a discourse with Salysburye, and had such discourse with him how to carry his treasons into effect; and afterwards, to wit, 16 June, 28 Elizabeth, at Clerkenwell, Traves traitorously agreed with Salysburye to join with him in delivering the Queen of Scots, and aiding the foreign invasion.

Furthermore, that Wyndsore, Abyngton, and Dunne, 22 June, 28 Elizabeth, repaired to St. Giles's to treat and consult with Babyngton and Ballard how to fulfil their treasons, and afterwards, viz., 24 June, 28 Elizabeth, agreed that they, Wyndsore, Abyngton, and Dunne, would do all in their power to effect such treasons.

Furthermore, that Babyngton, 8 July, 28 Elizabeth, received certain letters from Mary, late Queen of Scots, dated 25 June, 28 Elizabeth, by which she declared she would not be unmindful of the affection which Babyngton had borne to all things concerning her, praying him to send her certain letters from France and Scotland which he had received for her; and that Babyngton on the said 8 July, wrote certain traitorous letters to the late Queen of Scots, declaring all his intended treasons, and that afterwards, viz., 27 July, 28 Elizabeth, Babyngton received answers to the same, written by the Queen of Scots, in which she not only signified that she allowed and approved of such intended treasons, but therein also urged and solicited Babyngton and his confederates by promises of great reward to fulfil the same.

Furthermore, that Thomas Gerrard, late of Wynwicke, in the county of Lancaster, Knight, and John Charnock, late of London, Gentleman, and the said Babyngton and Ballard, 27 July, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles's, &c., conspired to depose and slay the Queen, &c.; and, 29 July, 28 Elizabeth, repaired to St. Giles's to consult how to carry their treasonable intentions into effect, and 31 July, 28 Elizabeth, at St. Giles's, consented and agreed that Gerrard should join with Babyngton in delivering the late Queen of Scots and assisting the hostile invasion.

Furthermore, on the said 31 July, 28 Elizabeth, Ballard and Charnock repaired to Southampton House, in the parish of St. Andrew Holborn, to consult upon their treasons; and afterwards, 2 August, 28 Elizabeth, they agreed that Charnock should do his best to fulfil the before-mentioned treasons. And furthermore, that Elizabeth Bellamy late of Harrow-on-the-Hill, Widow, Jerome Bellamy, Gentleman, and Robert Gage, late of London, Gentleman, knowing Babyngton, Barnewell, and Dunne to have perpetrated such treasons as before-mentioned, did, 12 August, 28 Elizabeth, at Harrow, comfort and receive them.

The Indictment is partly damaged.

(Ms. 16 and 17.) Friday, 23 September, 28 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—Another Indictment, found at Westminster as before-mentioned, against Babyngton and Barnewell, for conspiring to depose and slay the Queen, and consulting with Tychborne and Tylney how to carry their treasons into effect, and that Katherine Bellamy, late of Harrow-on-the-Hill, knowing their treasons, had, 12 August, 28 Elizabeth, helped and received them.

Furthermore, that Alleyn, Moreton, Parsons, Campyon, and Harte, together with other traitors, 20 May, 22 Elizabeth, at Rome, and elsewhere, comforted and excited the beforementioned strangers to invade the kingdom.

Furthermore, that Alleyn, Moreton, Parsons, Campyon, and Harte, 20 May, 22 Elizabeth, at Rome, and 31 May, 22 Elizabeth, at Rheims, agreed that Parsons, Campyon, and Harte, should repair to this kingdom, to move and persuade the Queen's lieges to aid the strangers whom they should procure to invade the kingdom, for the purpose of subverting the Established Church, &c.

Furthermore, that Parsons, Campyon, and Harte, 1 June, 22 Elizabeth, by the aid and abetment of Alleyn and Moreton, took their journey from Rheims, towards England, in order to carry their treasonable intentions into effect, of all which treasons they were duly indicted at Westminster, Monday next after the morrow of All Souls, 23 Elizabeth, and afterwards attainted, as appears by the Records, Hilary, 25 Elizabeth; and further finding that the Queen taking into consideration that all Jesuits, Seminary men, and Priests, called in English "Massing Priests," on arriving in England, were sent not only to prepare divers of the Queen's subjects, inclined to disobedience and disloyalty, to be prepared to abet foreigners and strangers, when they should invade the kingdom, but also to raise rebellion against the Queen, and to deprive her of her crown, dignity, and life; and desiring to warn all her subjects to beware of such treasons by her Proclamation, dated at Greenwich, 1 April in the 24th year of her reign, caused to be proclaimed, that all such Jesuits, Seminary men, and Priests, were traitors, and should be so held by all the Queen's loyal subjects, and that all, who after such publication should knowingly and willingly receive comfort, aid, and maintain any Jesuit or Seminary Priest, should be treated and proceeded against as persons guilty of high treason. Afterwards, one William Weston, otherwise Edmunds, being a seditious and traitorous Jesuit, and Edward Brydges, otherwise Grateley, being a seditious and traitorous Seminary man and Priest, did, 1 June, 26 Elizabeth, arrive in this kingdom of England, from parts beyond the seas, to reconcile divers of the Queen's subjects to the Church of Rome, and to persuade such, the Queen's subjects, to aid and conjoin themselves with the Queen's alien enemies, about to invade the kingdom; and Philip Earl of Arundel, late of Arundel, in the county of Sussex, not being ignorant of the premises, but knowing the said William Weston and Edward Brydges to be such traitors, as before mentioned, did, after the before-mentioned proclamation, viz., 10 September, 26 Elizabeth, at the Charter House, in the county of Middlesex, and elsewhere treasonably receive and maintain them, and treated with them, concerning their before-mentioned treasonable intentions.

Furthermore, that the Earl of Arundel, 30 September, 26 Elizabeth, at the Charter House, was treasonably reconciled to the Church of Rome.

Furthermore, that the Earl of Arundel, 4 October, 26 Elizabeth, treasonably compassed to depose and slay the Queen, &c., and that he did afterwards, to wit, 20 November, 27 Elizabeth, at the Charter House, adhere to and confederate himself with Alleyn, attainted as before mentioned, and on the said 20 November, 27 Elizabeth, at the Charter House, admitted to Brydges who had communicated with him, the Earl of Arundel, on the part of Alleyn, concerning the said treasons, that he the Earl of Arundel, would be at the direction of Alleyn, and would do whatever he Alleyn should direct for the promotion of the Catholic cause (meaning thereby, the restoration of the Roman religion in England, and the following invasion).

And furthermore, in order to persuade and instigate Alleyn to act in the restitution of the Roman religion, &c., he the Earl of Arundel, afterwards, to wit, 30 November, 27 Elizabeth, at the Charter House, traitorously wrote to Alleyn to do something for the furtherance of the Catholic cause, and by the same letters promised to him, Alleyn, that he, the Earl of Arundel, was ready to be employed in such way as Alleyn should think best in such Catholic cause (meaning thereby the restitution of the Roman religion, &c).

Furthermore, that the Earl of Arundel, 14 April, 27 Elizabeth, being at the Charter House, took his way secretly from the Charter House to parts beyond the seas, for the purpose of carrying into effect his treasonable intentions.

Furthermore, that Alleyn treasonably insisted and continued soliciting the Bishop of Rome, and Philip King of Spain, to invade the kingdom, and levy war against the Queen, and to deprive her of her crown, dignity, and life, &c., whereupon afterwards, viz., 1 April, 30 Elizabeth, Sixtus V., then Bishop of Rome, promulgated his most scandalous, false, and diabolical Bull, containing amongst other, that he the said Sixtus V., having been solicited by the zealous instance of many of the highest personages of England and Ireland, had treated with divers princes, and in particular with the King of Spain, that he should employ all his force and power for the deposition of the Queen, and the punishment of her accomplices, and that the causes which induced him so to proceed against the Queen, were, amongst others, her usurpation of the Crown of England, contrary to the ancient treaty made between the Roman See and the kingdom of England, in the time of Henry II., and afterwards renewed and confirmed by King John, viz., that no one should be King or Queen of England, without the approbation of the Bishop of Rome, and for that the Queen did disgrace the ancient nobility by raising the most low and unworthy persons to dignities, civil and ecclesiastical, and that the before-mentioned causes were of such a nature, that some of them rendered her unworthy to reign, and some of them unworthy to live, and that he therefore renewed the sentences of his predecessors Pius V., and Gregory XIII., concerning the excommunication, and the deposition of the Queen, and that he, the said Sixtus V., again excommunicated and deprived her of all authority and dignity, and of all title and pretence to the Crowns of England and Ireland; and by the same bull, the Pope absolved all the people of the kingdom, from all oaths and allegiances, and all other obligations of subjection to her, and he strictly commanded under pain, not only of excommunication, but of corporal punishment, no one should, after notice of the bull, render any obedience to the Queen; and further, that they should, with all their force and power, join the Catholic army, to be led by Alexander Farnese, Duke of Parma and Placentia, sent for the punishment of the Queen. And further, that any disputes that might arise concerning religion, the government, or the succession to the Crown, should be decided according to "Christian equity."

That when the said Sixtus V., and Philip King of Spain, had collected and prepared a great force, as well of soldiers, as of ships, &c., fit for war, and sent such force from parts beyond the seas, viz., 20 May, 30 Elizabeth, to execute the sentence so pronounced by such Bull, he the Earl of Arundel not being ignorant of the premises, afterwards, viz., 21 July, 30 Elizabeth, at the Tower of London, as a false traitor, &c., compassed and imagined to deprive the Queen of her Crown and Dignity, &c., and moreover well knowing the publication of the said Bull, as well as the approach of the Spanish fleet, did afterwards, viz., 22 July, 30 Elizabeth, at the Tower of London, move and incite one William Bennett, Clerk, to say mass for the happy and prosperous success of the Spanish fleet, which mass Bennett celebrated accordingly, in the presence of the Earl, the said Earl aiding and abetting him.

Furthermore, that the Earl, knowing that a battle had taken place between the Queen's fleet and the Spanish fleet, did, 24 July, 30 Elizabeth, at the Tower, move and incite Thomas Gerrard, Knight, and other prisoners then in the Tower, to pray together without intermission, for the space of 24 hours, for the success of the "Catholic enterprise;" and on the same day wrote with his own hand a form or order of prayer; and further on the said 24 July, affirmed that he would very much wish such prayers made for the good success of the Spanish fleet before the time, or during the time when the battle might take place between the Queen's fleet and the Spanish fleet, for the good of the Catholic cause.

Seals appended; and panel annexed.

(Ms. 6 and 7.) Tuesday, 11 April, 34 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—Indictment found at Westminster, in the Great Hall of Pleas there, against John Perrott, late of London, Knight, and late the Queen's Deputy, in her kingdom of Ireland, in parts beyond the seas, for that, 31 January, 27 Elizabeth, at Dublin, he compassed to deprive the Queen of her Crown and Dignity, to levy and raise war and rebellion against her, and to procure that her alien enemies should invade the kingdom of England and Ireland in a hostile manner, &c.

That whereas one James Eustace, late Viscount Baltinglass, one of the Queen's subjects, born in Ireland, being at Madrid, in Spain, 31 March, 26 Elizabeth, traitorously sent to Sir John Perrott certain letters from and on the behalf of Philip King of Spain, by one Dennis O'Rougan, or O'Rowgan, to move and excite him, Sir John Perrott, to aid and assist the King of Spain in his invasion of England and Ireland: and, Sir John, being then the Queen's Deputy in Ireland, in order to fulfil his treasonable intentions, did, the last day of February, 27 Elizabeth, receive the before-mentioned treasonable letters, and afterwards, viz., 1 March, 27 Elizabeth, sent for O'Rougan, to meet him in his chamber at Dublin, in order to treat and consult with him upon his treasonable intentions, and on the same 1 March, he had a discourse with O'Rougan, as to the means by which the King of Spain could best succeed in his invasion of Ireland.

And whereas the Queen having, 20 April, 28 Elizabeth, addressed her letters to Sir John, by which he was instructed, that neither he nor any one succeeding him in the office of Deputy, should undertake any important business, or any new charge, without the assent of the Queen's Privy Council in Ireland, it being the Queen's intention thereby to provide that Sir John and the deputy for the time being should so bear themselves as to avoid any just cause of offence, and by the same letters the Queen advised and admonished Sir John, not to murmur or take offence at the Queen's admonitions, but receive them in good part, and to reform such things as seemed fit to the Queen to be reformed: and the said Sir John, in order to carry his treasonable intentions into effect, did afterwards, viz., 15 May, 28 Elizabeth, at Dublin, send for Adam, Archbishop of Dublin, then Chancellor of Ireland, and being in a great rage by reason of the Queen's letter, he said in English the following treasonable words:—"If she use men thus, she will have but cold service, but one day she shall have need of me;" and afterwards, viz., 1 September, 29 Elizabeth, at Dublin, he maintained, aided, and comforted, as well the said Dennis O'Rougan, as Dermot MacRorie MacCragh, Clerk, the Queen's traitor, and several other traitors.

Furthermore, that when Gregory the Thirteenth, "Pope of Rome," and Philip, King of Spain, 10 April, 30 Elizabeth, had prepared a great army and fleet, for the purpose of invading England, Sir John, knowing the premises, did afterwards, viz., 20 May, 30 Elizabeth, compose and write certain treasonable letters to the King of Spain, containing various treasonable matters, for the purpose of moving and exciting the King of Spain to fulfil his intentions: and moreover, Sir John did, on the same day deliver the treasonable letters so written by him, to O'Rougan, to the intent that the latter should proceed with the utmost speed from Dublin to Spain, to deliver the same to the King; and to the end that O'Rougan should so deliver the letters with the greater care and diligence, he, Sir John, 20 May, 30 Elizabeth, gave to O'Rougan divers sums of money for his pains and labour.

Furthermore, that Bryan O'Rurke, Knight, the Queen's traitor, had committed divers treasons against the Queen in Ireland, nevertheless Sir John Perrott, being well aware thereof, did, 1 June, 30 Elizabeth, by his letters, incite O'Rurke to move rebellion against the Queen.

(M. 8.) Tuesday, 11 April, 34 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—Another Indictment against Sir John Perrott, charging that, 20 June, 27 Elizabeth, he compassed to dethrone the Queen, &c., and that afterwards, viz., 25 June, 27 Elizabeth, he wrote certain treasonable letters to Philip, King of Spain, to excite him to invade England and Ireland.

Furthermore, that Sir John, 15 May, 28 Elizabeth, at Dublin, received certain letters from Alexander Duke of Parma, the Queen's public enemy, and which were delivered to Sir John by William Stanley, Knight, the Queen's traitor; by which letters the Duke of Parma persuaded Sir John to assist the forces about to be sent by the King of Spain to the invasion of England and Ireland.

Furthermore, that Sir John, 20 June, 28 Elizabeth, sent to Sir William Stanley to come to him, Sir John, in order to treat and converse upon his intended treasons; and moreover, viz., 30 June, he had a discourse with Sir William, by what means certain soldiers of the Queen then being out of the kingdom of Ireland in the Low Countries, under the command of Sir William Stanley, might be turned and sent against the Queen.

Furthermore, that Loppez, 31 August, 33 Elizabeth, sent to Philip King of Spain divers secret messages, and intelligence to the Ministers of the King of Spain concerning several matters, which had been treated within this kingdom of England for the security and preservation thereof, to the intent that the said King of Spain might the better direct his forces for the destruction of the Queen and kingdom.

Furthermore, that the said Philip King of Spain, 1 October, 33 Elizabeth, sent by one Emanuel de Andrada, an alien enemy, a jewel of gold and gems worth 100*l.*, as a token of the love and favour which he the said King bore towards Loppez for his services; which ring he Loppez on 30 November, 34 Elizabeth, accepted.

Furthermore, that Andrada, 20 January, 35 Elizabeth, acting for and on the behalf of the King of Spain, had a treaty and discourse with Loppez for poisoning the Queen, and Loppez, 20 February, 35 Elizabeth, undertook to poison and kill the Queen, and directed Andrada to signify to Peter Erriques, the Count of Fuentes, and Stephen de Ibarra, alien enemies, and Ministers of the King of Spain, that he had undertaken the said treason, and that Andrada, by direction of Loppez, 30 April, 35 Elizabeth, took his journey from London to parts beyond the seas for the purpose of informing the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra that Loppez had so undertaken to poison the Queen, which he did by direction of Loppez, requesting them to inform the King of Spain thereof with the utmost speed.

Furthermore, that Loppez, 17 September, 35 Elizabeth, had a discourse with Stephen Ferrera da Gama concerning certain letters to be written by the latter to the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra concerning his treasonable intentions, which they wrote accordingly, 18 September, 35 Elizabeth, informing Loppez of the contents thereof, and afterwards, 18 September, 35 Elizabeth, Loppez procured that certain sums of money should be paid to one Gomez Davila, an alien enemy, for his trouble and expenses in conveying the letters.

Furthermore, that Loppez, 30 September, 35 Elizabeth, had a discourse with Ferrera da

Gama concerning the killing of the Queen by poison, which he undertook to do for the sum of 50,000 crowns in foreign money, to be paid to him by the King of Spain, and he, Loppez, then procured that Ferrera da Gama should write to the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra to inform them of this horrible proposal.

Furthermore, that after the letters had been so written by Ferrera da Gama to the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra; viz., 30 October, 35 Elizabeth, Loppez further treated and discoursed with Ferrera da Gama concerning the before mentioned letters, and as to whether he had received any answer to his proposal, he asserting and declaring that he should be always ready to perform what he had undertaken: and that after poisoning the Queen he would repair to Antwerp, in Brabant, and afterwards to Constantinople, and dwell there.

(M. 17.) Tuesday, 12 March, 36 Elizabeth. { London.—Indictment found at Guildhall against Stephen Ferrera da Gama, an alien, late of London, Gentleman, for conspiring the death of the Queen, &c., 4 April, 35 Elizabeth, at London, in the parish of St. Catherine Crichurch: and that he, 16 April, 35 Elizabeth, had a treaty and discourse with Emmanuel de Andrada for poisoning the Queen by means of Loppez; and Ferrera da Gama, on behalf of the King of Spain, afterwards, viz., 26 April, 35 Elizabeth, had a discourse with Loppez, how he could best fulfil the treasonable intention of poisoning the Queen.

Furthermore, that Stephen Ferrera da Gama, 9 June, 35 Elizabeth, sent various secret messages and intelligences to the King of Spain, the Count of Fuentes, Stephen de Ibarra, and Christopher de Moro, ministers of the King of Spain, and others.

Furthermore, that Christopher de Moro being a Minister of the King of Spain, afterwards, 4 August, 35 Elizabeth, he being in parts beyond the seas, wrote letters on behalf of the King of Spain concerning the before mentioned treasons, which letters were conveyed to London from parts beyond the seas by one Emmanuel Lewis Tynoco, and received by da Gama, 4 September, 35 Elizabeth, in London.

Furthermore, that Tynoco, 4 September, 35 Elizabeth, wrote letters to Loppez containing that the Count of Fuentes sent a messenger with his embraces (quoddam nuntium Anglice a message ac quendam amplexum vocatum an abrazo) to the said Loppez, and Tynoco by the same letters informed Loppez that the Count of Fuentes required him the said Tynoco to inform Loppez that the Count of Fuentes was rejoiced to hear that Loppez was a good servant to the King of Spain, and the King of Spain would liberally reward him for his services. The Count of Fuentes also requested Loppez to procure a renewal of the treaty of peace between his Queen and the King of Spain, he the Count of Fuentes, affirming that the King desired such peace, maliciously and craftily meaning by the word "peace" the poisoning of the Queen, which letters, so written by Tynoco, he delivered to da Gama, in order that the latter might convey them to Loppez, who received them accordingly; and da Gama, knowing their treasonable contents, delivered them to Loppez, 5 September, 35 Elizabeth.

Furthermore, that da Gama, 17 September, 35 Elizabeth, had a treaty and consultation with Loppez concerning letters to be written by him, da Gama, to the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra, concerning the before mentioned treasons, which letters he, 18 September, wrote accordingly; and afterwards, 18 September, 35 Elizabeth, he, da Gama, by the procurement of Loppez, paid moneys to certain strangers, the Queen's enemies, for conveying the treasonable letters to the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra, and on the 30 September, 35 Elizabeth, he further had a treaty and discourse with Loppez concerning the poisoning of the Queen, when Loppez undertook the same, &c.; and that Loppez having agreed to poison the Queen for the before mentioned sum of 50,000 crowns, procured that da Gama should write to the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra as before mentioned.

(Ms. 15 and 16.) Tuesday, 12 March, 36 Elizabeth. { London.—Indictment found at Guildhall against Emmanuel Lewis Tynoco, an alien, late of London, Gentleman, for that, 24 July, 35 Elizabeth, at London, in the parish of St. Catherine Crichurch, he compassed and imagined the deposition and death of the Queen, &c. &c.; that afterwards, viz. 25 July, 35 Elizabeth, he sent secret messages, &c. to the King of Spain, as in the before mentioned Indictments.

Furthermore, that Christopher de Moro, the Queen's alien enemy, a Minister of the King of Spain, addressed letters to Stephen Ferrera da Gama and Loppez, which were conveyed by Tynoco, as before mentioned.

Further, that Tynoco, 5 September, 35 Elizabeth, in order to fulfil his before mentioned treasons, took his journey to Brussels for the purpose of treating, on the part of the King of Spain, concerning such treasons with the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra, and that on the 24 October, 35 Elizabeth, he had a discourse with them concerning certain treasonable letters written by da Gama to them, and conveyed by Gomez Davila as before mentioned.

Furthermore, 26 October, 35 Elizabeth, at Brussels, Tynoco, under the name of Francisco de Torres, wrote to da Gama under the name of Domingo Fernandez, concerning the poisoning of the Queen in certain obscure words "in the Portingale tongue," containing, amongst others, the following words set forth in Portuguese, and in the record also given in English:—"Sir, the bearer will tell your worship the price in which your pearls are held. I will advise your Worship presently of the uttermost penny that will be given for them, and will crave what order you will have set down for the sending of the money, and wherein you would have it employed; also, he shall tell you in what resolution we rest about a little musk and amber, the which I am determined to buy," (meaning, by "pearls," the poisoning of the Queen, and by "musk and amber," the burning of the Queen's ships), as he, Tynoco, afterwards explained such obscure words by writing under his hand, which letters Tynoco sent by Davila to da Gama, who was then in London.

Furthermore, that afterwards, viz. 2 December, 36 Elizabeth, at Brussels, Tynoco had a discourse with the Count of Fuentes and Stephen de Ibarra, concerning his treasons, when he promised, and putting his hands within their hands, solemnly pledged his faith, that he would conceal the before mentioned treasons concerning the poisoning of the Queen by Loppez, and afterwards, viz., 6 December, 36 Elizabeth, as well the Count of Fuentes as Ibarra, on the part of the King of Spain, sent their several letters to da Gama concerning the poisoning of the Queen, the same letters, being written at Brussels in the Spanish language, and delivered them to Tynoco for the purpose of bearing them to da Gama, in which letters it is contained as follows in the Spanish language (the words are set out in Spanish), being, in English, as follows,—"The bearer goeth instructed of that which is here offered to inform you, and sythence the principal end is the service of the King, and your worship as a man so zealous doth desire it, consider well before you take in hand your 'viage,' if you can give order therein from thence, better then to discover it with your going, but this and the whole is referred to him, who is so instructed in those affairs as are these present also: and that which above all importeth, is that you go thither with the Commission, for the fruit that shall be reaped of it, and by your Worship in your particular," meaning by the words "the bearer," the said Tynoco, and by the words "that you go thither with the Commission, for the fruit that shall be reaped of it," the poisoning of the Queen. And the letters written by Stephen de Ibarra to da Gama contain the following words in Spanish being also set forth in the record in English, viz.:—"Manoel Tynoco goeth towards your Worship with a letter of the Earl of Fuentes, to the which for many respects this letter shall be referred, and that which more in particular your Worship shall understand of the said Tynoco, who by reason of the conferences which we have had together is very well instructed of the determination which is here to direct and advance all those affairs, the which in effect come to concur in the will and determinate resolution with the which your Worship meaneth to embrace that which standeth with your liking, and doing on your part your endeavour, and that which by your letters I am fully persuaded you may assure yourself to obtain all that which is to be expected of him that can do so much, and is so great a friend to remunerate that which is done in his service and so much for the benefit of the world, and you shall find here that shall assist you therein with all that truth which the confidence your Worship hath had in us doth require. God protect you with his hand, and direct and favour you in your good intentions. From Brussels this 14 December, 1593."

The said Stephen de Ibarra maliciously and traitorously meaning by the words, "and doing on your part your endeavour," &c., the poisoning of the Queen.

Furthermore, that the Count of Fuentes and Ibarra afterwards, viz., 6 December, 36 Elizabeth, at Brussels, delivered to Tynoco the before mentioned letters written by them on the behalf of the King of Spain, with the intention that he might carry the same to da Gama for the purpose of carrying on his treasonable intentions; and thereupon on the said 6 December, 36 Elizabeth, he, Tynoco, took his journey from Brussels to London, and afterwards, viz., 16 January, 36 Elizabeth, came to London, and delivered the same letters to da Gama in the parish before mentioned.

Furthermore, that on the said 6 December, 36 Elizabeth, at Brussels, Tynoco further treated with the Count of Fuentes concerning his before-mentioned treasonable intentions, and the Count, on behalf of the King of Spain, directed Tynoco to persuade da Gama to encourage Loppez in his treasonable intentions of poisoning the Queen: and for such purpose, he was to signify to Loppez that the Count of Fuentes had order from the King of Spain to give Loppez whatever he should demand; and that Loppez should, with the utmost speed, effect the poisoning of the Queen, in order that the King of Spain might have a merry Easter.

And moreover, on the said 6 December, at Brussels, one Gonzalo de Gomez, the Queen's alien enemy, and a Minister of the King of Spain, by direction of the Count of Fuentes wrote certain letters in Spamsh to Pedro de Carrera and Juan de Palacio, aliens dwelling at Antwerp, for large sums of money to be delivered to Tynoco under the name of Francisco de Torres, to be paid by him to Loppez for poisoning the Queen: and the Count of Fuentes, at Brussels, 6 December, 36 Elizabeth, delivered the same to Tynoco to be carried to London, in order that da Gama should show them to Loppez for the purpose of exciting him to the before-mentioned treasons; and thereupon Tynoco took his journey to London, as well to excite da Gama to pursue the before-mentioned treasons, as for the purpose of delivering to him the letters written by Gomez.

Signed by Popham, Anderson, Peryam, Gawdye, and Fenner; and Seals appended. Panel annexed.

(Ms. 5 and 6.) 7 November, 40 Elizabeth. { Middlesex. — Indictment found at Westminster, in the Great Hall of Pleas there, charging that Edward Squyer, late of London, Yeoman, did, 20 April, 39 Elizabeth, at Seville, in Spain, imagine and compass to depose and kill the Queen, to subvert the Government, &c., and to procure and induce the invasion of the realm by alien enemies, &c.

And that afterwards, viz. 22 May, 39 Elizabeth, at Seville, he adhered to Philip, late King of Spain, then the Queen's enemy, and to William Walpoole, Clerk, the Queen's traitor and public enemy, and other traitors, agents of Philip, King of Spain.

Furthermore, that the King of Spain, 22 May, 39 Elizabeth, having prepared a great army and fleet for the invasion of the kingdom, and the Queen having, in England, prepared a fleet and army to resist him, and having appointed Robert Earl of Essex, Commander-in-Chief of the fleet and army, the said Squyer, at Seville, treated and had a discourse with Walpoole in what manner the Queen's fleet might be best dispersed and destroyed, in order that the King of Spain might the more easily effect the conquest of this realm: in which discourse, Walpoole, on the behalf of the King of Spain, persuaded Squyer to undertake to poison the Queen; and then and there delivered to Squyer, a poisonous confection contained in a double bladder, wrapped with various wrappers of parchment and paper, to the intention that he, Squyer, should smear the pommel of the Queen's saddle therewith when the Queen was about to ride, in order that she, putting her hand on the pommel, might be poisoned.

Furthermore, that, after such discourse between Walpoole and Squyer, the latter did undertake the before-mentioned poisoning; and Walpoole, on behalf of the King of Spain, and in order to complete their treasons, persuaded Squyer to repair to the Earl of Essex, then about to go to sea, for the purpose of poisoning him with a part of the before-mentioned poison.

Furthermore, that Squyer, on the said 22 May, 39 Elizabeth, treasonably received the Eucharist from Walpoole as the means of encouraging him to fulfil his treasons, and of binding him to secrecy; and that Walpoole said to Squyer, in English,—"that he (Squyer) was in a state of damnation if he did not perform it," meaning thereby the poisoning of the Queen; "and that he must not fear death, although it might seem very imminent, for what availeth it a man to win the whole world and lose his own soul; and if he did but once doubt of the lawfulness or the merit of it, it was sufficient to cast him headlong into hell, and seldom did that sin obtain pardon. One thing is necessary," meaning the poisoning of the Queen, "and if you prefer it before all others, I have my desire, and you shall be a glorious saint in heaven;" and Walpoole then embraced Squyer, throwing his left arm about his neck, and making the sign of the cross on his head, saying,—"God bless thee, and give thee strength, my son, and be of good courage, I will pawn my soul for thine, and thou shalt have my prayers both dead and alive, and full pardon of all thy sins."

Furthermore, that Squyer, 28 May, 39 Elizabeth, took his journey from Seville towards England, and, in order to fulfil his treasonable intentions, he, 8 July, 39 Elizabeth, by many entreaties preferred to the Earl of Essex, obtained permission that he should embark in the same vessel with the said Earl.

Furthermore, that Squyer, 11 July, 39 Elizabeth, understanding that the Queen was preparing to ride out, and that the Queen's horse was saddled, &c., rubbed some of the before-mentioned poison upon the pommel of the Queen's saddle, exclaiming loudly at the same time, "God save the Queen," for the purpose of better concealing his treasons.

Furthermore, that, when the Queen's fleet was at sea between "Fyall" and St. Michael's, Squyer, with a portion of the before-mentioned poisonous confection, rubbed the arms of the chair in which the Earl of Essex was accustomed to sit, in order to kill him by poison, to the intent that the King of Spain might the better effect his invasion.

(M. 9.) 7 November, 40 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—The Justices' Precept to John Peyton, Knight, Lieutenant of the Tower, commanding him to bring up the body of Edward Squyer before them at Westminster, in the Great Hall of Pleas there, on Thursday, 9 November, then next. Signed by Popham, Anderson, Peryam, Gawdye, and Fenner; and Seals appended.

And furthermore, that, in order to fulfil their intentions, they, the said Robert Earl of Essex, Roger Earl of Rutland, Henry Earl of Southampton, William Lord Sandys, and Edward Lord Cromwell, on the said 8 February, rose and assembled themselves in open rebellion, and moved and persuaded many of the citizens of London to join them in their treason, and endeavoured to get the city of London into their possession and power, and wounded and killed many of the Queen's subjects then and there assembled for the purpose of quelling such rebellion.

(Ms. 14 and 15.) Tuesday, 17 February, 43 Elizabeth. { Middlesex.—Indictment found before Sir John Popham, Knight, and others, against Robert Earl of Essex, Roger Earl of Rutland, Henry Earl of Southampton and William Lord Sandys, charging them with conspiring to depose and slay the Queen, 8 February, 43 Elizabeth, at the Mansion House of the Earl of Essex, commonly called Essex House, in the parish of St. Clement Danes, in the county of Middlesex, without the Bar of the New Temple, London.

And also charging the Earl of Essex with an attempt to usurp the Crown; and that the said Earls of Essex, Rutland, and Southampton, and the Lord Sandys, in order to fulfil such their treasonable intentions, intended to proceed to the Queen's Royal Palace, called Whitehall, the Queen then being there, and to seize her person; which treasonable intentions having become known and discovered, the Queen, out of her abundant grace, desiring to recall the said Earls of Essex, Rutland, and Southampton, and Lord Sandys, from their treasonable intentions on the said 8 February, did, at Whitehall, send Thomas Egerton, Knight, the Keeper of her Great Seal; Henry Earl of Worcester; William Knollys, Knight, Comptroller of the Household; and John Popham, Knight, Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, (the said Egerton, Knollys, and Popham being of her Privy Council,) to them the Earls of Essex, Rutland, and Southampton, and Lord Sandys, directing them, in the Queen's name, to command the conspirators upon their allegiance, to desist from their rebellion, and separate and disperse, and conduct themselves as good subjects. Upon which, the said Lord Keeper, bearing openly the Great Seal, Henry Earl of Worcester, Sir William Knollys, and Sir John Popham, repaired to Essex House, where the conspirators then were, and did command the conspirators to desist, and return to their allegiance, which conspirators, despising the Queen's command, not only refused to obey the same, but kept the Lord Keeper, the Earl of Worcester, Sir William Knollys, and Sir John Popham in strict custody of John Davyes, Knight; Francis Tresham, Esquire; and Owen Salysburye, Gentlemen, armed in manner of war, in Essex House; many of the rebels then assembled, crying out aloud,—"Kill them! kill them!"

Furthermore, that the said Earl of Essex then commanded the said John Davyes, Francis Tresham, Owen Salysburye, and the other persons then present, that if any one should endeavour in the absence of them, the conspirators, to deliver the Lord Keeper, or the other Privy Councillors, or if they the said conspirators, should miscarry in the city of London, then that they the said Davyes, Tresham, and Salesbury, should kill them the said Lord Keeper, and the other Privy Councillors.

Furthermore, that the Earls of Essex, Rutland and Southampton, and Lord Sandys, with a multitude of armed men, did afterwards, 8 February, go from Essex House, towards London, to persuade such of the citizens of London as they could obtain, to join them, and aid them to meet the conspirators at Whitehall, to fulfil their treasonable intentions, and kept the Lord Keeper and the other Privy Councillors in custody for four hours and more.
